Russia Explodes Two More Small Nuclear Devices

Uruguay Calls on OAS To Condemn All Tests

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia has exploded two more nuclear devices, both much smaller than the massive Soviet blast of Monday.

The Atomic-Energy Commission announced the explosions were touched off Tuesday at Russia's arctic test site. The first was reckoned at several megatons and the second was "probably below' a megaton," the AEC reported.

The explosions were the 27th and 28th announced by the AEC since the Russians resumed testing Sept. 1.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev told the Communist party congress last Monday's big blast exceeded 50 megatons, which he said was more powerful than expected.

URUGUAY PROTESTS

In related developments Tuesday:

1. Uruguay called on the Organization of American States to condemn nuclear tests.

2. The Voice of America announced that a short wave relay will be made Sunday to tell the Russian people about the Soviet tests and the "terrible" worldwide effects.

3. Charles Chalow, Uruguay's ambassador, said his call for OAS denunciation of nuclear tests was prompted by Russia's recent increased fury in the Russian tests.

Pointing to a startling United Nations declaration—ignored by Khrushchev—Chalow said "a regional organization, such as the OAS, could well add its voice to other tests, too, long its membership are unopposed about the Chamber."

BRAZILIAN PLANE HITS HILLSIDE, 48 ARE KILLED

35 Others, Two Of Crew Survive

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — A Brazilian airliner smashed into a hillside and burned in a Recife suburb today and an airline spokesman said 48 of the 85 persons aboard were killed.

He said 35 of the 76 passengers and ten crew of nine survived. Most of those aboard were of Portuguese or Brazilian nationality.

The plane, a Panair do Brasil DC-7, was en route from Lisbon, Portugal, and was coming in for a stop at Recife, on the north-west coast of Brazil before making its final scheduled stop here.

The two crew members who escaped were the purser and a stewardess.

The plane was making its landing approach when it hit the top of a hill in the Tejipio suburb near the Recife airport.

Witnesses said two explosions occurred before the plane hit the hill and burst into flames.

Set Deadline For Walkout At Chrysler

DETROIT (AP) — The Walker Auto Workers said Thursday night set a Thursday midnight strike deadline against Chrysler Corporation if no further progress is in hand at that time.

UAW President Walter Reuther gave Chrysler 48 hours' notice that it will cancel the contract under which the union has been working.

The UAW made Chrysler a counter - proposal to the company's 10-cent an offer that matched essentially that which the union previously negotiated with General Motors and Ford.

Three Wounded With Shotgun

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — Three persons were wounded by shotgun pellets Tuesday night when a gun was fired in front of a United Church minister's house with soap in a Hallowe'en prank, police said today.

Murray Hardy, 16, son of Rev. H. J. Hardy of nearby Bridgenorth, and a 16-year-old boy, also from Bridgenorth, were charged with assault.

Norman Thompson, 14, had 26 pellets removed from his legs in hospital. His condition was reported satisfactory.

David Hooker, 14, and Donna McKenzie, 13, were shot in the back but escaped respiratory with a 20-gauge shotgun, police said. They did not require hospital treatment.

Police said two of the youngsters, Norman Dorrell, Donna, admitted they were soaping the windows of Mr. Hardy's manse.

They said a marksman came out to the house individually, at different times.

WINDS, RAINS AND HIGH TIDES DESTROY CITY

Damage Appalling Says Governor

MIAMI (AP) — Boats and planes hurried aid today toward Belize, a British Honduras city devasted by hurricane that-day's fierce winds, high tides and torrential rains.

Hal Holler, operator of radio station HRBH for the Standard Fruit company at La Ceiba, Honduras, said only two casualties have been reported but that Belize, with 31,000 population, was virtually destroyed.

Holler's powerful radio station and the tower at the air field were smashed, Holler reported, but a police communications link was in operation.

"The destruction is appalling," said a radio message from the operator over the Crown colony intercepted by a ham radio operator.

Hurricane Hattie struck Belize with great severity. Damage to property is devastating. The sea invaded the town to depths of nine to 10 feet."

It was reported that 30,000 Belize residents have been evacuated.

CONSUL ASKS FOR AID

The Mexican consul in Belize sent a call for aid in a message relayed by Commandante Ricana de Aviacion radio facilities in Merida, Yucatan. Belize's minister of health and welfare and his staff on an emergency basis and ordered medicines and medical personnel sent to the area.

A Tan Airlines plane loaded with food, clothing and medicine was planned to leave Miami today for the stricken city. Miami Mayor Robert King Hig- had broadcast an appeal for supplies and transportation arranged by the British consulate in Miami.

Tan Airlines, flying out of New Orleans, planned to stop at Belize with a supply of clothing to purify water.

British frigate Troubridge, carrying food and medicine supplies, left Kingston, Jamaica, Thursday on the 5 hour run across the Caribbean to the Belize Honduran port.

The U.S. aircraft carrier Antietam and two navy de-troyers were ordered to move in and give aid.

Hurricane Hattie destroyed herself in the mountainous Yucatan after striking Belize early Tuesday. Winds of up to 200 miles an hour in gusts. Torrential rains accompanying the hurricane were expected to cause flooding in British Honduras and parts of Guatemala.

Schooner Sinks But Eight-Man Crew Rescued

HALIFAX (CP)—The schooner Walter G. Sweeney, at 16 one of the youngest of her breed, sank off the Nova Scotia coast Tuesday an hour after her eight-man crew left her.

The two - masted coastal freighter, powered with diesel engines and equipped with a gaff rigging sail, sank two minutes after the crew from a navy hag was sighted.

Mr. K. May Have Drawn an Ace, Producing 'Clean' Bomb in Tests

WASHINGTON (CP)—Is Soviet Premier Khrushchev holding a hidden ace on his hand in series of nuclear explosions?

He still hasn't told the world how "clean" or "dirty" bombs are and while it appears the United States can match him, it won't tell, for security reasons.

Thus the suggestion grows that Russia may have caught—or caught up with the United States in bomb technology to produce a relatively clean bomb, creating small amounts of fission products.

Back in 1957 former president Eisenhower hinted at such an the American "breakthrough" when he hinted at a great, controlled explosion "such as we achieved a 25-5 fusion - fission reaction on hydrogen explosives."

That meant the United States could detonate a big hydrogen bomb with only five per cent of fissionable material. It is the fissionable material that causes radioactive debris to rain down on humanity. At the time the United States achieved a 95-5 ratio, Russia was still exploding

Nuclear Powers to Ignore UN Call to Halt All Tests

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—A vote was expected today on an appeal to the nuclear powers to call a voluntary halt to all nuclear explosions.

The move had powerful backing in the 103-member United Nations political committee but the Soviet Union and the Western nuclear powers already have indicated they would not heed it.

The appeal appeared certain of General Assembly approval. But the United States has said it may resume test explosions in the atmosphere to counter the Soviet tests. And the U.S. delegation announced Tuesday it will vote against the moratorium appeal since it makes no provision for effective control.

But pressure for action was strong from the Afro - Asian group, the Scandinavian and Latin American countries.

India, sponsoring the resolution for a voluntary moratorium with Ireland, Sweden, Burma, Nepal, the United Arab Republic and Mexico, said the draft the nuclear powers should refrain from tests pending "international morality — binding agreements."

But the United States and Britain have said they will vote against the Indian version and have called instead for support of their own resolution seeking a disarmament treaty with strict control and inspection.

Canada said in advance it will not support both resolutions and urged an "immediate" resumption of the negotiations that broke down in Geneva after Russia started its current test series early in September.

Joseph Godber, British minister of state for foreign affairs, reiterated to the committee Tuesday the Anglo - American proposals that the Russians cannot be trusted to keep another moratorium because they reneged on the last one by secretly resuming tests while negotiations were in progress.

He described as "weak and inadequate" the Soviet delegate Semyon Tsarapkin's claim that Russia had been forced to resume tests because the West was preparing for war over Berlin.

"The truth is that these explosions are the expressions of a ruthless determination to maintain control of its own power to a degree never seen before," Godber said.

West Berlin Police Checking Entry of All Foreigners

BERLIN (Reuters)—West Berlin police today began checking the identity of all foreigners entering the city from East Germany in an apparent move to head off pressure coming point with East Berlin with the exception of Russians in uniform.

The move, announced by city government officials yesterday is similar restrictions imposed by the East German government for foreigners entering East Berlin.

Until now foreigners in private cars with diplomatic or military licence plates were exempted from control when entering West Berlin.

Under the new measure all such cars will be stopped at West Berlin police and the occupants will be asked to identify themselves.

A police spokesman said all that was being asked for was a look at the passports of persons entering the city from the Soviet Zone to the Bohemian port.

The U.S. aircraft carrier Antietam and two navy de-troyers were ordered to move in and give aid.

Hurricane Hattie destroyed herself in the mountainous Yucatan after striking Belize early Tuesday. Winds of up to 200 miles an hour in gusts. Torrential rains accompanying the hurricane were expected to cause flooding in British Honduras and parts of Guatemala.

Kelso-Roberts Gets Same Post In New Cabinet

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto Star says it has learned that Premier-designate John Roberts will reappoint Kelso Roberts as attorney - general in his new cabinet.

The newspaper says it was also learned that James Allan would retain his post as provincial treasurer and that Provincial Resources Minister Robert Macaulay would take over as minister of commerce and development, a portfolio now held by William Nickle.

None of the three named was available for comment, but Mr. Roberts said:

"The composition of the cabinet is still under discussion. When decisions are made they will be announced in due course."

Mr. Nickle said he has not been told that he would not be retaining his name stand for re-election in Kingston. Dalton Camp, Mr. Roberts added, to do has my blessing."

Fallout, How Dangerous:

Odds Practically Nil Fallout Will Hurt You as Individual

NEW YORK (AP) — The scientific world of the day is fallout out.

But experts say no one can point to any human being and declare: "He's been hurt by distance fallout from bomb tests." Or: "That woman's baby by born defective because of fallout, or that child died because of it."

The odds are practically all that present amounts of fallout will hurt you as an individual. But the total effect on the whole people somewhere will be there. Probably not too soon—possibly ultimately thousands of people by from fallout already spread by bomb tests.

The Soviet 50 — megaton-plus nuclear bomb test could produce fallout that would kill thousands of potential victims in the days.

But one fact must be made clear. All such estimates include thousands of millions or even billions of people who will be born in the next 30, 50 to 100 years or more.

"Fallout" triggers a host of other scary words: Radioactivity . . . mystery . . . bone cancer . . . sterility . . . deformed babies . . . children doomed from bad genes . . . leukemia . . . strontium . . . sick death.

But for 15 years, scientists have been gathering the story about fallout.

But they cannot yet answer a key question:

Exactly how little radiation dose, it take to cause human cancer or leukemia? Or to damage the genes which determine the inheritance of our children?

This is the crux of the experiments by scientists which often have been reported in the news.

Some say the effects from test and present fallout are too tiny even to measure. They do not deny there will not be some effect.

Others estimate numbers.

Ethan Allen, Lilius Pauling, Nobel - Prize winning chemist, estimates 40,000 children would be born with physical and mental defects as a direct consequence of a single 50 - megaton bomb test. This would happen during the next several generations. Up to 50 years or more — among an estimated 50,000 children born each year all around the world.

Fallout even from the Soviet tests, says U.S. public health service official, "is cause for concern, but not yet for alarm."

Fallout is only one hazard in the fallout story, and you don't budge better for yourself what the hazards are.

Fallout can be a fear of a mosquito, a deadly spreading fire.

Already striking cities and missiles threaten millions and millions of tons of diet, making it hard to distinguish one from another.

Fallout is the fear of the unknown.

In 48 hours, it would lose 99 per cent of its intensity, and become safe enough for people to move about, or get out of the shelters.

Scientists generally agree that all fear of radioactivity from testing — until the Soviets resumed — has decreased by only a few per cent the amount of fear of radioactivity in which all humans have always lived.

Current Soviet tests and even the U.S. tests which will follow, could increase the added hurt by two - thirds. But that still means that only one - third of all of five to six per cent more fallout there has always existed naturally.

SELL COSTLY STAMP

LONDON (Reuters)—A three-cent Newfoundland air mail stamp, valued at £1,000 (about $2,800) was sold in London Tuesday for £2,400 (about $1,800) at Harmer's stamp auction today.

ELECTION DATES, NEW SESSION FACING P.M.

Cabinet Shuffle Not in the Cards

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker planned to be back at his Rideau Bank desk early as usual today, ready to tackle parliamentary and international problems with renewed vigor.

He was obviously refreshed by his five-day state visit to Japan and said when he returned Tuesday night he had no hesitation of sleeping in today.

One of his cabinet colleagues said the trip, in addition to the foreign policy and foreign trade implications, gave the prime minister the change of scene he needed to harass him pro and cons of the major decisions he has to take.

There are—apparently in the order of the timing he has in mind—the calling of a new session of Parliament, and, consequently, the calling of a general election. The present Parliament was elected March 31, 1958, for a maximum term of five years set by the constitution.

Mr. Diefenbaker had a bandful of decisions to make when he pressed into his hands by his ministers and advisers on his arrival at 10:36 p.m. Monday night.

TALKS WITH REPORTERS

The prime minister, more tanned than when he left Oct. 16, was calling reporters to his office Tuesday to announce their specialties of imminent cabinet changes and offered them no comment.

While he said he had given no serious thought to the date of the opening of the next session of Parliament, it was expected this will be one of the first questions he will decide this week.

Mr. Diefenbaker literally will be bounced off the RCAF Comet jet airliner after the 7,000-mile flight from Tokyo, jumping through the low doorway and walking briskly to the microphone and the bands with most of the cabinet and staff of the Japanese Embassy.

He was in buoyant spirits. Asked on what he considered to be the major problem facing him on his return, he said with a laugh that he would first have to read all the "prophecies and prognostications" of the political writers — presumably—his political opponents.

SERIOUS ABOUT BOMB

The only really serious note he struck was over the subjects of Russian nuclear bomb tests and Japanese-Canadian relations.

Asked by newspaper reporters on arrival at the airport, he laughingly said he had read speculative reports of a cabinet shuffle when his Comet stopped to refuel in Vancouver.

"I see you have been engaged in much reflection," he said. "The king-makers have been at work."

In Vancouver he told reporters he had not given any thought to a cabinet shuffle. "Than all prime ministers were periodically faced with the task of finding replacements for their colleagues at appropriate times," all ministers serve in a capacity at the pleasure of the present time.

The cabinet shuffle reports during the prime minister's absence had centred on the speculation that External Affairs Minister Green and Revenue Minister Nowlan would change jobs, and that Justice Minister Fulton and Finance Minister Fleming might switch jobs.

'Milk Ma'am' Fellow'en Demand Of Parched New York Youngsters

That's New York City and Long Island after more than a week of a milk drought that has left dairies dry and stores bare.

The walkout of 10,000 milk truck drivers and plant workers has left 2,000,000 persons in the area without fresh milk daily to 10,000,000 consumers in the area.

Federal, state and city mediators have pleaded with the disputants, and pumps and producers have appealed to President Kennedy.

But labor and management remain deadlocked over whether time clocks should be installed to determine overtime. Labor wants it; management opposes it.

And the latest weed is that once things are settled, the consumer probably will have to wait through a four cents more a quart—about 25 cents.

Some milk is getting into the city, however, but it comes through devious routes.

In many communities, groups are sending out private cars and bringing in hundreds of quarts from nearby communities. There were reports some had gone as far as Philadelphia.

Orphanages, hospitals, schools and other institutions are getting 418,000 quarts daily under an emergency plan agreed to by the strike disputants.

40 Killed in Clashes With French Forces

ALGIERS (Reuters) — Forty Moslems were reported killed today, and scores of others wounded, in clashes between French security forces and Arab demonstrators marking the seventh anniversary of the Algerian war.

Troops and police opened fire in several parts of the North African territory as demonstrations developed in Moslem areas in defiance of an official ban on meetings.

A French communique placed the death toll at 32 Moslems but other reports put the figure at 40 had been killed and at least 80 Moslems wounded.

FIRING IN SUBURBS

Security forces opened fire in two Algiers suburbs and clashed with demonstrators in Oran, Western Algeria. Clashes also were reported from several other points throughout Algeria.

Moslem demonstrators converged on the Algiers city centre and at the fringe of the Casbah, the native section district in the heart of the city.

The most serious encounter was in Algiers' western Al-geria, where 11 Moslems were killed in a clash with police.

The first shots were fired when several hundred demonstrators marched in the Moslem housing development of Dar-el-Beida on the outskirts of Algiers.

According to the French, a spokesman of the security forces was wounded by a shot apparently fired from a balcony. The security forces replied, killing three Moslems and wounding nine.

Moslem demonstrators assembled in Algiers suburbs despite a heavy police force deployed to maintain order "at all costs."

The French forces generally did not try to enforce the ban against the demonstrations. Instead, they generally followed orders of Algiers and other cities that they let the crowds move aside, fearing if they broke out they would clash with militant French settlers opposing Algerian independence.

Both the European and Moslem population have a public holiday today—All Saint's Day — and it will be the seventh anniversary — and this increased the danger of violence.

Their Trick Obtained Rich Treat

DETROIT (AP) — Two "trick-or-treaters" in clown costumes produced a pistol in the front door of Police Chief Dedshaw's home in suburban Keego Township today.

CITY AND DISTRICT NEWS

NOVELTY FEATURE ON HALLOWE'EN ATTRACTS CROWD

An attractive feature of the Hallowe'en celebrations in the city last night was the youthful "witch" novelty staged on Wilson Street.

Outside the home of Harold Crowe at No. 20 was a witch's cauldron. Under it blazed a bright yellow-flamed fire which had flashed in an out hitting the "brew" in the "pot".

Second TV Popular in Many Homes

Television is no longer a novelty and there are very few homes left in Belleville without a TV set in the living room. In fact, an increasing number of families is now buying a second set for the recreation room, the children's room — or even at the cottage.

The chief reason for this trend is the surprisingly low cost of good quality used TV sets. A used set in A-1 working condition, with a large safe screen and good looking cabinet often sells for less than a mantel radio. In spite of the low cost, many of these sets work as well as new and with no more service problems than new sets.

Because of their large-volume television business, Booth Radio and Television Limited always has the stock a number of excellent values in used TV sets. Before being sold they are put in first class working condition and many have brand new picture tubes which are guaranteed for one year. All sets are sold on the Booth's Exclusive Television Exchange Privilege to assure you of satisfaction.

For a good working, good looking television set — at a fraction of the cost of a new one — drop in and look over the fine models at Booth Rd. and Television Limited, 70 Front Street (opposite City Hall), Belleville.—ADVT. 030-31

Only $36,375 Donated to United Appeal

Belleville's United Appeal campaign has now raised $36,375.79 of its $80,000 goal as of 9:30 p.m. this morning, although this amount is down considerably, about $8,000 from the amount collected by this time last year, campaign chairman Ross David said this morning that people are giving well, in many cases contributions are up over last year, but some canvassers are slow to call in them.

It was the feeling at a board meeting last night that the divisional chairman can remedy the situation through a renewed effort to get in the kits from the individual volunteer canvassers.

In many instances the returns have been most encouraging, many firms and organizations reports show that a greater percentage of employees are participating in the payroll giving plan and that the average donation per individual is up.

On the other hand there are also the discouraging aspects, especially for the volunteer kit-collection canvassers, who have had doors slammed in their faces or have suffered verbal abuse by some inconsiderates.

Another aspect which has confused the campaign is the fact that another charitable organization, the Belleville and District Association for Retarded Children, have recently run their house-to-house canvass and some people have mistaken the two campaigns for one effort.

Aside from the request for canvassers to complete and return their kits, United Appeal officials said they could see those being called on not ask the canvassers to come back but to mail their donations, existing, since each canvasser is giving up his free time to work for the benefit of the 11 United Appeal agencies in the community.

Court of Revision Reduces Anglican Manse Assessment

TRENTON — At last night's session of the 1961 Trenton Court of Revision, Mayor Roswell and Cecil H. Gerbutt, chairman were representing St. George's (Anglican) rectorate, appealed the assessment on the rectory and the land on which the building sits, on King Street. Rev. K. F. Blackburn, rector of St. George's also attended the session.

The church wardens argued that, while the church residences had a larger lot frontage than any other manse in town and the rectory itself was larger than any other church residence, it yet does nothing more than "house" the minister, like other parsonages.

The rectory was built in 1854. The church wardens said that there was "an economic obsolescence" which should be considered when assessing the house. They said that the house was hard to heat and that it is expensive, for the congregation, to keep and maintain. Further the wardens said that the noise from the railway track, and bells, whistles and the fumes from diesel engines affect the health and desirability of the location.

The wardens pointed out that last year, St. George's congregation paid $667.29 in taxes, on other properties and a King Street United Church paid only $70.62; North Trenton United Church $501.99; St. Andrew's $370.62; North Trenton United Church $70.62.

He said that each house did only one thing, "house" the minister of the church, and his family, but that the other churches had considerably smaller, newer houses and were in more desirable locations.

The wardens also recommended that the court considers Cornwall United Church residences, with a view to "equalizing" the amount of taxes each congregation pays.

After due consideration, members of the court agreed to reduce the assessment, acting on the arguments presented by the church representatives.

In spite of the fact that the 1959 re-assessment program, carried out by assessment commissioner Ross Greer, and his staff, received good press coverage, many of the town's citizens were unaware of it. At several appeals heard last night, it seemed that the assessment had "jumped" that year, and appellants blamed the increase on the fact that some redecorating or repairs were had been done.

Two Belleville residents, who own property in Trenton, appeared assessments in Belleville with Mayor Trenton. The chairman told them that Belleville was in the process of reassessing.

Commenting on the rental factor, considered in assessment of property, one appellant said, "I don't think rent should have anything to do with taxes. Rent goes up, rent goes down."

Doesn't the value on old houses ever drop?" enquired one appellant.

One apartment owner complained that because he had supplied his tenants with more space than other builders, he was being "penalized". He said that he received the same rent as owners who rent smaller units. The court will review this case, along with other similar cases, in an effort to arrive at a policy on assessments for buildings which may be considered "oversized."

One resident complained that his lot was designated as being on Dufferin Ave., claiming that the proper name for the street was Carrying Place Road. He was told that the official plan designates the street as Dufferin Ave.

Pass By-Law For Vote on Sunday Sport

TRENTON — Trenton councillors, meeting in special session yesterday morning, passed a by-law authorizing a vote in municipal ballot, on the question of Sunday sports for the town.

In all, Trenton voters will be asked their opinion on three questions. The first, on which a by-law was passed for a referendum on the fluoridating of the town's water supply and the yesterday third reading was given to by-law by which the voters will be asked to decide whether Trenton nods an east side fire hall.

Pleads Guilty To Car Theft

TRENTO N— In magistrate's court in Trenton yesterday, Patrick McGrath, 24, of R.R. 1, Ivanhoe, charged with attempted car theft, pleaded guilty and was remanded for one week, pending a pre-sentence report.

McGrath is also charged jointly to a further charge of breaking and entering.

Police say that McGrath was apprehended Saturday night as he attempted to start a car out of the Lange and Fetter used car lot in east Trenton. The office on the car lot was entered and a number of car keys taken.

A Toronto resident, who insisted "I had a ticket when I started," claimed that he had lost his ticket on an eastbound train and had decided to "ride anyhow," admitted that he had found his way to the train's diesel engine cab and settled down to sleep. He was discovered in Trenton. The traveller was given one day in jail "as a warning."

IN MEMORIAM

HOWARD, — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Ernest Howard, who passed away November 1st, 1959.
There's a silent place for him
Right in the heart of us
And though we're out of sight
But never out of mind.

Resting in the heart's hearts,
Of those they left behind
On Earth's dim shore
Upright and just in all his days;
Sincere and kind.
Beautiful memories he left behind,
Silver remembered by wife faced, and children and son-in-law
Barbara and John Allison.

LANE. — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Pearl Lane, who passed away two years ago today.
Our lips cannot tell how much we miss her,
Our hearts cannot tell what we say;
God only knows how much we miss her,
In a place that is lonesome today.
Always ready for thought, and prayer, husband, Ernest Lane, Margaret, son-in-law Harry and granddaughters.

Mayor Haig 'Breaks' Ground For Sewage Disposal Project

The official breaking of the ground for Belleville's new multi-million dollar sewage disposal project took place this morning in the presence of a large gathering at the brief ceremony at the project was His Worship Mayor A. McLean Haig, city council members and many of the staff of the various city departments and representatives from Beaver Construction Company, the contractors for the initial stages of the project, and Gore and Storrie Limited, consulting engineers for the project.

Actually construction on the project is already underway with work going on on the west bank of the Moira River along Dundas Street, West towards the south of highway 2 opposite the Ontario School for the Deaf.

Mayor Haig hailed the project as the city's largest undertaking to date at the brief ceremony. Mr. John Newman of the Beaver firm advised that his firm would be doing their very best on the project.

Following the brief exposure to a sunny day, a brisk, cool wind and an oil throwing machine, those present adjourned to the Hotel Quinte for a luncheon meeting at which the various superintendents and project personnel from Beaver Construction were introduced to the city officials and personnel, who would be involved on the project.

Police Describe Hallowe'en Festivities on Quiet Side

"One of the quietest Hallowe'ens on record."

That was the way city police described last night's Hallowe'en festivities.

Police said they had an exceptionally quiet night with very few incidents of property damage. These were confined to the uprooting of one or two traffic signs in the north end of the city.

Possibly one of the reasons for the quiet on the streets was the Student Council dance at the Armouries which attracted a large crowd of teen agers, a big percentage of them in costume, who were in gay Hallowe'en mood.

But the younger fry had their day in the residential areas and they rang doorbells in search of Hallowe'en handouts.

Most of the residential areas was varied with some householders reporting hordes of kids calling. Others were left more or less alone and today are basking in the relative quiet for their intended Hallowe'en treats.

But possibly the rain served as much as anything to keep the Hallowe'en tricksters quiet. The rain starting about 9.30 sent the kids home early and the downpour developing about 11 kept them there.

Survival Training Response Is Good Here and in Picton

"The gloomy picture painted by metropolitan newspapers and radio and television chains of the response to National Survival Training, definitely does not apply to Belleville and Picton."

Lieut. Colonel Angus B. Duffy, commanding officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, added that recruiting for National Survival Training courses here and in Picton has been exceptionally good.

"In fact," he said this morning, "we are all set and ready to start on Monday with our recruiting quotas nearly filled."

Of the 200 recruits alloted to the Belleville area covered by the regiment, 130 have been processed or are in the stage of being processed.

Fifty vacancies in the Picton company of the regiment are gradually filling up. To date 40 have been processed or are being processed.

"I expect we shall start the first course on Monday here with at least 150 or perhaps 200 recruits" Col. Duffy said.

"And I am well satisfied with the number of instructors who have joined us. The number receiving leave of absence from city employers has been exceedingly gratifying."

Col. Duffy said his instructional staff is nearly 100 per cent filled. The equipment is coming in at a satisfactory rate and the stage is set for what appears to be a successful inauguration of the courses on Monday.

The accident occurred shortly before midnight.

Mr. Howard was said to have suffered severe facial lacerations, while his wife suffered fractures of both her legs.

Past Presidents Of Kiwanis Club Are Honored

Local Kiwanians honored their past presidents yesterday afternoon at their regular weekly dinner meeting at the Kiwanis Centre. Everett Fairman, chairman of this portion of the meeting, reviewed a number of the club's achievements during its history under various of its past presidents prior to the presentation of a Past Presidents' Plaque for the club's quarters.

He noted that the local club had been active in the formation of three other Kiwanis Clubs — in Picton, Trenton and Madoc, during the past as well as sponsoring the Roblin Lake Camp for underprivileged children and playground buildings and equipment in the city.

The plaque was dedicated by Kiwanian C. W. Coleman and received by Taylor Trudeau on behalf of the vice-presidents. During his remarks Mr. Coleman made a plea which does make a good club which becomes a place where people forget the things which make them different and join together to work for the common good.

Mr. Franklin said that he found Kiwania was a place where kindly thoughts were transformed into friendship. He reminisced on various events in the past history of the club and suggested that it would be worthwhile project for the history of the club to be brought up to date.

District lieutenant - governor Al Weaver of Trenton was present to award Legion of Honor certificates to Mr. Trudeau, a member of 25 years service, and Dr. Sam Cronk and Jack MacIntosh, both with 35 years membership in Kiwania.

He also presented the club with the district award for having the highest standing of any club in the Ontario - Quebec-Maritime district for the third quarter of 1961.

The rest of the meeting was conducted by president Bob Brain.

DROPPED FROM PRAESIDIUM—Ekaterina Furtseva, only woman member of the Praesidium, was dropped from this ruling group of the Soviet Communist Party on voting made public in Moscow yesterday. There was no explanation. She is also minister of culture in the Russian government. (AP_Wirephoto).

October Balmy Month But Not An Exception

October was somewhat of a balmy month with little rainfall and temperatures which meant a saving on the winter's fuel bills.

But local weather statistics prove it was no grey' exception.

True there was little rainfall but back in 1853 there was only .46 inch of rain compared with the 1.17 inches this October. The wettest October in recent years was back in 1935 when no less than 11.70 inches of rain fell.

Last month the high temperature was 78 degrees with a low of 30 and with a mean reading of 53.1 degrees. A year ago the high was 71, and the low 29 with a mean reading of 49.4 degrees. Rainfall was 2.48 inches.

The ten-year average for October shows a high of 74 and a low of 28.3 with a mean average of 49.7. Average rainfall for October during the past 10 years has been 2.98 inches.

Now See Here, Doctor!

Dr. Walter W. Sackett Jr. of Miami, Florida, is a foe of milk.

"Kids ought to quit drinking milk at that time when they would ordinarily be weaned—and that is at one year," he says.

We seem to have read someplace that the weaning time for human children varies greatly with different peoples, depending on the availability of suitable substitute foods.

Altogether aside from that fact, though, if Dr. Sackett is going to plead for "natural foods," the point rises as to what is "natural" for homo sapiens. He is not carnivorous, nor herbivorous, but omnivorous and it would seem to us more reason why animal milk should be considered an unnatural food than for hanging the same tag on meat or vegetables.

Dr. Sackett's stand against milk is based on its cholesterol content. The contention that cholesterol resulting from a diet high in animal fats is a cause of heart attacks is one which has come in for considerable criticism by scientists who should know something about the matter.

In any events, when Dr. Sackett maintains that not only milk but other dairy products should be eliminated from the American diet he is inviting a fight.

Abstaining from drinking milk we could stand; at a pinch margarine might make up for a complete lack of butter—but life who say we must not eat cheese is demanding too great a sacrifice. We commend to Dr. Sackett the outlook on life of Ted Twetie. Vancouver centenarian: "Always have a strong notion for smokin' cigarets, drinkin' rum, chewin' Irish twist and spittin' up against the wind." Joining with Twetie in "against the wind," we shall continue to munch cheese, lather our bread with butter and toss off the occasional glass of milk.

Debt Justifies Tax Boost

According to an abridged financial statement issued by Ontario Provincial Treasurer James Allan, Ontario's net capital debt increased $99,068,000 in the fiscal year ending March 31, 1961.

Compared with the astronomical figures which appear in national budgets, $99,000,000 may seem like a bargain basement price to pay for the many pieces of our expanding province. This, however, represents an increase of almost ten per cent in our net capital debt. Governments, like individuals cannot continually let expenditures exceed revenues by ten per cent without eventually running into difficulties.

As we understand it, the steady increase in Ontario's net capital debt was one of the reasons why the Frost Government decided to impose a three per cent sales tax. We can think of no better reason for such a tax than an endeavor to balance our budget and pay our way during relatively prosperous times.

Both the increase in the net capital debt and the imposition of a sales tax at the retail level are open to criticism, but this is one instance where two "wrongs" do seem to make a right. One justifies the other. We may not like the sales tax, but it is much preferable to permitting ourselves to go deeper and deeper into debt. One may be pardoned for hoping, though, that the increased revenue derived from the sales tax will not be used merely to finance the higher capital debt, but that there will also be an effort to meet some expenditures out of current account. In other words, despite our increased population, with the larger taxation base this provides, an effort should be made to halt the process of successive increases in the capital debt total.

They May Be Thanking Mr. K.

It would not surprise us if there were some officials in the U.S. public health service who are blessing Khrushchev for his decision to resume nuclear tests.

The U.S. government has announced that it has decided to step up its inspection of food for possible radioactivity. It seems unlikely that this action is being taken for purely propaganda reasons. If it is not, then there must be some real concern amongst health officials that the fallout from nuclear tests may have some harmful effect on certain foods.

At last when this fallout was the result of U.S. tests, it would have been most embarrassing to make such an admission. The Russian tests provide an ideal opportunity to start such a system, which can be continued and can operate quietly in the event of future U.S. tests. There is no necessity to give great publicity to the fact that the level of fallout on the American continent as the result of the series of tests by the Rus ...n has not yet attained the peak which followed U.S. tests in 1958.

Doctor Deplores Evasion

By T. F. in The Windsor Daily Star

While all professions for the uninitiated have an aura of mystery about them, none has been able to preserve that profession of medicine. More even than priest or lawyer, the doctor in modern society preserves the aura of mystery that prevailed in the dim days past when all three professions were one.

Perhaps the fact that the man of medicine is reputedly able to write prescriptions in Latin (though there is less evidence of this today than there used to be) has something to do with it. Itself a dead, mysterious language only most patients even of a limited knowledge of Latin grants doctors as a breed apart from the common herd.

But there must be something more than this to account for the mystery that seems to enshroud the medical profession. In doctor's offices and hospital wards the patient frequently feels that he is in the presence of a conspiracy of secrecy as well as mystery. Doctors and nurses (as it relates to their profession) must be among the most uncommunicative of mamals. At times a doctor will neither tell a patient what is wrong with him nor the steps he is taking to cure him. It is all very baffling, but this story (whatever it is) must be preserved.

Upon occasion, even the names of the simplest drugs are withheld. As the German novelist, Wolfgang Collete remarked: "Among the curious laws and reticences of these places (hospitals) is the fact that you never find out what is being done to you. Soon you soon learn to feel that curious inquiries are tactless. The nurses refuse to tell you anything about your temperature charts. They would betray to the constituents of the white lozenges had they serve in a glass of water, or a dose of bitters. Neither will a doctor divulge the name under which a medicament he has prescribed."

"I recall how, during my convalescence," he writes, after some major surgery, I had been done on him during his seventieth year, "my attention was attracted by some baked fish. Late in the evening I asked the young intern who happened to be on duty, to tell him my trouble. In such cases, I have always been accorded to half a teaspoon of bi. carbonate of soda. He ignored that. For some time he continued to inquire about the consistency of the discomfort on the possible cause. Finally he said: 'Well, don't worry, that will give you a little something which will be helpful.' The matter brought me a little something' in a cup. It was bicarbonate of soda." . . .

Who but a doctor could make a study of this story and preserve an aura of mystery over it. Another example of the reasons why the Frost Government decided to impose a three per cent sales tax. We can think of no better reason for such a tax than an endeavor to balance our budget and pay our way during relatively prosperous times.

Both the increase in the net capital debt and the imposition of a sales tax at the retail level are open to criticism, but this is one instance where two "wrongs" do seem to make a right. Strictly Personal Life During Fall-Out Seems Grim

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I've sheard nothing about mating habits of the fall-out females," said the man at dinner, "And I think it's a curious omission."

"What do you mean?" I asked.

"Well," he explained, "I happen to be an ecologist — that is, I study the relationship between organisms and their environment. And, of course, animals and plants provide us with our nourishment and food supply.

"I understand that," I said.

"Then you'll understand, too, "that in all this talk of creating bomb shelters and saving 90 million people — about half our population — there seems to be no thought of what will happen to our food supply in case of a all-out nuclear attack. How will these survivors feed themselves afterwards?"

"I wasn't you being a little pessimistic?" I ventured.

"I don't think so," he said. "We know that all animals are responsive to radioactivity, just as humans are. Cattle, pigs and sheep — those raised for food — won't be fit to eat, and they probably won't breed. Nor will we be able to get any milk. The cows that won't be highly contaminated.

"I guess the vegetarians will come into their own," I suggested.

"Unfortunately — not," shook his head. "If half our population is wiped out — which is the most conservative estimate — the resulting radioactive fallout will most likely destroy much of the plants and crops and trees. Our fruit trees, as well as wheat will not grow again within the lifetime of our children."

"But what will we do when we crawl out of our shelters?" I asked.

"That's the really troublesome question," he continued. "Even supposing we can manage to protect half our population (which I think is highly doubtful), if we have no means of guarding our animal and plant life from the deadly ares of radiation, we'll be living in a starvation of worse. And there won't be anybody around with enough surplus to send Bundles for Britain."

"Is any of this based on actual knowledge?" I inquired tremulously.

"You may have read recently," he said, "about Colorado State University's conference on the genetic effects of radiation. In a test made by the Air Force in Georgia, the results were devastating — even with relatively small fall-out. Our present policy of animal would die from eating poisoned forage and humans couldn't get meat, milk and other protein foods. Many, if not most, seeds would fail to germinate."

"A lovely prospect," remarked, digging into my pre-dinner drink. "I'll have it on to my friends who are building shelters for 'survival.'"

"There is no dignity in evasion," said Dr. Halpenny without awaiting, and he made it quite clear in his audience that he saw no stigmata in secrecy, or merit in mystery, either. As they listened to him, those of the profession who hold to the ancient rites, from the fact that the facade of mystery behind which they habitually work was being tunneled and dynamited from within. Perhaps some of them felt that their national president had become an erring soul who had profaned and desecrated the temple. But the uninitiated, long kept in ignorance beyond the pale of the mystery, will respond to his words with a heartfelt sigh of relief.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

By DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

ARE YOU?

The story is told of a certain Irishman who one day entered a fashionable restaurant intent on getting himself the meal of his life. He ordered the first item on the menu and it was soup. Then he ordered the second item. That was soup, also. Then the third—soup. Then the fourth—soup.

At last he pushed back his chair and wiping his mouth with the back of his hand said, "Patrick, you had the chance of your life to have a sweet meal, and you're full of soup."

Many people today are in the same situation. Wonderful books have been written through the centuries and these people have simply failed reading, trash. There is good music—heavenly music—which has been composed to soothe and thrill the heart of men, yet many people content themselves with a variety of discords which threaten to drive some of us oldsters to distraction.

There are opportunities for culture which many of us fail to take day by day, for we are full of soup. We can't appreciate the best because we have glutted ourselves perhaps with the good, or the indifferent or the bad. Read carefully and with discrimination. Some great books are being written today. Musical masterpieces have never died. Culture is being created right now, not so fast probably as it was in the days of Pericles and his fellow Greeks, but nevertheless quite rapidly.

Life offers us tremendous opportunities. Let us not turn away from them because we are full of soup.

30 YEARS AGO

Seventy five years ago, October 27th, the first train from Montreal passed through Belleville enroute to Toronto and in Weekly Intelligencer, the only newspaper published in the city at the time, referred to the event as follows in its issue of October 31st: Belleville has been placed upon the great highway of the province by the opening of the Grand Trunk Railroad. The first regular train from the east made their first appearance in our good town on Monday last to the small pleasure of the population of a large number of our citizens. The event was one of the utmost importance to us as a town in particular, and the whole province in general. Merchants and tradesmen no doubt will have to lay in a heavy six month's stock of goods to keep supplies until the season arrives for the opening of navigation. Nor will our specialties in wheat, provisions or potashes have to reduce the price of the articles below their actual values on account of having to hold them over four, five or six months. A $1,000 agent will, when in one day, can be replaced in two or three days later, thus rendering speculation comparatively safe. And who will be the ones to benefit most by this? While we admit that the whole community will be benefitted, yet the farmers of Ontario, more than all will reap principal harvest and as a consequence become more enriched and independent.

Chipmunks' Busy Season

Kitchener-Waterloo Record

Walk in the woods these days and you will be struck by the sound indeed if you do not see a chipmunk. For there are sometimes for the appealing little ground squirrels, and wherever there is a talus a fence or hollow stump there is likely to be a chipmunk's home.

The chipmunks like to make tables on flat rocky slabs. They are busy now eating, but purposeful. They stand on their hind legs and look about in the two front paws, revolving or shifting it as they chomp

To Your Good Health
Lung Cancer More Prevalent Among Cigarette Smokers

By Joseph G Molner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Before we were married, my husband smoked cigarettes one right after the other.

"When we were married, I made him quit. He didn't want to, but he did. Now after a year and a half of not smoking he wants to smoke a pipe. I know he still craves smoking and can hardly stand it when someone else smokes. He even says he is irritable and nervous when he doesn't.

"I was always afraid of cancer of the lung. I am still afraid.

"He says smoking a pipe is less likely to be dangerous as far as cancer goes, is this true, and what are the chances I would like to be relieved of this worry. —Mrs. F. S."

* * *

Let us start out by saying three things:

1.—I don't think tobacco does anybody any good.

2.—I am prone to accept the fact that some people are just bound to worry about something or other, and if you differ from them of one worry, they soon find another. It's sort of an addiction.

3.—I don't know what to do about either!

Now let me explain why I propounded these deep thoughts. And let me go at it backwards. I happen to know the man, a very fine statistician, who analyzed the first mass research set of figures which led to our belief that cigarettes have an influence on the incidence of cancer.

He smoked cigarettes himself. But when, after several years of collecting figures and figuring out percentages, it became clear that cigarettes had some long-range influence in encouraging lung cancer, he quit cigarettes just-like-that. He now smokes a pipe all the time, regardless of the fact that he has long known that perpetual pipe-smoking has some influence in encouraging cancer of the lip, tongue or mouth!

There isn't any evidence that cigarettes are the soul cause of lung cancer. People who have never smoked at all sometimes have it.

But it is far more frequent among those who do. That's the story.

I'm not one to say that people shouldn't smoke. That's up to them. But it's up to me (and other doctors) to make sure they know that there's a probable risk. A considerable one.

Next, Dr. S., I can't tell your husband no to smoke cigarettes. But you told him and got away with it!)

I can't say he should or shouldn't smoke a pipe. The pipe carries a risk, although apparently a much lesser one.

There's a considerable and logical contention that air pollution contributes to lung cancer, but I can't tell everyone to go live in the fresh-air wilds.

In short, I'll write what I know, and readers will have to decide what risks they want to take.

* * *

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am soon to have an operation for varicose veins. Is this a safe operation? Will it in any way affect the heart? I mean will the heart still get the supply of blood it needs? —F. K."

Yes, it's a safe operation and will not harm the heart nor deprive it of blood. The veins being removed weren't working properly; getting rid of them will help better circulation in other veins in the legs. If anything, the heart will be better off.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

INCENTIVE

To keep out heads up and our hearts warm, there must be a bright light in our eyes, a fire within us somewhere, somehow.

We can't just desire to rise. We must have something about us that makes it impossible for us not to rise. I am thinking of this something as incentive. If this lives within us, the battle is great hope. There is a reason for everything.

But with incentive dead, there is reason for nothing, not even life.

I often think of those whose names have become a part of the world and wonder what brought them out — out of themselves, out of sordid comforts in the home, out of situations that many would have thought too heavy with odds and discouragement.

And I have found this to be true: those who have striven for themselves have always achieved for others. Their life lives within them. They make this world better while they are about it, and leave it with something accumulated as a heritage to those here left.

Incentive amounts merely to this: an unseen force clothed with a desire to make that vision real in as many forms as possible.

If you have no incentive you are as much out of the battle as that is just been felled. Others must take up your own business, and you build from it.

We are all guided by stars of some sort or other.

Even our failures, resulting from a sense of being in incentive to try again and the next time not to fall down so hard.

For incentive is that spark within us that keeps lifting up until we are made strong enough to stand alone and accomplish our task in the world.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A bachelor friend of mine who got married last year had collected quite a comfortable lot of furniture and household goods of all kinds while living in his bachelor style. And when he and his bride set up their new apartment, much of this was moved into it. Among his possessions were two decanters.

When the wedding presents were assembled, two more decanters arrived.

"There was no place else in the apartment to put them," he says, "so we set the four of them on my buffet. This had an immediate effect on all our friends. Ah, they said, they collect decanters! Last Christmas we received three more, very similar indeed to the first pair, as did ours on her birthdays we received two more. The word has spread far and wide among our friends—and acquaintances that we collect decanters. And decanters.

"We don't know how to stop the barrage. We now have eleven, and we don't know where to put them. We can't get rid of any of them for fear of offending the donors. We could give away my own two original ones if my wife weren't sort of heirlooms of my bachelor days . . ."

PRIME MINISTER

ing him back from his five-day visit winged into Ottawa Tuesday night. He will speak at 7:30 p.m. EST.

The trip was a smashing success in his view. As the prime minister told reporters Tuesday during a refueling stop at Vancouver, "the warmth of the welcome was beyond anything we could have anticipated."

While away from the capital he had a lot to say about the international situation, on which he found Japan and Canada sharing his views.

The communique issued in Tokyo at the end of his visit said Mr. Diefenbaker and Prime Minister Ikeda joined in an "unqualified condemnation" of the Soviet Union's nuclear testing in the atmosphere.

Back in Ottawa, Mr. Diefenbaker said a grave problem resulting from Russia's breaking of the moratorium on nuclear testing is that the Soviet Union has been put "in a more invulnerable position" while the security of other nations has been "greatly decreased."

He said there will be no further buildup of Canadian forces for the present beyond the 35,000-man increase authorized in September.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he found the Japanese just as aroused as Canadians are about Russia's nuclear testing. The two countries were among the principal sponsors at the United Nations session — which won unanimous support outside the Soviet bloc—calling on Russia not to explode its super-bomb.

In a Tokyo press conference Tuesday, Mr. Diefenbaker said the Soviet Union had demonstrated "a monstrous disregard for the thinking of humanity" in going ahead with the explosion in the face of the UN resolution heading that she desisted.

At Vancouver, he said if Premier Khrushchev, by "his truculent attitude" had been attempting to divide the peoples of the Western world, the reverse had been true. He had never known such a degree of unity in NATO as exists today.

Asked what the West can do short of force, he said there should be continuing discussion of the dangers of radioactive fallout from nuclear tests. There should be expressions of strong opinion.

Every effort at negotiation should be made through the UN and other diplomatic means that "ultimately we will penetrate the fog." Khrushchev's sensibilities as to the wrong he is doing."

TELEPHONE PIONEERS MEET — The 50th anniversary of the founding of the Telephone Pioneers of America was observed locally yesterday. Among those attending the party at the Hotel Quinte were: Miss Irene Harris, former chief operator with Bell Telephone; J. Telephone Pioneers Gather For 50th Anniversary Party

The Telephone Pioneers of America from the Belleville district held a party yesterday in observance of the 50th anniversary of the founding of their organization.

Over 100 club members turned up at the Hotel Quinte to join the party with approximately 100 retired club members as guests for the event. The oldest retired member present was S. A. Hatton of Stirling, who at 87 has been on pension for 28 years.

Most members of the Telephone Pioneers are employees or ex-employees of Bell Telephone, but membership is not restricted to Bell. In the Belleville area many of the members are employees of Northern Electric. Membership requirement calls for 21 years in telephone work. There are 18,000 members in Canada.

President of local club and chairman for yesterday's get-together at the Quinte was C. W. McElraith, of the local Bell Telephone office. Frank Grandame of Northern Electric was in charge of program arrangements.

France and Britain Agree To Consider Channel-Link

By STEPHEN GROVER

PARIS (Reuters) — The first steps have been taken in France and Britain toward the construction of a link between the two countries across the English Channel.

The two countries agreed to begin preliminary negotiations but they still have to decide whether to build a tunnel under the channel or a bridge over it.

Those in favor of a tunnel point to the fact that it would be cheaper—an estimated $467,000,000 compared with $700,000,000 for a bridge, and would have greater immunity from attack in the event of war.

Those in favor of a bridge, and they are many, point to the fact that it would be shorter, only 30.6 miles against 32.2 miles for a tunnel, and would more easily accommodate cars as well as trains, since there would be no ventilation problems.

BRIDGE VULNERABLE

Militarily speaking, its supporters admit, the bridge would be vulnerable in the event of war. One or two well - placed bombs might knock it out of action, but they argue that careful bombing and sabotage could also put a tunnel out of commission.

9,000,000 Moslems and a French army guarding the lives and property of 1,000,000 European settlers has become a complicated struggle threatening the safety of the French state.

FIGHTING STOPPED

Last year, the war seemed to have reached itself out. Organized fighting stopped. Then a new force entered the fray—the so-called "Organization of the Secret Army," a clandestine terrorist group led by dissident French military men and Fascist-minded civilians, dedicated to keeping Algeria French.

Nobody knows the exact strength of the secret army. Former French Colonel Godard, ex-paratrooper who once headed the Sureté Nationale in Algeria, is believed to be the kingpin of them all though the limelight usually goes to former Gen. Raoul Salan, who hardly ever saw a battle.

The secret army is believed responsible for most of the plastic-bomb explosions in France and Algeria, and for some slayings of members of the French security forces. They operate with the complicity of the European population in Algeria.

They have little support in metropolitan France, apart from a handful of extreme right-wingers with political or economic cash to fly in Algeria. Their present aim is said to be to take power in Algiers and Oran, the main centres of European strength.

REBELS TOUGHER

As the illegal secret army daily demonstrates France's powerlessness to impose legality, so the rebels under tough new leader Youssef ben Khedda are a stiffer and more stubborn line.

Racial hatred becomes intensified between the two communities who are fundamentally almost indispensable to each other. As British correspondent Robin Smyth has remarked, many Moslems in their heart of hearts are unhappy in love with the French.

They draw a distinction, however, between France and the so-called "French" settlers, and about one-third of whom are of French origin, the rest being of Spanish, Maltese or Italian extraction. They are a volatile people, excitable, emotional and prone to demonstrations, but easily deflated as the sudden collapse of some of the settlers' insurrections indicated.

The war seems to have had only one encouraged side-effect. Many of the luxury apartments now available in Paris, long starved for housing, are being built by Europeans who have left Algeria, bringing plenty of money with them.

Children's Crusade Concludes

FRANKFORD — On October 27th, the Frankford Full Gospel Tabernacle was filled with children and their parents for the closing exercises of the Children's Crusade, which lasted for two weeks.

Evangelist Miss Betty Freeman known as "Aunt Betty" to the children welcomed everyone and opened the service in prayer. She spoke of the past two weeks' meetings with the children and their interest and average attendance of the two weeks. Miss Brenda Fisher was the special prize for bringing out the highest number of visitors during the Crusade.

A fine program then followed. A 50-voice choir of boys and girls sang several selections; eight boys and eight girls sang, "The Bible" song in the deaf sign language; Stephen Schouten and Ricky Robinson representing Kingdom Henry and Penny Bluejay, told stories and lemon taught from each story. The memory verse of the "Crusade" was given by Ena Tyrer, Robert Rose, Sharlene Vosborough, Betty Whitman and Dick Frougemith. Uncle Danny, the puppet sang "Jonah and the Whale".

The contest for attendance, carrying the Bible, visitors, offering, and quietness was won by the boys defeating the girls by a score of 54-51. Seventy-two prizes were given to boys and girls for perfect attendance in the two weeks' course.

A recording by Evangelist Freeman entitled "I Haven't Got Time" was given. A dedication of parents to train their children in the Christian pathway followed, and the service closed with prayer.

Claims Scientific Marriages Have Best Chance of Survival

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Marriages are supposed to be made in heaven, but a young psychologist here believes machine-made matings have a better chance for survival.

"There is as much as possible to eliminate chance," said Dr. Eric Rise, 38, who feels a scientific approach to marriage pays off in greater wedded bliss.

Dr. Rise, a Brooklyn College faculty member, is board chairman of Scientific Introduction Service, Inc., which puts his theories into practice for a price.

"Sociologists have known for years the factors that go into making a happy marriage, but little was done about it," he said.

"There are many cultural pressures to get married at a certain age, but we do little or nothing to help young people make the right choice.

"Most merely hope that somehow they'll meet the right person for them, but statistics show this often doesn't happen.

"As a result, only about 50 per cent find it marriage the kind of happiness they expected, I think this figure could be raised to 90 or 95 per cent."

How does a scientific approach to marriage operate? Dr. Rise or his assistants subject each marital prospect to an exhaustive interview to find his likes and dislikes, family background, and goals in life.

Some 70 personality traits are indexed on a card for each person. The cards are then run through an electric sorter.

The machine sits as a preliminary, not a final matchmaker. It picks out the people who, according to scientific theory, have the best chances for a successful marriage.

They are then introduced—and it is up to them to decide whether the machine is a prophet, or merely a push - button mechanical busybody.

Here are some of Dr. Rise' findings:

"Perhaps 15 to 20 per cent of people don't really need marriage. They don't have room for it in their lives. They are too much in love with their work, their hobbies—or themselves.

"Women are more concerned about character than appearance in men. They want a husband they can respect and who is brighter and more successful than themselves. Such men are hard to find.

"As for me, if a woman isn't physically attractive to them they aren't particularly interested in her other values. They don't take the trouble to find out."

Does the system work? Based on hundreds of cases since 1958, Dr. Rise claims:

"The divorce rate for the United States as a whole is one for every four marriages. There has been less than one divorce for every 300 marriages we have helped arrange on scientific principles.

"This is not a cold method—but a real ally to romance. Those who fall in love do so head over heels."

Oil Painting Of Hussein Ready to Ship

The portrait is the gift of Audrey McNaughton, who between work on Hussein and an interview with the king while visiting various Middle East countries as a UNICEF adviser.

"King Hussein was charming and most co-operative," said Mrs. McNaughton, a native of Oakville, Ont., who now lives with her husband in suburban Ste. Anne de Bellevue.

"He sat for me once and from the sketch I made, his portrait has evolved. I painted it when I came back. It will be shipped off to Jordan soon." The sitting was one of the high spots of the artist's nine-week journey in the Middle East.

As UNICEF adviser, she helped organize medical clinics for mothers and children in Jordan, Lebanon, Syria and Egypt at the request of the governments of those countries.

She found the area "fascinating, a fine background for a painter." The language of the people particularly impressed her. "They select words very carefully. Some of their phrase and sentences are like poetry." The slow pace of life there was also appealing. They have an inner contentment combined with a philosophical background that gives them, I think, a greater stability than the people here have.

"Since I came home I have been very busy and I wonder what I have accomplished compared with what I did when I was in the Middle East."

She said Montreal is well known to the Arab countries because of a debate on the legality of Israel between British historian Arnold Toynbee and Israel's ambassador to Canada, Yaacov Herzog, in Montreal early this year.

The debate was published in pamphlet form and circulated among Arab people, Mrs. McNaughton said.

Italian Senoritas Show Tendency to Pick Mates

By PETER JACKSON

ROME (Reuters) — The old custom of parents selecting their daughters' husbands is dying out here as the Italian bachelor shows a greater tendency to pick their own mates.

The economic boom of the last 10 years has thrown the girls the chance of economic independence. Now they find plenty of jobs where they can freely with other young persons. They are no longer the home girls they once were, meeting only the suitors selected by father and mother.

The result has been that the bride being led to the altar today is probably nearing her mid-twenties, instead of being in her late teens as she used to be. Her groom will probably be about 28.

They may have met in an office, or in a coffee bar or restaurant at lunch. Only after they have become well acquainted do their parents meet their future son or daughter-in-law.

URBAN PHENOMENON

This phenomenon is more common in the cities than in the country, but even in rural areas the lure of work in the towns and cities results in young persons leaving and finding their own marriage partners.

Whether the love-matches are more satisfactory than arranged marriages is hard to determine since divorce, which would be a good indicator, is not allowed in Italy.

There is legal separation but it is not a popular way out of an unhappy marriage and it does not free the parties to marry again. Last year only about 9,000 couples sought separation — a low figure compared with the 400,000 marriages that were recorded.

Contact Club Enjoys Pot Luck Supper

Contact Club members and their husbands met in the parish hall Monday evening for an enjoyable pot-luck supper, which was convened by Mary Simpson's group, the Rev. J. R. Cregan offered grace before everyone began sampling the various tasty dishes.

Next week will be a study group meeting in charge of Mr. Cregan. Members are reminded to be on hand promptly at 8 p.m. in the church. Moments in History

Belleville's "first moment in history" was the discovery of the site in 1615 by Samuel de Champlain. Then it was known by its Indian name: "Asaukhkonsic" which means "The place where the rushes end." Naturally, no homes had to be heated in those days and the explorers kept warm as best they could. Today, modern heating units keep Belleville homes in cozy comfort; and perhaps the pioneer of the heating industry in Belleville was the predecessor of the Schuster company which began at the turn of the century. United Church WMS Holds 36th Rally at Hazzards

The fall rally of the Madoc section, Women's Missionary Society was held in Hazzards United Church, where a basket of beautiful mauve cosmos was placed on the table in front of the pulpit.

"Churches for new times" was the theme for the rally. Owing to a recent illness the vice-president, Mrs. W. Bray was unable to attend. Mrs. A. Empey was in charge of the morning session and Mrs. Earl Bailey for the afternoon session.

Mrs. Ken Gordon and Mrs. John Storring from the Madoc Auxiliary conducted the morning worship service and Mrs. R. A. Milley dedicated the offering.

Mrs. George Carlisle, president of the Presbyterial, introduced the Presbyterial secretaries and also the missionary, Miss Luella Rourke, B.A., retired missionary from Japan and Trinidad. Mr. Jack Grant of Marmora, favored with a lovely solo, "How Great Thou Art."

Mrs. G. G. Coulter, Presbyterial treasurer, urged all treasurers to send in funds promptly at the end of this year, so that all funds may be totalled before the change in the new organizations on January 1st.

LITERATURE REPORT

Mrs. Percy MacMullen reported as encouraging year for the literature committee and mentioned the various books available. She hoped that the different auxiliaries would remember to "Turn and Figures," as this is the last time the names of the missionaries and where they serve, will be published. She expressed pleasure in contributing her talents through the years to the literature department.

The "Missionary Monthly" and "World Friends" secretary, Mrs. J. Pierson, encouraged members to subscribe to the Observer's Family Plan—$1.50.). The Missionary Monthly's publication, formerly "Women of the Church" will be published in the "Observer" and "World Friends" will still be published.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

Mrs. McCrimmon of Eldorado Auxiliary, led in an impressive memorial service and a minute's silence was observed and prayer by Mrs. McCrimmon in memory of a faithful member, Mrs. George Ketcheson of Hazzards, who passed away during the year.

Mrs. Empey urged that all record books be preserved as reports must be with the Presbyterial by December 31st of 1961.

A dinner was served at noon in the hall by ladies of Hazzards' United Church.

All the ladies were in favor of a suggestion made by Mrs. Carlisle to have the secretary write a short note to Mrs. K. Bray, vice-president of the Madoc section—who was unable to attend, accompanied by all the ladies' signatures, showing their appreciation.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The afternoon session opened with the theme hymn and the W.M.S. motto. Miss Luella Rourke, B.A., a high school teacher from Queen's University, who spent 30 years in Japan and 20 years in Trinidad as a missionary, was introduced as guest speaker. She is now retired, living in Ottawa, and takes an active part in church life in that city.

She began her talk by saying that she felt a warm fellowship for Hazzards, as they had been prayer partners, also for Eldorado, as her father had ministered on that charge a number of years ago.

She told of many incidents that happened through the church at Shizuoki, Japan. One of these was when a grandmother and grandfather escaped the fire of Hiroshima. They found their way to a city and asked for a church. They said, "We are Christians and God is our Heavenly Father, please help us." Work was given the grandfather and they were given some meagre possessions.

She also told another story of a Christian Japanese girl who broke her engagement with her fiance because he was not being a Christian. "Breaking an engagement is a most serious offense in Japan, so the Japanese girl spent much time in prayer and her Christian friends over the matter. When a brother in the family got married and was asked to speak, there is another run that the older sister was going to be home making home ch- went to business college which also included Bible study. She attended a work camp and while there realized she was falling in love with the leader of the camp.

Miss Rourke continued by saying that a few months later she received an invitation to attend the ordination service for them which was a lovely Christian service. The work of the young Japanese couple was similar to that which Mr. fiancee had wanted to do. He was given a scholarship to come to America.

The speaker concluded her talk by saying that this was just one example of one church in Japan, and she hoped that many would be inspired and will carry through the unity of all Christians.

SCHOOL FOR LEADERS' REPORT

Mrs. Cecil Blackburn gave a full report on the "School for Leaders". She said that morning, Bible study was held in the church and time was given in each section for Bible study each morning. Mrs. Carlisle was recently retired from the duties of field secretary.

The Biblical view of the church was under the leadership of Dr. Dorothy Lucas, who stated, "The church is not an assembly of men united in their own volition. The church originated in the redemption act of God in Christ, and lives through its unity with the resurrected life of Christ and resurrection through the indwelling of His Spirit. Faith is different from knowledge.

Mrs. Andrew Stewart, Dean of Women, urged members to move forward, one in purpose, one in witness, one in love, one in fellowship, until the day will come when all shall be one as Christ with the Father are one.

There was an increase of Auxiliaries present, over that of last year.

Mrs. R. MacMillan of Ivanhoe graciously thanked each one who had contributed to make this sectional rally, such a success.

MELROSE W.I.

MELROSE — The members of Melrose W.I. were entertained at the home of Mrs. N. Dimmill for their October meeting. The president, Mrs. K. McMechan, welcomed all and held the roll call at the start as the majority present were wearing unusual head-gear. The roll call was "Wear an old hat and tell where you wore it", and proved most amusing as several wore their wedding "going-away" hats and the styles of yester-years brought forth much merriment.

The business period followed and the president thanked all for their splendid co-operation at the Plowing Match. The area convention on November 14 and 15, with the theme "Education Is A Means To Nobler Living," was announced and Mrs. G. McLaren and Mrs. A. Long were appointed delegates to same. The three resolutions to be voted on at this convention were read and discussed. It was decided to cater to the Farmers' Union banquet in November and were reminded that the November meeting on the 28th will be held in Melrose Hall and will take the form of a supper, followed by euchre.

At this time Mrs. S. Demill took charge of the program. Mrs. Demill's topic was "Notes on "Canadia Industries" which dealt fully with all types of synthetic materials in the clothing manner she traced the origin of synthetics, such as rayon and silk; nylon, which is made by a chemical process; terylene and dacron, which are manufactured at the Millhaven plant. Their specialist qualities and advantages or using same were fully explained.

Mrs. T. Howard followed with a reading, "Holland At Home in Canada," which described an enjoyable institute meeting held at the home of a "Hollander" who has become a Canadian citizen. The songs of both countries were sung and the maps of each were compared, along with the population, industries and statistics which were indeed most fascinating.

A humorous reading entitled "Strip and Hang Up To Dry," was given by Mrs. J. McLaren and Mrs. C. Weese followed with the motto, "The Peace of the World Depends On Food," which had been prepared by Mrs. John Milligan. Mrs. M. Lasier gave a humorous sketch, "A Very Useful Career," after which Mrs. Demill conducted a contest in which was won by Mrs. D. Thompson.

'Beverage Alcohol Probably Most Pervasive Influence In Life', Stated at WCTU Meet

The October meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held at the "S" with the president, Mrs. G. Coulter, presiding.

The devotional was taken by Mrs. Meyers based on Psalm 121, Thanksgiving Psalm.

"In the early days, the Pilgrim Fathers gave thanks although their blessings came not out of prosperity, but adversity and poverty. They set aside a day for good things for them. The spirit of Thanksgiving they bequeathed to us is "Every day should be Thanksgiving".

Several vocals assisted the Temperance Federation in their work at the International Plowing Match brought impressions of the various lines of work accomplished.

On a TV program last week, the rights of the Canadian Indian were portrayed. They sought to be citizens but were deprived of the right because they are exempt from taxes.

INDIANS APPEAL

Recently a news report from Ottawa made reference to the appeal of a delegation of Indian chiefs from the Caribou area concerning the heavy consumption of liquor by their people. The delegation told the Commons Senate Committee on Indian Affairs that "Drinking in Reserves is prohibited from consuming liquor but people would soon become so degraded that the illustrious past, which they had been striving to preserve, would soon disappear."

A quotation by J. Edgar Hoover states: "The startling increase in juvenile delinquency is largely due to parental failure. The drinking woman today probably deserves more than her statistical share of the blame for juvenile delinquency."

PANEL HEAD

The "Clip Sheet," in which Mrs. F. Cooke, with a panel of Members, keeyers, Station and Welles took part, was on "Freedom? ..liberty?"

We are told that on Dominion Day a year ago, Prime Minister John Diefenbaker concluded his 63-minute speech by quoting the Canadian Bill of Rights as follows: "I am a Canadian, a free Canadian; free to speak without fear; free to worship God in my own way; free to stand for what I think is right; free to oppose what I believe to be wrong; free to choose those who shall govern my country. This heritage of freedom I pledge to uphold for myself and all mankind."

"We are told, during the year, the law has been questioned, and found unusable, but it is still the 'Bill of Rights.'

"As we ponder this freedom, the question comes to the mind of those concerned about the Temperance problem. Are we really free? Not as long as alcohol holds as prisoner so many of our citizens, and shadows the lives of so many more. Many thousands are bound by by the chains of habit, they can no longer to be said to be free.

THOUSANDS OF ALCOHOLICS

"Today in Canada, the thousands of alcoholics are pitifully bound, as also those whose lives are associated with them. The only free people as Temperance workers see it, are the abstainers. Even the abstainer cannot be said to be 'free'. Accidents caused by drinking drivers; the life of the alcoholics wife and children; the home conditions, the assault and murders caused by the craze of alcohol; we question our freedom as long as these conditions exist.

"A timely challenge made recently by Chas. Hutchinson, Jr., and quoted by the International Record, London, England, must be taken by men and women everywhere.

"It is time to put the Temperance Issue back in the centre of our attention. Beverage alcohol is probably the most pervasive influence in life. It starts within individual, moves into the home and family, the church, the community, business and industry, politics and government.

"It threatens the safety of our streets and highways; it pads the relief rolls; it fills our mental hospitals and jails and reformatories; in a word is pollutes the stream of life. There is no time for smooth talk about sobriety being one of the virtues.

"This is the time to cry aloud and spare not in our opposition to the crafty foe that undermines everything for which the church of Christ stands."

At the beginning of man's history we described in Genesis, he was a brother's keeper. The word of God is unchanged.

Sidney Jr. Farmers Hold 'Family Night'

The October meeting of the Sidney Junior Farmers was held on October 19 at Fourth Line hall. As it was "family night," some of the parents, brothers and sisters were present to enjoy interesting slides on planting and reforestation, with comments by Mr. Ferguson from the Department of Lands and Forests.

The evening was topped off by lunch served by the refreshment hosts, Darlene Harder, Alan Hilton and Keri Loney.

SEEKS JOBS

WINDSOR (CP)—A labor delegation seeking an expanded public works program was told by city council Monday night that Windsor already is doing everything it can to provide jobs. Alderman John Wheeler, capital works committee chairman, told the group the city is spending "as much as the law will allow to provide work."

Draped Flattery

BY GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Skillful draping of fabric can be the making of a dress, as it is of this one. The front, of silk crepe in wine red, bottle green or taupe, is a fine example of the important afternoon dress, one that is perfect for informal evening use, too.

The draping is asymmetric, the midsection draped towards the back into a buckled closing. The waist, in back, dips to the normal line, the front being slightly higher.

Getting Easier for Wives To Fool Their Husbands

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Everyone knows it is all but impossible today for a husband to fool his wife.

But how about wives fooling husbands?

On the evidence, it's getting easier for them all the time.

Feeling a husband is both a game and a duty to a wife. She regards it as a marital necessity, for she feels she doesn't keep him fooled she can't keep him happy.

The classic ways by which women fool their husbands are: 1 by acting dumb, and 2 by saying one thing to them when they mean something else.

Example of the first way: Husband going over cheque stubs: "Here's one you wrote for $150 — 'frammis oglesprack.' To bar it stands for $150 for 10 charm school lessons to improve her personality. But husband she spent the money for this vital purpose, he'd go through the ceiling — thus creating an unnecessary repair bill.

Example of the second way: Wife: "Dear, you're looking a bit shabby, and you really can't afford to in your business. Promise me you'll buy yourself a new suit today."

Here what the wife really meant wasn't "You look shabby," but I feel shabby." As soon as he buys one new suit, she'll buy two new dresses.

EVASIVE ANSWERS

There is a third way most wives use to fool their husbands — the evasive answer.

Example:

The husband grunts, half-placate. What he hasn't found out, however, is what his wife really paid for the hat — $35.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Mrs. D. I. — He locks himself in his room for hours. It's unnatural.

Arnold I. — All I want is a little peace and quiet. They're all so noisy.

Mrs. D. I. — Arnold is 14 and in high school. Lately he's been coming home, making a beeline for his room, closing the door and locking it. He stays there until suppertime.

When I asked him why he wasn't let anyone in he says he has some hard studying to do and he can't be interrupted. But with all that studying he should be bringing home A plusses on his compositions and reports. Instead, his marks are average.

I must add that he's a fine, normal boy otherwise. Some afternoons he brings friends home. Then they do homework together, listen to the radio and play games. When they're in Arnold's room, the door's open. The lock seems to be used to keep his brother and me out.

Arnold . — Even though I'm no prize student, I'm trying to teach myself literature, not the required reading and then I like to tackle unassigned classics, like Chaucer and Huxley. They're tough going and, with my kid brother bugging around or my mother bursting in with cookies, I can't get past page one.

I tried hanging out one of those Do Not Disturb signs that we got at a motel last summer. It didn't help. So I found a key that fits the door and now I'm halfway through the Canterbury Tales.

I like to think. Books make you think. Especially now I like to think about world problems and hard stuff. I try to think out answers for myself that make sense. Once Mom lets me, I won't need the locks.

The Council — Some people just can't think deep thoughts in the presence of others. Maybe Mrs. I. can. Or maybe she doesn't go in for deep thoughts. (Some people get headaches from them.) At any rate, Arnold likes to think and has resorted to a desperate, seemingly rude, measure to secure the solitude he needs. He locks himself in and the world (including Mom) out. And Mom's hurt.

But world leaders now realize how many problems require silence and solitude to be thought through and thought out clearly. Arnold has sought for himself a valuable and rare commodity — think-space! In Bedminster, N.J., stands a Research Institute containing dozens of bare, unfurnished cubicles for scientists who want to be alone with their thoughts. The edifice is a sort of "think palace." Evidently those fellows gave up trying to follow through on an idea at home, or in an ordinary office.

Mrs. I. may be reassured to learn that this is not a rejection of her, nor is it anti-social behavior. Arnold's key is merely a symbol of his great need for some privacy and, true quility. A Chicago builder, realizing how much demand for this has designed homes with "privacy insurance." Locks and soundproof walls and ceilings, however, aren't so important as family sympathy with each member's purposes.

In these days of mindless chatter, endless radio and TV, it's hard enough for all of us to express thoughtful letters and work out complex problems of everyday living. How much harder it must be for a boy like Arnold who seeks to go beyond the call of duty in the gray matter department! His mother and the family ought to be able to understand how difficult it is to keep one's mind from wandering, especially when wandering would spell the end of hard application to a self-imposed task.

Let's hope Mrs. I. will grant Arnold the time he needs to be alone with his reflections. If she's does, he can throw away the key. They'll both be "truties."

C. Hastings PresbyteryWA Holds Rally

The sixth rally of group 2, Centre Hastings, Belleville Presbytery Woman's Association was held in Queensboro United Church, on October 25 with an attendance of 90 ladies representing the associations within the district.

The president, Mrs. T. Laycock, Bethel W.A. opened the meeting. Mrs. Embury accompanied for the hymns.

The worship service was taken by Zion-Malone. Scripture and devotional were taken by Mrs. George Fox and Mrs. Gordon Moffatt, using the theme "Light".

The Rev. Embury of Queensboro United Church welcomed the group of ladies and gave the invocation.

Greetings from Presbytery were brought by Mrs. J. Davidson, who paid tribute to those who laid such a good foundation in Women's work and asked for guidance for the future work of the church forward into a new phase of United Church Women.

The treasurer's report which showed a balance of $36.50 was given by Mrs. Mason in absence of treasurer, Mrs. Gysham. It was decided hat his balance be given to Presbytery.

A vocal trio was given by ladies of Mt. Pleasant. The literature secretary, Mrs. Carman Sint, of Springbrook, said in her review of literature, that there was a great need of christian literature in the home. She gave the highlights of literature on hand especially the new literature for "United Church Women."

The guest speaker, Mrs. R. Ellis of Belleville, was introduced by Mrs. B. Fyear of Stirling. Mrs. Ellis, having had much experience in Woman's Association work, serving on executive of this and other Presbytery for some time, was asked by the president to outline the new organization for women. She stressed that this union of W.M.S. and W.A. will be the most important event in United Church since Church union. There have been years of preparedness, thought and work in the detailed plan which she outlined. It became evident that church women would enjoy the working of the plan as each step of purpose, function and organization help were discussed with the aid of excellent charts.

The president thanked Mrs. Ellis and Secretary Committee headed by Mrs. Hommersen gave her report thanking all those who had taken part in the rally. Mr. Embury pronounced benediction.

Leather and Fabric

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Leather and fabric get together for some striking costumes, ideal for informal town wear, perfect for suburbs and country.

Here, we have a handsome jacket of suede, double-breasted, the neckline low and scooped, the patch pockets curved. It is worn with a matching tone runset wool skirt checked in white and a printed blouse in the same tones.

DENTAL HELPERS

"Detergent" foods, such as crisp, crunchy celery, carrots and radishes, can do much in cleaning teeth by removing sticky foods.

November Suppers

Chowder is rich and thick and designed to be a meal in itself. Like other soups, it can be doubled or tripled at little extra cost. Potato and Corn Chowder, tested by the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, is good enough to warm the very cockles of your heart when served for supper on a cold, wet, November night.

POTATO AND CORN CHOWDER:

3 strips bacon, cut in ¼-inch pieces, 1 cup chopped onion, 2 cups boiling water, 2 bouillon cubes (optional), 2 cups diced raw potato, 1 can (198 ounces) cream style corn, 2 cups milk or cream, ½ tablespoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, dash hot pepper sauce.

Fry bacon in saucepan until crisp, then remove pieces and keep warm. Add onion to saucepan and saute until transparent. Add water and bouillon cubes and stir until dissolved. Add potatoes and cook until almost tender, about 10 minutes. Add remaining ingredients and bacon pieces. Heat over low heat until hot, but do not boil. Serve with a light sprinkling of paprika or parsley. Makes about 6 cups chowder or enough for 6 small or 3 large servings.

NOTE:

If no bouillon cubes are used, add an extra ½ teaspoon salt.

As sure as you will have a roast turkey in November, you will have enough left over to make Turkey Croquettes for lunch or supper. The home economists in Ottawa, who tested this recipe, say they liked it especially well when served with Onion Sauce.

TURKEY CROQUETTES:

2 cups hot mashed potatoes, 1 egg, beaten, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ⅛ to ¼ teaspoon thyme or sage, 2 cups diced cooked turkey, stuffing, gravy, 2 tablespoons cooking fat, 2 tablespoons milk, 1 egg and seasonings. Add turkey and combine well. Spread mixture on a platter and chill. Divide into 12 portions and shape into "logs". Dip each "log" into well beaten egg, then into bread crumbs. Pastry slowly in about 3 tablespoons fat, turning several times, until golden brown on all sides, 15 to 20 minutes. Make 12 croquettes.

ONION SAUCE

2 tablespoons butter, ¼ cup finely chopped onion, 2 tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1½ cups milk, 1½ tablespoons chopped parsley.

Melt butter in top of double boiler, add onion and saute until transparent. Blend in flour, salt and pepper. Gradually add milk, stirring until blended. Cook over direct heat, stirring constantly until mixture begins to thicken. Then place over hot water and continue cooking for 2 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add parsley just before serving. Makes about 1¼ cups

Half Century of Service to City, District Is Proud Record of Lattimer's Drug Store

A half century of service to Belleville and district customers is the proud record of Lattimer's Drug Store on Front Street which this week is observing its 50th anniversary of business.

The store, now operated by W. Bruce Lattimer, was founded back in 1911 by W. H. (Bill) Lattimer, father of the present owner, who at that time purchased the Robert Templeton drug store.

For a time during the 50 years of operation the store was known as the Lattimer-Lavole Drug Store, but has operated continuously under the Lattimer name since the present owner entered the business as an apprentice in 1932.

Variety merchandising with a multitude of different lines might be the keynote of modern drug store operation, but the druggist of half a century ago was beginning to learn that business volume could be enhanced by variety sales. Even then the druggist was more than just the man who dispensed pills and made up prescriptions to the doctor's order.

Today Lattimer's is a popular rendezvous for the coffee break. Half a century ago the attraction was the new fangled soda fountain. In 1941 Lattimer's installed one of the first soda fountains in the city.

Another first for the founder of Lattimer's was the Belleville franchise for that handy picture taking gadget, the Kodak camera. Mr. Lattimer had one of the first Kodak sales franchises in the Belleville area.

But it seems the store founder was always on the sales end of the Kodak — he rarely had

Customers to Share in 50th Anniversary Gifts Given To Lattimer's Drug Store

Local customers of Lattimer's Drug Store are going to share in 50th anniversary gifts received from 18 countries around the world.

The gifts, characteristic of the countries from which they were sent, are in the way of anniversary recognition for Lattimer's from Shulton of Canada Ltd., manufacturers of "Old Spice" shaving lotions and "Desert Flower" perfumes.

During observance of Lattimer's 50th year in business in Belleville, the gifts will be passed on to customers in the way of door prizes.

Representative countries from which the anniversary gifts have been received are England, Australia, Venezuela, Argentina, Spain, Switzerland, Holland and Sweden.

Mr. C. M. Thomson, vice president and general manager of Shulton of Canada Ltd., is in Belleville this week representing his firm and to offer personal congratulations to Bruce Lattimer on the 50th anniversary of Lattimer's Drug Store.

"In a country as young as Canada, it is rather unique to have a drug store 50 years in business," noted Mr. Thomson. "In Belleville I understand there are two drug stores which have been in business for more than half a century."

The idea of the anniversary gifts from Shulton to Mr. Lattimer in recognition of this store's anniversary was conceived by Mr. Thomson at a pharmacists' convention in Toronto last spring.

Accordingly he arranged with Shulton's sales offices or plants in 16 different countries to send along gifts characteristic of that particular country.

Mr. Lattimer in turn has decided he will share the gifts with his customers and they will be drawn for at the store during anniversary time.

PLANTS IN 50 COUNTRIES

Founded back in 1937 as a supplier of American perfumes, Shulton is now a world-wide organization with sales offices, plants or agents in more than 50 countries.

Mr. Thompson has been with Shulton since 1946 after a varied career ranging all the way from the job as the advance poster boy for the world famed "Dumbells," and salesman for barber supplies to his present position.

A native of Western Ontario, Mr. Thompsons' first visit to Belleville was as a lad of 15 when he arrived in town to put up posters for the "Dumbells" troupe which were shortly to perform at the old Griffin Theatre at the corner of Bridge and Church Streets.

SUPPLY SALESMAN

Later during the depression years he became Belleville district salesman for a barber supply company and he struck up

Pharmacy-My Business

In your medicine chest at home there will be found a variety of medicines ranging from simple household needs—a cough syrup, or an ordinary antiseptic for application to a bruise or a cut finger—to prescriptions, such as the one your doctor prescribed for you or a member of your family when you had the "stomach flu." Perhaps, you have not thought of the drug store as the medicine chest of the community, yet that is exactly the function it serves.

Pharmacy is one of the oldest of the established professions and yet it is as modern or more so than the average retail establishment. No need seems more important than that which arises when there is sickness in the household and the service provided by the drug store is one in which the public has come to place great reliance.

Prescriptions are an important and valued part of drug store business and we strive, at all times, to give prompt and careful attention to this part of our business. That means having in stock the large supply of drugs, old and new, so essential to modern medicine.

All prescriptions, regardless of their cost, are given the same careful attention which we would expect for our own personal use. Needless to say, Lattimer's treasures the confidence which the medical profession has reposed in our pharmacy since my father established the drug store fifty years ago.

We shall endeavor to do our best to maintain that same service to the medical profession and to the drug needs of the public as well.

GOOD SERVICE IS OUR MOTTO.

the latest known pictures of W. H. Lattimer were taken at the time of his graduation from the Ontario College of Pharmacy back in 1904 and shortly after he opened his Belleville store, Mr. Lattimer died in 1926.

ENTERED AS APPRENTICE

Bruce Lattimer the present owner entered the business as an apprentice and took over operation of the store following graduation from the Ontario College of Pharmacy in 1935.

Originally with a staff of three or four, Lattimer's now has a personnel almost large enough to run a small industry. The store, lunch counter and Town Room employ about 23 persons.

Lattimer's Tea Room already was well known, when the present owner entered the business in 1952, but since then the branched out to include full course meals and also offers banquet service.

Besides Mr. Lattimer the store has two assistant pharmacists, George McCutcheon, formerly of Tweed, and E. Taylor Beal, with the store for one-and-a-half years.

Beauty aids for the feminine members of the family are also a big feature at Lattimer's. Staffing the cosmetics department are Mrs. Corinne Moon, Mrs. Vivian Oram and Miss Alex Hanley.

Operation of a multi-department drug store might sound like a full-time occupation for most men, but Mr. Lattimer has found time for various civic and community activities.

In the early 1960's Mr. Lattimer was already thinking in terms of municipal service and from 1945 until 1951 he was a member of city council. During his term on council he served as the council representative on the Belleville General Hospital Board of Governors. Later he served as chairman of the Board and is now in his 16th year as a Hospital Board member.

"I think it is about time I quit the Board", he says.

C OF C PRESIDENT

At the same time Mr. Lattimer served as president of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce and also for a term as president of the retail merchant's division of the chamber. In 1946 he was president of the local Kiwanis Club and served for a term as Kiwanis Lieutenant Governor.

And in addition to his municipal service he has found time to serve in various druggist's organizations and is currently on the board of directors of Drug Trading Company, the largest wholesale drug company in the country. He is presently serving as member of the council for the Ontario Colleges of Pharmacy.

This evening he will address the local pharmacists on the merchandising of cosmetics and fragrances.

A Quick Meal for Three

By Mary Moore

When I came home from Ot. tawa with my grandson the cupboard was bare, the mail was overflowing my desk and my daughter-in-law was coming for dinner.

We found some leftover roast beef in the freezer and Margy dressed a curry. Since Davey loves rice this sounded fine. She ran to the fruit stdre for hot salad things and fruit.

Through our joint efforts when the meal was ready we had:

Beef Curry on Rice
Tossed Salad with French Dressing
Buttermilk Sesame Biscuits
Sliced Peach Compote
Milk and Coffee

I have a sneaking fee'in' that Davey cooks use curries to their best advantage. A curry is a great catchall which may be simple or extravagant with extras. Ours was a

SIMPLE BEEF CURRY:

For three or four). In a large frying pan melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine and saute in it ¼ cup each green pepper, chopped celery and onions until limp. Add 3 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon each salt and curry powder (more can be added [illegible]). Stir to blend, then add 1½ cups liquid (water or water and milk or cream). Stir until thick. Add 1½ or 2 cups chopped beef (or veal or chicken or pork) and heat through. Serve this mildly seasoned curry over rice to the children. Then add more curry powder and some black pepper to the remainder to zip it up for the adults and serve on plenty of fluffy rice.

BUTTERMILK SESAME BISCUITS:

2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons baking soda, ¾ cup shortening (or butter or margarine), ¾ cup buttermilk, 4 tablespoons sesame seeds.

Sift flour with salt and baking soda. Cut in shortening until mixture is the texture of coarse oatmeal. Add buttermilk to make a soft dough. Add sesame seeds. Turn onto floured board and knead lightly — no more than 10 turns. Roll out to about ½" thickness and cut with floured biscuit cutter. Bake on greased baking sheet at 450 deg. Fahr. for 8 to 10 minutes. If desired before baking brush with glaze of 1 tablespoon each sugar and milk and sprinkle top with some additional sesame seeds.

WEDNESDAY

Dinner Menu

Stewed Chicken with Tiny Dumplings; Broccoli; Waldorf Salad; Banana Layer Cake; Coffee.

PEACH (OR APPLE) COMPOTE:

We were able to buy some stored Elberta peaches, but this method may be used for apples too. Heat together 1 cup each water and sugar and ½ cup fresh or fresh frozen (dilute[illegible] (of course) orange or tangerine juice. Add 6 or 7 drops red food coloring. Peel peaches or pare apples and cut in eighths and add to syrup. When it comes to boil, cover and remove from heat. Allow to cool. If apples are used, let them simmer for 3 minutes before removing from heat. Same method may be used for whole prune plums but no coloring is needed.

Successful Living

By Doris Clark

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Teen-Triangle

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—I have a girl friend who has a problem and is too shy to write it.

"A" met a boy not too long ago. She has only gone out with him a few times One day "A" introduced him to "B". He now likes "B" better. Once he went out with "B" and "A" was there. "A" was upset.

But what she doesn't know is that he asked "B" to go with him to a party When "A" finds out she will likely become mad at "B." "B" does not want to be bad friends with "A."

What can "B" do? Please help me if you can.—WANTING TO HELP.

DEAR WANTING:—"B" has to choose. Does she want the date or does she want her friend? How will she feel when the boy friend leaves her for the next one, perhaps someone she introduces him to?

If "A" and "B" are pals, "B" cannot play fast and loose with a boy "A" has any claims to. If "B" refuses this date, she could tell 'A" she has done so, and get "A's" agreement to an acceptance next time.

DEAR DORIS:—Have you ever heard of anyone being electrocuted from head to foot? Would you consider a person like that a hopeless case or a case for the psychiatric ward? Would a person like that be safe to live with?—A SUBSCRIBER.

DEAR SUBSCRIBER: — According to my dictionary, electrocute means "to kill by an electric shock." So such a person would be dead.

The electric shock which is used in the treatment of mental cases is a very mild charge of electricity which passes through the body of the patient. It has a beneficial and calming effect on the patient and can hasten recovery from mental illness.

Persons who have had such shock treatment, and have recovered from mental illness, are just as safe to live with as anybody else.

Groups Help Young People To Develop

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Miss Izabel Stewart of Toronto, national training secretary for the YWCA, says a gang "need of not necessarily be a bad thing."

Most young people need some kind of group—a feeling that they belong to something that is closely knit," she said in an interview here.

There is a dynamic and a discipline in group living which is tremendously creative, and the more stable the group, the more power these dynamics can have.

In our YWCA clubs we are trying to help girls to develop their individuality and independence through creative group living."

The young training secretary helps staff training of YWCA units in Canada. Miss Stewart studied at the Toronto School of Social Work, supervised social group workers in Japan and Korea and has worked for the Australian YWCA.

BEGINS FLYING

SARNIA (CP)—Great Lakes Air Services Limited officially began operations Monday from its base at Sarnia airport. Manager Roger Hadfield said the company will use six airplanes in an air taxi service.

The Experts Say

A Few Simple Accessories Presto—a New Sweater

TORONTO (CP) — The use of dressmaking, millinery and drapery materials offer "an entirely new approach to accessorizing a sweater," says Lissa Taylor of the textile fibres department of Du Pont of Canada.

"With a length of drapery braid or fringe, a woman who tries to be creative in her dress can transform a classic pullover or cardigan into a sweater with that highly individual couture look."

Miss Taylor has made up some samples that transform sweaters into conversation pieces.

In one, she replaced the buttons on a basic cardigan with dressmaker frogs and turned the ribbed waistband under. This produced a blouson.

Heavy black braid and a large decorative coat button transformed a simple pullover into an eye - catcher. The braid was stitched off - centre from the neckline to the bottom of the sweater, then another piece was sewn around the top of the ribbing.

There seems to be no limit to the couturier uses for drapery fringe of different types and widths, said Miss Taylor. She used some to trim the collar of a cardigan.

A bushy but narrow width of fringe might be sewn down the front and around the bottom of a plain cardigan. The same cardigan could be bound in a similar manner with black satin ribbon.

USE RESTRAINT

Restraint should be used in adding your own touch" to sweaters, she advised." Some needed little adornment.

The sweater featured a hitlice, stitch inset that formed a semi-circle around the yoke. The laces were drawn through the tiny holes in cross-stitch fashion and tied at each shoulder in a small bow.

Another sweater, with a modified turtle neck was given its own jewelled collar by sewing beads in multiple rows around the throat-hugging band. Black beads on a black sweater produced glamorous party apparel, especially when the sleeves were removed.

A dressmaker pullover with a stand-away collar has a slit through which a large bead scarf can be drawn. One scarf hangs down the front and the other flutters down the back.

One note of caution. Be sure the material being used to dress up the sweater are shrink-proof and color-fast. If in any doubt, Miss Taylor says, pre-shrink them, testing their colorfastness at the same time.

Mother's Helper

IT IS EXTREMELY important to take care of your baby's birth certificate. When it is given to you, have two photostatic copies made. Put one copy in his Baby Book, keep one in your desk. File the original in your safety deposit box at the bank. A lost birth certificate can cause serious trouble.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

MANNERISMS SELDOM BESPEAK GOOD MANNERS

Funny, the habits people get into.

But not so funny when they're irritating to others.

Take, for instance, the "grab-ber" — the person who can't talk unless he clutches your hand, wrist, elbow or lapel, leaving you no chance to make an easy getaway.

Then there's the "grabber" who probably would be a "grabber" if he didn't have his hands full. Even so, he can still get in a jab with his elbow at a not-so-spare rib, or drive home a point with a finger poked at your jugular. Whether or not it's attached to a cigarette is strictly immaterial to him.

Of course, there's the all-too-familiar "back-slapper." He doesn't care if his jovial blows fall on shoulders that are bared, razzed, bravery, or bent.

The "hugger," on the other hand, is a little more genteel in his half-fellow approach, but just as aggressive in his desire for togetherness. This is the type that throws his arm around two people at once and corrals them into a closely-knit grouping that's hard to unravel.

Strictly for spectator sport is the "dramatist," an emotional kind who can't tell a story without acting it out. This may involve much arm-waving and some nimble footwork. But no matter how many get swatted in the course of a tale, what's the beef, when "the play's the thing?"

More on the passive side is the "toe-twirler," who lounges cross-kneed on the sofa, points inspectorally with the ash of his patent-leathers at anyone to whom he wishes to direct a remark at the moment.

Then there's the "poiner," who slims a finger squarely at the person he's speaking about, and the "cupper," who curves his hand over his mouth every time he opens it and gives everyone the impression he's telling tales out of school.

They're too much for me. Home, James!

Lakeside OES Sponsors Fine Tea, Bazaar

WELLINGTON — The Masonic hall was gay with bright lights, colored means, Hallowe'en decorations for the Lakeside Chapter, O.E.S., annual tea and bazaar.

Mrs. Gladys McFaul, past DDGM, and Mrs. Ida McFaul, secretary, received the fees and gave each a ticket on the door prize.

Mrs. Alice Watt, the worthy matron, received the many guests, who came from Picton, Bloomfield, Trenton, Amelisburg, Consecon, Brighton, Cobourg, Port Hope as well as the village.

The tables were decorated and arranged along the south wall. Mrs. Davern and Mrs Evans had charge of the domestic table. As usual it had a good variety of home cooking, which always finds ready sale.

Norman Foster sold on the grocery baskets.

Mrs. Hugh East and Miss Norma Foster sold the delicious home-made candy.

Mrs. Gerald Gibson and Mrs. Frank Harris sold the pretty aprons, crochet and knitted articles, tea towels and other things.

Mrs. Gordon Parks offered some real bargains at her novelty table.

PRETTY TEA TABLE

The tea table was arranged along the north wall. It was very pretty, covered with a white linen cloth and centred with a low bowl of yellow and white mums, flanked by four yellow tapers.

Some of the ladies who poured tea from the two silver tea services were: Mrs. Ruth Peck, W.M., Quinte; Mrs. Mae Ferguson, P.W.M., Quinte; Mrs. Hazel Harris, W.M., Lakeside; Mrs. Ruby Fleming, PDDGM, Colborne; Mrs. Margaret McKeever, DDGM, Port Hope; Mrs. C. Rawcliffe PDDGM, Cobourg; Mrs. Susie Down, PWM, Lakeside; Mrs. Doris McFaul, PWM, Lakeside.

Lunch was served by members of the chapter. The guests were seated at card tables covered with white linen cloths, centred with yellow and white mums.

Members also helped in the kitchen.

The worthy matron thanked everyone for coming and all who helped make the evening such a successful event.

Mrs. Rawcliffe drew for the door prizes. Mrs. Gordon Clark won the first and Mrs. Frank Harris the second. The grocery basket winners were: Mrs. Hilton McCartney, Mrs. Jack Taylor and Mrs William Gassira.

WELLINGTON — Last Wednesday afternoon, the home of Mrs. Douglas Taylor, East Main Street was the scene of a farewell tea in honor of Mrs. William Hamel and her daughter, Miss Norah Hamel. The hostess and her co-hostess served delicious refreshments. They were assisted by Mrs. Jack McNeil, Mrs. Hugh East, Mrs. Gerratt Harris, Mrs. Eileen Shannon, Mrs. G. Stoneburg, Misses Pat Shannon and Linda Taylor.

Woman Senator Disbelieves In the Battle of the Sexes

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—"If you can't convince them, confuse them," is Senator Josie D. Quart's advice to women in politics, business or any other field once reserved for men.

"We must confuse them by our tolerant attitude," the 60-year-old senator from Sillery, Que., said in an interview here.

"I do not believe in the battle of the sexes. Men and women are not at war with each other. They are components parts of our modern world and must learn to co - operate, not compete.

"Once the men are assured that women are not out to dominate, and women learn how to work along with men, we will all begin to realize what true democracy means."

Mrs. Quart was appointed to the Senate a year ago. She is also a national president of the Progressive Conservative Women's Association.

EXAMPLE IN ASIA

"We are all citizens with equal privileges and responsibilities and we all have a voice. I wish the women of Canada could meet the women of Africa and Asia who are going all out for education and the welfare of their countries—not as women but as citizens. It would show them what we could do if we just realized our potential as Canadians.

"Qualifications for a woman in public life? She must be comparatively free from family responsibilities — a woman whose family is grown or who is single. A good general education, fair-mindedness and public-spirited; ability to accept criticism; diplomacy and caution; ability to speak but, more important, ability to think; a sense of her value as a Canadian woman and above all a sense of humor and the ability to laugh at herself, plus love of people."

Record Number of Students Again Crowding Classrooms, Corridors of Universities

By PETER BUCKLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Sedate and historic campus or shimmering city of glass—whatever face a Canadian university turns to the outside world, its inner face can only wear an anxious frown.

Almost without exception, a university's self - examination this fall reveals a record number of students again crowding classrooms and corridors—and many it is the latest in an unbroken series of record post-war enrolments. . . .

New buildings, new faculties, new satellite colleges and university - like institutes — none of these measures has entirely succeeded in filling the demand from Canada's youth for the better mind—or better understanding of the present world—promised by higher education.

This year an estimated 131,000 students have entered the 28 universities in Canada, an increase of 11 per cent over last year's 118,000 and it far outstrips Canada's rate of population growth.

WEEDS UP MORE?

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows that the only universities not shelving more students are those that were already jammed to capacity last year and didn't expand their facilities.

The four western provinces report the largest increase—12 per cent. Enrolment in the Atlantic provinces is up 10, Ontario 11 and Quebec nine.

Many universities report increasing emphasis on science courses but studies leading to a bachelor of arts degree remain the most popular.

University of Alberta has one of the most significant of changes to meet new demands in science. Engineering students on campuses at Calgary and Edmonton petitioned last year for an English course on grounds they would need it for technical and executive reporting. It was made compulsory for first-year engineering students this fall.

This is the picture across the country:

University of British Columbia: In midst of $25,000,000 building program, it has record 13,050 students, up 13 per cent. Two new courses — post-graduate studies for librarians and a school of nursing. Canada's medicine for physiotherapists—were quickly oversubscribed.

NEW CALGARY CAMPUS

University of Alberta: Medical and engineering faculties are on a quota system, with only 100 students permitted to go on. There are 7,900 students, an increase of 1,000, with the two-year - old Calgary campus reporting a 30-per-cent increase to 1,420 as it moved to its own grounds in northwest Calgary and began a vigorous building program. The education faculty reports a 25-per-cent increase as a result of a well-publicized recruitment program.

University of Saskatchewan: With campuses in Saskatoon and Regina, it plans expansion under a $14,000,000 building program. A record 5,325 students are enrolled, up from 4,950. The engineering faculty is expected to bring the worst crowding. New facilities are planned for it, along with enlarged facilities in chemistry, pharmacy, home economics, physics, fine arts, commerce and law.

University of Manitoba: Enrolment up by 700 from 7,000. All affiliated colleges—Brandon, St. Paul's, St. John's, United and St. Boniface—report overcrowding.

ENGINEERING CHANGE

Lakehead University, Sudbury: Still operating in scattered downtown buildings while awaiting its own campus, it has 225 students compared with 180 last year despite dropping calls for a second-year engineering course.

University of Waterloo: Enrolment is 1,215, up 30 per cent. Its co - operative engineering course, only one in Canada, has 386 students and a new $2,500,000 building.

Waterloo Lutheran University: Enrolment up to 920 from 620, with 75 students forced to take part of their courses at night because of crowding.

Carleton University, Ottawa: A 25-per-cent increase to more than 1,500 students. President A. D. Dunton predicts a critical situation in the next two or three years. Arts and commerce vie for popularity, both with registration increases of about 20 per cent. Carleton has also new buildings under construction. Among its new offerings this year is a course in Russian language tailored for scientists.

York University, Toronto: Has 317 students compared with 78 last year, its first, and plans to add 100 students a year until it ends affiliation with the University of Toronto in the next four to eight years.

University of Toronto: Has added 1,000 students to last year's 15,000. New engineering and arts buildings, opened this year, have helped relieve congestion although some departments are in make-do quarters. The U. of T. has a new department of Islamic studies.

University of Western Ontario, London: Attendance 7,250 compared with 6,637 last year. Medicine and arts and science courses show increases along with a 33-per-cent jump in law and 22 per cent in engineering. It's one of few universities left without over - crowding: Registration is down in arts and will won't reach its maximum registration for a couple of years.

Queen's University, Kingston: Reports a trend toward pure sciences among the 3,400 students. Arts and science show biggest increase, to 1,360 from 1,335. Number of first-year law students is nearly doubled and the school of business has a 30-per-cent increase.

University of Ottawa: A 15-per-cent increase in enrolment to more than 3,300, more than a third of whom are in arts and science. The school of psychology and education reports a 37-per-cent increase to 130. The medical faculty was able to accept only 80 of 300 applicants. New courses offered in uring and natural history.

CONSTRUCTION SLOWED

McMaster University, Hamilton: Has a 15-per-cent jump in a record enrolment of 1,850 students, largely due to increases in arts and the faculty of undergraduate studies.

Assumption University, Windsor, Ont.: Despite tougher entrance requirements, the number of students rose 17 per cent to a record 1,400, engineering and arts chiefly accounting for the rise. Strikes and lockouts have stalled construction of three new buildings that would relieve overcrowding but the $7,000,000 project is expected to be finished this fall.

University of Montreal: Canada's largest university, it has 25,000 students, up 10 per cent. It has made changes in its library course and has opened a new school to train high school and college teachers.

McGill University, Montreal: A freshman class of 1,500 has contributed to total enrolment of 9,400 students, up 700, although no one was turned away for lack of space. Registrar Colin McDougall reports new courses overcrowded. The trend is away from engineering and toward pure science.

MAKESHIFT QUARTERS

Sir George Williams, Montreal: To accommodate an increase of more than 1,000, bringing to 8,300 the number registered for day and night courses, it has rented two floors on a nearby apartment house and the Salvation Army's auditorium in the heart of Montreal.

Bishop's University, Lennoxville, Que.: Enrolment up 30 to a record 475. General arts remains the biggest attraction with new geography courses added.

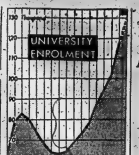
Laval University, Quebec City: Science is most popular, accounting for more than 2,000 of the 5,600 students registered. Teaching courses come next.

University of New Brunswick, Fredericton: Forced to cut off registrations from outside province Sept. 1 as a capacity 2,000 enrolled compared with 1,837 last year. Forestry, science, physical education and business administration account for much of the increase.

Mount Allison, Sackville, N.B.: Has had capacity registration of 1,200 for several years. It has a new course leading to a bachelor of education degree in science and a two - year pre - architecture course.

St. Dunstan's University, Charlottetown: Rapid development of regional high courses in Prince Edward Island has accounted for a 75-student increase, to 440, this year.

MEDS CROWDED



Dalhousie University, Halifax: Enrolment up 200 to 3,220. Medical and arts faculties especially crowded. Post - graduate science studies are playing an increasing role.

Acadia University, Wolfville, N.S.: Attendance is above 1,000 for the first time—a 10-per-cent increase of about 100. A trend toward interest in science continues.

St. Francis Xavier University, Antigonish, N.S.: Has opened a new women's resident for 90 students and enrolment climbed by that number to 1,296.

St. Mary's University, Halifax: Increases in science, commerce and arts accont for 100 of the enrolment rise to 575 from 475. Engineering has reserve students.

Memorial University, St.

SHARP INCREASE

University enrolment in Canada has increased sharply since 1954. Graph shows annual post-war enrolment, including the increase in the late 1940s with the return of war veterans. Enrolment this year is estimated at a record 131,000 students. (CP News-map.)

Worms Cover Three Streets In London

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Thousands of earthworms beckoned by a warm steady drizzle of rain soaked out of their holes Monday morning and spread themselves over three streets in east London.

Warned by a distinct odor and stopped in their tracks by the sight of gobs of worms all over the road, motorists eased their vehicles down Chippendale Crescent, Buckingham Street and King Edward Avenue in an effort to lessen the pain as much as possible.

By noon, most of the worms had left as they came, washed away by the continuing drizzle.

Fresh Fight Shaping Up Before Canadian Bd. Over Engineers on Great Lakes

OTTAWA (CP)—A fresh fight is shaping up before the Canada Labor Relations Board over union representation for marine engineers on Great Lakes ships.

A new contender has entered the potentially explosive waterfront fray—the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association of Canada.

This new union, with links with the United States labor movement, is moving into jurisdictional contest with the National Association of Marine Engineers of Canada.

The battlefield is the same on which the National Engineers' Association recently beat the Seafarers International Union of Canada before the federal labor relations board.

A key question that may come before the board is whether the new Marine Engineers Beneficial Association is tied in with the SIU in Canada.

The new association is an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations, the U.S. counterpart of the Canadian Labor Congress.

Until now, it has not claimed any real toe-hold in Canada among marine engineers.

However, it has placed applications before the labor relations board for the right to bargain for 173 engineers employed on six of the firms involved in the earlier SIU-NAME contest.

The National Association of Marine Engineers has a interest in each application.

Companies involved in the new certification bids are: Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation (Dominion Shipping Division); Hall Corporation of Canada; N. M. Paterson and Sons Limited; the Algoma Central and Hudson Bay Railway Company; National Sand and Material Company Limited and Scott Misener Steamships Limited. The new applications cover two engineers employed by the Powell (Canada) Limited of Fort William.

The SIU's bid to bargain for the engineers was tossed out by the labor relations board two months ago. The board ruled that the SIU had committed acts of fraud and had misled the board in claiming support from the engineers.

The National Association of Marine Engineers, which has merged with the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, also is keeping the pressure on, gaining rights after the SIU bid failed.

Nikita Stifles Critics, Gets Communist Party Support

WASHINGTON (AP)—At the very moment when he needed the utmost freedom and support at home in dealing with the West on Berlin, Premier Khrushchev has stifled his critics and got the full support of the Russian Communist party.

Stalin died in 1953 at the end of an era. Khrushchev took over as the beginning of a new one which changed the face of dealings at home and abroad.

So long as Stalin remained a Communist saint, entombed alongside Lenin, those who disagreed with Khrushchev's way of doing things, when they differed from Stalin's, could accuse him of heresy.

Khrushchev himself perhaps best summed up his realization of why and how he had to shove the memory of Stalin out of sight, instead of accepting his attacks on Stalin, he said it had to be done to "liberate the minds and hearts of the people, to open the road toward something new."

U.K. Concerned Over Manpower Shortages in Some Categories

By ROD CURRIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—A few months after they join up.

Also there still are shortages in men with special qualifications—such as doctors and those in administrative work.

The government recently initiated in 1957, when Duncan Sandys was the defence minister, was to return to the tradition of all-regular voluntary forces with the big national service man cut of uniform by the end of 1962.

Although this target date now will be extended, observers believe that Watkinson still has confidence in this policy generally and it hopefully will not have to revert to conscription.

Princess Helps On Hallowe'en To Give Treats

Government House, home for Princess Alexandra of Kent during a two-day visit here, was opened for 20 minutes before dinner to children seeking a traditional handout.

It had previously been ordered that the gates be closed and guarded by RCMP. Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes, who was "at home" last Hallowe'en, had arranged for his next-door neighbor to do the honors.

Princess Alexandra, learning of the night's performance by Canadian youngsters, had the gates briefly opened. She greeted each visitor personally and made the presentations.

The princess leaves today to continue a trip to the Far East.

FAMOUS SURGERY TECHNIQUE — The Vancouver General Hospital has become internationally noted for its research work in open-heart surgery. The hospital houses some departments of the University of British Columbia's medical school which is planning new buildings for research expansion. (CP Photo).

U. of B.C. to Take Big Step Forward in Moving Into New Medical Centre

VANCOUVER (CP) — The biggest forward step since the establishment of the medical school at the University of British Columbia will be taken shortly when it is moved from old wooden huts into a $2,000,000 group of new buildings.

The new medical science centre, now nearing completion, will house departments of pharmacology, pathology, physiology, biochemistry and anatomy, a main library, lecture theatres and research quarters.

It answers one of the school's most pressing problems—inadequate accommodation for research. At present there are 30 men being kept in laboratories in the United States.

In medicine as in other professions, Canada has proven a natural reservoir of trained skills for the U.S., says Dean John F. McCreary of UBC's school of medicine.

The U.S., besides being bigger and richer, also spends more on medical research than Canada—$1.80 per capita to 19 cents.

The loss of trained and highly skilled research teams has impeded the UBC medical school's development, which Dean McCreary says will take at least 2 years.

In the 11 years since the school was founded it has grown to 81 full-time teaching physicians and 280 part-time teachers from 14 full-time professors and only a handful of part-time help.

Its program includes research on cancer, arthritis, rheumatism and heart disease. Original work is carried on in high blood pressure, heart disease, diseases of the aged and young, biochemistry, mental illness and the effect of drug on the nervous system.

Although UBC medical school ranks third in Canada in volume of research and size of grants, medical leaders here are concerned because achievements fall short of reasonable goals.

Lack of facilities for training and research has been one of the underlying reasons.

Teaching has been hampered by lack of a hospital controlled by the school, where students can be taught by example.

Dean McCreary explained it this way:

"In early years of medical school, diagnosis is taught. This requires that students be associated with patients, take a careful history, make a complete physical examination, perform a complete laboratory investigation, produce a list of diagnoses and then with patients taking care discuss with another until the true diagnosis comes along.

"But this is not the way we as practitioners practice medicine. We arrive at a diagnosis largely on the basis of what years of experience have taught us.

"Thus in an open hospital in which thousands of doctors are working, where teaching must be of secondary importance, the medical student is told what to do but sees something different being done every hour.

"There is a great tendency for him to do as he sees rather than what he is told. He is encouraged to run before he has learned to walk and the total effect on undergraduate teaching is poor."

A second problem is the student's medical research being too confined to the laboratory.

This, says Dean McCreary, is the method of treatment can not be evaluated on wards where patients are being treated by different physicians and where pressure is strong to discharge the patient as soon as possible.

It is hoped that the construction of a $16,000,000 university hospital within the next six years will meet both problems.

The medical school is also laying the groundwork for a department called "continuing education," supported by a $60,000 grant from the W. K. Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek, Mich. It's aim is to keep the doctor up to date and help him prepare for advanced degrees and specialist qualifications.

Police Called To Ensure Safety Of Aldermen

HAMILTON (CP) — Police were called to city hall Tuesday night to ensure the safety of aldermen crossing picket lines of Local 700 of the International Union of Operating Engineers (Ind.).

City officials asked for police help when the pickets, off their essential services jobs since Sept. 26, showed reluctance to let the aldermen through to a council meeting.

Council disposed of the strike issue in less than 15 minutes. A motion by Aldermen David Powell and Ross Diamond that negotiating team was rejected by 10 to 6.

The last talks between board of control and the union, which is asking a 35-cent hourly increase, broke down after only a few minutes Saturday.

Since the strike began, supervisory personnal have been operating the city's sewage plants, water pumping stations and boiler rooms.

Dark-Skinned Sisters Decide On New Quarters

Their "move-in"—a month past the original eviction deadline, ladies' included—followed an investigation by the Canadian Association for the Advancement of Coloured People which concluded the sisters had been asked to leave because of their color.

"We would have left sooner," Edna said, "but we decided to stay on for several reasons. We really had planned to move but because of all that fuss and nonsense we stayed on."

Edna, a nurse at Toronto General Hospital, and her sister, a clerk at Tip Top Tailors, were ordered by the high court of Ontario to move.

"We certainly didn't have any noisy parties in the apartment, and I can't recall we had no more visitors than anyone else," Edna said. "We're not dark-skinned because we are dark-skinned."

"My sister and I decided to stay on to show that we are discrimination schists in Toronto," she said.

Although both sisters agreed Saturday to leave their rented service in Toronto's east end for other places of business, they said Tuesday their decision finally is widespread. Said Yvonne:

"For example, we have called up about a dozen places. We are told to come over and look at the apartment. In a few cases when we walked up the steps, we noticed that someone peeking out a window would close the curtain, the bells at those places, there were no bells to ring."

The eviction notice was rescinded Monday when Wilfred, president of the CAAPC, and the organization's members picketed Judge Garrow's home.

Wilfred said the CAAPC's campaign against discrimination will continue.

Couple Ordered To Pay Balance Of Note Given

KITCHENER (CP)—A Kitchener couple was ordered Thursday to pay a balance of $300 to a Toronto company which held a promissory note given for a softening device purchased by them.

Seaboard Acceptance Corporation sued Mr. and Mrs. George Cruikshank after they stopped making payments on the device which they claimed "does not function as it had been represented to them."

A case between the Cruikshanks and Water Conditioners Ltd., which sold the device, and the sale, is still to be decided and is scheduled to continue next Tuesday.

In finding the couple liable Judge D. B. Carnegie said the Seaboard Acceptance acted in good faith and took reasonable precautions before accepting the promissory note.

John Pinsonneault, manager of Seaboard's Kitchener branch, testified last week that the company purchased contracts from Water Conditioners of Canada from November, 1960, to February, 1961, when purchases were stopped on orders from his head office.

DIDN'T FOLLOW ORDERS

He said the stop-purchase order was given because the term of the contracts—covering 36 months—no longer met requirement—was not within company policy. He added that there was nothing about the manufacturer that would cause him as manager of the Kitchener branch to cease purchasing the contracts.

The Standing Press reported erroneously Oct. 21 that Mr. Pinsonneault testified his firm became suspicious about the water conditioners early in 1960 and stopped purchasing contracts from the manufacturer.

In another case Seaboard was acting in good faith, counsel Kevin Conley said that the Cruikshanks made payments for 15 months before stopping and never made any complaints to the finance company.

In earlier evidence, James Aitkin, a salesman for Water Conditioners of Canada, testified that the Cruikshanks signed a promissory note for $300, in addition to a conditional sales contract.

He said he didn't know why their copy of the contract did not have finance charges of $141 on it when the original did.

In his judgment, Judge Charlton said the finance company took reasonable precautions and was entitled to collect on the promissory note even if there was fraud in getting the contract originally.

Reporter Says 500 Members Of Union Lined Up to March to Civic Arena

SUDBURY (CP) — A Toronto newspaper reporter testified Tuesday at the trial of 10 union officials charged with unlawful assembly that some 500 members of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.) formed up and marched to the Civic Arena to attend a union meeting Sept. 10.

Mine — Mill President Ken Smith and nine other national office supporters were charged as a result of seizing of union officers the night of the meeting, sponsored by Local 598, Mine — Mill and the Canadian Labor Congress. The trial was heard before Magistrate Ian Outhouse, Toronto.

Frank Drea of The Telegram said he saw Harold Sokolsky, president of Mine-Mill District 6, address an audience of some 500 persons at Memorial Arena in nearby Memorial Park.

He said he left the meeting when they went into the meeting they were told to remember they had been "framed" and were not to vote if there was any question in connection with Mill . . . they were to form up into a marching line and motion to adjourn. He said he knew since they had Mine - Mill banners in the hall.

TRIAL CASE RELEASED

He said he saw the doors of the hall open and as the group moved up said that he could not see when a tear gas shell exploded.

Earlier Tuesday, Magistrate Outhouse appeared to the court that the charges would be preferred with a pre-rally gathering of union supporters rather on the arena and ensuing disturbance.

The United Steelworkers of America (CLC) currently are raiding the union of Local 598 seeking the necessary 45 per cent membership to request an Ontario Labor Relations Board vote among employees of the International Nickel Company of Canada.

Magistrate Munro resumed defence counsel Aubrey Golden during the cross-examination of Earl Rochefort, a member of the executive board of Local 598, Golden had questioned Rochefort's presence at a Steelworkers' convention banquet was the action of a "spy."

SAW INJURED MAN

Inside he saw James Loiter, one of the accused, with a bad head backaged. He said Loiter told him "Steelers threw bombs in them" and struck Phillip Tesic.

Golden said Loiter has filed a charge of assault against Tesic, but the case has not yet been heard.

Const. Macleod said he and other policemen had to push the crowd back at one point to get the doors. Tear gas was used to clear a space.

He said there were instructions that all union members, with the exception of executive, not be admitted to the meeting.

Those scheduled were Smith, Sokol, Nels Thibault, national representative director, and William Kennedy, District 2 secretary.

Chief Justice Rules Agreement Not a Legal One

OTTAWA (CP)—Chief Justice James C. McRuer of the Ontario Supreme Court ruled Tuesday that collective agreements requiring non-union employees to pay union dues are legal.

He rejected arguments that such agreements constitute illegal contracts of non-union workers.

The chief justice found union dues check-off agreements are legal under terms of the Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act of Canada.

He dismissed with costs an action launched against the Canadian Pacific Railway by Fred M. Hill, 59, a CPR locomotive engineer from London, Ont.

Mr. Hill was suspended by the CPR after refusing to continue to contribute to union dues to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers (CLC).

He resigned from the brotherhood in July, 1957, to head the formation of a rival union, the 1,500 - member Brotherhood of Railway Running Trades (Ind.).

He was reinstated by the CPR in February, 1960, after two unsuccessful appeals. He was agreed to resume paying dues to the engineers' brotherhood.

He sued the CPR for $2,300 in wages lost during the 2½ months, but his solicitor abandoned this demand in his arguments.

Mr. Hill was not in court, the decision would have affected all railway employees, uranium mining companies and steamship lines in Canada. The case was first argued in fall under federal jurisdiction in a matter of labor relations.

GETS ADDITIONAL MEMBER

VANCOUVER (CP) — George Harrison, 37, who managed Premier Bennett's Bordeaux Jail Sept. 12 when it captured three last week, was sentenced to two concurrent three-month terms and a loaded revolver and burglary tools. The two-year term will be concurrent with the 15-year term Starnino was serving when he escaped.

Ousted forever was the legacy of Joseph Stalin and virtually all remnants of his 30-year rule.

The body of the former Soviet dictator has been removed from the mausoleum in Moscow's Red Square and the expulsion from the party of his old-line supporters is considered imminent.

The removal of Stalin's mummified body was announced today by the Communist party congress, which also decided to erect a huge gleaming Stalin's name from the big monument at the Kremlin wall.

The paper's announcement that Stalin's body has been transferred from the mausoleum of Vladimir Ilyich Lenin to the Kremlin wall."

The decision was reported to have been unanimously supported by the congress delegates in a vote at the closed-door congress Monday.

The vote climaxed a two-week party congress against Stalin, his supporters and the cult of his other past as cultural minister.

personality—which in the Communist lexicon means one man rule and the police methods needed to maintain it.

The elections reinstated Khrushchev as party secretary and created a key posts several of his prominent supporters.

Frol Kozlov emerged as Khrushchev's heir apparent when his name was placed directly after the Soviet premier's in official lists of the new secretariat, the administrative organ of the party.

In the presidium, the inner circle of the central committee, one member was added and three dropped, trimming membership from 14 to 11.

The new member was 50-year-old cultural scientist Gennadi Voronov who has been rated as the "rising star" in the presidium. His election reflected Khrushchev's serious concern with faltering food production.

Dropped from the presidium were Mme Ekaterina Furtseva, the only woman member; Averky Aristov, 71, Nikolai Ignatov, 69, and Nikolai Mukhitdinov, 66.

Mrs. Furtseva, 55, still is the highest-ranking woman in Soviet political life, and now is expected to concentrate on her

Portuguese Settlers Still At Loss to Explain How African Revolt Broke Out

By HENDERSON GALE

LUANDA, Angola (Reuters) Six months after it broke out, Portuguese settlers here are still at a loss to explain how the African revolt in this territory took them so completely by surprise.

No one apparently had any idea of the growing unrest that erupted into an open independence rebellion in mid-March.

They say that over a period of months or a year, groups of Africans from the neighboring former Belgian Congo built, trained the north of the country and started indoctrinating the local populations.

Some of the leaders were Angolans, as is the head of the rebel party in exile, Dr. Jose Das Populacioes da Angola (Union of Angolan Peoples) who lives in The Congo.

RABONGOS ACTIVE

Most active organizers of the big Bakongo tribe, agreeable, no respect for white men's maps, across the Angolan border into the former Belgian Congo, they say.

Their declared aim was "independence or drive out the Portuguese."

White doctors were enrolled to administer oaths and bind the army together with magic. One oath established a blending of concoction of water and gunpowder, which initiates were told would make them immune to white men's bullets.

Political organizers kept their speeches to a level readily understood by the illiterate villagers, promising them: "You will have the white men's women, their cars and their bank accounts." Apparently the white man's bank account was considered inexhaustible.

SCORNED WARNINGS

The Portuguese seem through not to have been oblivious to what was going on around them. Some settlers are said to have been warned by African employees, but they seem to have paid no attention to the warnings.

After the first shock, the survivors went berserk and exacted wholesale reprisals in various parts of the country and even in Luanda itself. Thousands of Africans were killed by the rebels or by Portuguese.

Many thousands more fled into the bush, and about 120,000 escaped to The Congo. The north was denuded of labor.

At the time, the Portuguese army had only about 2,000 white and 5,000 African troops in the country, 14 times the area of Portugal.

RECKLESS ATTACKS

The settlers had to fend for themselves, falling back on the bigger settlements and barricading themselves in churches and other big buildings. A wave after wave of crudely-armed Africans launched reckless attacks against them.

In the second phase, the rebels developed guerrilla tactics. Smaller, more disciplined groups launched surprise attacks on lonely settlements, melting away into the bush if they met determined resistance.

With half the country in the north empty of all Portuguese, the rebels began to concentrate on the destruction of the economy. Their main targets were the 300 to 400 coffee plantations, which are Angola's biggest source of wealth.

Builders Want Separate Labor Relations Act

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Federation of Construction Associations has urged enactment of a separate Labor Relations Act for the Ontario construction industry, administered by one man responsible to the provincial government.

The recommendation was one of 16 in a 46-page brief submitted by J. J. Pigott, chairman of the association's special committee, to the Goldenberg royal commission on labor-management relations in the construction industry.

The brief said drastic action seems necessary because of the "deplorable occurrences during the summer of 1960 in the Toronto suburbs, and the shutdown of important public projects as the result of irresponsible picketing."

The reference was to the strike in the housing construction industry started by longgrant workers, followed by work stoppages on the Toronto subway and other projects.

CLAIMS INAPPLICABLE

Present sections of the Labor Relations Act are either inapplicable to the construction industry or require substantial modification in order to deal adequately with our problems," the brief said.

Endorsed by 31 construction organizations, the brief said the proposed administrator of a new Labor Relations Act should have specific authority to decide all jurisdictional disputes arising on construction projects."

The brief urged also that the proposed special act should prohibit picketing except in support of a strike or lockout which the administrator has permitted in a particular case as a result of failure of the parties to reach a satisfactory collective agreement.

Suggest Federal Govt. Pay to Train Doctors

By JACK BEST

HALIFAX (CP) — The royal commission on health services heard a suggestion Monday that the federal government should help foot the bill for training doctors in their pre-medical years and in medical school.

The suggestion came from the Dalhousie University medical faculty and a similar proposal was advanced by the Medical Society of Nova Scotia.

They presented briefs as the commission under Chief Justice Emmett Hall of Saskatchewan opened public sittings that will take it across the country.

The length of the medical course is considered by some to be a major obstacle to the recruitment of students, said Dalhousie. By lengthening the academic year the period before graduation could be shortened.

It might be possible to give the present four-year medical course in three calendar years and 11 months, with one month's holiday.

However, this would cut down the period during which students work to help pay for their education. At Dalhousie, an estimated 50 per cent of medical students could not continue their studies unless they had three working months each year.

SUGGESTS AID

"A system of financial support for pre-medical and medical students, adequate in amount to provide for the necessity of summer earnings, would therefore be a first requirement toward compressing the course," Dalhousie's brief said.

"This assistance would have to be of the order of $2,000 each year," Dalhousie said.

The brief noted that during the last two years Newfoundland had provided financial assistance for medical students at the rate of $1,200 a year.

The Medical Society of Nova Scotia said: "Grants to medical undergraduates will be necessary to permit them to finance the long, expensive course and to ensure sufficient recruitment of suitable medical students."

The society called for a government-subsidized medical insurance plan to raise health care standards in Canada.

General Motors Union Seeking Leave to Strike

TORONTO (CP) — Negotiations between the United Auto Workers (UAW) and General Motors of Canada collapsed after 13 minutes Monday and the union asked Labor Minister Daley to permit a strike without going to conciliation.

The union represents about 15,000 General Motors workers in Oshawa, Toronto, St. Catharines, London, Ont., and Windsor.

Conciliation officer John D. Spetzanid met union and company officials but said neither side made representation.

Provincial law calls for a union to wait seven days after the report of a conciliation board before going on strike. Appointment of a conciliation board usually takes weeks after a conciliation officer has failed to settle a dispute.

The UAW asked the conciliation officer to recommend that no board be set up as company and union positions are "too far apart."

The UAW is seeking parity between Canada and United States wages, which it claims are 40 to 70 per cents an hour apart. Also under dispute are various fringe benefits.

Modern Development Plan Changing Ancient Kingdom

By V. M. NAIR

TEZPUR, India (Reuter)—Bhutan, the once-forbidden kingdom in the eastern Himalayas, is to be ushered gradually into the modern era by means of an ambitious development program during the next five years.

By 1966, the kingdom is due to awaken from its centuries-old slumber of primitive backwardness through a series of economic reforms aimed at raising the living standards of its 800,000 inhabitants.

New roads will wind through the placid pastures and pine-forested mountain slopes of the 18,000 - square mile kingdom where no wheeled vehicle has ever been seen until now.

New factories will rise in the valleys, side by side with the towering dzongs (forts) and their fluttering Buddhist prayer flags.

NEW SCHOOLS

Students in colorful traditional dress will study in newly-built schools instead of the monastic seminaries rooms of monasteries. Modern hospitals will provide relief for the herbs which are used to suffer silently, praying to Buddha or to a divine cure for their ailments.

To achieve all this, 175,000,000 rupees, about $37,000,000 will be spent in the next five years. The entire bill will be met out of grants from India, which for this itself has little resources to finance the plan.

Experts and officials from India will be primarily responsible for the successful implementation of the plan. But the final approval of any project will rest with the Indian government.

The bulk of the Bhutanese are Buddhists, religiously linked to Tibet. But they have never welcomed foreign influence and have traditionally discouraged all foreign visitors to their land.

LIVE PLACIDLY

Recent political developments have brought home to the rulers of Bhutan, however, the need to change their policy of isolation. Tibet now is under complete control of Communist China, and Peking has not concealed its claim to Bhutan.

Bhutan is linked to India by special treaty and New Delhi recognizes the kingdom as a sovereign independent state.

Ranger Harvey Helps Hogtie Hawks

Breaks Tie In 4-2 Win

By LAURENT CHIARSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Doug Harvey's reputation as a playing-coach is shining in New York.

Doug, possibly the best defenceman to don a National Hockey League uniform in the post-war era, has the Rangers winning consistently — something no other coach was able to do in recent seasons.

Harvey is not confining his efforts to the bench. The Rangers were trailing 2-1 at Chicago Tuesday night in the league's only scheduled game when Harvey helped set up Vic Hadfield for the tying goal, then rifled home the tie-breaker himself en route to a 4-2 victory.

For the Black Hawks, off to a miserable start after winning their first Stanley Cup in 23 years last spring, the loss kept them in a four-billet deadlock with Detroit Red Wings. Chicago has won only once in 10 games — tying three others and losing four.

WEED ROAD VICTORIES

The victory was a big one for the blueshirts, who, according to Harvey, must get some points on the road this season if they are to reach the playoffs after a three-year drought.

So far the Rangers have won three, lost two and tied one on the road — matching their performance at home.

New York, evicted from Madison Square Garden by the U.S. National Horse Show, must play two more games on the road this week — at Detroit Thursday and Montreal Saturday.

Less than two minutes later, Harvey and his defence mate Al Langlois set up Hadfield for his first NHL goal. Then Harvey beat Chicago goalie Glenn Hall for the winning goal while Hawks defenceman Elmer Vasko was serving a penalty.

The Canadiens, off to their best start in 18 seasons, are at Toronto tonight for their first meeting with the Maple Leafs this year.

Beavers Six Points Up In EPL

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Full team or not, Kitchener-Waterloo Beavers are something to contend with in the Eastern Professional Hockey League.

The Beavers were short two regulars Tuesday night but trounced their nearest EPHL opposition, Kingston Frontenacs, 6-1 to take a six-point lead over the second-place Frontenacs before 1,317 Kitchener fans.

Both teams were scoreless in the first period as Kitchener had trouble unleashing. The Beavers led 2-1 after the second period and completely dominated the third, outshooting the Frontenacs 16-5.

Kingston got four of the five minor penalties called in the game.

Beliveau Comeback Indefinite

MONTREAL (CP) — Centre Jean Beliveau, his right knee still in a cast, says he has no idea when he'll be able to return to action with the high-flying Montreal Canadiens.

Beliveau suffered partially severed tendons in his knee at th Canadiens' pre-season training camp in Victoria and has been toting a cast around ever since.

Beliveau is able to remove the present cast two or three times a day for exercises. If all goes well, it'll be removed for good by early next week.

If the knee responds to exercises and treatments, he could be back in the lineup before the end of November.

Three Marks For Wings

TORONTO (CP)—Hamilton's undefeated Red Wings hold down the top spot in three departments in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A Series — to the surprise of no one.

The Red Wings were tabbed as the team to beat and so far have made the experts look good.

Hamilton leads the standings and Lowell Macdonald of the Wings paces the scoring parade with four goals and four assists for eight points. Ham'ton's Buddy Bloom leads the league's netminders with nine goals against him for an average of three per game.

Statistics including Saturday night's game show Bill Knibbs and Howie Menard, both of Niagara Falls Flyers, tied for second place in the scoring race, with five points. Menard has two goals and three assists and Knibbs one goal and four assists.

Five players each have four points — Ray Cullen of St. Catharines Teepees, Bill Glashan of the Flyers, Borden Smith of Guelph Royals and Pit Martin and Bob Henderson of the Wings.

Larson, Simmons
Good Hit, Not Much Pitch

NEW YORK (AP)—Don Larsen of Chicago White Sox and Curt Simmons of St. Louis Cardinals topped the major league pitchers in batting during the 1961 baseball season.

Larsen, who started the campaign with Kansas City Athletics, led the American League hurlers at bat with a .321 average, statistics compiled by The Associated Press showed today. The big righthanded swinger collected 18 hits in 45 at bats.

Simmons, a southpaw hitter, batted .300 in pacing National League pitchers. He gathered 30 hits in 66 trips.

Only two of Larsen's hits were for extra bases, but they were both home runs. One was a three-bagger, the only one by such a pitcher in the majors. Larsen also batted in eight runs.

Simmons, a .213 batsman a year ago, produced three extra-base hits, all doubles. He had six runs batted in.

Kansas City's Joe Nuxhall ranked second in the American League with a .292 average on 19 for 65. Ray Sadecki of St. Louis was runner-up to Simmons with a .253 average, going 22 for 87.

Milwaukee's Warren Spahn finished sixth at .222. The stylish southpaw accounted for seven doubles and four homers among his 15 hits. He boosted his lifetime home run output to 90, tops in the National League.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

They tell me a cat has straight-ahead vision, like the headlights of an automobile. Place a filleted mouse one inch off the line of vision and the family Felix would miss a tasty snack unless someone shifted his eyesight gear.

Not so with Andrew James Bathgate, 29 years old last August and the current scoring leader of the National Hockey League. And* is one of those rare persons who has lateral vision to an unusual degree.

A hockey star who began playing when he was seven in his native Windsor, Ont., Andy thinks he has always had this gift. He has never worn glasses, doesn't smoke and doesn't drink.

"If I'm standing at centre ice and there are players at the boards on either side, ten or fifteen feet back from me, I can see them," he says. "In a game I always try to keep track of where the other players are and where the puck is. Usually I manage to keep a pretty fair picture in mind."

Bathgate, captain of the New York Rangers says his eyes have never been clinically tested to determine the extent of his perception to the side. On off season he runs a golf-range out west while he decries his ability as a golfer he admits he once shot a 87. He likes hunting and calls himself a fair rifle shot.

And has Bathgate has some "eye advice" for hockey youngsters. Table tennis, he says is a great thing for sharpening the eyes. "We had a table in training camp and we all played it a lot. Your eye has to be so quick and your reflexes so automatic that it develops the same kind of co-ordination you need for hockey. I'd like to see a table available for use all year round."

And the Blues' new playing coach, Doug Harvey agrees. The former Canadiens' great defence star says "That's it. Sharpness of vision means little unless a man has the reflexes to act on what he sees. Bathgate seems able to sense what's going on behind him. He plays a hunch game and that's why he grasps so much of the action. The heads-down player who's always plowing along the ice misses most of it."

Bathgate can see the sticks of his wingmen and not the players when he is sweeping down ice. "It is easy for me to pass to them because they keep their sticks on the ice. I don't watch them, I watch the sticks and the sticks tell me where they want the puck."

Alf Pike who coached the Rangers last year used to scold Bathgate for using the stiff-armed slap-shot, regarded as harder to control than the customary wrist shot. Harvey has encouraged Bathgate to use the slap, believing Andy controls it better than most players.

Bathgate made the National Hockey League all-star team at right wing in the 1958-59 season. He won the Hart Trophy as the league's most valuable player that season. For the three years from 1956 through 1958 he won the New York West Side Association award as the Rangers' most valuable player.

He holds the Rangers record of 40 goals scored for one season set in 1958-59 and set a career scoring record for his club last year with 419 points. Of Scottish descent Andy stands six feet and weighs 175 pounds.

After 22 years of playing hockey and six full seasons with the Broadway Blues Bathgate has an easy explanation for his success. "If you do it long enough," he says, "that's your business."

Wolves Get MacDonald

DETROIT (CP)—Left winger Parker MacDonald of Detroit Red Wings has been sent to Sudbury of the Eastern Professional Hockey League, it was announced Tuesday. He will join the team Friday.

MacDonald had only one assist in nine games with the Wings this season. Last season he scored 14 goals and picked up 32 assists in 70 games.

Top Spot Race Close In AHL

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The way the talent seems to be spread throughout the American Hockey League this season, it's a good thing the league has been split into eastern and western division. Otherwise, there would be a five-way tie for first place in the east's tough league.

Providence Reds, with a 4-3 overtime victory over Quebec Aces in the only game Tuesday night, became the fifth team in the league to accumulate 10 points.

With their fifth victory in eight starts, the Reds moved into a three-way tie for first place in the eastern division with Springfield Indians and Hershey Bears. Buffalo Bisons and Rochester Americans are deadlocked for first place in the west, with Cleveland Barons just a step behind with eight points.

Defenceman Matt Ravlich scored the goal that beat Quebec Tuesday night, getting it at 2:42 of overtime on a power play with Quebec's Jean Marie Bette sitting out a cross-checking penalty.

Two games are scheduled tonight—Cleveland at Hershey and Springfield at Pittsburgh.

FRASER TENNIS KING

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Former Wimbledon champion Neale Fraser successfully came through the first real test of the injured knee that sideline him from tournament tennis recently.

Fraser, operated on in August for bursitis in the left knee, played an exhibition doubles match Tuesday night with his brother, John, and suffered no ill effect. He had a two-hour workout earlier with professional star Frank Sedgman, followed by a strenuous session in the gym.

He will play in the Queensland championships next week.

National League Proxy

Giles Marks 10 Years

CINCINNATI (AP) — "Mr. Crosley has very considerately made it possible for me to accept, and I feel honored and am happy to accept."

That was part of the wire completing the agreement that put Warren Giles in the presidency of the National League 10 years ago.

It was the turning point after bitter disappointment for the man who had just given up his chance at baseball's biggest job.

Tuesday was the 10th anniversary of Giles's presidency and his 25th year as a major league executive.

But he wasn't in his office of polished mahogany and deep leather club chairs for any celebration. He was in New York to help iron out a dispute between the league's new Houston, Tex., team, due to field a squad next spring, and the American Association which operates Houston.

Giles also put the finishing touches on a series of combinations but couldn't lend a heavy blow.

Caldwell Wins Over Halimi

LONDON (AP) — Johnny Caldwell of Ireland retained his European version of the world bantamweight boxing championship Tuesday night by outpointing Alphonse Halimi of France in a 15-round bout.

Caldwell weighed 117, Halimi 117 1-2.

The victory is expected to earn Caldwell a shot at Brazilian Eder Jofre, recognized as world champion by the U.S. National Boxing Association.

It was Caldwell's 25th victory in an unbeaten career as a professional. Halimi now has lost five times in 40 fights.

There were no knockdowns in a fight in which both men threw a lot of punches but seemed unable to hurt each other.

Caldwell rocked Halimi with a right in the seventh and sent him to the ropes with four hard rights to the head. In the 11th Halimi got home a solid left hook to the jaw and punished the champion at close quarters. In the 12th, he had Caldwell in trouble with a series of combinations but couldn't land a heavy blow.

Networks Pursue Different Policies in Handling News

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The three U.S. television networks seem to be pursuing different policies in their handling of news.

Now that Howard K. Smith is leaving his network to "a difference in interpretation of CBS news policy," there remains only one newscaster in the organization dedicated to deep thinking.

That is Eric Sevareid, who has been with CBS for years, was considered the No. 2 newsman in the days of Edward R. Murrow, and was the logical person to take his place. Instead, Sevareid spent some time quietly in London, and since his return has been seen scarcely at all by the living room viewers.

Walter Cronkite now has moved into the No. 1 spot, and for the last year or more has picked up all the assignment plums. Like Douglas Edwards, another CBS veteran, Cronkite rarely strikes out in sharp commentary, preferring the strict role of observer and narrator.

CURRENT POLICY

Smith's departure indicates that policy at CBS currently tends toward straight news reporting and middle-of-the-road interpretation.

Meanwhile, NBC seems to be encouraging its newscasters, particularly its valuable pair of Huntley and David Brinkley, to express themselves freely on issues of the day. So far, the NBC policy seems to be working out, for they now are conceded to be the No. 1 network in news coverage.

Meanwhile, ABC is working with Vice-President James Hagerty's experiment of turning reporters into newscasters and vice versa. The idea is to have the same man cover the story and tell it on the air.

To this bystander it would appear that Smith could neatly fit into Hagerty's expanding staff which is long on veteran newspaper reporters but short on broadcasters with personality and broadcasting experience. Some of the recent additions to the ABC staff may know how to cover stories, but they are stiff and nervous before the cameras and read their teleprompter lines healtlingly and without expression.

Royals Beaten

Red Wings Blank Petes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Last year's leaders in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A Series continue on hard times while the new league stars move higher than ever.

Hamilton Red Wings shut out Peterborough Petes 6-0 Tuesday night for their fourth win in as many games in the young season, giving them a five-point lead atop the standings.

Guelph Royals, the defending champs, took their third straight loss — a 7-5 decision by Niagara Falls as Howie Dietrich scored five goals for the Flyers. Montreal Canadiens downed St. Catharines Teepees 4-0 for their first win in three games.

In Peterborough, the Red Wings wasted no time, getting four goals in the first period and added one to each of the others. Their scoring was shared by Bob Dean, Wayne Ritzer, Ron Hamilton, Lowell MacDonald, Pit Martin and Bob Wall.

Dietrich got his first goal in Guelph at the 35-second mark and added two others in less than seven minutes. He got single markers in the second and third periods.

Bill Krebs and Ron Schock tallied the other Flyers goals. Guelph got a two-goal performance from Borden Smith and single from Don Blackstock, Leo Martell and George Standing.

Montreal also took an early lead in St. Catharines, notching three of its four goals in the first period. Henri Richer scored twice and Yvan Cournoyer and Norm Dennis one each. Veteran John Brenneman took a rebound in the first period and scored St. Catharines' only goal.

Sport Snapshots

By TOM WILLIAMS

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Amateur Athletic Union of Canada almost coms out of its rulesmaking shell and starts crunching, says Malcolm (Mac) Makay, recently elected president of the Manitoba branch.

"Amateur sport needs a good promotion job," he said in an interview. "We all know the main problem is lack of dollars. But we can cry all we want about no money—the situation won't get better unless we do something about it."

The AAU is the governing body of socalled international amateur sports in Canada — track and field, wrestling, boxing, gymnastics, weightlifting and fencing. At present its role is chiefly setting and interpreting rules, certifying records and making awards.

Murray says this kind of leadership isn't enough. The authority and prestige of the AAU had been dwindling fairly steadily, as evidenced by the withdrawal from its ranks of such sports as hockey, swimming, basketball and speedskating.

RUSSIANS COMING

His specific proposal is that the AAU form a centralized committee to direct promotion of amateur sport. His limited, initial promotion will be made to the AAU executive at the body's annual convention in Edmonton Nov. 24.

The first test of the idea could come early as next February, when the Russian gymnastics team tours Canada.

"This would be a golden opportunity for the AAU to do a solid promotion job — and to obtain financial benefit from it," Murray said. "The Russian gymnasts are rated among the best in the world and with the right promotion, the tour could be a box-office success."

Murray suggested that the AAU also is a logical body to advise the federal government in the distribution of a $5,000,000 annual grant for the development of amateur sport, announced earlier this year by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

"Some of this money could be used to send Canadian athletes abroad for intensive, expert training — and some could be used to bring top foreign athletes here to help promote the sports."

Murray said he is convinced interest in the amateur games would develop with proper promotion. His confidence is based on the success of the Manitoba branch's development of an annual indoor track and field meet here.

LEGION HELPED

"We were faced with a lack of money at first, but we talked to the Royal Canadian Legion people and they went on the hook for $10,000 to get the thing started.

"It took two years to get the money back, but it worked and now is operating on a sound financial basis. Five years ago an amateur group would have turned and run away from a proposition like that big."

The key to success, he said, was the importing of top United States and other foreign track and field stars to compete with Canada's leading athletes.

"Then you have to start heading the drums at least three months ahead of time—not just the week before the event — pointing out the calibre of the athletes involved and the possibility of record-breaking performances."

He said part of the reason for amateur sport's shaky state of health has been the tendency of newspapers and other publicity media to glamorize professional sports.

"We amateurs get fair cooperation, but we often find ourselves in the position of having to write our own stories and submit them to the papers because they have time to cover only pros.

"This is no reason for not telling our story, of course. We have to have the courage to promote our product if we believe in it."

Marlon Brando Not Happy With Mutiny on the Bounty

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Mutiny on the Bounty is scheduled to finish shooting today. Thus will end what Marlon Brando calls "the worst experience of my acting career."

Except that it won't be the end. He has been told the company will take off two weeks while the finished product is assembled, then shoot added scenes which will take "between three and six weeks." Brando fears it might be months.

The actor was in eloquent form when I visited his dressing room. He had been on the set since nine and was being dismissed for lunch without having worked.

"Yesterday I was here at nine and we got the first shot at three," he said. "That's the way this picture has gone."

"Yes, I know some people will crack, 'Well, what's he got to bleed about? He's getting well paid' ($5,000 a day overtime). But after you've got enough, money doesn't matter."

BOUGHT BETTER SCRIPT

Brando said he never volunteered to forgo his salary when the film project struck a reef in Tahiti. He wanted the company to shut down until a playable script could be written. His offer was rejected.

"We went to Tahiti with no idea of how the final third of the picture was going to be. How could you write a script if you didn't know how it was going to end?

"A week ago, I decided I'd had it—plus eight. I was so frustrated, so tied up, I was getting palpitations.

"I finally went to the front office and said, 'No more shoot until I get the last 10 pages of script.' I was promised them that night or first thing in the morning. I didn't get them in the morning either. They promised them at two. The pages came at two and I asked if they would be the final, unchanged version. I was told they would be. And look." He displayed the pages, a mass of revisions.

Brando had not sounded off when Bounty's film outfit recent. printed reports portrayed him as a villain in pushing the film to a record cost (now $16,500,000).

"If I do something stupid, I expect to get rapped for it," he said. "If I give a lousy performance, I expect to get boos reviews. But I don't expect to get blamed for something I haven't done.

"I have searched my conscience to see if I could have been responsible for the chaotic history of this picture. I cannot see that I have."

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—Mystery Guest won the featured Sweepstaff Purse at Old Woodbine Park Tuesday after coming from fourth place in the final three furlongs and defeating the pace setting Blondoll by three-quarters of a length.

Chops On finished third, slightly more than a length behind the winner. Mystery Guest paid $9.50 straight and combined with Blondoll for a quinella of $91.90.

Padre's Scamp, bred and raised by Rev. J. E. Gibson, 80-year-old retired Anglican minister, defeated a field of two-year-olds in the third race. Padre's Scamp runs in the colors of F. Douglas Gibson, son of the retired minister. Fair Lodge, a three-year-old filly owned by Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Taylor, dropped dead after the running of the afternoon's feature race. Track veterinarians announced that death resulted from a heart attack. Jockey Chris Rogers had dismounted just before the filly collapsed.

By LUBE FARENELLA Jr.

They do it by building a three-bedroom house. The school sells it at a profit, then plows the money back into next year's home.

"We want to teach a trade to those students who will not go to attend college," explains building trades instructor D. A. McRae, who has headed the program since building trades were incorporated into the John Tyler High School program in 1947.

"This is a pre-apprentice program. Along with classroom instruction, we give the boys a chance to put theory to practice and teach them to get along with the people for whom they are working or will be working.

"Many of my students graduate from the course into local unions".

MAKES MONEY

Each summer before school starts, McRae purchases a lot on which his students—divided into two groups, usually 12 students to a group—can begin construction so the house will be completed in time for a spring open house.

Although the project is financed by an unlimited revolving fund provided by the Tyler public schools, "the house that students built" has always been a profit - making project, year after year.

And no wonder — when you consider what a bargain any of these three-bedroom homes is to the lucky purchasers.

Take the Early American home in antique brick that the students constructed during the 1960-61 school year on a lot 135 by 140 feet.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Spradlin, the lucky Tyler purchasers, paid $15,000 for the home that McRae estimated has a value of $17,500.

TWO BATHS

For that amount, the couple got a home with 1,600 square feet in its living area, two bathrooms, a living - dining area, panelled kitchen and den, separate utility room, a large storage area and a two-car garage. The home is centrally heated and air-conditioned and even has a fallout shelter.

The first "house that students built" in 1946 was a two-bedroom home of frame construction. Since 1954, when bricklaying became one of the skills taught, all the student - built homes have been of brick. Other trades practiced by students are cabinet work, carpentry, electrical wiring, painting, plumbing, roofing, sheetrock finishing and tiling.

Profits from the sale of a home have been used over the years to outfit the young builders in work clothes, pay their expenses to district and state vocational - agricultural club meetings and purchase new equipment, such as a truck used to transport teacher and students to and from building site.

More Than 100 Dead In Wake Of Hurricane

Thousands Homeless, Big Property Damage

BELIZE, British Honduras (AP)—Rescue workers counted more than 100 dead and thousands homeless today in shattered Central American coastal towns ravaged by hurricane Hattie. The death toll was expected to rise higher.

Officials were unable to estimate the number of injured by the hurricane that roared across this British colonial capital early Tuesday with tidal waves and winds up to 200 miles an hour.

Hattie destroyed or damaged an estimated 75 per cent of the buildings in Belize, a sea-level port of 31,000 which had little or no seawall protection.

The death list included 40 at Belize; 25 at Stan Creek, the second largest town; 20 at Corozal town; 20 on Turneffe Cay, and 15 at Consejo. Other parts of the British Honduras coast.

The Guatemalan government reported five killed in the jungle province of Peten which borders British Honduras. Another death was reported on Honduras' northern coast.

HATTIE BREAKS UP

The hurricane broke apart against the mountains of British Honduras and later began to recede from Belize Tuesday afternoon. With the recession came the first flurries of relief supplies and first accounts of the violence gripping the battered slammed ashore after following a meandering course across the Caribbean.

Police broke up mobs looting stores and arrested 20 persons. The acting governor of the British Honduras said there were some of the 200 prisoners released from the city jail as the hurricane approached.

The towering seas that broke over the city destroyed the prison.

Twenty - foot waves rolled through the ground floor of government House, the governor's residence and official headquarters, and washed away all records.

TOWN BELIZE

Food kitchens were set up and the distribution of medical supplies began. Belize, a town called Belize, distributing chlorinated water, the only supply in the city.

Belize is the biggest city in Britain's colony of about 91,000 Latin Americans and British Honduras. The town is a tourist beat, it depends to a great extent on its lumber and citrus trade.

Epidemics of disease were feared. Leo Loucky, health minister of health, education and housing, issued an urgent appeal for drinking water, med-

NON-OP RAIL UNIONS SEEK NEW CONTRACT

Meeting Behind Closed Doors

MONTREAL (CP) — The 105 members of the policy-making body of the non-operating railway unions step behind closed doors in a downtown hotel here today to hammer out demands for a new labor contract — demands that some British pundits lead to the threat of an economy-crippling rail strike.

The 15 CLC-affiliated unions general conference has scheduled a two-day session to decide what new wage and fringe-benefit demands they will make to seek from Canadian railways for their 110,000 members.

A strike by the non-ops—the men who are not involved in the actual operating of trains—could stop every railway in Canada except British Columbia's provincially-owned Pacific Great Eastern.

No announcement is expected from the closed, secret session until Friday when Frank Hall, 68-year-old chairman of the conference and chief negotiator for the union group, has scheduled a press conference at which he likely will outline the new demands.

The non-ops' present contract was signed one year ago today.

That agreement gave the workers a total wage increase of 14 cents an hour to an average of about $1.81 an hour.

Chrysler Strike Deadline Nears

DETROIT (AP) — With a strike deadline only 12 hours away, Chrysler Corporation and the United Auto Workers union were to try once today to wrap up a new three-year contract.

UAW President Walter Reuther and Chrysler Vice-President John Leary led their teams back to the bargaining table after reaching "tentative understanding" in a long night session on what had been a major stumbling block on wages.

As negotiators recessed at 1:15 a.m., after a session stretching 20 hours, Reuther told reporters: "We now have tentative understanding. It is a matter of working out the highly technical, complicated language."

TOMMY DOUGLAS BIDS GOODBYE TO CCF PARTY

Served 19 Years As Sask. Head

REGINA (CP)—Premier T. C. (Tommy) Douglas, stressing the present international situation in his role as a national New Democratic Party leader, said goodbye to the Saskatchewan CCF party Wednesday.

Cheered by nearly 700 provincial CCF convention delegates, Mr. Douglas made his final speech as their political leader and stepped from the rostrum to await the selection of a new leader Friday.

He served for nearly 19 years as the province's premier since June, 1944, has been premier-designate. He will resign as premier next week.

"The challenge of the times in which we live has brought about this "new movement, the New Democratic Party," he said.

He said a lack of economic growth in the world, depressed agricultural conditions and unemployment were the issues whose situation are reasons for the support of the NDP which "is sweeping the elections.

"This so-called affluent society of ours has not delivered the good life."

CRITICIZES BOTH

Mr. Douglas, a bigoted minister and former amateur boxer and apprentice printer, took swipes at the foreign policies of both Russia and the United States.

The U.S. was castigated for not giving de facto recognition to East Germany and Red China and the U.S.S.R. for conducting its present series of nuclear tests.

"We will not support a war in Berlin. We don't think it's fair for officials or East German officials who have supported Brandenburg Gate," he said.

The possibility of a rearmed and reunited Germany is viewed with great apprehension by Soviet citizens and most of the European nations," he said.

"But that doesn't recognize East Germany and Red China in "in the pathetic hope they'll go away if we pretend not to see them."

Mr. Douglas said Canada, which has no colonies and no policy of imperialism, "is uniquely fitted to be save-as-you-earn neutral nations. We should lead and accept the rule of law in the world."

On the subject of nuclear weapons in Canada, Mr. Douglas said they are not a defence, but "are a serious danger." He said an increase in the membership of the nuclear club "geometrically increases the chances of a clear war."

The seven countries that now possess nuclear arms could negotiate easier than if many became members.

The entire cabinet will resign with Mr. Douglas as premier Tuesday. The new premier, almost certain to be Provincial Treasurer Alan Blakeney, then will submit his new government to the Saskatchewan legislature for approval. Most of the present cabinet ministers are expected to receive posts again.

Old Stonebottom Hits the Skids, Molotov Now Cuts Pathetic Figure

LONDON (CP)—A few years ago hardly anyone in the West would have screamed in horror if it would be possible to feel a twinge of pity for Vyacheslav Mikhailovich Molotov.

An inflexible, thorough-going Stalinist in his 50s, Molotov became a symbol of all that was worst in Stalinism during the early post-war years. As foreign minister, he was Russia's abominable "no-man" and spokesman of a Berlin policy summed up in the monosyllable "Nyet."

In United Nations circles, he was called the cold Old Stone-bottom because of his rigid, unbending position.

Then came the break with Nikita Khrushchev and Molotov was shunted off to Vienna and a humiliatingly minor post in the International Atomic Energy Commission, where he is junior in rank to the Canadian representative, Kisa Wershof.

Khrushchev snubbed Molotov when the two met briefly during the summit conference between Khrushchev and President Kennedy in Vienna last May.

Now, linked by Khrushchev with the blood purges and other excesses of the Stalinist era, Molotov is in seclusion in his stone-fronted apartment in Vienna. Demands for his punishment are said to be growing in Moscow. His enemies can be imagined. His disgrace, and the possible severe humiliations that may be in store, must be harsh blows to the shipwrecked son who took the name of Pure Marxist revolutionary riots as long ago as 1921.

Once he was deported to Volgograd on the Volga, however, he came back to be an important figure in communism's climb to power.

He is 71 now, erect but bright-looking. There is no sign of the ice-cold diplomat of yesteryear. To three correspondents who met him on a recent visit to Vienna last May, he seemed a slightly pathetic figure.

British Immigration Curbs To Apply Only to Unskilled

LONDON (CP)—The government's bill to curb immigration from other Commonwealth countries would, in general, affect mainly unskilled workers in a few occupations.

The proportion of immigrants from such developed countries as Canada to the United Kingdom is small. And most of these are skilled or have a job to come to and thus would not be covered by the quota system provided in the bill presented to the House of Commons Wednesday.

The quota system would not apply to persons born in the U.K., those holding British passports, those who have a definite job to come to or those classed as skilled or professional workers.

Students studying here and tourists also could enter freely. It is those particularly unskilled and no guaranteed job to come to who would be restricted by the quota agreement. At the present this class of immigrant is now is flooding into Britain mostly from The West Indies, India and Pakistan, although the government of Prime Minister Macmillan is at pains to emphasize that quota will not be operated on the basis of color.

The law will be administered by the home office with co-operation from the labor department which will advise on labor requirements.

Persons wanting to immigrate to Britain would seek a voucher from the country they left. In that country, immigrants would then be accepted on a "first-come, first-served basis," an official source said, according to regulations laid down by the labor.

A total quota would apply to all Commonwealth countries without specific figures being set for each country.

The plan would call all Commonwealth governments were consulted on the proposed bill and their copies prior to its introduction.

Many Recommendations To Be Made in Session

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker told a press conference Wednesday he intends to open the next session before Christmas

He said the Commons will be asked to deal with recommendations of Mr. Justice O'Leary royal commission on publications, Senate reform, legislation to require registered companies to run p.ins, and unless to disclose their business interests in Canada, employment, and the MacPherson royal commission report on transport. He said it is hoped the report is made public in time.

Mr. Diefenbaker gave no date for the next session "opening has about been determined" but he said it probably will not be made "for some little time."

The prime minister said consideration would be given during the next session to the in the Dorion commission report.

Other measures to encourage Canadian periodical publications, but said further details could not be made public until the House meets.

He also said careful examination was being made of immigration department regulations.

He repeated what he has hinted in saying there would be a revision of the immigration Act during the coming session.

"I expect that shortly there will be an announcement in that with regard to regulations which will to a considerable extent determine the application of the act itself."

He said that of the 62 orders, takings made by the government in the 1957 and 1958 elections, 'only one' of the 62 has been carried out."

On the question of redistribution, —redrawing the boundaries of federal constituencies on the basis of population shifts shown in the 1961 census—would have to be carried out before the census figures were complete.

The Unborn Generation

Radioactive Fallout of Blasts Could Cause Genetic Harm

The radioactive fallout might doom hundreds or even thousands of future children to suffer over a number of future generations — to early death or physical, mental or hereditary damage.

Almost all geneticists assume that any increase in radiation could cause genetic damage to future children.

Most think the effect from present fallout—and that added by the Soviets — will be a very slight fraction of over-per-one increase in the number of children now born with genetic defects. The increase could be so slight as not to be detectable.

But with 100,000,000 children in the world each year, even a slight increase in the number of defective babies would mean sizable numbers of damaged or stillborn humans in 50 or 100 years.

Dr. Linus Pauling, famous chemist, biologist, crusader against bomb testing, does not.

From a 50 - megaton bomb 40,000 children born with physical or mental defects in the next 6,000 years throughout the world, he says. And 400,000 more genetically injured during the next 6,000 years through radioactive Carbon-14 created by such a bomb.

The difficulty in any estimate is that some crucial facts are not known about human genes, produced in the sex glands, by radiation. Scientists inherited characteristics that babies will have.

It is known that radiation can alter or mutate genes, and that most mutations are harmful.

It is not known if genes can resist tiny amounts of radiation for long periods without mutations which enter sex glands of people.

All the evidence from experiments with animals, fruit flies, and from bomb victims is there is no threshold or tolerable level.

One encouraging note, from mouse experiments, is that genetic exposure to a low dose of radiation (10 roentgens a day) given over a number of days causes less genetic damage than an equal total dose given all at once. Doctors advise irradiated glands to fallout stores can be chronic or long - lasting, and from almost infinitely small dose.

Many experts assume that natural background radiation has always been causing some of the genetic mutations which the human race is suffering from, and that even a few more powerful causes of genetic damage.

A National Academy of Sciences committee has estimated that between 5,000 and 50,000 born in the world during the next 30 years, and that about 4,000,000 of them would possess tangible genetic effects from fallout or other radiation sources.

Different authorities estimate from 5 to 10 per cent of such genetic defects might be due to natural background radiation.

So, even a slight increase in radioactivity produced by bomb tests could increase the rate of genetic mutations. The experts all agree the increase would not be enough to cause any worry about the future of the human race, by any means.

NEED SACRIFICES TO USE TRADE OPPORTUNITIES

- - Diefenbaker Gives CBC Talk On Japan Visit

OTTAWA (CP) — Harvesting world trade opportunities will involve sacrifices, Prime Minister Diefenbaker told a CBC broadcast Wednesday night in a nationally-televised CBC talk following his recent trip to Japan.

The opportunities are tremendous in Japan and other Asian countries but "it will demand greater productivity at home."

"It will mean new ideas and new means of co-operation between all members of the team — capital, management, labor and government, at all levels," he said on the free-time political broadcast, the Nation's Business.

Trade, productivity and the international situation as colored by Soviet nuclear testing were covered.

CABINET MEETS

Mr. Diefenbaker went into a second round of cabinet and other meetings. He said Wednesday night that no announcements would be coming today.

A key decision to be made concerns the starting date of the next—and probably last—session of the current Parliament.

"As a world trader, Canada must be concerned with trade opportunities everywhere and Japan and other Asian countries offer great possibilities," he said Wednesday night.

Canada had to buy from Japan because that country was her second-best customer, Mr. Diefenbaker said he has good reason to believe now Japanese exports to this country would expand in orderly fashion—through voluntary quotas by exporting companies.

The Japanese textile mills he had seen were impressive by any standard and while Canada's textile industry must just as modern and efficient, Canadian labor costs were higher.

SEE EYE TO EYE

Mr. Diefenbaker reiterated that Japan and Canada "see eye to eye in the opposition mounted against Soviet nuclear testing.

"I have received from Canada from Japan—the only nation in the world which has experienced the full horror of atomic warfare—with renewed determination to work with others in this critical field devotion to the greatest of all national tasks and the eventual banning of the bomb, total disarmament and the rule of world law under the United Nations.

Perhaps the massive United Nations support for the resolutions sponsored or co-sponsored by Canada urging world-wide scientific measurement of radiation and asking Russia not to explode more nuclear weapons to prove to be turning points in history leading to an end once and for the arms race, he said.

Experiments With Chimpanzee Raise Doubts on Neutron Bomb

WASHINGTON (CP)—Experiments with a chimpanzee have raised doubts about the tactical value of a so - called "death ray" neutron bomb now reported to be getting high priority in U.S. government nuclear weapons research.

Dr. Ralph E. Lapp, a nuclear scientist and former consultant to the U.S. defence department, said experiments have shown it would take 10,000 rems—a unit of radiation—to kill a chimpanzee in one hour. The biologist, Lapp said, died in a few days. It ered somewhat similar to that of man.

The neutron bomb, under its latest conception, might bombard the enemy with a field with about 500 rems in a radius of a mile or so if the bomb was detonated at a height of about 1,000 feet, Lapp estimated in an interview.

All these figures are tentative because the bomb's not built — at present, Lapp said. But one has ever built the bomb and no one has yet invented the small chemical trigger that would be required to explode the weapon.

"With a dosage of 500 rems, it would take several weeks for about one-half the people in the largest area inside the military effective," Lapp said.

Lapp, now an official of a science corporation, said that despite all the talk of a silent bomb that kills people and leaving buildings intact, the neutron bomb would cause substantial blast effect. But if it was exploded high enough, say at 1,000 feet, "it would level any structures undamaged.

"But we have to have the intensity of neutrons to destroy living things in shorter periods, the detonation would have to be brought closer to the ground. The blast effect then would destroy structures and reduce tactical advantages."

Lapp said the neutron bomb —which in theory would produce a burst of intense radia-

Wildly Received By Population Says Mobutu

Offensive Aimed to End Secession of Katanga

LEOPOLDVILLE—Gen. Joseph Mobutu said today troops of the central Congo government have moved along a river front more than 35 miles into North Katanga province in a general offensive to end the long-standing secession proclaimed by President Moise Tshombe of Katanga.

Occupying villages and mission stations as they march, Mobutu said his troops have been joyously received by the North Katanga population.

The beaming army commander-in-chief told reporters flagged of the central government are being gathered along the route from Kasai province into northwestern Katanga.

The inhabitants and villagers are rushing out to greet us. They bring us food and candy," he said.

GIVES ORDERS

Mobutu said he had given the order for the offensive after his troops along the Katanga border had been bombed by Katanga planes.

Troops under the control of President Albert Kalonji of South Kasai province had shot down one of the Katanga planes, a de Havilland Dove, at Luiku, Mobutu said.

He said it was occupied by five white mercenaries in mufti. Two were killed in the crash and "the others were finished off" by the soldiers.

Mobutu said the purpose of the offensive was "to end the secession of Katanga."

He said Congolese troops brought to Kasai from various garrisons had attacked only after the "Katanganese provocation" of mortar fire across the frontier and after a bombing raid.

EXCEED ESTIMATE

The troops far exceeded the 12 - kilometre penetration set by Katanga Foreign Minister Evariste Kimba but Mobutu declined to give any precise estimate of their strength.

The Kasai army was commanded by Negro officers. There were only two or three white officers with the troops. There is in all of Africa a purely African army," he said in French.

His troops included 4,000 men of the former Force Publique. They have organized into 12 battalions after Congolese independence, Mobutu said.

Mobutu said Congolese troops are under the command of Gen. Victor Lundula had also been flown from Bukavu, the capital of Oriental province in the northeast, to Kindu, in the province, which borders Katanga.

They were entering Katanga from the north. The main region in the north of Katanga the Congolese border is friendly to us," he added.

Nurses Hear Talk on 'Advances In Obstetrics' at B.G.H.

The first of five lectures in the fall session of Nursing Education was held at the Belleville General Hospital Education Hall, last evening. The topic of "Recent Advances in Obstetrics" was clearly and concisely given by Dr. James R Birchard, M.D., F.R.C.S.

Miss Margaret Hicks, president of the Belleville Community Nursing Registry, welcomed all those present. Mrs. Joan Young, chairman of the Nursing Registry, welcomed and introduced the guest speaker.

The well-attended audience listened with interest as Dr. Birchard enlarged upon the improvement of maternal mortality rate, and the prevention of prenatal death.

DECREASE IN MOTHERS' DEATHS

The decrease in the mothers' deaths during pregnancy or three months after delivery, has dropped from 100 per 10,000 live births in 1900, to 4 per 10,000 live births in 1960. He stated that the causes of maternal mortality were hemorrhage (30 per cent of total), toxemia (20 per cent), infections (15 per cent), heart disease (10 per cent), and anesthesia (5 per cent).

He mentioned that the vague term of "Natural Child Birth," should be called "Childbirth Without Fear". The women who have been trained to relax and co-operate during labor usually do well. Education of the mother is high on the list for reduction of maternal mortality.

The Gynecologist also discussed the causes of death in babies during pregnancy up to one month following birth. These causes are prematurity (66 per cent overall), anoxia (20 per cent) prior and during labor and during delivery; congenital abormality (10 per cent) and erythroblastosis (4 per cent).

ABNORMALITIES

Dr. Birchard stated that congenital abormalities are still high in deliveries. They are caused by agent, acting on the interuterine fetus such as radiation, some hormones, disease by the mother, and by some viruses. They are also caused by genetic factors.

The doctor made mention of the present-day fear of radiation from peace-time bombs testing. He stated that the present thought is that no change in the rate of congenital abnormalities has been discerned so far, but has no idea what the future holds.

The disease of the newborn by incompatibility between the baby's and the mother's blood is checked by early exchange transfusion of the baby's blood.

OBSTETRIC'S FUTURE

Regarding the future of obstetrics, Dr. Birchard stated that 50 per cent of the maternal deaths could be prevented. However, the improvement in perinatal mortality is not as good due to insufficient understanding of the causes of congenital abormalities. The future trend therefore lies in this direction of research.

The lecture was thanked by Mrs. R. Tolsdorf.

These Nursing Education lectures are sponsored by the Community Nursing Registry, every Wednesday during November, this week the lectures will be Mrs. Brown, B.G.H. Physiotherapist and Mrs. L. Fortin, B.G.H. Pharmacist.

Any nurse interested is urged to attend.

EXPERIMENTS

tion by high-speed, deep - penetrating projectiles — was considered by military scientists as having a distinct advantage for use on battlefields where by means might escape the effects of existing small tactical weapons by protection in tanks, pillboxes and deep cover.

"Its advantages would be in killing off soldiers on the battlefield who might otherwise find protection against existing weapons, without destroying the tanks and other equipment on the field."

Moving at about the speed of light, the fast neutrons let loose by the neutron flash would penetrate thick layers of steel, cement and other cover; would pass through human bodies crippling or killing body cells and then would penetrate deep into the ground leaving the area surface relatively free of radioactive contamination for occupying troops.

Druggists Hear Merchandising Talk at Banquet

The members of the Quinte District Pharmacists Association were hosts to a number of distinguished guests at their semi-annual meeting held in the Quinte Room of the Belleview restaurant on Wednesday evening chaired by Gardiner Duff, president of the group. The district includes an area from Deseronto to Colborne, Prince Edward County, Tweed, Marmora, Madoc, Frankford, Campbellford and Bancroft, and about 35 members were present.

A delicious turkey dinner was provided by the hosts, while the dinners were delightfully entertained by the piano numbers of Jimmy Corradi. Favors were presented by the Shulton Company of Canada of which George N. Thomson is general manager and a visitor to this city on many occasions in the past few days. Other guests were Ray Harman, also of the Shulton Company, Tom Greenfield, Smith and Nephew Ltd., OCP, Pete Fairley, field extensive representative for the Harry C. Tate, district inspector Lloyd Mr. Greenfield, Tom Ross, representative of the Canadian Pharmacist Association; Harold Smith, secretary of the Ontario Retail Pharmacy Association; Gib Miller, district representative for the Lambert Pharmacal Co., and Andy Miller, president of the Kingston Association of Pharmacists.

Winners of the various draws were Clarke Nelson, Jimmy Corradi, Pete Fairley and Bruce Lattimer, while boxes of Chelsea were chosen at random by Frank Pillon of Trenton to Messrs. Thomson, Ross, Greenfield, Smith and Harman. Also presented was a bursary to Paul Thomson of Madoc and this was accepted by Tom Ross on behalf of the boy during the assembly on the trade, receiving particularly to their own field and some useful information was passed on to the local druggists.

The speaker of the evening, Mr. Thomson, was presented by Harold Nelson and the thanks of the association were expressed by George Noble of Stirling.

Mr. Thomson spoke on "New Trends in Merchandising," and told of his own company being founded in 1937 by the development of American fragrance in cosmetics and stated that at the present time the company has plants in 16 countries of the world and sales agents in 58y countries.

SETS PATTERN

He stated that his company had set a pattern in Canada with respect to packaging and promotion. He traced the major developments in merchandising in the past 40 years, which included the chains and then the grocery chains and by 1950 the whole shopping trend changed with the introduction of mass merchandising, now known as discount houses.

"These houses have two basic characteristics," said the speaker; "the open and close door types." He explained that the closed door type included a membership but the speaker intimated that it would be quite easy to obtain a membership.

Speaking directly to the independent merchandiser, in this instance, the druggist, he felt they could succeed by gaining the confidence of their customers, having an expert knowledge of their products and displaying that product in the most attractive way. "By all means courtesy is your greatest promotion asset," said the speaker. "Without courtesy you might as well close up your shop and that goes not only for yourself but for every employee under you. It should be the rule of every store owner that his staff should be courteous at all time. This will be your greatest promotion for a successful business and a concluding remark.

Bruce Lattimer, a member of the Ontario College of Pharmacy council, told his listeners there was a great need for growth in pharmacy and hoped all would try to enlist one or more in entertaining employment.

A social hour closed a most interesting meeting.

Mud and debris covered the city. Boats drifted aimlessly down the Belize River or rested on their sides as if tossed there like toys.

Dazed survivors packed the streets searching for food and shelter and missing friends and relatives.

Hardly a building escaped damage in Belize. Frame houses were like matchbox edifices and others were tossed about with abandon.

Sheets of tin roofing ripped away by the storm's winds accounted for many of the deaths.

The view from a low-flying aircraft planes was one of devastation along the entire coast of British Honduras. Thousands of trees were uprooted, only a few roots and the tops of palm trees marked one submerged village. Nearly 60,000 human lives were reported destroyed on United Fruit Company lands at Valle del Una.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Western oils moved into the spotlight in trading of speculatives and industrials during moderate morning trading today.

The western oils index gained .30 to 103.70, its highest point since April, 1961, to climax the prolonged push of the last two weeks or so. Pacific Petroleum, Great Plains, Central Del Rio and Bailey Selburn A, all favorites, assisted in the rise with gains in the five to 26 cent range.

Great Plains stood out as it received a transaction of 50,000 shares at $14.50.

Industrials shared in the advance and specialties, the laggard. Algoma Steel reached yet another new high with a gain of ½ to 30.

Specialties fell behind Canadian Dyno's 90-cent rise to $8.40 on 57,600 shares. Satellite and Martin McNeely both lost a few cents, while Lake Dufault was unchanged at $3.90.

On Index, industrials rose .60 to 610.56, golds .16 to 90.77, base metals .52 to 201.15 and western oils .30 to 103.70, their highest point since April, 1961. The 11 a.m. volume was 948,000 shares compared with 942,000 at the same time Wednesday.

The senior base metals list was ahead with Ventures, Lake-rador, Noranda and Consolidated Mining and Smelting all up as much as ½.

Gold trading was light and sporadic.

Wednesday industrials took their biggest jump since Sept. 13 and specialties made sharp advances in heavy trading.

Industrials rose 3.36 to push through the elusive "600 mark" for the first time in four weeks to 600.86 and to record the largest individual rise by the 30-stock market indicator since Sept. 13 when it gained 4.54.

Volume was the largest since Oct. 12 and finished at 5,332,000 shares compared with 3,876,000 Tuesday.

The industrial rise produced a number of new highs in key blue-chipped issues—Bell Telephone, Algoma Steel and Inter-provincial Pipe Line among them.

Steels "led the way with steel company of Canada ahead $2.50 to 77¾ on a volume of 5,345 shares on today's news that net profit for the third quarter this year is more than double last year's figure.

Speculatives featured a 65-cent gain to $5.90 by Lake Dufault on a volume of 152,401 shares and a 25-cent rise by Canadian Dyno to $8.78 on 169,785 shares.

On index, base metals rose .51 to 200.53 and western oils 1.05 to 103.20. Golds fell .26 to 90.51.

Western oil trading was brisk with Hudson's Bay reaching its third new high in as many days —up ¾ to 16¾.

Special - size transactions included: 3,000 shares of consolidated Paper at $43, 2,000 of B.C. Power at 25½, 3,000 of Falconbridge at 10¾ and 3,000 of Algoma Steel at 48¾.

Around the Rings

The boys are cleaning up their curling shoe, dusting off their brooms and getting the sweater all cleaned for the coming curling season, which will open the early part of next week, possibly on Monday. It was the intention of the committee to start the season this weekend but the weatherman would not co-operate and the ice will not be ready at that time. It is expected there will be sufficient ice to paint the rings over the weekend and then all will be ready for the mixed curling spiel. It was the intention to also have a men's spiel but this may be delayed for a short time.

In order that everyone may get acquainted with the new members and renew old friendships, a social evening and dance will be held a week from Saturday night at the close of the mixed spiel. A great deal of work has been done around the clubhouse and the curlers will come into a clean, fresh-looking clubroom, the result of a big paint job. The floors have been waxed and everything put in readiness to another successful season at the roaring game.

The [illegible] opus bonspiel will be a family affair. Three curling clubs, the Quinte Curling Club, the Brockon Curling Club and the RCAF Curling Club have amalgamated their resources and energies to stage one of the biggest and best spiels ever to be held in this section of the province. The spiel will be held from January 25th to 28th inclusive and 64 rinks by invitation will be competing. There will be 16 outside rinks and 33 local rinks drawn from three clubs competing and the committee in charge, composed of members from all the clubs, have been busy for some time working out the details. Valuable prizes will be given and there will be five events with suitable trophies for each. Information will be supplied through this column as the details unfold.

Close to 120 were present to enjoy the fellowship and humour which were in abundant supply, as well as good food, at the annual banquet of the Belleville Agricultural Society held in the Kiwanis Centre yesterday evening.

The evening was given over more to jokes and stories, some quite bad, and musical entertainment than to speeches, although a few words of a serious nature were to be heard occasionally.

Carl Thompson, president of the society, summed up the 1961 Belleville Fair, which was a 5-day event, by saying that it had been a very good year for exhibitors but that next year it was hoped more visitors and spectators would be around to see these fine exhibits.

Lee Grills, MP, remarked on how the fair was a "real event in the community" and the show place for the county.

Elmer Sandercock, MLA, said that he had heard much favorable comment on the fair and felt that it must have been a good one.

Alderman Ross Bellcy, after bringing the greetings of the city, said that it was nice to see so many people from both the city and the counties working for the good of the fair.

Harry Burns, second vice-president, stated that he felt every director enjoyed working for the fair, thanks to the fine work and leadership of the president, Carl Thompson.

AWARD DIPLOMAS

During the course of the evening an Ontario Fairs Association service diploma was awarded posthumously on behalf of Roy Messervey to Mrs. Messervey by county clerk Eric Denyes. Board secretary Ben Bleecker announced that there had been an award for director Bill Slater, who was moving out of the area, but that unfortunately he was not present to receive it.

Among those speaking following the sumptuous repast provided by the members of Centre, Women's Auxiliary, were Cam Bunnett, Bob Phillips, Harleigh Hamilton, (warden of Hastings County); Harman Montgomery (warden of Prince Edward County); Jack Bush, Gordon McCubbin (district director of the Ontario Fairs Association); Jim Garbutt, Bob Burkett, Mrs. Sid Fitzgerald (director of the ladies' division for District Three); Don. Spencer and Jim Musgrove.

Also speaking or relating stories were Charles Long (reeve of Tyendinaga); Harry Pound, "Senator" Harry Rollins and Frank Murray.

Kingston Bus Firm Will End Its Contract

KINGSTON (CP)—The Kingston City Coach Company has advised city council it will terminate its contract within six months.

Mayor W. T. Mills said the city is faced with negotiating a new contract with the firm, setting up its own system or purchasing a bus service.

The bus company has operated at a deficit ever since 1951 when Kingston annexed surrounding areas.

The deficit, totalling $335,000, has been paid by the city.

This System Of Tax-Paying Sounds Good

Court of revision officials often are presented with some odd reasons from taxpayers as to why they think their assessments should be reduced, but possibly the oddest of reasons was given this year by a resident of the township of Thurlow.

The man appearing before the court of revision didn't exactly want his assessment reduced —he said he didn't think he should have to pay any taxes at all.

The man told the court he had paid his taxes in 1958 and he thought that was the end of it.

It didn't take the court of revision officials long to decide otherwise.

'Y' Basketball

Yesterday evening saw a double-header in the Belleville Basketball House League at the Belleville YMCA. The first tilt of the evening saw the Satellites top off the Globetrotters by a score of 39 to 34. Murray Swan was high point man for the winners with 16 points in his credit. Wally Clare sank 20 points for the Trotters.

The second game of the evening was a bit closer with the Celtics taking the Steelers 57 to 54. An individual scoring race seemed to be the lifeblood of the game with Terry McCabe of the Celtics netting 30 for high scoring honors and Bruce Regensburg of the Celtics and Russ Lukien and Bill Lang of the Steelers running up 26 points each.

First game:

Globetrotters — Rich Donovan, Wally Clare (20), Rick Graham (9), Don MacCormick (4), Dave Anderson (2).

Second game:

Steelers — Russ Lukien (26), Lyle Adams, Bill Lang (26), John Lane (2), Allan Mott.

New Food Store Opens in Stirling

STIRLING — One person will be greatly disappointed to miss the opening of Harold Bird's new IGA market in Stirling today. He is Harold Bird, the owner, who is recovering from illness in hospital. His son, Allan, 23, is supervising the opening and the store until Mr. Bird returns to the store about Christmas time.

With this most recent expansion, Bird's store adds 1,900 square feet, bringing it up to some 3,000 square feet of modern shopping area. In addition, back rooms and basement provide storage space, and Mr. Bird has acquired the vacant store next to his grocery market for expansion.

Mr. and Mrs. Bird moved from Belleville 12 years ago, where Mr. Bird was a bookkeeper for Ontario Hydro. They bought the grocery store owned by Berton Eggleton, and have expanded it three times since then.

Mr. Bird is an active participant in community affairs, a member of Rotary, Masonic and Odd Fellows, and an elder of St. Paul's United Church. Their second son, Douglas, 17, is attending high school.

The new Bird IGA Market will offer modern shopping facilities to residents of Stirling and district. Meat and produce departments have been greatly expanded, and a wide range of non-food products will be offered. Frozen foods will also be stocked in much greater variety. A modern new store front has been erected to connect the two former units into one market.

Letter To The Editor

Wants Stop Signs On Bridge St. East

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer

Many residents of your readers would like to ask the authorities, presumably the police to put two Stop Signs at both the intersection of Bridge Street East and Clarke and Bertram boulevards. Having occasion to go to that corner at intervals in post history, I may have to stand awaiting a safe crossing and can view the breaking of every rule in the traffic catalogue in a few minutes. Children are often at that point trying to cross. Cars have speeded past, cyclists and otherwise endangered little lives. One car in its effort to save time crossed the pavement on the wrong side of the road, at a speed which could have caused disaster if any children had been coming south on Bertram. Although I don't realized the danger of this intersection at the present time, I have been persuaded to write you owing to an incident which occurred yesterday, when a car and I stopped in the road just inching each other, without causing damage to either fortunately. It is a dangerous corner and it is only a question only a question of time before someone is killed, or seriously injured. "Stop" signs both ways on Bridge Street East would do away with most of the risk.

G. N. Thomas
306 Bridge Street East
Belleville.

Editor's Note: Belleville "stop" signs on Bertram and Clarke Boulevards at this intersection.

Two Possible Reasons Superbomb

Dr. White House statement asserts that the explosion of the gigantic Russian bomb does not affect the nuclear balance of power. There is no reason to doubt the accuracy of this observation. On the other hand, it may well be an over simplification to dismiss the test as merely a means of inciting "fright and panic." It is conceivable that a bomb of this size could serve a useful military purpose, from the Russian point of view.

U.S. experts have termed a bomb of such size wasteful, asserting that equal destruction could be obtained more economically by several bombs of a smaller size.

This reasoning appears sound, if we concede one important point—the ability to deliver these bombs accurately on a target.

But perhaps the Russians do not possess the means for such accurate delivery. Perhaps their intelligence reports indicate that the latest U.S. defensive weapons would take a heavy toll of bombers. Perhaps this has led to the conclusion that the best means of delivery would be by a ballistic missile. But perhaps their tests, including recent firings down the Pacific range, have shown that these missiles are not as accurate as claimed. Considered from the standpoint of a power unable to deliver a nuclear warhead accurately, the big bomb has certain obvious advantages. It could damage a target city even if it dropped a considerable distance from it.

There is another possible use for such a super-bomb. There has been considerable talk about the steps the U.S. has taken to preserve its striking power after a nuclear attack. Missiles have been placed underground. Given accuracy, a 50-megaton bomb might destroy underground installations which would survive a 20-megaton blast.

Or so it would seem to the layman.

Here, then, besides the inciting of fright and panic are two possible valid reasons, from the Russian military viewpoint, why Krushchev Nikita may have wanted to test such a bomb. They make sense, which the "fright and panic" theory does not, for the fear which the testing of the super-bomb has aroused throughout the world would appear to be more than offset by the resentment of this Russian test.

Richard Nixon expressed in a speech at Syracuse Monday might that Nikita Khrushchev is not a madman. If Nixon is right—and there is no reason to doubt his evaluation of the Russian leader—then there must be some sound military reason why he would flout world opinion in this manner.

A Dangerous...And Puzzling...Move

Russia has proposed—"demanded" might be a better word—a defence pact with Finland.

A quarter of a century ago, such a proposition would have had a sinister sound.

The Finns, and the neutral Swedes, apparently view the proposal in this light today. In this view may be the explanation. But whereas, in the mid-thirties, the reason for such a demand would have been obvious—the opening of Finnish territory to Red Army troops—the objective of Russian policy is not so clear today.

It is extremely difficult to see how the right to enter on Finnish territory could improve Russia's defensive position in the atomic age, when destruction will rain from the air instead of speeding forward on tank tracks.

By the same token, it is difficult to see how occupation of Finnish territory would increase Russia's offensive power.

The only possible explanation remaining would appear to be that the Kremlin leaders dream of swallowing Finland without a war, after infiltration. But to import to Europe the type of tactics used by the Chinese communists in Asia does not appear in keeping with Krushchev's policies. It would be an extremely risky business, which could easily lead to war.

The Finns, twice during the Second Great War, demonstrated their stubborn determination to govern themselves. It would not be surprising if once again they defied their gigantic neighbor. If this occurs, we shall have a second "hot spot," at least as dangerous as Berlin.

The world will anxiously await developments within the next few weeks. If the Finns resist and the Russians back down, the world will be justified in concluding that this was merely a probing operation to determine the strength of little Finland's nerves. If, on the other hand, Russia exerts such pressure that the Finns consent to such a pact, we may be in for an extremely dangerous period in which Krushchev, while talking peaceful co-existence and quarrelling with the "Stalinist" outlook of China's Mao, yet acts in the same manner as the more aggressive Chinese regime.

Niagara's Daredevils

Niagara Falls Review

A very old copy of the Review, which came to our desk recently, has many interesting people and places of bygone days. One or two of the items have to do with daredevil stunters at Niagara Falls, always a subject of interest.

Maria Spellerini was one of those who walked across the Niagara River on a tight - rope, imitating the great Blondin and others. We have never been able to learn very much about Maria, but an item in this old newspaper tells us that she was walking the gorge in 1876 near the Lower Suspension Bridge twice a week, and that she was then about twenty-five years of age. She claimed she was Spanish but some suspected she was Italian. The banks on both sides of the river were roped off for the crowd who came to watch her perform.

One day the great Spellerini was taken sick out on the middle of her rope. The crowd, though she was surely going to fall when she stopped. But she went on until she reached a spot within a few feet of the bank, when she really did start to fall. Only the quick hands of her men saved her from certain death.

Steve Peer, the local lad who was the hero of the young-sters in the days when walk ropes when he was so drunk he could hardly stand. One time he took the place of Bellini, another famous rope-walker who had gone on Buffalo on a drunk, on the day he was to perform before 10,000 thousand gathered to see him. Peer started to walk across on Bellini's rope, when the latter returned from Buffalo. He was so enraged to find Peer taking his place that he commenced to cut the cable. He had cut through all but one of the strands when he was discovered and almost lynched by the crowds. Peer continued walking on the single strand and so sure was his walk that he gained the other side in safety.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

November 2nd, 1941

Mr. Thomas Ruston, Superintendent of the Children's Aid Society, reports that two young boys at the Receiving Home ran away this morning shortly before nine o'clock. No idea as to what direction the boys took from Belleville is entertained by the authorities of the Society, and any information as to their whereabouts will be appreciated by Mr. Ruston.

The appointment of a former Stirling resident, Mr. George R. Mundy, as travelling general manager of the Santa Fe Western Railway, has been announced by the vice-president of the system. With more than forty years service with the Santa Fe Lines, the appointment did not come as a complete surprise as the Stirling man is recognized as one of the foremost operating officials in the railroad business. Mr. Mundy's father, the late Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Minchin, and is a graduate of Stirling High School, Queen's and Belleville Collegiate Institute.

A very enjoyable Hallowe'en Party was held by the members of Christ Church A.Y.P.A. in the parish hall on Wednesday evening. About fifty couples attended, and the program committee had everything well arranged. The fun started at eight o'clock, and as everyone arrived, he or she was presented with a name card in the shape of a pumpkin. The decoration committee had transformed the hall into a goblin's paradise. A witch's skeleton was hung in front of the stage while a ferocious black witch guarded the back of the hall. A large assortment of pumpkins, cornstalks, fruits and colored streamers added to the scene and three large red spot lights cast an eerie glow on the costume merrymakers.

November 2nd, 1931

The organization of citizens for unemployment civic relief has been completed and the work is now progressing in an efficient manner; all sub-committees being in action under the able relief committee and co-operating with the Women's Institute. Associations of the churches, the Salvation Army, the City Council, the Chamber of Commerce and the organizations having to do with welfare and relief. The sum of $10,000 is the objective, which is to be supplemented by grants of dollar for dollar from the governments, making $30,000 in all.

Mr. Wesley Gray, Deputy Reeve of Thurlow township, has been appointed game inspector during the hunting season in the north. The deer season opens on November 5th and continues until Nov. 20th.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

NATURE OF TRUE TOLERANCE

Before me as I write is a picture of a European village. Its streets are so different from ours. The people and the clothes they wear are like nothing we see on our familiar streets. And all this variation between two places only a few thousand miles away, and on the same planet!

Just as every finger-print is different from every other fingerprint in the world, so every individual is different from every other individual in the world. These people in a faraway village are so different from us because they were born into and grew up among scenes and customs vastly different from ours.

The word "toleration" has something of a nasty ring to it. It conveys the idea of enduring. With reference to the millions of men living in distant parts of the world, we should maintain not an attitude of painful endurance, but a friendly, cordial spirit of neighborliness and good will. We would be precisely like them if we had been born over there and they would have been precisely like us if they had been born over here. Environment has made the difference.

We are not tolerant to people of other nations, cultures, beliefs and races, but neighborly. Let us not endure them; let us appreciate the really fine people they are and stretch out the hand in brotherly welcome.

We need to do a little more thinking on this matter of "toleration" and delve down deeper into its real meaning.

Strictly Personal

Verbalization Diminishes All Doubts

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: We don't think much about a single person being "happy" or "unhappy" — but as soon as he or she marries, we see any unhappiness to the marital state, ignoring the obvious possibility that such a personality might be unhappy in any condition — single, married, divorced or widowed.

The moment a conviction is stated, it is overstated; verbalizing a belief always shaves off the mental reservations and qualifications.

The only consolation for making an embarrassing social slip is to keep in mind that 50 years hence it will provide an amusing anecdote which we can recount with laughter rather than shame; time not only heals wounds — it often transforms them into the dimmer conversation of old age.

The public fantasies of adolescents, no kind of life is "wonderful" after you get used to it.

Our social order is so hectic and demanding that it is easy than one can scarcely begin a task without feeling guilty about not having begun it sooner.

What makes so many celebrities so dreary, on the average, will have an effect on judgment and intelligence. It takes an hour and 20 minutes for all of the alcohol from one drink to leave the body.

Three drinks affect reaction time and judgment for about 4 hours.

It takes four hours for the body to dispose of that much alcohol.

Keep adding more alcohol, faster than it can be disposed of, and vision, speech and balance are affected — and in time, consciousness. Death, of course, is a possibility from too much.

The elderly person with a glass of wine, the man with his flask of whiskey, the young fellow with his bottle of beer, get approximately the same amount of alcohol. But there's a difference in the number of drinks each may have!

Now I have no quarrel with the adult or elderly person who finds relaxation in a drink in the evening. But too many teenagers don't seem to know the facts and I, for one, have seen too many tragic consequences to condone the use of alcohol without also warning that alcohol is a dangerous drug.

Taking one without disaster doesn't mean that you can take another — and another. For drinking can become a habit.

Too many families know the result of sliding into the habit.

To Your Good Health

What Happens When You Have Ethyl on Your Mind?

By Joseph C. Molner, M.D.

Today's coining isn't intended to condemn anything or anybody, but a pamphlet called "We Got Ethyl on My Mind" being distributed by the Michigan State Board of Alcoholism, provides some facts that people ought to know.

Decide for yourself, but do it on the basis of the truth.

"Ethyl" of course is ethyl (or grain) alcohol.

It's the amount of alcohol that counts, not the fluid or fluids mixed with it, and what a good many people may not realize is that a jigger of whiskey (50 per cent alcohol), an average 5½-ounce glass of wine (15 per cent) and a bottle of 4% per cent beer all contain about the same amount of alcohol.

A highball may not sting as much as a cocktail, but it has the same alcoholic content (A1 though, of course, a person can't drink a highball as quickly.)

There may be a difference in reaction depending on how fast one drinks or what he eats or does. The individual's weight and the amount of food in his stomach are factors in the rate at which the alcohol is absorbed.

But except for such modest variations, the effect of the alcohol depends on the extent to which it reaches the brain — and it will! — and the rate at which it leaves the body.

One drink, on the average, will have an effect on judgment and inhibitions. It takes an hour and 20 minutes for all of the alcohol from one drink to leave the body.

Three drinks affect reaction time and judgment for about 4 hours.

It takes four hours for the body to dispose of that much alcohol.

Keep adding more alcohol, faster than it can be disposed of, and vision, speech and balance are affected — and in time, consciousness. Death, of course, is a possibility from too much.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is the last five weeks I have had four injections for piles, but now they are beginning to protrude again. What am I to do?" — P. F. R."

The injection treatment may work in some instances, particularly whether are only one or two hemorrhoids and not too large. In my experience, hemorrhoids (or piles) usually recur and surgery is the most definite cure.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What difference is there in RH positive and RH negative blood? Can you have both? — Mrs. M.P."

It's a difference in the chemical structure of the blood. You can't have both; you have either one or the other. It's a very subtle difference, chemically but of great importance in the matter of transfusions.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of my booklet which tells what sinus trouble really is, and encouragingly offers to do something about it. For a copy write to Dr. Molner in care of The Chicago Daily News, Syndicate, P.O. Firms Teach How to Retire

St. Thomas Times-Journal

Reports abound that many U.S. firms are actually grooming their employees how to retire. In fact, of whiskey, there are courses in schools for prospective retirees, and at one spot the guidance clinics at 35 years before retirement.

Of course there are grains of good sense in this. It is well the elderly should understand the health problems, their retirement rights, the dangers of being "killed by kindness."

But shouldn't it be assumed that at 60 to 70, most people have had a lot of individual resourcefulness left in them? Don't they retire at least partly to get beyond the planner's long arm?

At that, we don't shouldn't have to ask yourself whether it fits in with your plans to take a walk in the woods.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

YOU NEVER KNOW

The impossible tasks are the ones that have never been tried. There is no person so timid than that which comes from the doing of something that you imagined you cannot do.

You never know until you try.

Seemingly mediocrity is often locked up in fear. It takes the man himself, or perhaps some suggestion from someone else to locate the door that unlocks this genius.

Many of the century's greatest fortunes resulted from simple ideas. Two notable examples were those of Ford and Woolworth.

All a man or woman has to do is to get one good idea and then multiply it.

So many people lose out by sitting still. By moving about you see what others are doing and have done. Be inspired by them and pleasing this with courage you will be able to do deeds of which you never dreamed before.

No matter how many new ideas crop up there is always an improvement that can be added.

You never know you strength until it has been put to the test. And unless you test it out on difficult things you will never be strong.

Above everything, never be satisfied. Keep thinking, aspiring and climbing higher.

Keep fit. A strong body houses the ablest mind. There must be a strong physical background for mental and spiritual growth. Be sure that the thing that you believe you can do!

3 Conditions Before Tests

New York Times

The United Nations Political Committee spoke for the overwhelming majority of the world's people when it voted, 79-10, for a Swedish-Irish appeal to the Soviet Union not to explode the monstrous superbomb Khrushchev has already unleashed. Aside from its eight votes, the Cuba — which by now seems to have become only another satellite of Moscow had no supporters in the Political Committee. Even Guinea, Ghana and Indonesia joined in the appeal.

Yet the political force of the U.N. vote was much less than it might have been, because of the parliamentarian maneuvering that went on for days, the negative influence of the final resolution which does not even contain a word of reproof for past Soviet nuclear experiments and the curious inversion of priorities displayed by some African and Asian nations in the earlier debate. Moscow, we believe, has outraged the world — regardless of political belief — far more than any of the proceedings in the U.N. would suggest.

The continuing Russian fusillade of nuclear explosions and the complete lack of reaction in the U.N. undoubtedly have helped to increase the pro-test pressure on President Kennedy to renew American testing above ground. It would certainly be fatally forced to that unhappy decision, if the verdict of the world at least three preliminary actions: a clear statement on the part of the United States are necessary, assurance that in so far as possible such tests will be conducted in outer space from which radioactive fall-out back to earth would be smallest and assurance that the United States will not be the first of the smallest possible size required to secure the needed information for our defense.

Whatever Moscow may do and whatever the final decision we decide, the clear obligation before all governments and all nations is to make every effort to end the madness that is atmospheric nuclear testing. Humanity must not continue this suicidal pollution of our planet.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Almost all our wealthy men, apart from those who inherit wealth, are successful money makers. They look at things and planted them to spring manifold in the form of money, to grow by fenced in, as cattle are fenced in the Texas plains, to breed and fatten.

But not all money breeders are wealthy. A very comfortable portion of our quiet, discreet neighbors, have found the secret, too, and they save, save, save, and rejoice in the little miracle of reproduction.

St. Thomas Guild Holds Attractive 'Golden Basket' Tea

With the weather remaining ideally suited for fall teas and bazaars, the ladies of St. Thomas' Anglican Church Parochial Guild held a "Golden Basket" tea and bazaar yesterday afternoon in the parish house. The convener for this successful event was Mrs. W. H. Anderson, with assistant convener Mrs. M. Davison, who also were responsible for the lovely decorations, along with Mrs. George Hume and Mrs. T. Wrenshall.

The tea room on the main floor was appropriately decorated in keeping with the golden color scheme, with autumn blooms and colorful potted plants. Upon entering the hall the many patrons were entranced with the beautiful surroundings, especially that of a three-tier cart, in the form of a tea wagon and laden with bright red geraniums and other assorted plants. On each of the window sills were huge golden baskets overflowing with multi-coloured 'mums, interspersed with misty California grass. The platform was decorated with variegated 'mums and trailing ivy, also the piano, with a large pot of rustic colored chrysanthemums.

LOVELY TEA TABLE

The tea table was most attractive in its appointment with lace cloth centred by an unusual centrepiece of hand-painted clay candelabra in the form of a statuette holding four tall tapering candles, which was in turn encircled by a hand-made, golden holly wreath. Heavy gleaming silver tea service completed this lovely artistic setting.

Each of the little guest tables was equally attractive with golden coverings, centred by miniature golden flower pots containing brilliant red geraniums.

The Rev. Canon A. S. McConnell, rector of the church, officially opened the bazaar and warmly welcomed the guests.

RECEIVING

Receiving the thronging guests at the door were Mrs. A. S. McConnell, wife of the rector, and Mrs. N. C. Fisher. The hostesses in the tea room were: Mesdames H. Bird, Mac Smith, J. Fort and R. Morton, and the conveners in the tea room were Mrs. Ross Miller and Mrs. H. S. Gibbon, assisted by: Mesdames Walker, E. Goddard, J. Murray, T. H. Kelly, A. W. Alley, W. A. Vanfassel, J. Hawkins and J. McKenna.

Those presiding at the silver tea service were: Mrs. J. Genest, Mrs. R. Feather, Mrs. L. V. Arnolt, Mrs. A. Lewis, Mrs. M. J. Clarke and Mrs. H. Smith. The ladies who served the dainty goodies were: Mesdames W. Gault, J. Schlesinger, D. Clarke, W. Simpson, A. E. Purdy, W. Wills, S. Mills, L. Probert, R. Stalker, J. Wright, R. G. Lanning, C. W. Coleman, R. Griffith, T. Smith, R. McKeien, R. A. Pringle, L. Gunnington, V. Smith, F. H. Belstedt, G. Hume and H. Floyd.

NUMEROUS SALES TABLES

The various sales tables all with a lovely assortment of items were located on the lower floor and first of all the handicrafts table had a fine array of homemade items, some of which were: reindeer heads made from felt, beautifully decorated with sparkling sequins and long ribbons to be used for pinning on Christmas cards; sequin trimmed high laced felt boots, pyjama and shoe bags, book covers, coaster sets, tea cosy and egg cup sets, potholders, table mats and many other useful novelties.

At the home knitting table there was a beautiful display of hand knit goods ranging from knee and ankle socks, in all colors and designs, children's sweaters, dainty knit and crocheted baby sets, and many pairs of warm mittens.

At the far end of the hall the dolls' table was located and backgrounding this were numerous tiny dolls all dressed in cute little knit suits for the boy dolls and knitted or frilly dresses, even on the many little girl dolls. On sale here, also were all kinds of dolls' clothing, complete wardrobes, as well as separate wearing apparel including coat and hat sets, petticoats, slip and panite sets, pyjamas, three piece sportswear, as well as pretty little doll crib quilts.

DELICIOUS HOME-COOKING

In a smaller room off the main portion of the lower floor was an enticing homecooking booth with a luscious assortment for the sweet-toothed, some of these were: delectable angel cakes with fluffy icing, layer, square and loaf cakes, many delicious pies and tarts, assorted cookies, cup cakes, candies, date, butterscotch and berry squares.

Next to this was the candy booth which was laden with homemade fudges, maple creams and divinity fudges in individual tart dishes, assorted boxes and cellophane bags. There was also for sale an assortment of jams, jellies, relishes and pickles.

The novelty table had a varied assortment of articles featuring colorful costume jewelary, wall plaques, oven mitts, bath salts and fancy hair combs.

MANY APRONS

As always, the apron booth was quite a drawing card with the aprons displayed to good advantage on a coat rack. There were many half style and over-all aprons in floral, check and stripe pattern in print, gingham, broadcloth and nylon materials; also the popular 'mother and daughter sets and for that "special occasion," pretty sheer nylon.

Those in charge of the various sales tables were as follows: handicrafts — convener, Mrs. George Lloyd, assisted by Mrs. L. Foxard, Mrs. M. Workman, Mrs. R. Bentley and Mrs. J. Minion; dolls table — convener, Mrs. M. F. Jones, assisted by Mrs. A. S. Lewis, Mrs. P. T. Selbert, Mrs. T. F Wrzsball and Miss Amy Whitteridge; candy table — Mesdames J. Loder, M. Young, M. Ward and Mrs. Sherwood; sale of plants — Mrs. N. Nicholson and Mrs. McNish; novelties — Mrs. H. Kellar and Mrs. J. E. Bateman; aprons — convener, Mrs. J. R. Barnes, assisted by Mesdames D. Miller, W. S. Stone, R. Hodge and Mrs. Baird; bath-ing — convener, Mrs. Webster, assisted by Mesdames Thompson, Mrs. Carruthers, Mrs. Rutherford, J. P. Clarke and Mrs. McLean; homecooking — Mrs. T. Green, Mrs. C. Winters, Mrs. H. Hall, Mrs. R. C. Beattie, Mrs. S. Kritter, Mrs. G. D. Kincaid and Mrs Dixon.

Taking tickets at the door for this successful event were the treasurers for the afternoon, Mrs. H. Alford, Mrs. T. A. Kells and Mrs. S. Y. Arnott.

Quintena Rebekah Lodge Sponsors Successful Tea

Golden-russet, yellow, mauve and green were the colors borrowed yesterday afternoon from Nature's palette by the Quintena Rebekah Lodge for the annual tea and bazaar held in the I.O.O.F. Hall on Front St.

On the dais at the rear of the spacious assembly hall grew a miniature forest with evergreens with silver, golden and brown cones lifting the grass beneath which one full-size woodchuck and kindly, but oft maligned little skunk, were meandering about fallen dried bits of limbs, minding their own affairs as all good animals generally do.

Round about the room were disposed the various booths, each one adhering to the color motif of yellow, bronze and greens; some in twisted garlands with floral rosettes, others with wide fringed brown valances resembling the Hawaiian skirts of graceful dancers, while others were adorned in triple pointed banner at various shades.

The many guests were received by Mrs. Irene McMartin, N.G., and Mrs. Connie Wilkinson, P.N.G., who passed them on to the co-conveners, Mrs. Verna Oliphant, and her co-convener, Mrs. Margaret Nolan-Hall, who directed the reception room to the gay and colorful bazaar within.

Pretty aprons of many hues, styles and materials, were the first to catch the eye. A bride frilled blue organdy with blue binding was displayed on a model; this apron would go to the holder of the lucky ticket. Others included a lovely pansy-bordered one with pansy bunches in pale mauve along the bottom and single pansies scattered over the white ground. There were also some in green organdy, pink sateen, tiny blue and white checks bordered by a bluish girl and boy; organdy water pails suspended by poles across their shoulders; pink and white all-over types; black and coral, and several in floral prints. These were conveyed by Mrs. R. Judge and Mrs. E. Neal, assisted by Mesdames J. Skalky, V. Summers, B. Hall, N. Taylor, M. Rodgers, M. Large, D. Carey, M. Kay, H. Curry, N. Cooper, F. Smith and J. Kelver.

DELECTABLE HOME COOKING

The home cooking with its delectable array of lemon, apple, raspberry, pumpkin and cherry pies, date and lemon loaves, tea biscuits, Elizabeth loaf cakes, chocolate chip cookies, butter tarts, angel cakes, taffy tarts, cabbage salads, date squares, raspberry tarts, bran muffins, pineapple upside down cake with its delicious pineapple circles centered with a red maraschino cherry, was conveyed by Mrs. Gloss White and Mrs. D. Sager, assisted by Mesdames M. Craig, E. Jose, F. Anderson, M. Sills, J. Hooker, L. Wannamaker and D. Hillman.

A novel idea was the "handkerchief tree" situated near the miniature woods. This displayed assorted lovely handkerchiefs bordered with dainty lace pinched in blues, pinks, yellows, each having bulberry inserts, and others with embroidered blue pansies others, again, were machine-made wicker work corners. In charge of these were Mrs. R. Charlton and Mrs. E. Kellar, with Mrs. A. Ross, Mrs. M. Drummond, Mrs. E. Murphy and R. Hall assisting.

For those with the "sweet tooth," the candy booth was the answer to their dreams; here were little cups, cellophane bags and boxes, all so neatly filled with luscious maple creams, chocolate nut fudge, black molasses peanut brittle, divinity fudge, all of which found ready buyers. Mrs. A. Whalies and Mrs. L. Downey, with Mrs. J. Fraser, Mrs. E. Ostrom, Mrs. C. Wilkinson, Mrs. H. Miller, Mrs. I. Addy and Mrs. F. Holmes were in charge.

FANCYWORK—

CHILDREN'S WEAR

The little tots were not forgotten for fancy work was both abundant and lovely. Fancy pinafore tops for "him" and "her" crochet doilies; knitted bedroom slippers in pink and blue; baby afghans in several shades; yellow and pink sacques; embroidered linen serviettes; wash cloths; crochet pot holders and many other articles, all of which were dainty and attractive. The conveners were Mrs. Lena MacMillan and Mrs. L. Bishop, with Mesdames K. Burton, N. Cathcart, H West, I. Muir, T. Woods, R. Way, A. McKee, E. Mitchell, E. Collins, E. Humphries, assisting.

The dolls and toys booth must have raided Santa's workshop with its array of stuffed toys, pink elephants, stocking monkey, green print giraffe, yellow Peter Rabbits, white lambs, brown dachshund, Scotch Terrier, French poodles, collie and with glaring eyes, turtle soup holders, red, white and blue balls, little dolls, dressed, gaunted bed ornaments and dolls' dresses and jackets. Mrs. M. Plumpton and Mrs. O. Adams were the conveners, while those assisting were Mesdames L. Madden, L. Bush, J. Merry, E. Kelly, G. Akey, F. Pollett, H. Ellsworth, C. Salisbury, J. Empey and N. Brown.

A lovely bride, in full bridal costume of white satin with flowing veil and cascade bouquet, with wardrobe of bridal gowns, coats, slack ensemble, was won by the lucky ticket holder, Mr. Jim Patterson. Other winners were: turkey, Mrs. Fred Wellman; candy: Eaton White; crochet duck: Lena MacMillan; pillow case: Mrs. Helena Darvell; apron, Mrs. Gladys Bonsor; centre-piece: Mrs. L. Collins.

No bazaar would be complete without the "white elephant" booth and the many customers were so disappointed, for Mrs. F. Bird and Mrs. R. Brenton displayed a number of nice articles including glass ash trays; juice glasses; occasional glass vases; perfume; floral tea set of pitcher, sugar and cream; salt and peppers; costume jewellery, brooches; necklaces; earrings; and odd ers; cups and saucers; both sails in pretty bottles and several bracelets. Assisting here were Mrs. A. Maudsley, Mrs. Pope; L. Wilson; M. Milton; E. White and, N. MacDonald.

ATTRACTIVE TEA ROOMS

The tea room with its blue-grey walls, grey goust tables and matching chairs, the latter in picket regalia — entrance with tall standards of yellow snapdragons; bronze 'mums; sprays of British Columbia huckleberry leaves; and sprays of the wide green leaves; the pretty greenery entwined with oak leaves and here and there about the room, at strategic intervals, tall white baskets of dark russet 'mums mingled with pale pink and light mauve; the little quaint tables with white covers centred by the burnished copper coaliniere holding tiny 'mums in bronze and yellow with tiny sprays of asparagus fern; the wall decorations of leaves and graceful sprays of yellow flowers, made a most attractive picture.

The long tea table was especially noteworthy with its ecru French lace cloth; centred by a green and bronze 'mums, flanked by iridescent candelabra holding two tall and one bronze colored candle, and the silver tray with the crested Quintena Rebekah china tea service, the matching serviettes, the trays of dainty sandwiches separated from the delicious cookies and tea cakes, by a lacey doily topped by little platters of yellow and bronze 'mums, completed the artistic setting.

THE PERSONNEL

Those who presided at the services were: Mesdames Andrew Rose and Russ Charlton; Mrs. Ethel Sandercock and Mrs. Pimpleton; Annie McKee and Jean Hall. Those serving included: Mesdames Ruby Brown; Florence Pollitt; Phyllis Pope; Jean Maudsley; Nina Neal; Dorothy Webber; Laura Brown; Grace Akey; Nora McDonald; Edna White; Susan Fry; Jean Patterson; Orean Adams; Maysell Sills; Emily Hall; Florence Smith; Rhea Mikhelli; D. 'Lines on Life'

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

Some of my best friends are psychiatrists; some of the others go to them. The former are very necessary people; necessary for rudderless helpless and alienated folk, for the misdirected multitudes of spiritually-bruised humans. The latter, though, are sometimes simply the victims of their own superfluous leisure. Instead of using them to build and to create, they are sitting tightly on their hands.

There are legions who would never need the services of a psychiatrist in the first place, if they knew what to do with their free time.

Consider this irony: one would expect the poor, for whom the sheer daily problem of keeping body and soul united, often breaks their hearts as well as their backs, to be at the head of the psychiatric line of march. But no. The social circumstanced, comfortably arranged folk dominate the long, graveside-like line; they head the queues which lead to the supply of pills. They pay, they get, they turn out, so slouches with the couches.

Of course, in this "Age of Anxiety," there is much that can and does go wrong in the inner life of man. Psychoses abound. Thank Heaven for the many dedicated mental health and hygienists who have helped and will yet help the anxious and distraught and the gravely unhappy.

But sometimes one gets the impression that an important aspect of modern middle-class manners is the calling attention to the open wound, the wearing of marks of anxiety like hearts on our sleeves, the grating about and the gloating in a discussion of our petty, inand self-assertive neuroses. Once upon a time it was fashionable to begin a conversation with: "Did I tell you about my operation?" Clearly, this is dated. Now it is considered correct to confide with some such opening sally: "I had a terrible night. I took two tanks of gas quick, rabbit the watch-word of the great middle-class, today, would do very well but "Whose sanogg you is without insanity, let him think the first think!"

Those, on the other hand, who feel oppressed by the physical and economic torments of life, often find solace against their material difficulties with the powers from of the subconscious. They have developed psychic resistances because they have continued to use their muscles. They cannot afford the luxury of self-concern; they've got so much more to worry about.

One often finds that selfishness goes hand in hand with self-centredness; that minds which lack large insight are the result of hearts which have small outlook. Such people, unhappily, hardly ever find anything outside of themselves to take their thoughts off themselves. They are preoccupied with the welfare of others, unidentified with hopes that go beyond their own narrow boundaries — this is why they have become preoccupied and overoccupied with nothing but themselves. They have not learned the wisdom that is ordor to be ourselves we have to be more than ourselves.

They need some healthy-minded interest in the world, in people, in causes and events which represent vital concerns and demand personal commitments.

One woman volunteer, serving as a nurse's aide in the infirmary of a home for the aged, summed it up: "By coming to the hospital; to serve others, I keep from going to the hospital myself. By working with other people, helping them to add years to their lives, I am actually adding years to my own!"

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Leonard J. — She can give it, but she can't take it.

* * *

Ethel J. — I'd be dead already if I paid any attention to the wisecracks could tell, I'll be dead already the result of my husband's hands. One sure thing, though, they can kill love.

I've tried to be a good sport and laugh when he says to someone, "Ask Four-eyes over there", meaning me because I wear glasses. But, believe me, it's like the song, I'm laughing with tears in my eyes. During the most disfiguring months of my pregnancy, he'd call out loud in a crowd, "Make Way for Miss America"!

I can expect to be hurt this way any time Len gets an audience. It's getting so that I dread the prospect of a third party. I know he'll work for laughs, and all at my expense, and I'm all at my expense.

* * *

Leonard J. — — We've been married eight years now, and I could swear I've probably been so thin-skinned. At first we could say anything to each other. We traded insults and since I was all in fun, each one tried to top the other. Being overweight, I'm used to being called "Blubber" or "Sashmatti", no matter where we are, by my suddenly-sensitive wife.

One of the things I liked about her was her sense of humor. But it's run dry. I'm afraid she's getting like a girl I heard about. Her boy friend said, "Oh, go jump in a lake!" And she really did. Couldn't take a joke.

She never misses a chance to tease me in public, but I take it.

* * *

The Council — Well, good clean fun is one thing. It never does. We find how close the belt where the victim is defenceless. Constructive criticism, too checking on whether its object is really enjoying the process of being prosecuting. If it's the latter, the fun (good, clean kind) quits.

But overconstructivity is another thing. Some pregnant wives don't like jokes about their appearance. We met one recently, however, who banned (more)

MAIL CALL

Question — My daughter ran off and married very young. Eventually, she was divorced. Now she is planning to marry for the second time. She would like a small wedding, with a few close friends and relatives present.

Would it be proper to send out engraved invitations to a second marriage? — R. S. F., Baltimore, Md.

Answer — Invitations to bride's second marriage should be informal. They may be personal notes, or even phone calls. All the trappings of a second marriage should be kept as simple as possible, so, of course, engraved invitations and announcements automatically are out.

Question: My daughter is to be married October 28. What shall I wear? I'm 5' 6", have gray-black hair and weigh 180 pounds. The wedding will be at 11 a.m. There will be a dinner at 1 p.m., and a reception at 4 p.m. My fater died eight months ago, but I'll go on mourning for the wedding. Please, keep this in mind when advising what to wear. — Mrs. J. F., Orange, N. J.

Answer: The color and fabric should blend in with the gown of the wedding party. You will standing together in the receiving line, so your dress should in no way clash with those of the bridesmaids or maid of honor. Silk or lace would be appropriate and, since you're still in mourning, violet would be a good color choice, or you could select blue or a pearl gray. Actually, if I were you, I'd take swatches of the attendants' gowns to the bridal store, and let her fit you with a dress that should be in perfect harmony.

Mrs. Fred Furmidge favored with a solo, "Down From His Glory," and Mrs. Stone closed with the worship service with prayer.

Miss Rourke, B.A., spoke to the rally, telling of two Japanese girls, their struggle to be educated at a Christian school. She also spoke of their influence on her life. The work in Japan was originally established 100 years ago and is evangelical, educational and social.

Mrs. C. Barlow of Tabernacle W.M.S. gave a complete report from the School for Leaders, which she attended in August, at Whitby.

As this was the last rally of the Belleville East Section of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada, the Presbyterial secretaries, Mrs. Pierson, Mrs. Clancy, Mrs. McKibbon and Mrs. Don Williams, who have served the W.M.S. faithfully down through the years, were asked to bring greetings to the rally.

The courtesy report had been prepared by the ladies from Plainfield, Carmel and Tabernacle, and was given by Mrs. Seldon Homan from Carmel.

Mrs. Clancy Carlisle pronounced the benediction.

Appellants Give Reasons For Lower Assessments

TRENTON — Last year, assessment commissioner J. Allan Smith introduced the term "economic obsolescence" in the 1960 Court of Revision sitting.

At last night's meeting of the 1961 court, the members admitted that they had heard the phrase more than enough this season.

Five times during the evening, appellants described their buildings as "economically obsolescent." It was applied in turn to apartments, a club room, a warehouse and a hotel.

Dr. J. V. Byrne and Harry Lafferty, representing the Knights of Columbus, told the court that the building on Front Street, owned by the order, was overassessed in their opinion. The store section on the main floor is now empty (formerly Simpsons-Sears). The building was compared with Simmons Drug Store on the same street, but on a corner. Court members agreed that Mr. Simmons was able to make better use of a long, narrow store. The building is more than 100 years old, the appellants pointed out.

Paul Tripp, on behalf of Mark Tripp Ltd. compared the company warehouse on King Street with the Cold Storage building on which the assessment was lowered last year. Mr. Tripp said that the Tripp warehouse facilities were on two floors, leading to inconvenience and duplication of service.

A representative of the owners of the Queensway Hotel said that this building was in far worse shape, construction-wise, than the Royal Hotel, but that the assessment was high-er.

"Overbuilding," was applied on an apartment building on Henry Shi. by the owner, Gerald Weaver. Mr. Weaver also questioned an increase in assessment on a garage building on Elgin St., comparing it with a competitor building in the area.

INFERIOR TYPE CLAIM

Mr. Weaver also asked some consideration for the fact that an inferior type of building is all that can be seen from his picture window in his residence on McColl Street.

"Or what use is two-sixths of a terrace?", asked one appellant, representing an estate. He said that he had put $600 worth of repairs on the building, only to be told by the fire department that the tenement would have to be rewired before the hydro could be turned on.

The owner of a cleaning establishment, facing a coal yard, claimed that the coal dust had ruined the new stucco finish on the building; and the coal yard owners claimed, through their representative, that only 25 per cent of their land was being used and asked a lowering of their business tax.

Court members will visit these properties today and attempt to pass judgment on the factors involved before taking action.

WILL HONOR GARDINER

TORONTO (CP) — Board of control decided Wednesday to set aside Nov. 9 to honor retiring Metropolitan Chairman Fred Gardiner. The board will co-operate in a parade, civic reception, gift presentation and a civic luncheon.

New Orchestra To Give Concert For Poppy Fund

TRENTON — Community service at its best will be illustrated Sunday night (Nov. 5th) when the 50-members of the Eastern Ontario Concert Orchestra present a full-scale concert, ranging from Rimski-Korsakov to Rogers and Hammerstein, in the auditorium at Trenton High School, Permission for the use of the auditorium was granted by the Trenton Board of Education; proceeds from a silver collection will go to swell the Trenton Legion branch's Poppy Fund and engineers from radio station CJBQ will record the program for rebroadcast, thus ensuring that those unable to attend the event will be able to share this musical "first" for Trenton.

Stephen Choma, the orchestra's musical director, has a background of musical training in European and American centres. One of his most prized possessions is a violin which has been passed down from generation to generation in the Choma family since 1780.

The orchestra is well on its way to success. Members come from most of the communities in the Quinte district. Ken Couch of Trenton is president of the organization, and support has been forthcoming from such community - minded citizens as Dr. C. K. Herz, and Anthony Cekota.

Mrs. Marion Stretton of Belleville gives strong leadership in the ever-increasing string section.

The concert will start at 8.30 sharp and the evening promises to be pleasant one for music lovers of all ages.

Corner Stone For New School Will Be Laid

TRENTON — Saturday afternoon, Nov. 4, will see the laying of the corner-stone for a new school for retarded children in the Trenton and Brighton area.

The ceremony will start at 2.30 p.m. and the stone will be placed by Harry Lafferty, donor of the school site.

The school will be located on a side road running north from Highway Two, just across from the Glenburnie Motel.

An excellent program has been arranged by building chairman, Bart Boers and includes remarks by Mayor James MacDonald, of Trenton, Doug McMaster, reeve of Murray Township; John Turner, president of the Trenton-Brighton Association for Retarded Children, Mrs. Bobbie Reid, chairman of the forthcoming association drive for funds and Rev. B. O'Neill.

Recently, the firm of Miron and Leming was the successful bidder for the contract to erect the school, at the cost of $36,000 to the local association. One third of the sum will be returned in Government grants. Much of the remainder has already been pledged by service clubs and other organizations. It is hoped that the November door-to-door canvass by funds, planned by the members of the association, will yield enough to allow the members to start the new school off without an encumbering mortgage.

Sea Cadets Honor Padre

TRENTON—Wednesday night, Mayor D. J. MacDonald presented Rev. D. C. McLelland, padre of the Trenton sea cadet corps, with a barometer, on behalf of the officers and men of HCSCC "Trent".

Mr. McLelland is leaving Trenton early this month. He will preach his final sermon in Trenton next Sunday.

Mr. McLelland expects to continue his affiliation with the sea cadet movement in his new charge.

Police Say Car Struck Hydro Pole

TRENTON — Wednesday morning, Harold Kuschnik of Coderington, was treated in the out-patients' department at Trenton Memorial Hospital for head lacerations, following an accident in the village of Wooler.

Provincial police at Brighton say that the Kuschnik car went out of control and struck a hydro pole, resulting in extensive damage to the car. The accident occured around 7 a.m.

Successful Living

By Doris Clark

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

House Wife Bored

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—Your answer to Just Bored was in finding a spare-time interest. In my opinion the answer to her problem is the adoption of a baby. I understand exactly the feeling of uselessness this woman is experiencing, for I lived in the same kind of vacuum for eleven years.

She needs to be needed and no matter how interesting the hobby there is absolutely no substitute for the happiness and satisfaction one derives from mothering a child.

Your meals are more wholesome and your rest more regular and there's no end to the things you can do for even one child. At the end of a busy day Just Bored will be happy to retire and of course their main source of conversation will in time be their child.

Most prospective fathers are to some extent leary of adoption, but that should not stand in the way of allowing his wife to fulfil her role in life.

God bless our adopted babies and three cheers for our conscientious welfare workers.—MRS. A. Y. S.

DEAR MRS. A. Y. S.:—Good for you.

Perhaps we should add that prospective fathers also need to fulfil their role in life. Children need two enthusiastic parents.

Party Desserts

By Mary Moore

Chocolate so and sos are appearing too often in this column lately but when I make a chocolate dessert that is a perfect honey I cannot resist passing it on to you while it is fresh in my mind. This latest discovery comes from my cousin Irene, who had an English cook when they were posted to New Zealand. The cook generously imparted the secret of this to Irene when they left for Canada. Its simplicity is its greatest virtue but its rich flavor is a good second.

Dinner Menus

THURSDAY

Beef Curry on Rice; Tossed Salad with French Dressing; Buttermilk Seasoned Biscuits; Sliced Peach Compote; Milk and Coffee.

SUNDAY

SWISS CHOCOLATE CREAM:

Rule: Use one square (one oz.) semi-sweet chocolate for each egg for each person to be served. We will assume you have to serve six people as I did.

In top of double boiler melt 6 squares semi-sweet chocolate. Remove from heat and add 6 egg yolks, one at a time, stirring until blended. Remove top of double boiler to counter, fill bottom with cold water and stand top in it to cool to room temperature. Meanwhile in a large bowl beat the remaining 6 egg whites until stiff. When the chocolate mixture has cooled to room temperature, pour it into the whites and fold and stir. This makes quite a sloppy mixture — but that is alright. Now turn it into a cut glass or other serving bowl, cover well and chill overnight. Serve at table with unsweetened whipped cream in a separate bowl. Note 1: If desired 1 or 2 tablespoons of a rich liqueur may be stirred into the chocolate mixture just before you add the whites. Note 2: Irene says she has served this with pouring cream and grated chopped nuts to sprinkle over for a change. It is completely dependable and always a favorite.

Party dessert number two is a Sherry Chiffon Pie and as you can guess is appropriate for a New Year's Eve buffet dessert. Those of you who do not approve of using sherry in your cooking may substitute 1-3 cup pineapple juice for the sherry.

HELEN'S SHERRY CHIFFON PIE:

Crust: One-quarter cup wheat germ, ¾ cup of graham cracker crumbs. Blend into this 4 tablespoons of melted butter that have been mixed with 2 tablespoons light brown sugar. Reserve 2 or 3 tablespoons and press remainder neatly into a 8-inch pie plate and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 8 minutes. Cool.

Filling: One tablespoon unflavored gelatine, 1-3 cup sherry (or pineapple juice), 3 egg yolks, 1 cup undiluted evaporated milk, ½ cup granulated sugar, pinch of salt, 2 tablespoons butter, 3 egg whites, ¼ cup granulated sugar, ½ cup heavy cream, whipped (optional). Soften gelatine in sherry or pineapple juice. Scald evaporated milk. Combine egg yolks, sugar and salt in top part of double boiler. Gradually stir in scalded milk. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly until mixture thickens and will coat a metal spoon. Remove from heat. Stir in softened gelatine and butter. Chill slightly until mixture begins to set at the edges. Beat egg whites until foamy. Gradually add sugar and continue beating until stiff. Fold in cooled custard. Pour into pie shell and chill until set. To serve top with whipped cream if desired and sprinkle with reserved crumb mixture.

First Stores In Shopping Plaza Open This Morning

OUT-OF-TOWN SHOPPER — Mrs. Isabelle Osborne of Trenton and her two young daughters were among the first shoppers at the Dominion Store at the Belleville Plaza shopping centre today. Helping to hold the groceries are Debbie, 4½, and Brenda-Jo, age 3.

WELCOME TO VISITORS — Mrs. Margaret Blakely of Forboro, official hostess at the new Dominion Store, greets city Aldermen Ross Bailey and Ben Corke. Store was crowded for opening.

STORE OPENING — A great many people showed up for the official opening of the new Atlantic and Pacific store at the shopping Plaza this morning. The above scene shows a few of the several hundred customers who lined up to get in to take advantage of the many bargains and opening day offers available.

The first two stores in Belleville's new one-and-a-half-million dollar shopping plaza in the east end of the city were officially opened this morning.

Down the Mall at the other end of the shopping centre the crowd was almost as great at the Dominion Store, minus the official opening. At both stores, head office officials of the company were on hand. Alderman Ben Corke snipped the ribbon at the A. and P. Store, while at the Dominion Store Mrs. Margaret Blakely of Foxboro, acted as the opening day hostess.

In all there are over 30 stores planned for the new shopping centre and although only the two supermarkets are initially open, Principal Investments, owners of the shopping Plaza are rushing other stores to completion.

Soon to be completed will be the Woolworth Store and the second storey five-pin bowling alley.

The multi-acre shopping plaza site is completely paved with parking accommodation for over 1,300 autos.

Several hundred customers were lined up for the official opening of the A and P store despite fairly cool weather, The Mayor and Mrs. A. McLean Haig were the stores first customers.

Within a few moments after the doors were officially opened a stream of people was flooding into the 22,000 square feet of floor area which featured, for the first time in any A and P store, a separate non-food section at the north end of the building. This section offers such items as toys, gifts, household needs, kitchenware, tools, dinnerware and electrical appliances.

Another feature of the store is a separate counter devoted to toilet goods, health and beauty aids, which attracted the eye of many a customer. The opening day was marked by a two-for-one sale on a number of special items, with early customers receiving a free cake.

A number of Atlantic and Pacific officials were on hand for the event including L. W. Beebe, president; Frank H. Knafton, vice president of sales and G.N. Provost, executive vice president.

With a total area of over 2,000 square feet, the Belleville Plaza Dominion Store is the last word in supermarket planning. The store shines with solid banks of fluorescent lighting while shopping aisles are widely spaced, making for easy shopping.

Also marking the opening, customers received coupons redeemable for a free 50-piece dinnerware set.

A feature of Dominion Stores is the meat counter, both self service and butcher-manned. Store officials said Dominion prides itself on the meat quality. The slogan is "meet the man behind the meat counter," who will prepare cuts to the customer specification.

COMMITS SUICIDE

HIROSHIMA (AP) — Police said today that a man who survived the atomic bombing of Hiroshima committed suicide because he was depressed by the current Soviet nuclear tests, Morimune Ichikawa, 34, hanged himself in a warehouse two days ago. Police said that since the start of the Soviet tests Sept. 1 he had expressed protest by staging one - man sit-down strike.

Corporal Fined

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Cpl. Norman Arnold Cowie, 40, of the Provincial Police was convicted of impaired driving Wednesday and fined $100 and costs.

A hearing on a charge of careless driving was adjourned to Dec. 21.

Defence counsel Frank Foster said he will appeal.

The corporal was charged originally with drunken driving but, after hearing part of the evidence, Magistrate W. R. Philp reduced the charge.

Several policemen testified that Cpl. Cowie had been emotionally disturbed at the time he was seen driving erratically in his sister's automobile last June. He was suspended when city police laid the charge but after his first court appearance last summer he was placed on sick leave.

Magistrate Denies Motion For Dismissal of Charges, Case Adjourned for Appeal

SUDBURY (CP) — A hearing of unlawful assembly charges against ten mine . mill union members was adjourned Wednesday until Feb. 6, after Magistrate Ian Munro denied a defence motion for dismissal of the charges.

The lengthy adjournment was made necessary by defence counsel Aubrey Golden's decision to appeal the denial of the motion by way of a "stated case." A Supreme Court justice will be asked to make a ruling on two points of law raised at the hearing.

Before the adjournment, Mr. Golden had 15 defence witnesses ready to testify. The proceedings in connection with the stated case are expected to last at least two months.

Magistrate Munro called for a defence after finding that the Crown had established a prima facie case that a gathering Sept. 10 in Memorial Park and a march to the Sudbury Arena constituted unlawful assembly.

The magistrate said it appeared that the assembling of members of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.) round the emoteph was motivated by reports that National President Ken Smith and three other officials would be denied admission to the rally at the arena, jointly sponsored by rebel Mine-Mill Local 598 and the Canadian Labor Congress.

"The meeting was held to create a body of men sufficient to see they were admitted," the magistrate said. "The common purpose was to give a show of force."

He ruled there was evidence that "persons in the neighborhood" anticipated a disturbance of the peace when they saw Smith and his supporters marching to the arena.

"If the men had not paraded there in a body, there would not have been any trouble about their being admitted," he said.

Magistrate Munro also heard submissions by Crown Attorney A. G. Burkhalter before rejecting the motion for dismissal.

The Crown attorney said that the substance of District 2 President Mike Solski's address to the gathering was: "Nothing is going to stop us getting in."

An advertisement inviting members of Local 598 to the rally was aimed at individuals, the prosecutor said. "It did not specify a solid phalanx of people."

In his motion for dismissal, Mr. Golden contended the Crown had not produced anyone in the neighborhood "who feared the assembly would disturb the peace tumultuously."

Deputy police chief Bert Gullet, the last Crown witness, said things were peaceful when he arrived at the arena the night of the meeting. But later several fights broke out and he ordered the doors closed until order was restored.

He said he asked Smith to "form up his men in an orderly manner" but that Smith could not obtain the crowd's attention because of a faulty microphone.

"I finally threw out a tear gas grenade and the crowd moved away from the front of the arena," the deputy chief said.

Chili Peppers Handed Out

GLOBE, Ariz. (AP)—Police have arrested a woman on parents' complaints that she handed out packets of sugar-coated chili peppers to children on Hallowe'en.

Mrs. Virgia Reyes, mother of six, was charged with malicious mischief and disorderly conduct.

The chief quoted Mrs. Reyes as saying, "They were trick-or-treating, so I wicked him." She said she meant no harm.

Senior Scoring

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Billy Forban of Oak Terriers had a six-point scoring spree against Waterloo Tigers Tuesday night to tie Don Emms of Strathroy Rockets for the scoring lead in the senior Ontario Hockey Association. Both have nine points.

Forban, with five, shares the goal - scoring lead with Lloyd Mercer of Oak Terriers and Bob Brown of Windsor Bulldogs.

Strathroy, tied with Windsor for the league lead, holds down eight of the top 22 positions in the individual scoring race.

Leading goaltender is Jim Hoskin, rookie with Sarnia Rams who in their first start of the season Monday upset Oak 4-2. In second place are Al Collen of Woodstock Athletics, another rookie, and Windsor's Ross Childs. Both have allowed eight goals in three games for a 2.67 average.

Penalty leaders are Ted Maki and Alec (Butch) Keeling of Oak and Ray Moffat of Strathroy, who have 14 minutes each.

Western Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The defending champion Portland Buckaroos are making a determined and successful bid to move on top of the Western Hockey League race. And Portland left-winger Ford Yashowsky is still scoring goals.

The Bucks picked up a 7-4 victory over Los Angeles Blades Wednesday night to advance five points on top of the southern division. Calgary Stampeders crept to within three points of the second-place Seattle Totems with a 5-5 overtime tie against Vancouver Canucks. The Canucks are in last place.

They held a 4-0 lead after two periods, but Gerry Gouger and Darcy Rollins scored for the Blades to spoil goaltender Bruce Gamble's shutout chances. Bill Saunders scored twice for Portland. Hughie went to Gene Achtymichuk, Ron Matthews and Arlo Goodwin.

Right-winger John Kosiancic gave the Stamps their tie with the Canucks with a goal at 19:54 of the third period during a four-goal comeback. Gord Velpavas got their first. Defenceman Jim Moro added one and Doug Barkley two.

Rookie Replaces Mitchell

CLEVELAND (AP) — "There's pressure," conceded Tom Watkins, the rookie who has been called on to replace army-mated Bobby Mitchell in Cleveland Browns' backfield.

"But I'll do the best job I can," promised the quiet-spoken Watkins as he prepared for the challenge of Pittsburgh Steelers here Sunday. Coach Paul Brown is equally confident the six-foot, 195-pounder from Iowa State can do the job.

Mitchell, one of the National Football League's greatest open-field runners with eight touchdowns this season, reported Tuesday for a one-year tour of duty with the army. He may be able to get permission from his commander to play football on Sundays.

Blair Given Heave-Ho

Kingston Shades Hull

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Veteran Orv Tessier did just about everything but count the goals he scored Wednesday night as he pulled Kingston Frontenacs out of a slump and led them to a 3-2 victory over Hull-Ottawa Canadiens in an Eastern Professional Hockey League game.

The 36-year-old centre saw extra duty when his team was shorthanded helped out on the power play when opponents were penalized, scored the tying and winning goals and took over as coach when Wren Blair was ejected by referee Vern Buffey in the second period.

The fiery Blair protested vehemently when two of his players, Ab Tyeso and Jackie LeClair, were penalized within 10 seconds late in the period. Buffey first handed a bench penalty to Kingston, then thumbed Blair from the rink when his protests continued.

For the Frontenacs, who had dropped three of their last four starts, the victory boosted their margin over the third-place Canadiens to three points and left them four behind the league-leading Kitchener - Waterloo Beavers.

HE'S AN ANGEL NOW

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bo Lemon, former Cleveland pitching star, who was seven times a 20 - game winner in the majors, was signed to a promotional job by Los Angeles Angels.

Lemon, 41, will work in ticket sales and public relations. During spring training he will help coach the Angels' farm club pitchers.

Lemon was a pitching coach for Philadelphia's last season.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

THE ANNUAL GREY CUP SPORTS DESK HEADACHE.

Question No. 1 (phoned or written):—"Have you any Grey Cup tickets?"

Answer—I'm sorry. The powers-that-be do not send sports editors in the sticks any such gold-plated parchments.

Q. 2—"Do you know where I can get any?"

A.—Yes. At the stadium box-office in Toronto. If you are bourgeois, you park outside three days in advance. If of the mink and ermine set, you can procure them merely by asking.

Q. 3—"Do you know anyone who might have Grey Cup tickets?"

A.—You might try bank presidents, executives of breweries and distilleries, the general manager of any Canadian Football League team, his coach, and if you know him, or his relatives, the secretary of the CFL.

Q. 4—"Do you know of any way, or method whereby I can secure tickets?"

A.—Yes. Contact Local No. 87564455, the Ancient, and Honorable Order of Dips and Pickpockets. It might assign one of its top wallet-retrievers to your case.

Q. 5—"I must see the game, live. How am I going to do it?"

A.—You could, with a pal, dress as small boys, get a clean tablecloth and two or three bottles of ketchup and tell the gatekeeper you're going to do a commercial for a detergent company. Don't bring the washing machine. They are supplied.

Q. 6—"Will there be any scalpers around?"

A.—Possibly. But be careful what you buy. Last year I bought scalp tickets. When I presented them at the box office I was politely informed, after being threatened with arrest, that the pasteboards were of 1958 vintage.

Q. 7—"Could I borrow your press pass?"

A.—You could, but you won't. It is good only for baseball games, hockey hassles, softball tilts (all in the nitch), public fights, family squabbles, poker games, chess brawls, cock-fights (if any), any pub, pro-football games and railroad wrecks (at home on the mechanized sods), weddings, veterans' affairs, strawberry socials, roller sports, wrestling matches, wars, boat races, bullfights, sports banquets, bowling knife and fork league affairs (male only) in fact any publicity-hungry event with the exception of the Grey and Stanley Cup classics.

Q. 8—"Could I by any chance, get tickets from a player. If so how do I go about it?"

A.—You could. The only sure method I know is to wait outside his home some night (dark preferred), ask him for a match, sock him with a sawed-off baseball bat, and go through his pockets. But be sure and cheer for his team. He would never forgive you otherwise.

Q. 9—"I hate to resort to subterfuge, but is there any way I can get inside the stadium by disguise?"

A.—Well, yes, I suppose there is. You could make yourself up as a Canadian secondary school football coach and join the Ottawa Rough Riders, (if they make it) as they file into the stadium. You should wear a placard with the following inscription:

"Toot, Toot, Tootily Oot,
I am the coach of an institute (collegiate),
I'm not rough and I'm not tough,
In fact, I'm not even up to snuff.
Rah, Rah, Rah, Ohio State!"

Or you could hire yourself a helicopter and disguise yourself in the striped shirt and slacks of a football official. You could be dropped into an end zone just before play starts, and the crowd would think you were the referee, and no one who had forgotten to turn his clock back last Sunday.

Q. 10—"If I cannot get tickets for this year's game, what should I do about getting tickets for 1962?"

A.—First I would buy a share of stock in the Van. couver Stadium, or wherever the classic is being held. Failing that, I would take up hockey and/or curling this winter, golf and track next summer and in early fall try out with the Argonauts, Ottawa Riders or the Montreal Alouettes. If you make the grade you won't have to worry about tickets. If you don't you will have to do what the rest of the hinterland hot-polist does. Stay home and watch it on the living-room magic lantern.

Will Fight For Title

LONDON (AP)—Eder Jofre of Brazil and John Caldwell of Ireland, agreed to terms Wednesday for a fight in Sao Paulo, Brazil, in January to clear up the world bantamweight championship picture.

Jofre is recognized as world champion by the National Boxing Association of the United States and various federations in Europe. Caldwell, British bantamweight king, outpointed Alphonse Halimi of France in a dull 10-round bout here Tuesday night. Halimi previously was recognized as champion in those parts of the world which did not recognize Jofre.

Leafs Snap Habs Undefeated String

Score 3-2 Squeaker

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Frank Mahovlich is doing for Toronto Maple Leafs what Maurice (Rocket) Richard used to do so well for Montreal Canadiens—scoring winning goals.

The Leafs new golden boy, who has scored nothing but game - winners this National Hockey League season, picked up his fourth in eight games Wednesday night.

Big Al's goal gave the Leafs a 3-3 victory over Canadiens and snapped the Habs early season unbeaten streak at eight games.

Montreal entered the contest with seven wins and one tie—their best start since 1943-44 when they remained undefeated until the 15th game.

GRAND PAIR

Toronto was nursing a slim 2-1 lead when Mahovlich grabbed a pass from Red Kelly and sank the puck behind goalie Jacques Plante at 1:22 of the third period. The goal offset Marcel Bonin's tally for Montreal with about eight minutes to go in the game.

Mahovlich, who for a while last season appeared a cinch to surpass Richard's record of 50 goals in one season, has scored two of his other winning goals against Boston Bruins. The other one beat New York Rangers.

The 23 - year - old left winger slumped towards the end of last season and had to settle for 48 goals while Montreal's Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion came on with a late drive and tied the Rocket's record.

The Canadiens - Leafs game, the team's first meeting this season, produced some outstanding play for a Toronto crowd of 13,601. It was a close one right from the drop of the first puck and the fans got their money's worth as players of both clubs handed out some hefty bodychecks.

The outcome moved the third-place Leafs to within four points of the front - running Canadiens. Montreal has 15 points in nine starts and Toronto has 11 in eight games. The Rangers, idle Wednesday night, are second with 14 points in 12 games.

PROVOST GETS 100TH

Pulford gave the Leafs a 1-0 lead at 9:31 of the first period, beating Plante after taking a pass from Lissmaie Ellett Stack at the Montreal goalmouth.

Provost, a fleet right winger who is off to his best start in seven NHL seasons, tied the score 1-1 at 6:35 of the second period when he snared his own rebound off the backboards and rifled the puck past Leaf goalie Johnny Bower.

Toronto, however, regained the lead less than three minutes later and held it. Nevin got the go-ahead goal at 9:13 after taking a pass from defenceman Carl Brewer.

After Mahovlich's decisive tally, the Canadiens fought back but were thwarted by Bower after Bonin's goal at 11:55 of the third. Bonin scored on an angle shot from about 10 feet out.

Leafs had a margin in play most of the way, outshooting the Habs 33-26.

Canadiens will attempt to regain their winning ways tonight when they play host to Boston in one of the League's two scheduled games. In the other one New York is at Detroit.

CHANGES LINEUP

Coach Sid Abel of the Red Wings has made some lineup changes for tonight's game in an effort to break the club's slump.

Abel has promoted veteran left winger Vic Stasiuk to the first line with centre Eddie Litzenberger and right winger Gordie Howe.

Alex Delvecchio, who played with Howe and Litzenberger through the team's first nine games, was switched to the third unit with rookie Bruce MacGregor and Leo Labine.

The Howe line will have a new face in tonight's lineup. He is Bob Dillabough, called up from Sudbury Wolves of the Eastern Professional Hockey League.

Meanwhile, centre Bill Hay, sparkplug of the Chicago Black Hawks, returned to practice after missing eight games with a knee injury.

Chicago coach Rudy Pilous said there was a good chance Hay could start Saturday night at Toronto, although he might not be at full strength.

"But even half a Hay can mean a lot to us at this point," said Pilous, whose club has won only one game in 10 starts.

Raise Sports Standards

Grant Not For Travel Expenses

A $5,000,000 federal government fund to promote Canadian sports doesn't mean Canada necessarily will be sending teams to take part in international meets, Neil Farrell of Hamilton, treasurer of the AAU, said Wednesday night.

AIDS BOTH WAYS

"It will help bring top-flight international athletes to Canada to compete in Canadian events. Canadians will be sent abroad for international experience and facilities will be established throughout the country to stage sports events.

"A lot of people think it will all go into a pot for teams travelling overseas. I don't believe this is the thinking behind the government's move.

"The AAU hopes it will finance a broad program to raise the standard of all Canadian sports first and then go more fully into financing teams for international competitions."

Farrell was supported by Clarence Campbell of Regina, AAU president, whose term of office ends this year.

"We have a void in Canada in sports after the high school age. We hope the sports advisory council will see a way by which it can help fill this vacuum. "I believe if athletes could see something ahead of them they would be more willing to continue in amateur sports."

Didn't Read Rules, Forfeit Trophy

NEW YORK (CP)—Doug Cudney, captain of the Canadian equestrian team, believes in reading the rules carefully and Wednesday night it paid off in a big way at the National Horse Show here.

Cudney, 30-year-old sales manager from Winona, Ont., took the trouble to read the conditions of the Joseph B. Murray Low - Score Challenge Trophy event. The United States apparently didn't, and because of its failing it wound up with a 12 - zero instead.

When the U.S. won the first leg of the three-day international jumping event in Madison Square Garden, Cudney promptly protested that coach Bert De Nemethy had used four riders instead of three as specified in the rules.

Actually, each country entered two teams of three riders. Only the team's best performances counted. At the finish, the two American teams were tied. Neither had a fault. The winning team had a 101.1 seconds clocking and the second-place team had a time of 109.4.

Bill Steinkraus, Frank Chapot and Bill Robertson rode on the first-place team. The second-place team was composed of Steinkraus, Chapot and Kathy Kusner, that made four riders in all.

LODGES PROTEST

Cudney, who has ridden with the Canadian team for five years, noticed this and lodged a protest with the ground jury. This group threw out the winning team, but awarded the victory to the second U.S. team.

Cudney, now backed by the Republic of Ireland and Argentina, still wasn't satisfied. He brought his protest to the appeals jury headed by Walter P. Devereaux, president of the show.

The appeals jury agreed with Cudney and tossed out both U.S. teams. That left Canada's No. 1 team the winner with no faults and a clocking of 112.0. Then came Ireland's No. 2 team, Argentina's No. 1 and Canada's No. 2.

SHOULD READ RULES

"Cudney was correct," said one show official. "If the United States team had taken the trouble to read the rules, it wouldn't have happened."

Protested U.S. coach De Nemethy:

"The teams were posted 24 hours in advance. If they were wrong, why didn't they say something then?"

The three international events, the revered Americans haven't a single point. Ireland leads with 27, followed by Argentina with 20, Canada with 18 and Mexico with 12.

In the heavyweight class, George Chuvalo of Toronto, who lost on a four to Joe Erskine of Wales, fell from eighth to 10th. Send Juniors Overseas, Not Old Pros

VERNON, B.C. (CP)—One of the National League's hockey greats, Walter (Babe) Pratt says he believes junior amateur clubs are killing Canada's hockey reputation overseas.

In Vernon for the official opening of the Okanagan Junior Amateur Hockey League, the former Toronto, New York and Boston defenceman said Wednesday Canada shouldn't be represented by a "bunch of has-beens" when it could offer the best junior players in the world.

"I think an all-star junior squad would do a better job than a bunch of old pros," he told an interviewer.

Jackie Gets Another Point

REGINA (CP)—Jackie Parker, Edmonton quarterback with Edmonton, Sk., Eskimos, had his Western Football Conference leading point total increased by one Wednesday for a tumble into the end zone.

Official WFC statistics gave Parker credit for the Eskimos' last point in their 30-8 win over Calgary Stampeders Monday, night. The point had at first been credited to the Edmonton Eskimos after the broadcast.

A Reuter's dispatch from London, Aug. 27, 1936, said: "The first television show over the British was broadcast by the BBC in London, Aug. 27, 1936. Edmonton got the point after Parker fumbled into the end zone at the Stampeder goal line and the Calgary player recovering was ruled.

Television Has Been Leaving Marks on Sensitive Hides

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — During the last couple of years U.S. television has been quietly growing a full set of sharp teeth. Some people are beginning to realize that the baby has learned to bite, and has been leaving tooth marks on sensitive hides.

Recently, David Brinkley had some cameras focus on a little boom town near Cape Canaveral, Fla. The town fathers were obviously delighted at the prospect of all the free publicity—until they saw the results. Their screams of dismay could be read in the newspapers the day after the broadcast.

A little later, presence of the Brinkley cameras set only upset some publicity-shy residents of Grosse Point, Mich., but seemed to reflect on the local police force. The police stopped an assault by the family of a prohibition era crime lord on the camera crew. Then, in Brinkley's words, they "took no statements, made no arrests and that was the end of it." The whole country heard about it.

This week, ABC's Close Up presented a documentary program about automation and its effects both on industrial output and workers thrown into technological unemployment.

It wasn't an easy show to put together, admitted executive producer John Secondari, because many, many doors—particularly to automated plants—were closed to TV cameras.

"A lot of people are frightened of television," he said.

Because of this, producers of documentaries are finding there are many controversial subjects they are unable to treat fairly or fully.

Recommended tonight:

My Three Sons, ABC, 9-9:30 EST—one of the best situation comedies in the schedules.

Dr. Kildare, NBC, 8:30-9:30—a generally interesting drama about life in a hospital.

DOZENT DRIVE

Vivien Leigh is one of the few Hollywood stars who does not drive a car—she has a chauffeur for her silver grey $20,000 Rolls Royce.

Author to Oversee Filming Of 'Advise and Consent'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Most Allen Drury, senator-at-large.

The author is here to oversee filming of his novel, Advise and Consent. Never one to pass up a publicity possibility, producer-director Otto Preminger has dragooned Drury to play a senator in the film. What state does he represent?

"Something about speaking parts aren't so designated," said Drury. "I don't know what I would choose. I was born in Texas, grew up in California, reside in Maryland and my parents live in Florida."

So he was designated senator-at-large, which is a pretty good description of this towering, quiet - spoken but self-assured man. The Drury saga is dear to the heart of every newspaper man. He is one reporter who made it.

After 15 years of covering the U.S. Senate, he turned his knowledge into a hard - running best seller, with all the condescension, book club, play and movie rights and other harvests that writers dream about.

"Yes, a lot of money has come of it," he admitted, "but it also has gone right out — to the internal revenue department. The income tax laws are not very good for authors and other people who make a lot of money in one year.

"But the government now allows a system whereby the publisher withholds the money for payment over a period of years. Right now I am assured an income for the next 13 years."

What was the reaction of the real - life senators to his book, which deals frankly with the process of choosing a secretary of state.

"I think most of them liked it," said Drury. "The only one who has spoken out against it was Wayne Morse."

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Grey Monarch, which has won more money than any other horse currently racing on Canadian tracks, will run in Saturday's $10,000 Mohawk Stakes at Old Woodbine, Grey Monarch, owned by Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Taylor has total earnings of $217,546.

The Mohawk Stakes will be raced at the unusual distance of 1 5-16 miles. The extra half furlong has been added to give the horses a longer run into the first turn.

Among those expected to contest the race are Strongboy, Winisteo, Amber Morn, Windy Ship, Rococo Rogue, Lustrous Hope, Moony, Chic Miss and Wise Command.

Strongboy, owned by J. E. Frowde Seagram of Waterloo, has reached the top of his form for Saturday's race. Strongboy is the co-holder of the seven-furlong record at Old Woodbine.

Bext-U was an easy winner of the featured Purple Knight purse Wednesday. Owned by the Roy Stock Stable and ridden by Sam McComb, Bext-U registered his fifth victory of the season as he defeated Fandray by 4½ lengths.

The favorite, he paid $4.90 to win as he ran one mile in a creditable 136.

General Tendencies: A fine day to get right into whatever will win your attention and to get them quickly completed. Then any service you may have to perform for others can now be handled with equal effectiveness. Be sure that you do remember to ask what others would like done for them so you avoid th...ifficult of doing it your way instead of as your recipient desires.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) You are full of energy today and can toss off all work in jig time, whether it be at your regular job or around the home and garden, working with a hobby, etc. Get an early start and be most efficient. Retire early in p.m.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Any spare time should be spent in getting your appearance at its very best so that you can go out socially later and feel perfectly at ease, impress others with your particular talents. Then let romance rule the evening.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Any free time today is best spent getting home affairs handled very wisely and efficiently. Make improvements needed and in P.M. you can entertain in that important realm of your life or simply relax in comfort. Work.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Research work of any kind can bring excellent results today. Look into whatever will make the future more successful for you. Evening is a fine time to ride that hobby with good friends. Be creative and straightforward.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Utilizing that fine mentality peculiar to the Leo nature along financial lines brings fine success now. Also impress experts in business with your practical good sense and that you spend wisely. Don't splurge, as in the past.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — A day to do almost anything that best suits your fancy. Be sure you dress in good taste and make a fine impression on others. Concentrate on making new contacts and get results quickly. Be yourself, be charming and advance.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Confer with authorities regarding any private projects you may be contemplating. Be so-creative and go into full detail so that they know your position exactly. P.M. good socially or culturally.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 22) — Important that you step out socially throughout day and night and make more headway in such directions as well as see those good friends with whom you want to be more actively associated in the future. Be devoted and kind.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) — Your biggest benefits come today and tonight from any outside business contacts or in civic matters of importance, conferring with higher-ups, etc. Get ahead faster in your career by seeing the right people — be specific.

Capricorn Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Forget dull routine now and travel, if necessary, to see those individuals whose experience has been more varied and wider than yours. Read your paper well for ideas. Then take steps that will help you to expand. Grow.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Maybe it's a point to impress higher-ups with the fine and meticulous way in which you keep accounts and records, particularly where property and holdings are concerned. Also show how efficiently you handle those under you.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Long talks with vital persons around you are fine so that you can plan future operations more wisely, particularly as to matters of policy. Go into necessary detail so that there is complete understanding and errors will be avoided, too.

If your child is born today—he, or she, will be one of those rare individuals who can understand conditions and people about and know what is right to do at the right time. Also, there is fine ability to handle large projects by bringing them down to a practical and workable level. Important to give your progeny as fine and complete an education as possible to avoid hitting any snags at the crucial time in his, or her, career.

Nuclear-Age Laboratory Used to Protect Canadians From Harmful Radiation

By JACK VAN DUSEN

OTTAWA (CP) — Scientists are working in a nuclear-age laboratory here to protect Canadians from over-exposure to harmful radiation.

Tight controls on the growing use of all radioactive materials in Canadian hospitals, universities, private industry and government laboratories are maintained by the tiny group in the radiation protection division of the health department.

The laboratory technicians inspect establishments using the dangerous material and check thousands of employees for radiation exposure.

"We're interested in all aspects affecting the health of Canadians exposed to radiation," Dr. P. M. (Peter) Bird, a senior federal radiation expert, said in an interview.

ISSUES BADGES

He answered technical questions with the minister recently when Mr. Monteith announced increased levels of radiation in Canada as a result of resumption of nuclear testing by the Soviet Union.

He and the staff of the laboratory issue badges to persons working with radioactive materials. The badges are checked at the laboratory every two weeks for radiation contamination.

MAXIMUM EXPOSURE

Workers are allowed to be exposed to only 5,000 milli-roentgens of radiation a year — a figure set by an international commission far within the limits of safety.

"A person can receive this dosage for his working life-time with no ill effects," said Dr. Bird as he conducted a tour of the laboratory to explain the complicated testing machinery and a filing system that keeps track of some 12,000 workers being tested.

If a person receives more than the prescribed dosage, employers are advised to take him off the job, at least for a time.

Of the 12,333 persons checked last year only 14 received dosages of more than 5,000 milli-roentgens—nine in industry, one in research, two in private practice and two in hospitals.

USED IN INDUSTRY

Most of the workers are employed in hospitals, but radioactive materials are finding a growing use in industry.

Equipment with radioactive materials, for example, now helps find leaks in gas lines and measures the thickness of sheet steel in factories.

Also falling within the scope of the laboratory are the testing of milk samples for strontium-90 and objects, such as watches, for dangerous levels of radioactive material.

One manufacturer was advised to change the luminous paint on his watch after laboratory testing found it contained a dangerous amount of strontium-90.

U Thant To Be UN Secretary, Pick Own Aides

Forces Russia, U.S. To Grant Him Free Hand

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The UN security council today recommended unanimously that Burma's U Thant be named acting secretary - general of the world organization in place of the late Dag Hammarskjold.

The action was taken at a brief closed meeting of the 11-nation council after the big powers had reached agreement ending a six-week-old deadlock.

The General Assembly was scheduled to act quickly on the council's recommendation at an afternoon session. Overwhelming approval was expected in a secret ballot.

U Thant will have a free hand to choose his chief assistants.

U THANT

The Russians backed down after trying to specify the number of principal deputies the 32 - member secretariat ambassador would appoint and the three areas from which they would be drawn. The United States made a similar retreat earlier this week.

The security council was called into the closed meeting this morning to recommend U Thant to fill out the term of Dag Hammarskjold, killed in a plane crash Sept. 18.

The general assembly was to meet this afternoon to elect U Thant. He will serve until April, 1962.

U Thant, a quiet but determined diplomat, is the UN's U.S.-Soviet deadlock over the issue of his principal advisers by telling the big powers he would name "a limited number" of assistants to consult himself in advance to any particular area and told the Russians and the Americans they could take it or leave it.

U Thant said he also would not be bound by any decision that he would consult with the Western and neutral countries and work with them "in the spirit of mutual understanding." The Russians originally demanded that the deputies have a veto over every secretary - general's decisions but abandoned this stand weeks ago.

SMALL NATIONS SWAMP GIANTS BUT STILL LOSE

Big Powers to Float Call for Tests Ban

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The smaller countries of the world swarmed over the big ones Thursday night in giving overwhelming approval to a call for a voluntary, unpoliced moratorium on testing of nuclear weapons.

Despite the successful attack, the small powers did not win. For different stated reasons, the great powers had turned down the plea in advance.

The UN political committee voted 78 to 21 with eight abstentions for the voluntary cessation of testing, overcoming the objections of the Soviet Union, the United States and Britain.

Canada supported the resolution initiated by India and five other non-aligned states. It appeared certain to get the two-thirds majority needed in the 103-country General Assembly.

France and Australia were among the countries opposed.

Russia and the Western nuclear powers then began separate camps — indicated they would endorse nuclear testing if they considered them necessary for their own safety and that of the smaller powers.

Non-ops Ask Wage Increase In New Contract

MONTREAL (CP) — Frank Hall, chief negotiator for Canada's non - operating railway unions, today outlined a new contract program calling for an immediate 7½ - cents - an - hour wage increase and rising as high as a possible 36 cents over the next two years.

Mr. Hall told a press conference that the 160,000 members of the 15 CLC-affiliated non-operating unions also will demand a job security, including severance pay, improved health benefits and an extra paid holiday a year. They now get seven paid holidays.

The 68 - year - old union chief made the demands known at the new contract demands, to be served formally on the railways about June 15, immediately after the 105-member policy - setting body of the unions endorsed a two-day meeting to draw up the demands.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: A belt of strong southerly winds extending from the Gulf of Mexico to southern and central Ontario is carrying warm air into the province. Temperatures today are expected to range between 75 at Windsor to 50 at White River and Moosonee. An extensive rain area covering most of lower Michigan and Northern Ontario is expected to spread slowly eastward to cover the remainder of the province today. Cold air pushing down through northwestern Ontario will move eastward to displace the warm air.

TRADE DEFICIT CUT SHARPLY DURING AUGUST

Dollar Discount Makes Effects Felt

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's merchandise trade deficit was cut sharply by a $52,900,000 surplus in August as the Canadian dollar's exchange discount made its effect felt.

The August trade surplus—fifth monthly surplus of the year—was the result of a relatively small $14,700,000 trade deficit for the first eight months of 1961, the bureau of statistics reported today.

Last year, despite a $35,000,000 surplus in August, there was a $126,200,000 deficit for the January-August period, and 1960 ended with a $96,000,000 deficit—excess in most other years, reports.

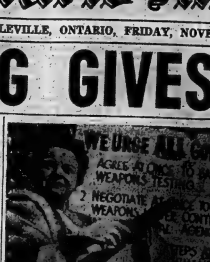
August exports totalled $617,100,000, an increase of 7.6 per cent from the $573,100,000 a year earlier. The month's imports showed a year-to-year gain of 11.2 per cent to $464,200,000 from $444,500,000.

The DBS report said part of these increases, in both exports and imports, reflects the changed exchange status of the Canadian dollar. In August, 1960, the dollar was at a premium of around three per cent above the U.S. dollar compared with a discount of four per cent this summer following the June 21 change.

Informants explained that since most of Canada's trade, both import purchases and export sales, is conducted in terms of U.S. dollars, the Canadian dollar value of both exports and imports is higher.

The gain in August exports compared with a year earlier was due largely to a 26-per-cent increase in exports to foreign countries apart from the United States and Commonwealth, plus slight gains in sales to the U.S. and Britain.

Increased buying from the United States, up 15.2 per cent, accounted for virtually all of the August rise in imports.



For the January - August period, exports were 4.8 per cent higher and imports were 0.6 per cent higher, with the respective totals of $3,731,300,000 compared with $3,974,000,000.

Trade figures by major areas for the January-August period appear here and last, in millions of dollars:

Canadian Radio War Expert Suggests Russians Treated With Anti-Radiation Drug

OTTAWA (CP) — Charles B. Lambrick, retired RCAF group captain and missile and radar expert, said today he believes the Soviet Union has perfected an anti - radiation drug which has been mass-administered to the Russian people.

He said that in such circumstances Russia can detonate many more nuclear bombs, lure the West into testing its own nuclear weapons and "can wait out a long while for results."

Group Capt. Lambrick, former Director of radio warfare in the RCAF, said in an interview that Western nations for some years have known that "Russia was on the track of a chemical pill or substance to offset most of radiation sickness effects."

"In my opinion," he added, Russia may now have a counter to radiation."

Obviously, Russia is not worried about contamination," Group Capt. Lambrick said.

Group Capt. Lambrick said he was told in Europe last year that the USSR was "close to success" in its search for an antidote for radiation poisoning. He did not identify his informant.

Fallout: Bad Actors

Strontium, Iodine, Casium Are Feared in Bomb Blasts

NEW YORK (AP) — The results of a test atomic or hydrogen bomb explosion ghost around the world for months. But for winds to blow about and rain or snow to bring drifting down on people around the world.

What is cause of serious concern for North Americans?

No, at least not yet, says the U.S. Public Health Service, which is keeping a super-casual eye on fallout.

The watch is maintained because fallout atoms are potentially a menace, carried by quirks of wind and weather to unlucky localities "hotter" than others.

The trouble with strontium-90 is that it concentrates in bones, while iodine concentrates in the thyroid gland. Too much of either can cause cancer or cysts of the bone or thyroid, or leukemia.

Cerium-137 becomes generally distributed through the body, including sex glands, where it might cause genetic changes. How much is too much for humans? No one can answer this, because no one is sure how LITTLE radiation is likely to cause harmful effects on the body.

To play it safe, international and U.S. experts have set ex-

TORONTO (CP) — Frank Zdancewicz, 54, of Toronto today became the second man victim of gunshot wounds suffered in an attempted bank robbery downtown Toronto Monday.

GOVT. GETS FIRST BANK LOAN IN FOUR YEARS

Will Be Repaid In Matter of Days

OTTAWA (CP) — Like any householder from time to time, the federal government is a little shy of cash at the moment and has gone to the bank for a loan—the Bank of Canada.

But in borrowings of $45,000,000 for a few days and reflect a seasonal difficulties, officials said Thursday night. However, it's the first time the government has needed a loan to tide it at least four years.

Government deposits in banks were down to $77,000,000 on Wednesday. They totalled $18,000,000,000 a year ago, about the same time.

The mortgage apparently crops up just about the time of the annual Canada Savings Bonds sales and these have the effect to put more money in the pot a year or next week.

The loan was revealed in the central bank's weekly report, prompting some queries from financial houses, and investment dealers. The report stated that the loan is expected to be repaid in a matter of days and that there will be no effect on to the national money supply in circulation.

DEPENDS ON LEVEL

The amount of the seasonal decline in federal deposits each fall depends on the general level of expenditures and revenues, a spokesman said. The general treasury have been heavier in line with the June 30 budget forecast by Finance Minister Fleming of a $630,000,000 deficit for the fiscal year ending March 31.

In addition, there has been speculation that the government has been using more money through the exchange fund to influence the exchange value of the Canadian dollar. This would involve buying U.S. dollars to push the Canadian dollar; at its current discount.

Thus, Canadian exports are cheaper and more competitive in world markets. On the other hand, import prices run higher. The Wednesday level of $18,000,000 in Canadian bank, was $76,000,000 below the government's accounts a week earlier.

Last year, the annual low point was $48,000,000 Sept. 28. The peak, usually around the government, realized $300,000,000 in a bond issue the first week of September.

Claim Invading Forces Beaten

ELISABETHVILLE (AP) — Katanga radio claimed today that Katanga troops had scored victories in recent days in parts of the central Congo government which invaded the secessionist province.

National troops abandoned a heavy load of arms, ammunition and wounded, to be assisted by Katanga troops, the broadcast said in reiterating claims that all invaders have been repulsed.

City Twice Razed by Hurricanes Will Be Rebuilt 44 Miles Inland

BELIZE, British Honduras (AP)—Twice destroyed by hurricanes in 30 years this capital of British Honduras will be moved inland 44 miles from the exposed Caribbean coast to higher ground.

The government announcement came as the known death toll from Hattie rose to 151, and many more bodies were buried in the jungle or swept and wreckage left by the storm heaped.

The rising Belize River threatened floods in the city of 30,000, which was leveled by the 200-mile-an-hour winds and tidal waves that crashed in from the Caribbean.

Belize counted 88 dead. An estimated 75 per cent of the buildings in the capital were destroyed or damaged. The property devastation was greater than the 1931 hurricane that leveled the city and killed more

Is Announced Mother, Baby Are Doing Well

Born in Same Room As His Mother Was

LONDON (CP)—Princess Margaret gave birth to a son today to her husband said she was thrilled and delighted.

First to see the baby boy—after the doctors and nurses—was the Queen Mother. The Snowdon, the former society photographer Antony Armstrong-Jones.

Coming from the royal maternity suite in Clarence House, he exclaimed to a member of the household:

"The princess and I are absolutely thrilled and delighted."

His son—fifth in line to the British throne—was born Victoria Lindley.

The infant's weight was not announced immediately.

An official announcement said "mother and son are doing well."

"It's a sweet baby," said a member of the household.

OWN ROOM

The child was born in the room that Princess Margaret once used as a bedroom. She lived at the house, known as the Queen Mother, until her marriage May 6, 1960. Both she and her husband are 31.

Crowds cheered outside Clarence House. The Scots Guards bagpipe band marched past flying the air with highland music.

News of the birth was relayed quickly to Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip. Congratulations began pouring in.

Leaving the big square room the nurses and maids had gone to work on the Queen Mother. With her, he re-viewed the baby.

Before the baby's birth—10:45 a.m. (5:45 a.m. EST) Tony met Margaret at Heathrow Airport and rose. He repeated the oft-told story of his wife.

Bursting with the news, the Queen Mother got on the telephone to Buckingham Palace. To the Queen, she said:

"It's a boy, they're both doing well."

Within three hours the Queen was at Clarence House to see her sister and the baby. The Queen Mother's delight was born was the same in which Elizabeth gave birth to Princess Anne 11 years ago.

The news was flashed to the far corners of the world. It ever

Is Announced Mother, Baby Are Doing Well

Born in Same Room As His Mother Was

LONDON (CP)—Princess Margaret gave birth to a son today to her husband said she was thrilled and delighted.

First to see the baby boy—after the doctors and nurses—was the Queen Mother. The Snowdon, the former society photographer Antony Armstrong-Jones.

Coming from the royal maternity suite in Clarence House, he exclaimed to a member of the household:

"The princess and I are absolutely thrilled and delighted."

His son—fifth in line to the British throne—was born Victoria Lindley.

The infant's weight was not announced immediately.

An official announcement said "mother and son are doing well."

"It's a sweet baby," said a member of the household.

OWN ROOM

The child was born in the room that Princess Margaret once used as a bedroom. She lived at the house, known as the Queen Mother, until her marriage May 6, 1960. Both she and her husband are 31.

Crowds cheered outside Clarence House. The Scots Guards bagpipe band marched past flying the air with highland music.

News of the birth was relayed quickly to Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip. Congratulations began pouring in.

Leaving the big square room the nurses and maids had gone to work on the Queen Mother. With her, he re-viewed the baby.

Before the baby's birth—10:45 a.m. (5:45 a.m. EST) Tony met Margaret at Heathrow Airport and rose. He repeated the oft-told story of his wife.

Bursting with the news, the Queen Mother got on the telephone to Buckingham Palace. To the Queen, she said:

"It's a boy, they're both doing well."

Within three hours the Queen was at Clarence House to see her sister and the baby. The Queen Mother's delight was born was the same in which Elizabeth gave birth to Princess Anne 11 years ago.

The news was flashed to the far corners of the world. It ever

Says Station Not Considered Prime Target

TRENTON — Flying Officer G. S. Park, who is connected with the nuclear defence section of the RCAF, spoke to members of the College Street Home and School Association on Wednesday evening.

Flying Officer Park said that Trenton was not considered a prime target for an enemy attack. He said that the town did not have any large industries and that the air station was a "normal air station" and as such would hold no interest for an enemy. Toronto, Niagara Falls, Windsor, Detroit, possibly Ottawa, and Montreal, missile bases could be considered prime targets for enemy attack.

The defence expert told the assembled parents that if Trenton were attacked by an enemy attack, persons living in the Trenton area would have two or three hours available to them that they would have ample time to protect themselves and their families against radio-active fallout. He said that refuge shelters could be built in the out shelters, or if these were not available, in the protected part of one's own home or apartment building. In reference to the latter, F.O. Park said to close all windows and doors and stay in a ground floor hallway. If the apartment building did not have a basement.

The address was illustrated by a film, which demonstrated the devastating effects of a nuclear blast.

In magistrate's court at Brighton yesterday a 20-year-old village resident pleaded guilty to a charge of assault. When Magistrate R. E. Mayes suggested that the youth might be remanded out of custody, "with restrictions," the young man queried, "Does that mean I can't go out at night?" When assured by the magistrate that it did, he said, "I'd rather go to jail." He did. He will be retained in custody until Nov. 10 for sentencing.

Kiwanians Hosts To Youngsters

TRENTON—The members of the Trenton Kiwanis Club played host last night to their young sons and daughters at a children's party at the Cinema-way Hotel. From the kiddies' point of view, the evening was a huge success. Harried fathers shovelled themselves out from under the welter of ice cream and cake and cookies, wrung out tablecloths, dripping with chocolate milk, and generally tried to keep the evening's entertainment on an even keel.

The arrival of cartons of toys from Santa's workshop created a diversion until each and every father discovered that his child didn't want the toy he was given, but did want the toy which had been given to the child across the table. Finally, everyone settled down to watch cartoons.

The club member rumoured it up, "This evening is a rest for the mothers; bedlam for the fathers and a night to the bachelors in the club," he said.

United Appeal Campaign May Reach Goal

The light is beginning to break through for the 1963 United Appeal campaign director says the fact that there are still a great number of lists outstanding which the volunteer canvassers have not yet turned back in.

Campaign chairman, Enda David announced this morning that it looks as though this year's campaign may even reach its objective. This optimism is caused by the fact that the house-to-house canvass returns have taken an upward turn and should definitely pass last year's figure once all the lists are in. To date the appeal has collected $45,000.

In payroll giving there has been an excellent response from many of the city's firms and the early reports from the business sections indicate that "every company will be giving more than last year. Mr. David estimates that increase as between 10 and 15 per cent.

There are, however, a number of firms whose returns are down from previous years. It is hoped that if a section or group is not giving as much last year's level than it will at least hold its own, so that in overall the appeal will not suffer. All this can be done every possible chance exists for the campaign to reach its goal, something which has yet to be achieved in the community.

The allocation of donations to specific agencies in the appeal is almost down to nil, Mr. David announced. This indicates that more people are learning the truth about the work of the agencies involved and are giving it up to the budget committee of the United Appeal to determine the amount and use of each agency's annual budget.

Mr. David re-emphasized the need for volunteer workers to get their campaign kits completed and turned in as quickly as possible.

Hallowe'en Party Enjoyed By Cubs, Scouts

Although Hallowe'en did not fall on Saturday this year, one might have wandered, had he been in the vicinity of Christ Church that night. It was a real gruffying to Alexa Kemp and her assistants to have such an abundance of what hirsuit goes to be Cubs, Scouts, parents and guests.

Costumes were varied and colorful, the faces cheerful, sorrowful or grueasome. There were 'girls' wearing high-heeled shoes who most likely would feel much more at home in sneakers, aluminum , robots, spacemen, skeletons, madly underdressed, but each one amusing, added a colorful touch to the decorated auditorium.

Akela appeared as a duelling Spanish c a b allero, Bagheera (Mrs. H. Gibson), as a lovely Indian princess, and Baloo (Mrs. L. Williams), as a Dutch girl in a costume of royal blue and white.

The judges for the children's costumes were Mr. and Mrs. George Wonnacott and Mr. Bates. The prettiest costume was an Indian girl, Stewart Foster; the most original, a much-overweight laughing man and the winner, a clown, Sammy Hodgson. The Cub judges named as prize winners a mummy bandaged patient, Mrs. J. Hodgson, who got around on a roller skate, and a sorrowful hobo, Mr. Jack Hodgson.

Humorous games such as the fish pond, apple bobbing, ring toss, bean-bag throwing, darts, guessing games and others amused the youngsters and adults alike.

The proceeds from these, the sale of candy and the 'fines' from parents not in costume, were sent to UNICEF.

A coffee party is being held later in November by the 2nd Belleville, Boy Scout Group Committee to which the public is cordially invited.

STRONTIUM

Most of these "die" very quickly, and so don't travel far.

But strontium-90 and cesium-137 remain radioactive for many years. It takes about 27 years for half the original amount to disappear. It takes in food, these atoms can remain active in the body, long enough to do potentially damaging rays, for a long time.

Iodine-131 has a half - life—in which half of it becomes harmless—of eight days. In another eight days, only one-quarter of the original amount remains.

If milk became contaminated with iodine, keeping it refrigerated for a month would make it safe to drink, Dr. James Terhune of the U.S. Public Health Service, points out.

From all bomb tests through 1958, the total amount of strontium-90 in children's bones, on the average, was about 36 times less than the maximum dose considered to be harmless if it is in bones. All the bomb tests might double this — and it would still be only 73 times less than the estimated "safe" maximum.

SET DAILY LIMIT

As a guide for protection, the Federal Radiation Council has set limits on the amount of radiation over an entire year, as measured in microroentgenies of activity.

For strontium-90, this ranges from 300 to 2,000 and for iodine from 100 to 1,000. A microcurie is one - millionth of one - millionth of a curie, which a curie being equivalent to the radioactivity in one g r a m (-280) of radium. (Reuters).

The public health service is keeping a daily watch on radioactivity in the air, water and milk, and some foods, to detect any dangerous increases.

If limits are approached or exceeded, then some action can be taken to protect people.

For milk, switching to canned or powdered milk, which had been on the shelf long enough for letting fresh milk sit a while, could remove the danger from iodine.

Washing fruit and vegetables carefully could remove fallout atoms.

If certain crops were found to be relatively high in strontium, they could be avoided as human food. Cows could be fed forage which had been stored inside barns or silos, and hence not touched by fallout.

Bayside H-S Holds Panel Discussion

The second meeting of the Bayside Home and School was held at the school.

Mr. Ernie Tuck accepted the position of vice-president and Mrs. Owen Mills that of secretary-treasurer for the Belleville area.

Mrs. Fox's room won the room count.

Mr. Miller introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Kerr, Dominion principal, and Baloo (Mrs. L. Williams), as a lovely Indian princess, and Baloo (Mrs. L. Williams), as a Dutch girl in a costume of royal blue and white.

Life Insurance Group Hears National Head

The Bay of Quinte branch of the Life Underwriters Association of Canada met at Club Canada Wednesday to welcome the national president, C. B. Lindsay, CLU.

Mr. Don Wright, local president, extended greetings. Mayor McCabe, Jr. then attended the meeting and was introduced by Mr. C. B. Lindsay by Mr. Wright. He spoke briefly.

Mr. Jim Angus of the London Life Insurance Company, introduced Mr. C. B. Lindsay to the meeting and mentioned that he had just completed 30 years of service to the industry.

Mr. Lindsay then addressed the meeting on the facts of life in relation to life insurance and the saving of money. He reminded the payment of income tax, which inaugs: good government and prosperity, which is live, to the benefit that life underwriters receive by belonging to a nation-wide association. He likened membership to prevention of disease, saying that through association, members are strengthened by good government within the industry.

He went on to say that from the Life Underwriters' view the product life underwriters offer for purchase is another type of selling. He compared things bought and consumed today with those, giving families protection and the young man savings for the future. The latter kind of selling requires constant study and he congratulated the young men in the association on receiving awards awarded for L.U.A.C. training courses, these studies developing sincerity, perseverance and knowledge which enables a life underwriter to deal with the facts of life as against the use of slide rule theories so often used today in the educational field.

He quoted as an example a $1,000 Endowment policy that he purchased in 1921. Forty years later that is still on deposit with the issuing company and still earning interest at a guaranteed rate of interest. He mentioned that he has used it if collateral many, many times. He compared this endowment policy with bond he bought about the same time which forty years later is not worth the value when issued. In giving this comparison he quoted from Igor Babson's book "Business Barometers for Profits, Security, and Income":

"In fact, experience definitely per cent of the people who enter into savings plans failed somewhere along the way". Quoting again from this book "every man should (1) save part of what he earns (2) open a bank account and (3) buy some life insurance. In doing this he should first have a budget, then a budget plan, direct some of his dollars into thrift savings and in the years ahead he should buy further life insurance for such things as mortgage cancellation and family protection, the latter should be regarded as a sacred trust and borrowing against policies, purchased for this purpose should only be made in absolute emergency".

Quoting again from "Business Barometers for Profits, Security, and Income": "Life insurance is a combination of

A Fine Generation

"One of the quietest Hallowe'ens on record."

Although we would not have dared to voice an opinion before Hallowe'en—there's no sense in waving a red flag at even a good-tempered bull—it is our opinion that Hallowe'en behavior has vastly improved.

Why this should be, we do not know. One hears a lot about juvenile delinquency these days and behind all this smoke there is some fire. In larger cities, gangs of youths act in a cruel and depraved manner, in a fashion which a quarter of a century ago would have been almost unthinkable. Even in smaller centres such as Belleville, it is probably true that there are larger numbers of violent teen-agers than there were two or three decades ago. Despite this fact, though, or perhaps because of it, the behavior of the vast majority of young people is of a higher standard on Hallowe'en than that which prevailed in the old days.

The truth of the matter seems to be that when young people today are good they are very, very good, and when they are bad they are awful. This is probably not a new situation. What may be new, though, is the development of a consistency in conduct. Young people who were kind and thoughtful 364 days of the year would, on the Hallowe'en of old, tear down fences, rip out verandah steps and tumble out-houses, without regard to the kind of people on whom they inflicted these woes. That situation has been remedied. We commend today's young people for the change. It is a sign of maturity, an indication of good character. Far from indicating that they are less high-spirited or less manly, it tends to prove the reverse when their abstention from senseless vandalism is compared to their various exploits of skill, daring and application to hard work.

We do wish, though, that this admirable attitude might be extended to the manner in which they handle motor cars. Why a generation which would abstain from ripping out a rail fence would endanger the life and limbs and property, not only of themselves but of others, by senseless "dragging" on city streets is beyond us.

But we suppose one cannot expect perfection and right now we are ready to accept today's generation as a vast improvement over our own.

The Communist Goods

Religion, said Karl Marx, is the opiate of the people.

When anyone accuses the communists of being materialists, the communists accept this denunciation as a compliment.

They have termed their method of reasoning dialectical materialism.

Religion they consider superstition and superstition they deride. Religion, fairy tales, witch-doctor rituals—all are denounced.

Who would expect such people to accept the doctrine of infallibility of the leader?

Creatures from another planet, learning the communist creed espoused by materialists, would hardly credit that such people would have embalmed the body of a mortal man—a man who, according to their own doctrine, had no soul and was now no more than a bundle of virtually worthless matter—and placed this embalmed body in a tomb.

These creatures from outer space might, then, regard as a return to sanity the communists' decision to remove Stalin's body from its tomb in Red Square.

Even more would they have approved the party's refusal to permit the beliefs of Stalin to become embalmed as party doctrine, with those who would differ from such beliefs branded as heretics.

But these creatures would be wrong. For Stalin, in life and in the pre-Khrushchev days, was merely one of the communist trinity. Karl Marx and Lenin were his equals. Khrushchev has done nothing to demote them from atheistic gods and the gods of atheists to their proper roles as gifted human beings now dead.

Nor is Stalin himself being permitted to assume his proper role. From being a god he has been converted into a devil, and a stupid one at that. Cruel he was but as many of those who differed most sharply with his beliefs have testified—Sir Winston Churchill and Lord Alanbrooke amongst others—he was tremendously gifted and not without certain virtues.

The "cult of personality" which Khrushchev preaches against still is served by him.

Nothing is more certain than that, if Nicolai Lenin possessed half the powers with which he is credited, he would roll over so ceaselessly in his tomb in the Red Square that the walls of the Kremlin would come tumbling down.

Large Family Eases Stress

Ottawa Citizen

There's more than meets the eye in the statement by Sir George Pickering, Oxford University's professor of medicine, that "the more children you have, the lower the blood pressure," and this applies to the male as well as the female." Sir George, who lectured this view at a press conference in Toronto the other day, has made the most extensive study of blood pressure.

High blood pressure can be caused by a number of factors. But environment and psychological considerations, are important. It should be obvious to any layman that a man with a lot of children is in a better position to keep his blood pressure low than one with few.

There are times, when things can get so bad that there's no resource but to laugh or cry. Either way, the father of a multitude gets relief from tension. His hysterics caused by a rampaging brood that he can neither muster into line nor sow by threats nor control by authority, or even in an emotional deflation that is bound to lower his blood pressure.

Probably the climax in trying to control a large brood, meeting only with failure, occurs when the father confuses the names of the one he has fired. He roars at Mortimer when it is Algernon and scolds Millicent when his words were intended for Prudence. As he realizes his error — and it happens to every father in consequence — he sees red — he knows he has had it. He decides that it's better to drift with the tide and again his blood pressure subsides. The father of many children is spared to become a philosopher which is what makes Sir George so right.

Sponge Up Radiation

Milwaukee Journal

In the 1957 underground atomic test explosion in Nevada, radioactivity from the bomb was sealed in a glistening cocoon formed by molten rock that solidified. Now this sealinging is being studied under instrumentality in a process to dispose of atomic wastes.

With financing from the atomic energy commission, a Colora. do research group has produced porous ceramic balls, or sponges about the size of golf balls. The sponges are soaked in liquid atomic wastes, dried, then soaked again. Then they are fired, scorbed as the atomic residue they will hold—as much as 30 per volume — the balls are "fired" by heating them to 2400 degrees. This in effect will force the ceramic to close and seals the radioactive substances inside.

Disposing of "hot" atomic wastes is a problem that promises to become more difficult and costly as the number of atomic installations increases. It has been estimated that by the end of the century the nation will have to find a safe storage space for 16,000,000 tons of such wastes that cannot be dumped into the sea or exposed to the air because the radioactivity is not reduced to a point where such disposal is safe.

The ceramic sponges provide a safe, compact, virtually timeproof storage method. There is a further advantage. Should the detective atomic energy some reason become valuable, they could easily be recovered.

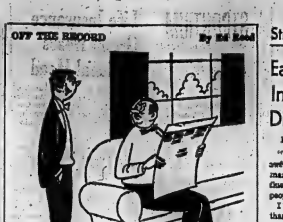
STRENGTH FOR THE DAY



By DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

BOTH DUTY AND PRIVILEGE

Some time ago I heard a minister relate how a dog escaped his church one morning just before he started his service. The dog went down the left aisle peering into every pew, then he crossed over and went up the other aisle peering into every pew. He was looking for his master, and not finding him by the end of the church as he had entered it a few minutes before.

The minister in his talk used two points. First, he said that it was a great compliment to the man that when his dog started looking for him he would look for him in church. But the minister's second point was that the man in his dog down badly by not being there.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

November 3rd, 1941.

On Thursday afternoon a party of fifty students from the University of Toronto visited the Canada Cement plant at Point Anne. On their arrival they were guided and welcomed by Mr. J. H. Legate, the superintendent of the plant. After a tour of inspection during which each department was visited, the party gathered at the Club House where they were served coffee and doughnuts. Mr. Bryant, one of the group of students, expressed the thanks of his fellow students and himself to the kindly welcome and hospitality.

The appointment of James Raymond Carr, formerly Trainmaster, C.N.R., Brantford, Ont., in the same capacity at Belleville, is announced. Mr. Carr was born at Belleville June 19, 1894, and commenced his career with the Canadian National System as brakeman at that point on July 15, 1910. In December, 1918 he was promoted to conductor, holding that at Belleville; subsequently he served at Hamilton and London in the same capacity. Carr has also served as Alderman in Belleville.

With the exception of a few broken windows exceptionally little damage was instigated to Belleville police on Hallowe'en? The most serious damage was to the smashing of glass at Lind's Bakery on Dundas Street following which three teen-age lads were apprehended who admitted their guilt when questioned by the police. Provincial Police reported the destruction of several mail boxes west of the Fair Grounds; and at Canniffon small outer houses were pushed off their foundations without serious damage.

There were fourteen translations in the city police station last night, and the night before there were nineteen spent the night there.

Mr. Harold Coppin, traffic manager of the Bell Telephone of Canada in Ottawa, is here to spend the weekend with his father, Mr. Thomas H. Coppin. Canadian National Agent Jeffs. Give a man a job, is a good idea and there will be many odd jobs now for the unemployed; storm windows and doors to put on, leaves to be raked, gardens to be dug up for the winter, wood to be cut, etc. Even an hour's work will many odd hours' work to be done with an appropriate pay which would give work to a number of men.

Sale Made With Speed

St. Thomas Times-Standard

A story is told about the late Arnold Bennett relates that wealthy American dropped in for his autograph. Bennett London hotel and ordered a drink for his guest. Told that it was past the hour when drink could be served, he asked to see the proprietor and after a little talk he would sell the hotel for. "How much do you want?" said the manager. "Done," said the American. He wrote a cheque for the sum mentioned and left. "I own this place now. This is my first home. Bring me a drink."

That, of course, was just a story, but big business deal comparable in speed was carried out at a race track East Yuma in Western Australia recently.

Mr. Thomas, a sheep breeder was driving his car along a track when he met Mr. Higgins coming down. Mr. Higgins, another sheep man who grazed 25,000 sheep, happened to come along the track and Thomas pulled to the car. They got out, shook hands and congratulations, and Mr. Thomas said: "Ever thought of selling your property?" Mr. Higgins replied: "If I get my price." "How much will that be?" asked Thomas. "£200,000." "I'll pay that," said Thomas. "Done," was Higgins reply.

They simply shook hands on the deal, Mr. Higgins becoming the owner of 22,000 acres, 10,000 prime merino sheep, and 1,000 head of cattle.

In one swoop Mr. Higgins had made a cheque, went off on a world cruise, and when he returns he will proceed to the Kimberly Range to start a cattle station.

Strictly Personal

Each Reader Interprets Differently

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

"Your column must do an awful lot of good," said the woman at dinner. "I'm sure it influences the thinking of many people all over the country."

I murmured the conventional thanks, and ate my dessert, quite wrong but I refrained from saying so. It would have seemed like false modesty.

That same afternoon, I had spent two hours autographing copies of my new book in a department store. As the purchasers came each to the counter, most of them said a few words to me.

"I like your column," said one, "because it's never sarcastic, but it's always sympathetic."

"What I like most," said another, "is your sarcasm and the way you blast away at things you don't like. You're never sentimental."

"You say just the things I feel," he said a third, "and you seem to put into words exactly what I'm sure a lot of people think but can't say."

"Your columns give me food," said another, "because they express thoughts that are new to me. They're always different and unexpected."

And so it went. Each reader had his own particular view of my writings, and each one either coincided with some particular slant of the reader.

The impression which has happened to me before, only strengthened my conviction that not one person in a thousand is ever really "interviewed" by the writers whom he reads — much as the vanity of writers would prompt them to think otherwise.

The old Hindu fable of the blind men describing different parts of the elephant applies equally to readers. We are emotionally blind to those ideas we do not care to accept, and how nimble-fingered are the fog or the tail for the whole elephant.

Each reader gets out of my column what he puts into it — and what he wants to get out of it. Reading is a highly selective process; the mind simply filters out whatever does not appeal to it. Ten persons can read the identical piece, and record ten entirely different impressions.

This is why the writer who is always trying to please everybody ends by pleasing nobody. Every attempt to please one group of readers necessarily displeases another group, and the writer who tries to please everybody ends by displeasing himself.

The only way to please others is to please yourself, and to write as honestly as you can. Then you will find your own audience, and you will please them.

Letter To The Editor

Supports Admitting Women to Ministry

Editor
Ontario Intelligencer

There seems to be said in favor of Mr. Charles Woodcock's contention that women should be admitted to the ministry of the Church. It is fairly safe to state that the two sexes are on a par today. Women are active in all walks of professional life. Many are quite as often the case as not, that they are the better speakers. They would make a really tremendous contribution in working with the people, in the spiritual Church.

The Bible contains many instances of women playing a notable service in furthering the progress of Christianity. Possibly the time has not "come when definite action should be taken in this matter. If our church is to go forward to greater heights the inclusion of women in the ministry of the church would appear to have become necessary. Some of the women missionaries I have met would have left a lasting impression upon me; they possessed genuine inspiration and dedication.

To Your Good Health

Retarded Circulation Can Contribute to Puffy Ankles

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Sir: During real hot weather, or when I sit a lot, as for instance, in travelling my ankles and feet puff up. I have no cramps or pains.

"What causes this or what can be done? Other times everything is fine. — Mrs. C.M.F."

I — When people sit for a long time, "as for instance in travelling," their legs hold over whatever they are sitting on. This in some instances can retard circulation. That is why it is a good idea to get up and walk around every now and then. Don't just stay sitting.

2 — Varicose veins can contribute to this trouble if they have them.

3 — It helps, in a mild but real sort of way, if you are a "swinger." The person who is a little more likely to develop this sort of circulation (and maybe also puffy ankles) is the nerve and make the feet "go to sleep") than one who wiggles around, exercises the legs, swings them.

4 — A couple of other causes contribute to this tendency, or a kidney disorder, for example may cause this same trouble. If the impairment of circulation is moderate, they may not cause any noticeable trouble unless some other factor helps them, such as sitting for several hours in a fixed position.

If a person notices undue swelling, it's a good idea to get in touch with the doctor and have a check on veins, heart, kidneys, etc. Take early steps now to combat the trouble, rather than wait until it has become serious.

This sort of swelling is, from the health standpoint, a good thing because it gives prompt warning.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I've heard about bad teeth causing people to feel ill all sorts of ways. I have several teeth broken off in my mouth. Can this be true that has the most broken teeth I have a loss of hearing, earaches and a constant headache. Would you advise me to have all my teeth pulled as they all seem bad? — M. K."

I can't be certain that the broken (and probably infected) teeth are the direct cause of your troubles — but it is possible. Either way, such a tooth condition is a strain on your health. As to having all of them removed — only on your dentist's advice. He is the one to decide whether you have enough teeth saving.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have a son in his 20's. He recently had the second attack of bleeding ulcers which happened on the highway. I made the remark to his doctor that I thought he would bleed to death on the highway. He informed me that it was over bleeds to death from an ulcer! Is that true? — Mrs. E. H."

Doubtless he was trying to be reassuring. But it is true that a massive hemorrhage from a bleeding ulcer can be fatal.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

UNDERSTANDING

The wisest man who ever lived misunderstood more than he ever understood.

Wisdom and intelligence related to their highest power are but equal to understanding. It takes feeling to understand, not great power of brain and learning.

To have just one person in all the world understand you is to receive quite your share of happiness. But to find that person is the problem of a lifetime of searching. Some are fortunate enough to find a few handful who understand and who thus clutter a group of kindred spirits over their hearts and hands that guide them by day and by night.

But to most of us this finding of that one — or ones — is a search that ends in disappointment.

This makes rather strange when it is realized that understanding amounts mostly to overlooking and accepting.

Out in Nature where beauty is dominant, we look for beauty and find it. We seek it and rarely find fault with the imperfections that creep in; but when it comes to human beings we start by looking for the faults and the failures of their makeup and so often end with the feeling that there is not enough in the good and beautiful to make beauty a worthwhile companion for us.

Yet how restful and full of stimulus is the one who understands! Like a gentle breeze that fans the face on a day when the atmosphere is the deepest.

Most of us only understand more, thought more, and considered more, what a mass of misunderstanding we could roll away.

Just to understand — it's hard to explain — but it's quite enough.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Most slow drivers on the highways are unaccustomed drivers or over-cautious drivers. But now and again the police come across a genuine fiend.

"There are several categories of psychopathic drivers, the highway patrol constable told me". Everybody is familiar with the type of driver who exercises his ego with his car. In his work, in his home, he is a bully. But when he's at the wheel of a car, he is powerful.

"Most of this type greatly their egos by fast driving, by cutting in and out of traffic in order to pass as many as possible. The more cars they

Winter Season Opens, County Centre Again Hive of Activity

PICTON — Prince Edward County Centre at the Fair Grounds is once again a hive of activity. The first week is being devoted to skating, with curling to begin on Monday, next. Junior hockey will take Thursday Nights, County League hockey, Tuesday nights, Minor hockey Saturday mornings, with other events worked in wherever possible, with Friday and Saturday nights and Sunday afternoons kept open as far as possible, for skating.

When the Centre was begun, committees were named to conduct the financial campaign and to supervise erection of the building and installation of the artificial ice plant. These, with representatives of the Agricultural Society under whose auspices the Centre was built, continued to operate the Centre very successfully.

Organization of a Commission representing all groups who contributed to the building fund, was delayed by the necessity of replacing the structure last year.

Recently, organizations were invited to send a representative to a meeting at which a commission to operate the Centre eight months of the year would be elected. At this meeting, directors elected, by ballot were D. O. Reynolds, Leonard MacDonald, Dr. Lionel Doolittle, Herb Atherton.

Also directors are representatives of Rotary Club, John Bell or Herb Colliver; Kiwanis Club, Arthur Hamblin; Curling Club, Dr. Richard Evans; a representative of the hockey groups yet to be named; Elmer Mesmen Club, Gordon Way. Also serving on the Board are three representatives of the Agricultural Society, Sam Dodds, Wilbur Mills, and Creighton Lockyer.

In addition, there are three members of the Board of Governors, elected for 2, 2 and 1 years, namely Mike Finnegan, Phil Dodds and Chris Lockyer. This assures a continuity of experienced members on the commission.

ELECT OFFICERS

These directors met to elect officers with the following result: chairman, D. O. Reynolds; vice-chairman, A. Hamblin, Sam Geralia will continue to act as Secretary and A. Hamblen as treasurer with Wilbur Mills as financial secretary.

ENDORSES BY-LAWS

By-laws which had been considered for sometime, to assure efficient operation of the centre for years to come, were endorsed by the commission and give each committee full power to act, with monthly reports to be made to the commission which is to meet monthly on the 8th, with November meeting changed to the 4th due to the deer hunting season. Saturday night committees will report on how they have organized.

As in the past, organizations will be invited to take charge of the centre one week at a time.

At the organization meeting, Mike Finnegan who has been commission chairman since the Centre started operations, referred to the very successful years of operation. The Centre had been built though most people had said "it can't be done." He expressed appreciation given by donors, workers, organizations, service and many others which had made it possible to erect and operate the agricultural and Recreation Centre without any levy on taxpayers.

Annual report was given by treasurer R. Naemblin and showed a very substantial profit though the last season was a short one due to erecting a new building. Practically all surplus on hand had been given to help pay for the new building.

Thanks were expressed to the chairman and treasurer.

A retiring charter member of the commission, W. Henderson expressed pleasure at having been able to serve and the satisfaction all feel at the arena with artificial ice becoming a reality.

The new chairman, D. O. Reynolds, asked for the same co-operation which had made past years so successful and urged a businesslike administration of the Centre for the public good.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Stella W. — His mother thinks I can win him back.

Mrs. R. W.— She's just making a fool of herself.

* * *

Stella W. — I'm 19 and for two years I went steady with Maxie. In that time I became very friendly with his family and especially close to his mother. Even though we broke up six months ago, I still go for the house, keep Mrs. A. company, set her hair, pin up her hems and continue to be an intimate friend.

That's the trouble. Maxie sees me there and to him, too, I'm just a very good friend while in my heart I want him to love me again. That's what his mother hopes, too. Whenever he brings other girls around for her to meet, she finds fault with them and praises me. Maybe that's no help, but if not for her I'd never see him at all.

* * *

Mrs. R. W. — Mrs. A's no fool. She knows my daughter doesn't stick around the house because she's so wild about her, or because she likes to give her shampoos! She knows it's to keep track of Maxie. So maybe she's enjoying all the attention.

Stella'd be better off staying home and letting Maxie start taking up, too! And instead of eating her heart out over a dead love affair, she should take more interest in the other boys she knows. She finds excuses to turn down dates, and when she does accept one she tells me later that there was no comparison between the poor fellow and Maxie.

Worst of all, she even breaks dates when she learns Maxie is in.

The Council: The crux of this question is: Can a boy's mother win him a girl he obviously is trying to shun?

M Mackay — Any idea of returning to Stella the present sweep would probably kill it. Haven't you told her to keep her sleeve and her tongue to herself? Snooping for Mrs. becomes avoid. And here's his mother pushing the girl at him and encouraging every conceivable quiz with one monotonous word: Stella.

We agree with Mrs. W. Call it a day, or a date, and give him a very full break. Stella instead of pining for Maxie and concentrating each new boy against him for heart balm, realize that it's over and that the other pebbles on the beach deserve a square look.

Remember, Stella, part of the mode is banter. There's something in a man that thrills to upstate. Serving the quarry throw itself into his trophy bag. Or out with others. Once you know someone is not for you, like, an amazing thing may happen. You may suddenly look awfully good to Maxie! He may be a boy like you in finding irresistible charms in someone he can't get. And then, it'll be up to you. At the time comes when you can get him again, will you want him? Probably not. There may be sense to him more for the sake of the chase than for the catch. That's fine for TV serials but not for life planning.

You can't know why you broke up with Maxie. Not punishing after him won't help, nor will running after his mother. When a dog is dead, get a new dog, don't try to beat life into the old one.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS
MAIL CALL

Question — When dining in a restaurant, why is it necessary for a woman to give her order to her escort? It seems to me it would be much simpler for a woman to give the order direct to the waiter instead of using her date as a go between. Miss M. W., New York City

Answer — A woman gives her order to her date simply because she is her host at dinner and it's only courteous to let him know what she wants.

* * *

Question — I've been invited to a college prom; in another city, and will stay in a hotel. My date made my reservations. Will he also pay the bill, or do I pay for my own room and board?—M. L. K., Newark, N. J.

Answer — You pay your own hotel expenses, and for your own transportation to and from. Your date will be responsible for your meals and beverages for any buses or cabs you'll take while in his company.

* * *

Question — I've always thought that the only way to test coffee is to see if it's too hot to raise the cup to the lips and take a sip.

However, I've often noticed people who seem to have some mannerism use a spoon for testing. Is this correct? Mrs. A. M. Newark, N. J.

Answer — Yes, it's permissible to dip the spoon into the coffee and take a taste to test if it's too hot. the spoon should be placed in the saucer. You then sit and wait until it reaches the proper drinking temperature.

A SHORT QUIZ

FOR

MERCHANTS and SALESPEOPLE

A recent customer survey conducted in Belleville by the Belleville Chamber of Commerce indicated that the biggest single cause for customer dissatisfaction stemmed from the inexperience and poor attitude of sales staffs. How do you and your staff rate on these five important questions:

4. DO YOU KNOW WHEN TO SAY "NO" TO A CUSTOMER AND HOW TO SAY IT WITHOUT GIVING OFFENCE? Yes ☐ No ☐
5. CAN YOU RATE EVERY MEMBER OF YOUR STAFF AS A PROFESSIONAL MERCHANDISER? Yes ☐ No ☐

If you must answer an honest "No", to any ONE of the above questions, then you should plan to attend the one-night

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Ex-Deputy Chief fireman, Frank Orr, 321 Sidney Street, is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

Miss Patricia Hopkins is a recent graduate of Bruno's School of Hairdressing at Toronto.

Mrs. Norment Montgomery attended the Salem United Church centennial celebration as a member of the Gould family which resided in that district for five generations, a most active family in supporting the church and community life.

Club Activities

For some time members of the Christ Church Chi Rho Fellowship have been using imported 'talent' — members of the Camera Club, an investment councillor and an airman recently returned from the Middle East, among others. Beginning with a meeting held two weeks ago, the group made use of some of the talent of its own members, carrying the idea over into last night's meeting.

At the meeting held two weeks ago, members Ted Warwick and Merv James showed and explained some colored slides, while Bob Butler showed movies of a recent trip to the east coast.

Goldie Livingstone, a semi-outsider, showed pictures of various activities in and around the church, as well as some aerial shots of the district taken during the week of the Flowing Match.

Another facet of the talents to be found in the Chi Rho group was given a chance to express itself at the meeting last night—the art of interior decoration. Dressed in work clothes the group came together to decorate the Parish Hall in preparation for the Parish dance Friday evening. Pieces of string, bale of paper, a few waxed leaves, aided and abetted by elbow grease and ingenuity, turned the hall into a festive location, one that fitted the title of "Falling Leaves."

Prior to adjourning to the business at hand a short business meeting and a worship service were held. The worship service was taken by Rev. M. Caswell, President Ted Warwick and Margaret Eagle. Refreshments were provided by Betty Gardiner, Eleanor Bulcher and Mary Leggat.

Couple Feted On 25th Anniversary

STIRLING — Approximately 35 relatives and friends tendered Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Conroy a delightful party at their home, River Valley on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary.

The bride was the former Gladys Rosebush, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Rosebush, who resided most of their lives in the village of Trent River - at Rosebush's Landing. The evening was spent in traditions of music and vocal selections.

The dining table was covered with damask cloth and centred with a three-tier anniversary cake, silver candelabra tapers of pink flanked the cake.

The guests of honor were the recipients of several lovely gifts.

The immediate neighbors in the River Valley community held a surprise visit on the Saturday evening previous to the anniversary and all enjoyed a social evening. A presentation was made of a chrome lazy Susan and a wall mirror.

The reception voicing grateful thanks for both parties also for the lovely gifts.

Refreshments were served by the committee responsible for the party and all wished the honored couple many years of happiness.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Durwood Conklin are pictured following their recent marriage in Christ Church, Winona, Ontario. The bride is the former Marilyn Isabell Fraser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Fraser of Burlington, Ontario. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. Durwood Conklin of Belleville, and the late Mrs. Conklin.

CONKLIN — FRASER

Tall standards of seasonal flowers adorned the church in Trinity United Church, Winona, Ontario, and lily-of-the-valley sprays marked the guest pews, for a lovely autumn-time wedding on Saturday, October 14, at 2.30 p.m. when Marilyn Isabell Fraser; of Burlington, Ont., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Fraser, became the bride of Allan Durwood Conklin, of Belleville, son of Mr. Durwood M. Conklin and the late Mrs. Conklin. The Reverend Paul Christianer officiated.

Mrs. W. Hewitt, church organist, rendered the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Russell Rienke, who sang "O Perfect Love" before the ceremony, and "The Lord's Prayer" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked charming in her floor-length bridal gown of white lace and net, featuring a gracefully full skirt and fitted bodice having a small Peter Pan collar and long sleeves pointed over the wrists. Her white net headdress held her finger-tip veil and she carried a bouquet of red roses centred by white roses.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was Mrs. Rod Miller, a sister, gowned in blue nylon with matching headdress in teal design. The bridesmaids, Mrs. Allen Appleford, cousin of the bride, wore a mauve gown based on identical lines to that of the matron of honor's. The two little flower girls, Miss Bonnie Johnson and Miss Barbara Hart, nieces of the bridegroom were in mauve chiffon over taffeta with matching headdresses. All attendants carried flowers complementing their gowns.

Mr. Donald O. Fraser, brother of the bride, of Hamilton, Ontario, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. John Walt of Cameron, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Lloyd Fraser of Burlington, brother of the bride, ushered.

The reception was held in the church hall, where the bridal table was set with fine white linen lace, and centred by the three-tier wedding cake. The bridal bouquets added a pretty nuptial accent to the picture.

The bride's mother, in pink lace over taffeta with matching shoes, white hat and gloves, and corsage of white roses, received the guests.

For the wedding trip to Nova Scotia, the former bride of the bride, she wore a suit of turquoise blue with matching hat, black accessories, white gloves, and white mum corsage.

Guests were in attendance from Buffalo, Belleville, Port Hope, Picton and Toronto.

The bride was entertained prior to her marriage, by showers given at Winona by the wife of the pastor; at Hamilton by Mrs. Lloyd Miller, again at Hamilton by the office staff at the home of Miss Judy Cumpson, and at Nova Scotia by an aunt of the bride, Mrs. B. Fraser.

Mr. and Mrs. Conklin will reside at Belleville R.R. 7.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Kenneth Hiles are shown leaving Christ Church, Bellevile following their recent marriage. The bride is the former Miss Adrienne Campbell, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Campbell of Belleville. The bridegroom is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hiles, also of Belleville.

HILES—CAMPBELL

Lovely pink and white gladioli adorned the altar and chancel, and white satin bows the guest pews, in Christ Church, Belleville, for a recent pretty autumn wedding when the Reverend Everett P. Smith, assistant rector of the church, united in marriage Adrienne Elizabeth Campbell of Belleville, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Campbell, to Ronald Kenneth Hiles, of Belleville, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hiles.

Mr. John Croyden Withers, church organist, presided at the console of the organ and accompanied the soloist, Mr. David Malloy, of Toronto, as he sang, "O Perfect Love," before the ceremony, and "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the lovely bride was radiant in her bridal gown of French peau de soie, featuring a bell-shaped skirt in ballerina-length, with fitted bodice having a bateau neckline, and elbow-length sleeves complemented by short peau de soie gloves. She wore a crown-type headdress and waist-length veil of French silk illusion tulle, and carried a cascade of dark pink roses mingled with white babys breath and trailing ivy. White satin shoes completed the nuptial costume.

Her steadast was Miss Sharon Campbell, only sister of the bride, of Toronto, who was gowned in mauve peau de soie with empire waistline and skirt in bouffan: ballerina-length. She wore a matching headdress in bow design, with tiny veil and carried a bouquet of white carnations centred with a mauve orchid and ivy.

Mr. John Hiles, of Cleveland, Ohio, attended his brother as groomsman. Christ Church Beadlett and Mr. Douglas Phillips, both of Belleville, were ushers.

The reception was held in Christ Church parish hall, where the bride's table was appointed with white damask cloth and centred by an all-white three-tiered wedding cake modified in white tulle about the base and scattered mauve glamias.

The bride's mother received wearing rust-toned velvet featuring a bell-shaped skirt with fitted bodice; matching feather hat and veil and accessories, with corsage of bronze 'mums.

The bridegroom's mother assisted in the receiving line, attired in magenta crepe in sheath style with black accessories, and corsage of pink roses centred by white carnations.

For travelling to the Adirondacks and to Cleveland, the bride wore a two-piece mauve wool crepe dress, with black accessories, black feather hat, with corsage of white carnations.

Guests were present from Oakville, Port Credit, Toronto, Brighton, Ottawa, Cleveland, Millbrook, Pembroke, Oshawa, Bowmanville.

The bride, previous to her marriage, was entertained at the home of Mrs. H. H. Day, with a miscellaneous shower, with Miss Suzanne Dore of Thurso, Quebec, as co-hostess; at a luncheon held by neighbors at the home of Mrs. Clare Hayes, Belleville, when she was presented with a damask cloth set, crystal rose bowl, and silver deposit butter dish. The American Optical warehouse department presented her with a white wool blanket, and the office girls presented a four-piece setting of Wedgwood. The bridegroom was also presented with bed linen and a carafe set by his coworkers of the Belleville Cremen. The bride's mother also honored her daughter with a trousseau tea.

Mr. and Mrs. Hiles will reside in Belleville and 3 Bridge Street west.

Former Police Constable, Wife Married 40 Years

The anniversary of a marriage ceremony performed in Belleville 40 years ago, was observed here this week by Mr. and Mrs. William T. Evans, 215 Dufferin Ave.

It was back on Nov. 1st, 1921 that William Evans, then a rookie constable with the Belleville Police Department, was married to Rosemary Bailey at the bride's home on West Moira Street. The couple was married by a Methodist minister. Mr. and Mrs. Evans are members of Christ Church.

SUE CARTOONIST

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP) — Three men filed an $87,000,000 damage suit Wednesday against a cartoonist, one of his characters and a newspaper syndicate. The petition was filed from Jim Harron, Bob Hubbard and Dick Murray. It named as defendants cartoonist Al Capp, Hi Abner, a character, and United Features Syndicate Incorporated. The men claim they copyrighted the words and music of a song Mama Was a Man Man, and that Capp had used the title in a cartoon without mentioning them.

Mrs. Evans was a member of the local police force for over 30 years.

In recent years, Mrs. Evans has been the victim of misfortune with circulatory troubles causing the loss of a leg some years ago. More recently falls resulted in broken bones, first an arm, and then a shoulder last August.

Over the weekend they returned from a week's visit with their daughter, Mrs. Leslie Winfield at Thorold. A son Don lives at Trenton. They have five grandchildren.

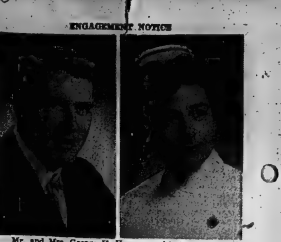
Obi Silhouette New Creation Of Monte-Sano

NEW YORK (AP) — When spring comes remember not to ask a lady to take off her coat. For if it bears a Monte-Sano label, she may not have a dress under it.

And, if designer Monte-Sano's libe becomes the vogue by then, her neckline will never have been so low.



And it will be the fashion. Editors who witnessed a preview of his coat and suit collection today can vouch for that. The so - called fashion intelligentsia applauded the line as the biggest news thus far in the spring fashion market.

While necklines on evening gowns, day costumes, and coats plunge to new depths, waistlines reach new heights.

The contrivier claims he was under the spell of Japanese plum blossoms, silk trees and the cranes when he created belt, or tie. Also a part of the Obi silhouette, what he calls the Obi silhouette. Obi ides are sleeves dropped to Sooda, kidskin or fabric belts nearly a foot wide span the back and curve upward under the elbow, and skirt panels are gathered on back yokes.

Suits and coats are made of cobwebby wools from France, airy crocheted weaves from Italy and England and lacy tea tured woollens from Scotland.

Trenton Couple Mark 50 Years of Married Life

Wedding bells rang again for Mr. and Mrs. George Graham of 32 Cedar Street, Trenton; but this time they were sounding in honor of their golden wedding anniversary on October 28th. Looking back over the 50 years, since their marriage in Collingwood, by the Rev. C. Payday, they recalled that the wedding trip to Bruce Peninsula was taken partly by train and partly by stage coach.

The many guests were received by Mr. and Mrs. Graham, the latter wearing a navy blue lace gown over taffeta with corsage of yellow roses mingled with lily-of-the-valley which was presented by the bridegroom to his bride of 50 years ago.

Throughout the afternoon tea and dainty pastries were served the guests by Mrs. Beatrice Elliott, assisted by Mrs. Marie Graham, of Sarnia, from a table lovely with china and red roses presented to the golden couple by their grandchildren.

The dining room was also beautified by a floral decor of yellow roses, yellow and bronze 'mums surrounded the centre tea table with its fine white damask cloth and silver tea services.

QUESTION:

I would appreciate it if you could send me the recipe for making sauerkraut, the home-made variety, and a recipe for making pumpkin pie — Mrs. D. O.

ANSWER:

SAUERKRAUT:

Shred cabbage about ⅛ inch wide. Use a knife or sauerkraut cutter. Add 1 teaspoon salt for evel. quart. Mix salt through cabbage with your hands until it forms its own juice. Pack tightly in quart jars. Set jars in a large container as it ferments and overflows. Partly seal to let juice expand in fermenting. After 3 days, seal tightly. Sauerkraut may be stored in covered crock in cold place.

PUMPKIN PIE:

Pastry: 1¼ cups sifted flour 1-3 cup plus 1 tablespoon shortening, ½ teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons plus 1 teaspoon cold water. Cut shortening into flour and salt till size of small peas. Mix in water gradually with fork. Form pastry into ball and roll out to fit 9" pie plate. Line pie plate and trim edge. You need 4 eggs for the filling. Separate the white from the yolk of three and beat slightly with some of this to prevent it soaking. Chill while you make filling: Remove leftover egg white to bowl and add the yolk from the 4 large eggs. Beat to mix. Add 1½ cups canned pumpkin, 3-4 cup brown sugar, ½ teaspoon ginger, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, generous pinch salt, dash nutmeg, 2 cups light cream or whole milk heated to scalding, and mix well. Pour into chilled crust and bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes or until set.

Hubby's Sensitive Palate May Be Worth Cultivating

By MARIE N. CROQUET

MONTREAL, (CP)—Your husband may not be able to give you a stiff critique of your pecan-chiffon, an electric stove and $1,000 but please him anyway, ladies.

His sensitive palate may be worth more than you think.

"It's my husband who guides me," Mrs. Alfred Gauthier said modestly Wednesday night as another apple sauce rolled onto wax paper from her machine.

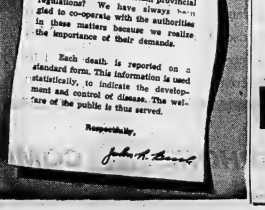
"I always trust his taste."

Mrs. Gauthier, a charming 45-year-old brunette from Hérve-ste-du-Loup, Que., was the unanimous choice of a group picked by a flour company to judge native recipes for the cakes made from apples. A total of 1,300 recipes were entered.

Mrs. Gauthier won the grand new electric stove in which she baked her apple-filled coffee-ring cake, a mink stole and the record player.

"And just a few months ago I won another $1,000 in a baking contest sponsored by a Montreal radio station," she said.

The recipe:



Ingredients: 1 cup all purpose flour (less one tablespoon); 1 teaspoon double - acting baking powder; ½ teaspoon baking soda; ½ teaspoon salt; ½ teaspoon cinnamon; ¼ teaspoon cloves; 3 eggs; ¾ cup sugar; ¼ cup pre-cooked apple sauce; ½ cup seedless raisins icing sugar.

Topping: 6 oz. cream cheese; 3 tablespoons table cream (or evaporated milk); 2 tablespoons grated orange peat; ¼ cup sugar.

Combine the flour, baking powder, soda, salt and spices and mix well. Beat the eggs in a large bowl until thickened. Gradually add the sugar and stir constantly until the mixture is smooth and light in color. Blend in apple sauce and raisins. Gently add the flour, 1-3 at a time. Do not beat. Blend in carefully.

Grease a jellyroll pan and line with waxed paper. Grease again and flour lightly. Pour the dough into the pan and spread evenly. Bake in moderate oven, about 350 degrees, for 15 to 20 minutes. Unfold on a towel. Sprinkle with icing sugar. Remove the paper, trim cake edges. Roll in the towel, cool for 10 minutes. Unroll and cover with cheese mixture (below) leaving ½ inch free from edges. Roll again and cool on a serving dish.

For cheese filling, combine softened cheese, milk, orange peel, and sugar. Beat to a spreading consistency.

National Association Of Garden Clubs Advocated By Toronto Enthusiast

MONTREAL (CP) — An avid about the height of kitchen counters, gardener says Canadians with green thumbs should sell as lettuce, as well as in a national association of garden clubs.

Mrs. J. R. M. Wilson, a member of Toronto's garden club, put the scheme organized girls, and one as an adventure gardening during a talk to playground. Each will have its Montreal enthusiasts.

As an example of what it can accomplish, she cited Toronto's "fragrant garden" for the blind and the boys' magnificent, cleverly completed, enchanted garden" being built for crippled children, and a planned by civic garden centre "where home owners can obtain good gardening advice."

The fragrant garden is located near the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. "We used plants with fragrance and with texture, and we also used flowers on the walks. When the walk is straight birth.

It is smooth underfoot, but when there is a corner coming, it is "This money was used for the boys' garden which has an Indian fort, a teepee and a dugout canoe which serves as a sandbox," Mrs. Wilson said.

Effective Sunday, Nov. 5th, Bell Telephone introduces new low-cost Long Distance calling between points in Ontario and Quebec, including the NEW

"NIGHT-ECONOMY" PLAN

After 9 p.m. every day, you can talk 5 to 10 minutes for the price of 5...
12 minutes for the price of 6...and so on, giving you double value on calls of 10 minutes or more!

THE NEW "NIGHT-ECONOMY" PLAN

Throw away your stop-watch when you visit with family or friends by Long Distance!

Here's how you can take advantage of Bell Telephone's completely new, money-saving "Night-Economy" Plan.

On any Bell Company station-to-station call within Ontario and Quebec, placed after 9 p.m. any evening, you will be charged at low night rates for the first five minutes. Then – keep talking! There is no additional charge for the next five minutes. (You get ten minutes of Long Distance for the price of five.) From then on, every two minutes you talk will only be charged as one minute.

Short-haul "Night-Economy" calls

On Long Distance calls where the basic rate is 10 cents, you can now talk up to ten minutes for 10 cents and each additional six minutes for 5 cents.

"Night-Economy" Plan for business, too

If you find it convenient to place business calls after 9 p.m., transmit data from one city to another, or use recording equipment for out-of-town salesmen's reports, you too can take advantage of this new "Night-Economy" Plan. If you would like to have complete details, please request the visit of a communications representative from your nearest Bell Telephone Business Office. No obligation, of course.

"NIGHT-ECONOMY" PLAN PART OF WIDE REDUCTIONS IN MOST LONG DISTANCE RATES

While the new "Night-Economy" Plan is the lowest-cost Long Distance plan ever offered to our customers, there are also considerable reductions in most day and night station-to-station calls over 48 miles – the direct result of the economies that arise from the expanding use of automatic dialing equipment (Direct Distance Dialing).

Station-to-station calls

Day and night rates are reduced by 5 to 75 cents for the first three minutes between most points over 48 miles: overtime rates are reduced correspondingly. (To maintain consistency in the mileage schedule there is an increase in the night rate of 5 cents for the first three minutes between a few points over 48 miles.) Rates remain unchanged for distances of 48 miles and under. If you call station-to-station instead of person-to-person, you can now save up to 50% (even more after 6 p.m. and all day Sunday).

Person-to-person calls and "secretarial services"

While increased automation enables us to pass along to our customers the economies of station-to-station calls, person-to-person calls are more costly to handle: rates for such calls will more closely reflect their actual costs.

PERSON-TO-PERSON CALLS (which constitute a small proportion of all Long Distance calls made) have become somewhat more expensive over distances up to 276 miles, with noticeable reductions for greater distances. The discount rates for person-to-person calls at night and on Sunday have been eliminated.

"SECRETARIAL SERVICES": the small surcharges for calls charged to a third number or for "collect" calls have been increased from 10 cents to 20 cents to bring the surcharges more in line with actual costs.

We hope that the many reductions – and particularly the new "Night-Economy" Plan – will help you to make better and more economical use of your telephone.

STATION-TO-STATION CALLS... All rates referred to in this announcement apply to calls between points in Ontario and Quebec; they do not apply to calls to other provinces or to the United States.

Sunday School Lesson

What Will We Be Asked?

By ROY L. SMITH

It might be interesting to compare the questions the average church asks of the one who comes seeking membership, with the questions we may expect to have to answer on the Judgment Day.

This writer views with no little alarm the fact that the doctrine of the Judgment Day has been almost dropped out of modern preaching.

It is true that in former times the preachers and evangelists indulged in some highly colored emotionalism, describing lakes of fire and a wrathful God watching for a chance to destroy those of his children who happened to have sinned. And it is also true that the idea of the Judgment Day has been associated with some fantastic threats for which no man had any divine authority.

But these vagaries should never be allowed to obscure the fact that for every man there is coming a final accounting. And in that accounting we will doubtless be surprised to discover that matters we considered marginal have become central.

JESUS GAVE US WARNING

In this week's Scripture Jesus gives us fair warning as to the nature of at least some of the questions we will have to answer in our final exams. And it is always dangerous to ignore any warning Jesus ever issued.

If our Christian belief concerning Jesus means anything it means that the son of Mary is our final authority on the subject of God. He declared on one occasion after another that He knew the mind of God, and that He shared the inner thinking and convictions of God.

It will pay us, therefore, to sit down with Jesus' warnings, and study them with infinite care.

LITTLE THEOLOGY IN IT

Even a hurried reading of the New Testament reveals the fact that Jesus made few inquiries concerning the theologies of the people with whom He had to deal. Never once did He ask any man to make a list of the doctrines he believed, of the religious groups with which he was affiliated, or of the religious practices he proposed to initiate within his life.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for Nov. 5: "Growth in Christian Concern." Matthew 25:31-46; Galatians 6: 1-5.

Instead, He asked about their concerns — about the causes to which they stood ready to give their best and holiest efforts, about the needs they proposed to serve, about the wrongs they were ready to right.

JUST SUPPOSE

Just suppose, for a moment, that next Sunday morning when someone presents himself at the altar of your church, seeking membership, the pastor or some other proper authority were to ask the candidate the following questions:

What wrong is there in this community which you propose to go out tomorrow morning to correct?

What need is there in this town which you propose to begin serving before this day is done?

What burden is there resting upon some tired shoulders in your neighborhood which you will try to lift before this day is done?

What one of God's laws is this town breaking, and how will you help it come to its senses?

What just cause is there within the radius of your knowledge which is suffering because of injustice, and do you propose to go out tomorrow as a friend of justice?

What ignorance do you promise to dispel before another Sabbath comes around?

What evil word do you propose to silence before the week ends?

What aspect of your life seems to be least acceptable to Jesus of Nazareth, and will you promise to do all in your power to correct it, beginning from this moment on?

Do you promise to be charitable of those with whom you honestly disagree?

Will you put as much service into your dollar as you proposes to take out in the form of benefits?

Do you believe your life can be up-graded, and are you ready to begin working at the task this very day?

Successful Living

By Doris Clark

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

'In Love' at '15'

DEAR DORIS:—My problem is a girl I am a girl myself but I am in love with another girl. Lovel not like. I know it's love because every time I see her or am near her, I choke up. My heart ties in a knot, no sound can come from my lips and my insides turn over.

DORIS CLARK

Don't say I just think I love her but like her a lot, because I don't. I am 15 and she is 14½. One day she was holding hands with a boy and I had to glue my eyes to the chair and try not to look their way. My heart aches day and night just to be near her.

Please don't suggest psychiatric help. Name something else. Besides try and forget her.—LOVELORN.

DEAR LOVELORN:—What is love? In our teens we can experience strong emotions for both sexes. If there is someone whose mannerisms and sweetness charms us we will feel love for him—or her. Sometimes this is a teacher; sometimes a football hero. Sometimes it is another girl who is pretty when we think ourselves plain.

From another part of your long letter, I gather you have grown up with boys, and with very few girls in your life. This may serve to make your "loved" one even more enchanting to you.

Take your eyes off her for a moment and scan the horizon for males. Treat them nicely because one of these days you are going to prefer their company.

Bayview Family First Here To Acquire Fallout Shelter

There is one family in Belleville sufficiently alarmed about that the state of world affairs to cause them to do something about their chances of survival in the event of a nuclear bombing attack.

They are having a fallout shelter built in the back yard of their home at No. 7 Fifth Street in Bayview Heights.

"We hope we never have to use it as a fallout shelter, but if we don't it will still make a good fruit cellar," stated Mr. George Fuller.

Their concrete block shelter, to be roofed with a foot of poured concrete and covered with three feet of sod, is the first actual fallout shelter in the city. It is being constructed by Contractor Kenneth Tarrant of this city.

The apparent worsening of world affairs, and particularly the Berlin crisis, caused Mr. Fuller to think that something might happen. "Things are beginning to look bad. You can't trust them (the Russians)—we wanted to be ready when it comes," he said.

Residents of Belleville for the past seven years, the Fuller family came here from Bloomfield. Both Mr. and Mrs. Fuller work at Belleville General Hospital, he as a stationary engineer and Mrs. Fuller as a nurse in the pediatrics ward. They have a 14-year-old daughter, Margaret.

USE APPROVED PLANS

The Fuller's fallout shelter is being constructed from government-approved plans. It is approximately nine by twelve feet with a ceiling of slightly over six feet.

It will be fitted with a propane gas stove, water tanks and other facilities.

The shelter is designed for a family of five.

"We didn't want just some excuse of a shelter, we wanted to build the right thing," Mr. Fuller said.

By the "right thing" Mr. Fuller meant that he did not approve of a basement fallout shelter.

"If the house burned down you could smother in a basement shelter," he explained.

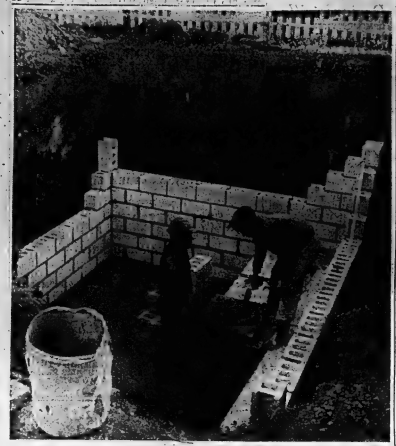
HOPES FOR OTHERS

"There are lots more families in Belleville much more able financially to build themselves a shelter than we are," Mr. Fuller said. "I think they are necessary and I hope this will wake some of them up."

Until this week there has been no definite action toward construction of any fallout shelters in the city, Controller Ray said they had received numerous inquiries, but there it had ended.

Until now city hall officials have had no reason to establish a policy with respect to assessment of fallout shelters.



But they point out there is nothing in the assessment act that says they should not be assessed.

PEACE CORPS

ST. LUCIA, B.W.I. (CP)—Twelve U.S. Peace Corps volunteers arrived here to begin two-year assignments in this part of the Windward Islands of the West Indies.

FAMILY PREPARED — Mr. and Mrs. George Fuller, Fifth St., Belleville, and their 14-year-old daughter Margaret, are taking no chances from possible fallout from nuclear attack. "We hope we don't have to use it, but we want to be ready," says Mrs. Fuller.

FIRST FALLOUT SHELTER—The first fallout shelter in Belleville is currently under construction at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Fuller, of No. 7 Fifth Street. Shelter, to be covered by three feet of earth, is seen under construction in the Fuller back yard.

Canada Can Easily Attach Conventional Warheads to Bomarc Says Boeing Head

WASHINGTON (CP) — A spokesman for the Boeing Airplane Company says conventional warheads have been tested and can be installed easily in the Bomarc-B anti-aircraft missiles, now being delivered to Canada.

"It all depends on what the customer wants," the spokesman said. "The Bomarc A and B models both have been tested with nuclear and non-nuclear warheads.

"If Canada wants non-nuclear explosives, only an adjustment in the fusing system is required and this can be done on the field. The missile does not have to be returned to the factory.

"Conventional types of warheads will reduce costs, of course, but they have only a fraction of the effectiveness of the nuclear explosive."

DELIVERY BEGUN

The United States now has three squadrons of Bomarc-B missiles in operation along with five squadrons of Bomarc - A missiles. Canada is bargaining for the first delivery of the first of its Bomarc-B models which will go into two squadrons, one at North Bay and the other at Mont Laurier, Que.

The Canadian government has not yet decided whether to obtain nuclear warheads and has led to some debate in Canadian political circles whether the missiles will be useless without the nuclear explosives.

Lester B. Pearson, Liberal party leader, has been quoted as saying that according to information from Washington the Bomarc was made specifically to carry nuclear warheads and not conventional explosives. He has stated the federal government must know from the start the missile would not be effective without the nuclear warheads.

The U.S. defence department has described the A and B models as having dual capability—conventional and nuclear warheads—but has declined to provide details.

The spokesman for the Boeing company, which manufactures the Bomarc, described the conventional warhead which can be fitted into the A and B models as a steel - encased cylinder roughly three feet long, some 15 inches wide and weighing about 300 pounds.

EFFECTIVE 300 FEET

This warhead, made of high explosives with shrapnel effect, has a "kill" radius of some 300 feet in all directions from the point of burst.

In comparison, the nuclear warhead has a "kill" radius of several miles from point of burst, the spokesman said. By "kill" authorities mean the area in which an attacking bombe can be sought out by the missile and destroyed.

The spokesman said: "When the Bomarc first came into being, it was designed for the nuclear warhead. It was not designed to use it primarily with nucleus; but it was designed to kill radius. I believe all of the B models for the United States have the nuclear warhead.

"But we also had to think of the problem that the B missile might be used outside the United States in countries where countries such as Canada, might want to use it with a conventional warhead. There would be no problem in getting the conventional warhead in full production. This can be done in a very standard avsenal on six months' notice.

"The production drawings for the conventional warhead are complete and available. It is just a question of what the Canadian government wants."

Closer Japan, Canadian Relations Seen by Visits

By GRAHAM TROTTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Closer bad more harmonizing agreed not only that trade between their countries can be expanded greatly but that this should be an orderly basis.

CANADIAN CONCESSIONS

On the other hand, Canada has provided Japan with an important concession in agreeing to permit the entry country nonimmigrant managerial and technical personnel required for the establishment of investments in Canada. And Mr. Diefenbaker has announced forthcoming changes in immigration regulations will meet with Japan's approval.

In addition, the two countries cabinet ministers to meet regularly so they can familiarize themselves with each other's problems.

A similar Canada-U.S. committee has helped smooth out economic problems. Japan, which has such an arrangement with the U.S., has shown great interest in the prospects of this further extension of Canadian-Japanese ties.

APPROVES NEW SCHOOLS

HAMILTON (CP)—The board of education's property committee Thursday night approved a recommendation for a $7,000,000 vocational school building program, submitted by education director Dr. Gordon Price.

Both countries have been among the most vocal middle powers in condemning Russia's nuclear testing in the atmosphere. Japan is the only nation which has known the wholesale destruction of nuclear warfare, and Canada knows by her geographical location what such a war could visit on her.

So the incentive to prevent a nuclear war is shared by both, but more important to Canada and to the whole Western world Mr. Diefenbaker and Prime Minister Ikeda were stie to add, is the parity approach on how this should be done. An unusual rapport was created by the two, of looking well for the future.

It is vital to the free world that Japan, the strongest democracy in the Far East, remain in the Western fold.

A Japan disillusioned with the West, especially through trade barriers against goods she must export to survive, could spell plenty of trouble. For instance, any combination of the vast markets of Communist China with its manpower millions and Japan with its technical know-how and productive capacity would be a potent force indeed.

As a result of the Diefenbaker-Ikeda talks, Japan will continue to co-operate in trade by applying voluntary quotas on exports of products that could seriously damage Canadian industry if they were to flood in.

Police Called To Break Up Union Meeting

SUDBURY (CP)—Police were called to the Mine-Mill union hall Thursday night when supporters of the national executive refused to obey an adjournment call at a meeting of rebel Local 598.

Fifteen police officers arrived on the scene in response to a call from officials of the local whose officers are at odds with the national executive of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.).

The call was made after 200 national supporters broke up a meeting the benchers refused to called by Local 598 President Donald Gillis, About 700 International Nickel Company workers were on hand.

When Gillis adjourned the meeting the backers refused to leave the building and attempted to take over the meeting.

Const. Norm Raiche, one of two police officers who arrived ahead of the others, took over the microphone, reminded the beckiers a court injunction has ordered them not to interfere in the local's affairs.

Const. Reiche said any attempt to continue the meeting would result in serious charges being laid. As he finished speaking the other officers arrived and the dissidents elected to go home, a few boos their only response to the police intervention.

New Marine Engineers Union Makes Formal Bid to Enter Great Lakes Labor Scene

OTTAWA (CP)—A new marine engineers union, founded this summer at meetings in halls of the Independent Seafarers International Union of Canada, made its formal bid Thursday to enter the troubled Great Lakes labor scene.

The newly - created National Marine Engineers Beneficial Association of Canada went before the Canada Labor Relations Board for certification as bargaining agent for 173 licensed engineers employed by seven shipping firms.

The NMEBA application was opposed by the National Association of Marine Engineers Inc. of the Great Lakes, masters, mates, pilots and engineers, affiliate of the AFL-CIO. The SIU in the U.S. is also affiliated with the AFL-CIO, but its Canadian wing has been expelled from the Canadian Labor Congress

Cover Many Phases

AAU Studies Track, Field

By BOB TRIMBEE

EDMONTON (CP)—Track and field, glamour sport of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, dominated first-round committee meetings at the annual AAU convention.

In more than 12 hours of debate Thursday, the track and field committee approved a long list of recommendations for over-all union approval. Most were expected to receive ratification during general sessions.

Key proposals include manner of selecting coaches and managers for international track and field teams, sites for 13 Canadian championships, establishment of a committee to honor athletes at various levels of proficiency and payment of expenses of amateurs by clubs and organizations sponsoring meets.

The committee recommended that Ken Twigg of Toronto, incoming track and field chairman, be appointed manager of Canada's British Empire Games team which travels to Perth, Australia, next November.

ASKS MAIL VOTE

It also recommended that a mail vote be taken to select a 1962 coach, with future coaches nominated by branches prior to an annual meeting and selected by the union at least one calendar year ahead of the event.

Two western coaches, both of whom have served on Canadian teams, headed the committee action. Bob Adams of Saskatoon, 1958 British Empire Games coach, and Lloyd Swindells of Vancouver, coach of several international teams, said a year's study is needed by a coach to study progress of a thletes he inter will handle.

Both said a major problem is keeping team members in shape after selection.

"It's been the curse of Canadian athletes that after being named to the team they drop off," said Adams. "Too many think the team is the final goal and don't do well in the games."

Committee members later decided the 1962 Games trials will be held in East York, a suburb of Toronto, Sept. 1 and 2.

Bitter exchanges came during study of the question of paying travel and living expenses of "name" athletes.

U.K. ENTRY SCRATCHED

LONDON (AP)—Trainer Jack Gosden said Thursday High Perch, only British entry in the International Race Nov. 11 at Laurel, Md., has developed a cough and will not run.

The Tracks

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—Some one remarked the other day that for $181,419, he'd enter Saturday's Garden State Stakes himself if he thought he could make 1 1-16 miles in all fours.

Which brings to the fore the real attraction of this annual fall gallop at Garden State Park for two-year-olds—money. Even the second, third and fourth finishers go home with enough to keep hay in the barn for many a day.

Pre-race dope indicates that either Donut King or Crimson Satan will lead home an expected field of 13 Saturday.

With 13 starters the winner would get $181,419, second place earns $60,473, third pockets $30,236 and fourth gets $13,196.

Red Wings Defeat Habs 4-1

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Red Wings scored single goals in the first two periods and two in the third to defeat Montreal Junior Canadiens 4-1 Thursday night in an OHA Junior A game before 3,267 fans.

The victory was the fifth for the unbeaten Wings and stretched their lead over second-place Niagara Falls and St. Catharines to seven points.

Centre Pit Martin scored two goals. League leading Jarrell MacDonald and Wayne Rivers got the others for the winners.

Montreal centre Johnny Taylor had knotted the count 1-1 18 seconds after the second period opened.

Both netminders, Montreal's Bob Chapoux and Hamilton's Buddy Blom, were outstanding. Chapoux was exceptional in the first period, when Hamilton fired 13 shots at him.

Referee Murray Dunnette handed out 11 minor penalties, six to Wings, in the free-wheeling affair.

Stampeders May Upset Apple Cart

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Western Football Conference made its 1961 regular schedule with two games in which little else but pride is at stake.

The bride of finish in the league standings and the playoff spots have been decided.

Edmonton fans may die in for a preview of the western playoff final when the first-place Winnipeg Blue Bombers take on the Eskimos Saturday night.

Winnipeg and Edmonton finished one-two in the standings and are favored to meet in a best-of-three playoff to decide the West's representative in the Grey Cup classic at Toronto Dec. 2.

But Calgary Stampeders, who meet British Columbia Lions in Vancouver Sunday, may upset the applecart. The third-place Stampeders meet the Eskimos in a two-game, total-points semi-final to decide who goes against the Bombers. Winnipeg received a bye into the final.

Boston Has Hot Head, Whip Habs 5-2

Wings Blank Rangers 1-0

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Is Don Head that hot? Before the National Hockey League season started, Boston Bruins' coach Phil Watson confidently picked his goalie for stardom.

His forecast looked terribly myopic until like last three Boston games, when after a dismal record of seven losses and a tie, the Bruins came through with two wins and a tie.

Thursday, the 26 - year - old rookie goalie blocked 40 shots by Montreal Canadiens as Watson's hustlers downed the league - leading Montrealers 5-2.

In Detroit, where a victory by New York Rangers could have put them in first place ahead of Montreal, Red Wings goalie Terry Sawchuk proved he still has what Watson hopes Head has.

Sawchuk, getting superb protection from his defence, made 31 saves and blanked New York 1-0. Gordie Howe scored the only goal Detroit needed to win the game and take over sole possession of fourth place, breaking a tie with Chicago Black Hawks.

It was the first shutout of the season for Sawchuk, and the 94th in his brilliant 12 - season career.

HOWE FIRES NO. 475

Lorne (Gump) Worsley was equally brilliant in the Rangers' nets, stopping 27 shots, but had no chance on Howe's goal, which came on a power play.

The big Detroit right winger took two swipes at a rebounding Ed Litzenberger's shot before he got control and lifted the puck over Worsley at 4:46 of the second period. It was his 475th regular - season goal in a 16 - year career with Detroit.

The Red Wings' defence was at its best in the third period when for a minute and 10 seconds the Rangers had a two-man advantage and got nowhere.

The defence apparently hasn't suffered from the absence of Marcel Pronovost, a rough young blue - line blocker benched after he incurred 14 minutes in penalties in a game against Montreal on Saturday.

Detroit general manager Jack Adams has announced Young will continue to practise with the Red Wings although it isn't expected he will play with them again. All the other NHL clubs passed Young when Detroit put him on waivers.

HABS OUTSKATED

Sawchuk's shutout was the second in the NHL this season. The first was Head's, which came last week when Boston began its battle to escape the basement by beating Detroit 4-0. Watson's team outskated the Canadiens all the way, although allowing them an edge in shots on goal, 37 to 31. Rookie Jacques Plante kept the score from soaring even higher.

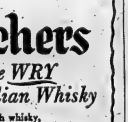
Head was clearly better on both Montreal goals. He couldn't stop Claude Provost's shot, screened by Boston defenceman Doug Mohns, and had no chance on a booming 30-footer by Bernie Geoffrion, reputed possessor of the hardest shot in the NHL.

Andre Pronovost scored two goals to lead the first period. Montreal briefly held a tie in the second before Mohns shot the winning goal and young Bob Beckett, recently recalled from Providence of the American Hockey League, got the insurance marker.

Pronovost ended the scoring at 2:34 of the third period.

Boston got good defensive work out of newcomers Pat Stapleton and Ed Westgarth brought up from the Bruins sent Dallas Smith and Bob Armstrong to Hull - Ottawa Canadiens of the Eastern Professional Hockey League. Smith, however, is only on loan for one season.

Has Title Within Reach



REGINA (CP)—Fullback Earl Lunsford of Calgary Stampeders has all but clinched his second straight Western Football Conference individual rushing title by gaining a net gain of 136 yards in his final league game Sunday as Vancouver Blue Bombers set a season record.

Statistics released Thursday show Lunsford with a net gain of 1,585 yards. Well back in second place with 1,449 yards is full-back Johnny Bright of Edmonton Eskimos who set the season mark of 1,722 yards in 1958.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Some of the younger hunters, seeking the fruits of the King of the Woods, have sent in inquiries regarding moose-hunting such as where to go, what to do, what is needed, and what is the cost. The season opens north of No. 7, November 6 through November 15.

Lands and Forests Department conservation officers and other hunting experts advise, first of all, that a topographical map of the area to be hunted be obtained and that the hunter learn to use a compass. It's easy and sometimes dangerous to get lost in the bush.

Have an adequate rifle. You have to prove that you know how to use it safely before you can get a hunting license of any kind in Ontario. Moose have been shot with a .22 rifle, but taking such a low calibre firearm on a moose hunt is regarded as foolish. A 30.30 or heavier weapon is preferred.

Could a hunter go alone, drive a northern highway and expect to see a moose alongside the road? It has happened, but it isn't likely. Moose are smart; once the season is open and they hear the first shot they move back into the bush. Surest bet, Lands and Forestry officials believe, is to go to an established camp, hire a guide and canoe, and move quietly down a river or stream. Early and late afternoon, the animals come down to the water to browse. If you get your moose on the river bank, transportation is no problem. If you get him a mile or more back in the bush, you're faced with the problem of hauling out anywhere from 700 to 1,400 pounds of meat.

In some northern areas, commercial camp operators use aircraft to take their hunters into less-accessible areas. Their "package" deals usually include transportation, accommodation in tents, gudies, boats, food. Costs may run from $800 up for a week but this is probably the surest way of getting a shot since the pilot makes sure the hunter is far enough away from the crowds at a point where moose are known to congregate.

Clothing is important. Temperatures have already dropped below the freezing point in most of the good moose territories. Department officers wear woollen underwear, light trousers, woollen shirts, waterproof parkas. They believe several layers of light clothing are better than one of heavier material. Insulated rubber boots are favored by many of them; with light socks they keep feet warm at below zero temperatures.

Where to go? Almost anywhere, from North Bay to near the James Bay district in moose territory. For residents, there is moose hunting also south of the French and Mattawa Rivers and Lake Nipissing. Moose can be found in Peterborough, Lindsay and North Hastings areas. About 700 moose were shot by residents south of the French and Mattawa rivers last year.

The road which now runs north from Hornepayne to No. 11 Highway should be a producer this year; the stretch from Sault Ste. Marie to Port Arthur-Port William was heavily hunted last fall. Chapleau, Hornepayne, White River, Schreiber, Kenora, Sioux Lookout are all good starting points.

Are moose plentiful? A few years ago, they declined to the point where the Department, for good management reasons, closed the season entirely. The moose came back until now there are more than 112,000 of the animals in Ontario. Last year, 12,000 were taken. Actually, the experts believe three times that many could be shot without hurting the hunting a bit.

What does the moose taste like? Almost the same as good beef. Those may be a "wild" smell in cooking; you can avoid it by coating the roast with a paste of mustard and vinegar.

How best to get the meat home? Don't lash the animal on the fender of the car. Heat from the engine may ruin it. If it won't go on the roof, hire a trailer or take one along with you.

Is moose hunting dangerous? Few persons have been attacked by a moose; greatest danger is in hunting heavily-populated areas—and from other hunters. Wear brightly colored clothing—and don't shoot at anything until you are absolutely sure it isn't one of your friends or a complete stranger!

Play Argos Tomorrow

Clair Won't Gamble With Injuries

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

When you have a semi-final spot locked up and your one remaining game of the regular schedule can settle only where it's semi-final is to be played, what do you do?

Coach Frank Clair says he wants to win, and figures his Ottawa Rough Riders can do it. But he adds cautiously:

"I'd rather play the semi-final in Toronto with a fairly healthy club than win this one here and be all banged up."

Which indicates Clair won't take too many chances with his personnel when the Riders meet Toronto Argonauts in Ottawa Saturday to settle second place in the Eastern Football Conference. The Riders, one point behind the second - place Argos, need a victory if the sudden-death semi-final the following weekend is to be played in Ottawa.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats meet the last-place Alouettes in Montreal Saturday in a game that means nothing to either club.

BRANCATO HURT

With four regulars already hurt, Clair's concern is to avoid any further injuries. Defensive halfback George Brancato is the latest addition to the cripples. In practice Wednesday night and is a doubtful starter.

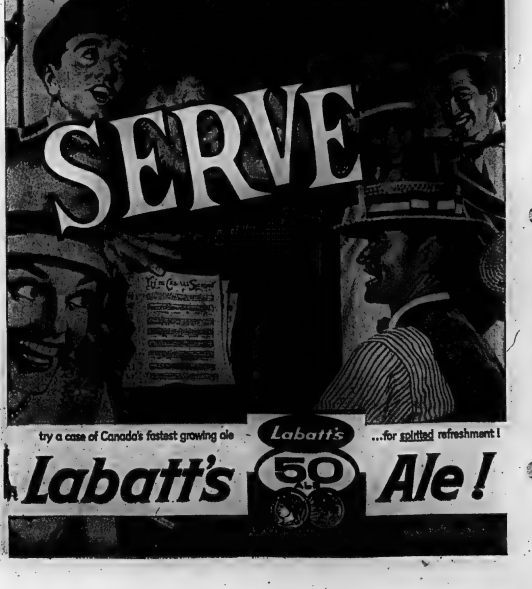
Also injured are halfback Chuck Stanley, end Ted Smale and halfback Ron Stewart. Stewart hurt an ankle against Hamilton Saturday and it's doubtful he will see much action.

The Argonauts have rebounded to good health and coach Lou Agnes has talent to spare except for the painful loss of lineman Dick Fouts, out perhaps for the season after suffering a shoulder separation against Montreal Sunday.

As for Hamilton, coach Jim Trimble will take the opportunity to rest some regulars and give his reserves some action.

FALONEY TO KEEP

Quarterback Bernie Faloney and middle guard Vince Scott will sit this one out. Frank Cosentino will start in Faloney's spot with Tom Dublinski standing by.



Halfback George Scott has been reinstated following an on-again, off-again U.S. Army draft call but is expected to remain out of action along with end Hal Patterson, now fully recovered from a shoulder injury.

Alouettes sidelined are punt-returner Ed Learn, with sore shoulders; linebacker Ron Brewer, with a kidney ailment; reserve quarterback Joe Francis, awaiting surgery for an ailing knee; and defensive end Ed Meadows, who played Sunday despite an injured shoulder after missing most of the season and who left Wednesday for surgery at Duke University.

In the Senior Intercollegiate League Saturday Queen's Golden Gaels, seeking their fifth straight against three losses, straight win, meet University of Toronto Blues in Kingston. McGill Redmen, with two wins in four starts, will visit University of Western Ontario Mustangs at London. The Blues and Mustangs each have a single victory.

Way Cleared For Int. Hockey Here

The way for a Belleville club to operate in the Lakeshore Intermediate League with Napanee, Bowmanville, Port Hope, Uxbridge and Trenton RCAF was cleared last night.

Playing time has been arranged in Memorial Arena since a week — and now it seems it is up to those who are operating the entry.

Intermediate nights will be "hockey nights in Belleville" as far as the intermediates are concerned. Friday nights are junior nights.

Operation of the city entry was made possible through the fine co-operation of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association.

Up to last night the BMHA schedule as arranged with the arena officials called for ice time on Wednesday nights until 11 o'clock and Saturday mornings until noon.

In co-operation with manager Jack Dickens of the arena and Jean Paul Lamirande, manabled of the intermediate club, arrangements were made to give the Wednesday night time from nine o'clock to the intermediate club.

The minors, with no loss of ice-time hours, will operate on Wednesday until eight p.m. and Saturdays until 2.30 p.m.

Now it is up to M'sieu Jean Paul Lamirande.

The Lakeshore League schedule calls for a 24-game program starting November 15th. Belleville and Napanee will not take part in league playoffs. They will "saw off" in Intermediate "A" playdowns.

Lamirande said last night he has a nucleus of six good players but will start the league play "if I have only ten men." He said his sponsor wanted to remain anonymous until ice time and entry had become definite.

He also said he will insist on an OHA ruling that players must play for the team nearest their place of residence.

He said he was given an "open night" at Memorial Arena on November 10 and hopes to bring in a senior club for an exhibition game, possibly the Galt Terriers.

He stated he is awaiting the "rest of my equipment." He did not say what the club will be called, nor release the identity of his sponsor.

He has been in touch with league officials, he said, and arranged matters so that the Belleville club will not see league action until November 22nd.

And so away we go—starting from scratch!

Belleville CI, Peterborough

Battle For COSSA Crown

Two COSSA districts gridiron champions meet here on Saturday for the Central Ontario Secondary Schools Association junior football title.

Belleville Collegiate Institute Bulldogs, undefeated champions, battle Kenner Collegiate Institute of Peterborough Lakeshore district title-holders on the Quinte Secondary School grid station starting 2p.m., (CST).

The Kenner Rams, as they are tabbed, won their group then took the Lakeshore title the easy way when Oshawa secondary schools declined to play for district honors.

The Rams had a tough time disposing of their Intie-city rivals the Peterborough Collegiate Institute squad. They took the title by three points in a two ball winning the first game 5-0 and the second 5-0.

A Peterborough newspaper story says of the second tilt, "They fought furiously . . . lots of fumbles and penalties in the hard-fought battle, various players limping off from time to time".

Be that as it may, Here at home Belleville Collegiate football officials are confident the big unbeaten BCI squad will retain its undefeated record.

"This is the best team we have had in a long time" said Hector "Tex" Townsend, "this despite the fact the club will play minus two or three of its top players through injury".

Doug Billingsley, star tailback, has been out for some time and will not play tomorrow. Dave Chestnut a halfback also out for some time will not return to the lineup. Gene Yorke, a defensive halfback is a doubtful starter.

However Coach Stan Barbour say the team is in "pretty good shape", Bob Burr who will handle a defensive position who has been sidelined through a knee injury, will be back in action tomorrow.

With good coaching sns of the main contributing factors the BCI squad rolled through a six-game schedule unbeaten and untied. They will be "up" for this important tussle, a game that has all the indications of a tough bruising hard fought battle.

City secondary school fans regardless of alma mater colors will probably be out en masse to cheer for the "Barbour Clippers". Other football fans of the city should avail themselves of the opportunity to see two fine outstanding young squads in the throes of a championship game.

It should be quite a battle with BCI rooting for its first COSSA gridiron title since away back in the early "thirties".

Quinte Defeats Moira

By JOE CLAFF

Quinte Little Saints scored a 33-12 victory over Moira yesterday to keep their hopes alive for the Bay of Quinte CORSA Junior "A" football championship.

Quinte's victory, forced another game on Monday. The clubs are now tied on the season' record. Moira defeated Quinte during the regular schedule but yesterday's game evened matters, thus forcing the deciding game on Monday.

Quinte kicked off to open yesterday's game but Moira failed to move and was forced to punt. Quinte took over on their own 35-yard line and began a drive that was stopped short at the Moira 25. Here Moira held but Quinte gained through the Moira end zone for a single point.

After the single Moira moved to mid-field. Here they were stopped and punted. Quinte took over on their own 15. They were held and forced to kick. Moira began a drive from the Quinte 33 to the one. Dave Lloyd went through the middle to give Moira the lead. The convert was missed.

After the kick-off Quinte sustained a march from their own twenty-one to the Moira 29 to the Moira 25. John Beach scored for Quinte going the distance on a double reverse. The convert was missed.

Late in the second quarter Quinte scored again on an interception. Moira was in possession on their own 35. Bill Leslie scored for Quinte after picking off a Moira pass, and scampering 45 yards. Leslie passed to MacCormick for the extra point. The half ended with Moira in possession on the Quinte 12-yard line and threatening to score.

Moira gained possession on their own 10-yard line after Quinte had kicked off to open the second half. They were held and a bad snap from centre gave Quinte possession on the Moira one. Richard Evra scored the touchdown on a quarterback keeper. The convert was missed.

Late in the third quarter Moira was in possession on their own 45-yard line but Murray Kern of Quinte picked up a Moira fumble and ran 20 yards to score. The convert was good.

Quinte scored again early in the fourth quarter when Leslie threw to Dave Leach who completed the 61-yard pass and run play. The convert was missed.

Moira scored late in the fourth quarter. They moved in six plays from their own 40-yd. line, Ian Glen threw to Bob Leahy who combined for a 30-yard pass play for the touchdown. The convert was missed. The clock ran out with Moira in possession at mid-field.

It's Time for Hunters And Farmers to Unite

By WILLIAM SITTLE
(Dept. Lands and Forests)

Both the farmer and the hunter have something very much in common. The farmer with his land whereon the game is found and the hunter who seeks the game for recreation and food.

What is there to offer and what can be gained? The game belongs to the people, but the farmer owns the land whereby access to the game is controlled. The farmer has little to gain unless fellowship can be assessed in terms of reward.

The hunter has much to gain With time on his hands, he has sought his recreation in the field of sport in the form of hunting. Today, with the ever increasing flow of hunters from our cities and towns to the countryside, the need is great to insure a steadfast relationship between the hunter and the farmer. This relationship is well understood by sportsmen, but there are a few "would be sportsmen" who either through ignorance or downright stupidity, make it difficult for all.

It is a forgone conclusion with most that they can hunt on private property, property that is not posted. It is felt by some hunters that because farmers do not post their land, they are free to trespass upon it without permission of the farmer. In other cases, hunters trespass unwillingly because there are no signs indicating who the land belongs to.

Hunters must consider the rights of others and signs indicating no hunting or no trespassing must always be respected. Always ask for permission before entering on private property. Treat it as though it were your own and see that others do likewise.

Another way of looking at the situation is this:

South of Highway 7 where most of the population exists, there is perhaps less than 5 per cent of Crown land, that is public hunting areas.

Hunters may well be alarmed at the small amount of lands remaining in public hands. However, there is the other land available (even though it is not public) if it is to be used wisely.

It is inevitable that the landowner will want to control hunting on his property, first because he wants to protect his property against damage, and secondly he wants to know who is upon his property with firearms that are dangerous to human life when in the hands of careless persons. The way to control hunting on his lands now, is by posting it. This means less game available to the hunters and a greater congestion of hunters on "open" lands.

Surely there is a better way to ensure protection for the farmer and at the same time provide adequate hunting areas for the sportsmen.

If sportsmen's groups conducted their thinking along the lines of hunter-farmer relations and united with the farmer into a true fellowship for the good of each other, we feel the problem would be solved.

Aces, Reds Stage Ice Brawls

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cool ice and hot heads make for excitement now and then, and they did in Quebec Thursday night.

Quebec Aces wrapped up a 3-1 victory over Providence Reds in the only American Hockey League action of the night, referee Vern Buffey had conducted what was given out to six five-minute major penalties, three 10 - minute misconducts, one match penalty and one game misconduct to go with nine minors.

Tempers flared at the end of the first period and right-winger Danny Foley of the Reds was chased from the game with a major, a misconduct and a game misconduct for fighting and striking linesman Jean-Paul Turcotte.

In the third period, defenceman Matt Ravlich of the Reds was banished when he swung at and John Hanna of Providence both had been sent off for fighting. Ravlich was given a major, his second of the night, a misconduct and a match sentence. Barlow got a major and misconduct.

The latter majors went to Jean-Marie Cossette of Quebec and John Hanna of Providence for fighting in the first period.

When the players tended to business, the Aces-Montreal play. Goals were by Reggie Grigg, Michel Labadie and Cossette. Paul Larivee scored for the Reds.

'Girls Are Back in Style' Says Dinah Home From Paris

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Dinah Shore was returned from the Paris fashion salons with good news: Girls are back in style.

Her verdict: A dozen designers from the needles of Balmain and Dior.

"The trend in Paris," she said, "It seems to be toward a more feminine look. Thank heaven. I mean now girls look like girls. There seems to be less emphasis on the tall, emaciated fashion-model type and more for the rest of us, the ones who are all girl.

"The look is softer, rounder. The clothes show a waist, which most women have. There is no attempt to hide the bust line, which most women have. And the dresses show hips, hips, which — (sigh) — most women have.

"Hair styles are softer and lower, necklines are more feminine, and hems are coming down. Good thing; those extra high heels looked ridiculous and uncomfortable. Oh, yes — skirts are higher."

ON SHOW TONIGHT

Dinah will be wearing six of her Paris outfits on her TV show tonight. Her favorite is a "slim black silk - crepe, beaded with sleeves that dangle when you move." Another she could "wear to bed," rose red that sweeps up there."

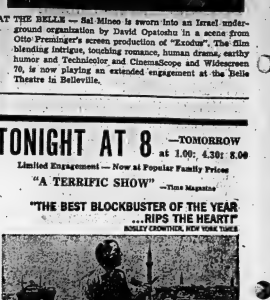
Clothes are a fairly recent interest for Dinah.

"I never really cared much about them until I started the TV show," she said. "Even now I'm not wild about clothes. I'm mostly about slacks and sweaters."

But her TV life — that's another matter. "I think I got more fan mail about the clothes than about any other matter," she said. "I realized that when I wore a big green on the old 15-minute show. I got fan letters about that one."

Now the gowns get top consideration in her program planning. This season she is doing two French designers, "due to the creations of a top designer — two French designers, I mean. They'll be gowns, mostly, since viewers don't like narrow slacks and sweaters."

AT THE FAIR — Mickey Rooney (centre) and Joanne Somers (centre, right) in a scene from the animated feature picture "Everything's Ducky", in which he stars with Buddy Hackett, also pictured. The picture, playing at the Park, Belleville, and now in its 4th week, is "the Valley of the Dragons" an action-packed drama featuring Cesare Danova and Joan Staley.



AT THE BELLE — Sal Mineo is sworn into an Israel underground organization by David Opatoshu in a scene from Otto Preminger's screen production of "Exodus". The film blending intrigue, touching romance, human drama, earthy humor and Technicolor and CinemaScope and Widescreen 70, is now playing an extended engagement at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

Good TV Shows Too Late For Many of Viewers

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Poor told television (and can) win. This year, all networks have tried to schedule their so-called "adult" shows in late evening time spots to avoid criticism about offending their fans and susceptible young minds.

So now new complaints are rolling in—and quite logically—from grown - up viewers who can't get up until all hours on week-day nights.

Just about everything stimulating in TV starts at 9 p.m., and most end by 10. For millions of people, who have to be in their offices before 9 a.m. this means making a decision between a full night of sleep and missing the show.

The 10 p.m. hour when NBC's Sing Along with Mitch turns up on Thursdays is running in his face of many viewers, particularly the youngsters, who enjoyed the zaniest as much as the older crowd. The Miller show is also great fun, but if it were set in an earlier time spot, it might emerge as the No. 1 program on the air.

NBC's The Price Is Right now is going in for—well, "unusual" is probably the right adjective—prizes. This week Mrs. Lillian Muller, a telephone operator from Atlantic City, N.J., won a two - man submarine, 16 feet long and capable of diving 300 feet.

Recommended viewing Tonight—Golden Anniversary, CBS, 8:30-9:30 EST — James Arness, Art Carney, Nanette Fabray, Tony Randall in a musical revue;

Dinah Shore Show, NBC, 9:30-10:30—variety with Dean Martin and Donald O'Connor.

Saturday — Steve Gun, Wit Travel, CBS, 9:30-10—folk singer Odetta makes her acting debut; Sunday—Meet the Press, NBC, 6-6:30—Prime Minister Nehru of India, guest; 30th Century, CBS, 6-6:30—Al Smith, biographical documentary.

Music of the 80s, NBC, 10-11—a musical memoir of the period with Paul Whiteman and Count Basie.

WANTED - MALE

ENROL NOW FOR A VITALLY IMPORTANT JOB

In order to carry out its National Survival role in the event of nuclear attack the Canadian Army Militia needs 100,000 additional men, as soon as possible. If you are between 18 and 50 and meet enrolment standards, you can help now on this vitally important job —and earn while you help.

Six-week training courses for Canada's new citizen soldiers are being held in your community beginning November 6, 1961. Later courses start January 8, February 26 and April 16, 1962. You may choose whichever six-week period is most convenient.

During the course you are given all-day training five days a week. You receive the same pay as a regular soldier; you will live at home and receive a living allowance.

Shortage of Therapists In Medical Field in B.C.
Causing School Concern

By ROB TEMBERIS

VANCOUVER (CP) — Airlines may think they have a problem in losing stewardesses to marriage, but it's nothing compared to the loss of therapists in the medical field.

"There is an acute shortage of therapists in B.C.," says Dr. Brock Fatheal, head of the University of British Columbia's department of rehabilitation medicine.

"We'll need every therapist we can get for a long time to come. The supply now is spread thinly across the province. In many centres the service is supplied only by a traveling therapist employed by such organizations as the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society.

The nature of the therapist's work also is changing with time more widely and a more outgoing personality than many other women in the medical field. Physiotherapy is probably a stronger appeal to the average woman. This is one reason why the emphasis on the profession's ranks second only to airline stewardesses."

GROWING DEMAND

The problem is not peculiar to British Columbia. A recent survey in some states of the U.S. revealed that while it was difficult to find openings in therapy in therapy, many graduates had been married two years because of marriage.

The demand for therapists has increased in the near future because of two steps taken in B.C. in 1961, the hospital insurance service.

Dr. Fatheal, the medical profession's adviser on the hospital insurance service on chronic patients, noted that the service needed its hospital coverage to include payment for rehabilitation treatment if it was to be a benefit from therapy. The service has agreed to assume its share of capital construction costs in building accommodation for the therapy unit as a portion of the additional staff needed.

The supply of trained therapists must be local, he said in an interview.

"Up to now many of our therapists have been lured or attracted by higher wage scales and their own desire for travel. They've gone to the United States, Britain, too, and the government has to train other people to take them there.

"We have looked heavily in the past on these imports."

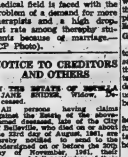
NEW COURSES

Dr. Fatheal said 19 students entered a three-year courses leading to a certificate in physical medicine and rehabilitation in the new school of rehabilitation medicine. The first two years are academic training, the third a year of supervised intern work.

"This will allow us to have the first physiotherapists to take the first new hospital facilities for rehabilitation work are ready for them. Because of the shortage in the field, the therapist may return to UBC for a fifth academic year, leading to a degree."

The UBC course will be a combination of academic and occupational therapy, said Dr. Fatheal. The profession is a therapist with broad basic knowledge of the physical medicine field, and also a specialist student who first graduates from a general practitioner and then decides in what field he will specialize.

GREATER SERVICE



"The combined course will prepare students not only to look after both fields in smaller centres where there is room for more than one therapist on the staff.

It will also assure we will get the greatest service from the complete working toward a degree.

"By the time she receives her degree she will have had three years in the field. It will help both the therapist and the profession will have trained therapists for work in working while they study."

But but three of the students enrolled at the UBC course this fall are women. "But three is evidence in it's good percentage," said Dr. Fatheal.

Perhaps in the profession gains more prestige, becomes professionally and publicly, men may tend to pursue this course.

HEADS SCHOOL

Dr. Brock Fatheal is head of the new school of rehabilitation at the University of British Columbia. He says the medical field is faced with the problem of a demand for more therapists and a high drop-out rate among therapists students because of marriage.—(CP Photo).

Sir Oswald Mosley, Head Of British Fascists, Could Have Become Great Leader

By DOUG MARSHALL

LONDON (CP) — Jackboots click, arms shoot skyward in a Fascist salute and a cocky, sharp - featured man with a trim moustache revives his ranks of Blackshirts before launching a spacing protest march against the Jews.

The time is 1936, the place is not Berlin but London's poverty-stricken East End and the man is Sir Oswald Mosley, leader of the British Union of Fascists.

The march down Stepney's Cable Street, bitterly opposed by left-wing counter-demonstrators, finally led the Blackshirts over the precipice of serious-ness into the pit of public ridicule and contempt.

Today it seems incredible that Mosley and Fascism should ever have found support in Britain at all.

But a new book by Colin Cross, The Fascists in Britain, tells how Mosley, the "brilliant failure" of British politics, was able to attract a number of intelligent people and make Fascism nearly serious in Britain for a time.

'DISINVESTMENT OF STERLG'

Part of the explanation lies in the world situation. Old orders had changed, new ones emerged in 1930 as a junior minister in the Labor cabinet.

At that time he produced an economic master plan that would end the depression in Britain by implementing high tariff barriers and rigid state planning. The plan was rejected.

Impatiently Mosley resigned, created his own New Party and was soundly beaten in the 1931 General Election. He then formed the British Union of Fascists out of scattered remnants elements hypnotized by Hitlerism.

It is that Mosley, had he stayed with the Labor Party, would almost certainly have become its leader some day and would have "presided over a post-war social revolution."

He had the talent for leadership in Parliament but not the character. By 1932, political frustration had laid bare a streak of insolent arrogance bordering on egomania.

This passionate self-regard transformed Mosley almost over night from Westminster's bright prospect to a coarse-minded rabble-rouser with no respect for the constitution.

The intellectual support that his vaguely defined ideas once attracted declined rapidly. Later all but the most fanatic of his followers became disgusted by the anti-semitism mob violence. Cross estimates that at its peak the BUF's active membership did not exceed 5,000.

What administered the coup de grace to Mosley's movement? Cross thinks, was news of Hitler's terror tactics in Germany coupled with a basic British distaste for Fascism's inherent intolerance.

Mosley spent the war in a detention camp and later submerged from public view. He surfaced during the 1959 election campaign to run for Parliament on a racial platform advocating deportation of West Indians.

Mosley followers, mostly young thugs, sparked several racial brawls but their leader received less than 3,000 of the 35,000 ballots cast in the London constituency of North Kensington.

Today the Mosleyites' shrill cries occasionally pierce current debate but the public's general opinion is reflected by historian Hugh Trevor-Roper:

"Why should we bother about him now? We have done with him: he would do better to keep silence."

The movement, which never had an active membership of more than 5,000, withered away after a series of anti-semitic brawls in London's East End. (CP Photo).

U Thant Faces Host Of Problems As UN Head

Top Aides to Include Bunche and Arkadev

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—A mild - mannered Buddhist from Burma took over today as acting secretary-general endorsed by all 103 United Nations members but faced with a host of unsettled problems.

A six-weeks deadlock ended Friday when the General Assembly unanimously elected U Thant, 52-year-old career diplomat, to fill out the 17-month remainder of the late Dag Hammarskjold's term.

But the Soviet Union made clear during the round of welcoming speeches that it had agreed only to a stop-gap solution and still insisted that the United Nations should be run by a three-man troika.

U Thant stressed in his brief acceptance speech to diplomats jammed into the blue-and-gold hall that he was taking the $56,000-a-year job with no commitments and no strings attached.

Taking the oath, he swore not to seek, accept instructions regarding his duties "from any government or other authority external to the United Nations."

U Thant also put forth his position on the cold war split of dispute that had held up East-West agreement on his appointment—a position he declares he should have.

WILL INVITE

He told delegates he would invite a limited number of UN undersecretaries "to act as my principal advisers on important questions."

He said these top aides would include Ralph Bunche of the United States and George F. Arkadev of the Soviet Union, but did not name any others.

Diplomatic specialists say that U Thant would need an able corps of assistants to help him through such problems as finding $60,000,000 by mid - December to keep the UN going, for example, until the assembly decides what long range program will be.

The Canadian UN delegation released a statement on behalf of Canada's Prime Minister Howard Green. It praised U Thant's appointment.

U.S. Ambassador - Adlai Stevenson praised the Burmese diplomat for "independence of mind and spirit."

Ad For Diplomats

In an oblique reference to Russia's original demand that Hammarskjold's chief be guided by advisers with veto power, Stevenson noted that U Thant would have his own staff "and can suit with them entirely as he wishes."

The first delegate Valerian Zorin wished U Thant success but included delegates left after he fills out Hammarskjold's term, apparently a reference to Premier Khrushchev's call for a troika.

FROST WILL SPEAK

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Federation of Agriculture Friday announced Premier John Frost will be among guest speakers at its convention next week at the Royal York Hotel.

Mr. Frost, who has not yet announced the date of his retirement as premier, has repeatedly said a parade of Tory Grits will be the hotel, strikebound since April 24.

SEAWAY FALLING FAR SHORT OF PREDICTIONS

May Be Forced To Increase Tolls

WASHINGTON (AP) — The St. Lawrence Seaway is heading toward its best year in history but is still falling far short of the optimistic predictions of its officials.

The gap between predictions and performance could result in an outcry for increased tolls for ships moving between Montreal and Great Lakes ports.

Before the 27-mile-deep Great Lakes - to - the - Atlantic waterway opened in 1959, seaway officials talked of a total of 70 million tons of cargo moving through the system by this year, through September the tonnage has been running at a rate of about 5,000,000 tons a month compared with the original estimate of more than 14,000,000 tons.

IS STILL BELOW

During the April - September season 1,000 ships handled 51,228 tons of cargo. At this same rate for the full season can be expected to pass through the seaway before it closes, probably in late December, about 70 million tons however, is substantially below the 25,000,000 tons predicted for 1961.

The two-way congestion becomes shallow channels between the Great Lakes and lack of deep draft ports for much of the trouble.

Ships which have a draft of 24 to 25 feet when loaded can ply the seaway, Lake Ontario, the Welland Canal and Lake Erie. But they can go no farther because of shallow channels between Lakes Erie and Huron.

Deepening of these channels is expected to be completed by 1965 when, officials hope, both the problem of deepening Great Lakes ports to 27 feet is a longer range project.

BELOW PREDICTIONS

During 1959 seaway experts predicted that 25,000,000 tons of cargo would move through the system. Only 16,000,000 did.

On 20,503,142 tons made the trip for $10,046,877.

For 1960 prediction was for

Bombs Explode In Ghana City

ACCRA, Ghana (AP) — Bombs exploded in Accra on Accra today—one damaging a statue of Ghanian President Nkrumah—and police blamed "terrorists."

It was the first reported violent display against the Nkrumah regime. There were no reports of casualties.

One bomb damaged the big statue of Dr. Kwame Nkrumah, president that stands in front of parliament.

A second bomb exploded almost simultaneously in nearby Black Star Square where Queen Elizabeth is to review a parade of troops and police Nov. 6, damaging a wire seen.

Coalition Terms Demand Modern Arms For Reich

Conditions Accepted By Adenauer's Party

BONN (Reuters)—Legislators of Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democratic party agreed today to form a West German coalition government with the minority Free Democrats.

A Christian Democratic spokesman announced the decision after a three-hour meeting during which the parliamentary group voted to accept the coalition agreement previously approved by their executive and the Free Democrats.

Terms of the agreement assure the 82-year-old Adenauer a limited term as chancellor.

The right - wing Free Democrats Friday accepted a coalition agreement which stipulated that Adenauer—"the Old Man" in West Germany—will head it—would not lead the government for a full four-year term.

The agreement, which came after 14½ months of hard bargaining, became necessary when the Christian Democrats lost their absolute parliamentary majority in the Sept. 17 elections and the Free Democrats became the balance of power.

WANT A-WEAPONS

Details of the agreement disclosed Friday night included:

1. A call for the armed forces of an United Europe, including West Germany, to be armed with all modern weapons, including modern launchers for atomic weapons.

2. A plea by West Germany and the other European NATO powers in the control of atomic warheads.

3. An increase in the length of military draft from 18 to 18 months.

4. An increased integration of the armies of Britons, were being repatriated as fast as airlift could be provided.

Tents were erected at Pine Ridge, 16 miles west of Belize.

CANADA SPENDS $186 MILLION IN EXCHANGE MART

Keeps Dollar at Proper Discount

OTTAWA (CP) — The government spent $186,300,000 during October in the foreign exchange market — the first time since June an outlay was necessary to carry out its policy of keeping the Canadian dollar's exchange value at an "appropriate" discount below the U.S. dollar.

The finance department reported Friday that official holdings of gold and U.S. dollars increased by that amount during the month to a record $2,110,400,000 on Oct. 31.

A month earlier the official holdings — mainly in the government's exchange fund—stood at $1,924,300,000.

The previous record high was $1,965,200,000 in June 1960 during the June 20 budget announcement of the government's intention to move the dollar's exchange value to a discount by using the exchange fund to buy U.S. dollars.

During the following three months, the dollar held steadily at a three - per - cent discount without the necessity of the fund buying U.S. dollars. In fact, the fund's holdings of U.S. dollars actually declined.

CAPITAL FLOWS IN

However, during October inflows of capital into Canada, together with other upward pressure on the Canadian dollar's exchange value, brought the government back into the market to buy U.S. funds, Friday's report, published in the official Canada Gazette, was the first indication of the extent of the government's action.

At the start of the month, the dollar was at a discount of slightly less than three cents below the U.S. dollar. The month closed with the dollar at a discount of some 3½ cents.

The government's purchases of U.S. dollars to achieve this, in the face of upward pressures on the Canadian dollar, is regarded to be one cause of the government's shortage of cash this week.

Despite a temporary loan of $45,000,000 from the Bank of Canada, the government had only $97,000,000 in its bank accounts last Wednesday.

Says Britain Could Destroy Russian Cities

CARLUKE, Scotland (AP) — Britain has sufficient nuclear striking power to "put most of the big cities out of existence," Foreign Secretary the Earl of Home said Friday night.

"But we do not brandish our bombs like Mr. Khrushchev (the Soviet premier)," Lord Home declared, "because we believe that power should be used with discretion and responsibility and never in anger and with agressive intent."

THE WEATHER

Son for Margaret Gets Resounding British Welcome

OF from Reuters-AP

LONDON — Doctors today made a "routine" visit on Viscount Linley, the day-old son of Princess Margaret, as congratulations on the royal birth continued to pour in from around the world.

The latest medical bulletin said the fair-haired, blue-eyed boy and his 31-year-old mother are both well.

The staff at Clarence House, where the boy was born Friday, announced that Margaret's eldest son, four-ounce son a "sweet baby."

The princess' husband, former society photographer Antony Armstrong-Jones, was created by the Earl of Snowdon after his marriage, upon the right to Clarence House.

Lord Snowdon Friday was the first royal visitor to his wife and son, who is fifth in succession to the throne.

Among the messages of congratulations that gave delight the royal couple was one from President Kennedy and his wife.

Their cable said "hearty congratulations."

Australian Governor - General Viscount de Tlale said the birth "will cause great rejoicing in Australia." Congratulations also came from Canada's Prime Minister Diefenbaker and New Zealand.

The large - circulation Daily Mirror spiraled "Baby Snowdon" in the page - lettering to the name of the child's father before he received his title.

The Daily Mail said in an editorial:

"Princess Margaret has always held a particular and increasing place in the affections of the Commonwealth's peoples. Their will be universal gladness that her marriage has been so happily blessed."

New UN Head Neutralist, Calls Shots as He Sees Them

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The man chosen as interim secretary-general of the United Nations is a practising neutral who has sought to get along with both the Communists and the West, but only when he believed the cause right.

Burma's 53-year-old U Thant believes a true neutral must be an active one, who calls the shots as he sees them.

He has always achieved this through passive neutralism, which would mean a withdrawal from the battle for peace," he once told the General Assembly.

As head of Burma's UN delegation he has denounced the Soviet Union for intervention in Hungary, the United States for its position on Cuba and Portugal for its Algerian policy.

Performance has also shown him a man of action, opposing all attempts to weaken the authority of the United Nations executive.

When Soviet Premier Khrushchev demanded last year that the UN secretary-generalship by a three-headed troika, U Thant told the assembly he was against any plan that would water down the secretary - general's power.

His record of impartiality and belief in strong United Nations have prompted many diplomats to liken him to Hammarskjold.

A believer in Buddhism, U Thant considers it essential for a man to keep his "emotional equilibrium."

A colonial orator and tenacious bargainer, U Thant has been an important man in the kind - the - scenes negotiations which make most UN decisions possible.

His skill as a negotiator evidently has been put to work in bringing the Soviet Union and the West to final agreement on naming him successor to Hammarskjold.

Powerful Government Role Seen in Rail Wage Talks

OTTAWA (CP) — A powerful but unseen role will be played by the federal government in the forthcoming contract talks between the big railways and their 110,000 employees.

If the "non-op" unions head into negotiations with their main weapon muzzled—the right to strike—the battle between the government banned a railway strike last December on the grounds it would inflict economic catastrophe on Canada.

It could do the same thing again — and both the railways and the unions know it.

On the other hand, the railways fought against the last union wage demand through negotiations, a conciliation board recommendation and the threat of government mediation efforts.

The suddenly they capitulated — scrapping their long standing arguments that they couldn't afford to meet any wage boost at all.

Then abrupt surrender by the railways, a few weeks before the rail workers threatened to tie up the country's railways, point to some sort of government direction behind the scenes.

Many observers believe the government dangled a carrot in front of the railways and held a stick behind them.

Said Transport Minister Balcer in the Commons May 15: "We are very anxious to find that we did not have to impose any compulsory arbitration measures on one side or the other, because management and labor had entered into an agreement."

That was its stick—settle or face compulsory arbitration.

And the carrot came a few weeks later—a $50,000,000 subsidy for the railways, enough to offset the cost of meeting the wage settlement with the "non-op" workers and extend similar increases to the running trades.

SECOND JURY CANNOT AGREE ON VERDICT

Forces Third Trial In Corruption Case

OTTAWA (CP) — A hung jury—the second in three weeks—has forced a third trial of Abbe Bergeron of Cornwall, Ont., on a charge of corruptly offering $50,000 to a member of Parliament in connection with a government land purchase five years ago.

After five hours of deliberation Friday night, the jury reported it was unable to come to a decision.

Bergeron, whose first trial also ended in a hung jury Oct. 18, was ordered to be tried at the next court of competent jurisdiction. No date was set and bail of $900 was continued.

The 45-year-old service station operator was accused of having given $10,000 in 1956 to Raymond Bruneau, 44, then Liberal MP for Glengarry-Prescott.

Bruneau testified Friday he gave Bruneau the money as "commission" on the sale of some property to the federal government and in return for Bruneau's promise of a "lifetime job" with the government.

JURORS DIDN'T KNOW

Defence counsel R. B. Sorenson argued that Bergeron was not guilty "in fact" and did not know in 1956 that payments to MPs for favors were illegal.

It was on this point that the jury, during its deliberations Friday night, returned to ask advice from Judge A. R. Willmott.

The government bought Bergeron's property for $100,000 for a post office site five days before the alleged payment. Bruneau also got a job with the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, but was fired after 19 months when the seaway was completed.

Crown Attorney John Cassells, in his closing argument, said that if Bergeron was guilty of, he complained to the RCMP, he had been "robbed" by Bruneau.

Bruneau was a member of the Commons from 1949 until his defeat in the 1957 elections.

Mr. K. Says Russia Will Continue Blasts if U.S. Tests in Atmosphere

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev says Russia will continue its nuclear bomb testing if the United States carries out nuclear experiments in the atmosphere, usually reliable sources said today.

The sources said the Soviet leader made the statement Friday to Giuseppe (Count) Pacelli, president of the Interparliamentary Union.

Khrushchev and Codacci Pisanelli, who left for Rome today, had talks lasting more than an hour in the Kremlin Friday.

The sources said Khrushchev's statement on resuming nuclear testing came to light only after talks with informed diplomatic circles.

The sources were unable to elaborate on the Soviet leader's remarks.

Khrushchev also branded as completely inaccurate reports that Khrushchev said "we must wait negotiations and negotiations mean not only to receive concessions but to make concessions."

In fact, they said, Codacci Pisanelli used the phrase to Khrushchev. The Soviet premier merely agreed to this as a principle of negotiations generally, the sources declared.

This was not regarded by Codacci Pisanelli or any diplomat source here as any indication that Khrushchev was committing himself to make specific concessions on Berlin.

DEATH TOLL AFTER HURRICANE STANDS AT 204

City of Belize Remains Paralyzed

BELIZE, British Honduras (AP)—Thirty-six bodies dug out from the ruins of the courthouse raised the death toll of hurricane Hattie today to 204.

Cleanup crews found the bodies in the smashed British colonial administration building where residents fled for refuge before the storm struck early Tuesday.

The city remained paralyzed. All business places were out of operation, including three newspapers.

The post office opened on a partial basis, but there was no assurance of early mail delivery.

British soldiers from Jamaica patrolled the streets under martial law. Looting was reported under control. Governor Sir Colin Thornley announced that "anyone who attempts to take any food illegally will be shot dead."

Evacuation of Belize's 15,000 homeless proceeded slowly for lack of transportation. Some 4,000 persons from the Stann's Creek area, 30 miles south of the capital, were transported by boat to northern British Honduras.

FLY ISSUED OUT

Evacuees of all Britons were being repatriated as fast as aircraft could be provided.

Tents were erected at Pine Ridge, 16 miles west of Belize.

Dr. B. Upper Raps Ontario School System

KINGSTON (CP) — Ontario's education head system is one of the worst in the world, Dr. Boyd Upper told university students meeting at Queen's University Friday for the third annual Kingston Teachers' College Canadian University Liberal Federation.

During a panel discussion on education, Dr. Upper said 33 out of every 100 students starting grade one in Ontario are capable of completing an honor university yet only three actually do so.

The size and number of universities in the province have failed to keep pace with the growing size of the population and the growing need for well-educated citizens — he said.

Raising university standards, "although admirable in some circumstances, is not responsive to our society since it prevents the larger segment of Ontario people from fully developing their capabilities," he said.

Mr. Upper said Liberals were told junior colleges consisting of the last two years of high school and the first two years of university would be a great asset.

Don Jamieson, federal member of parliament for Burin-Burgeo, Nfld., speaking on the topic of "Canada and the Commonwealth" said the growing need for well-educated citizens was the basis for the establishment of the Commonwealth Scholarship plan.

New York City Operates Dairy To Supply Milk

NEW YORK (AP) — The city took over operation of a struck milk plant today to supply hospitals, schools and other institutions during a Teamsters union strike that has paralyzed the normal flow of milk into New York City and Long Island.

Mayor Robert Wagner announced the action at 12:30 a.m., after union negotiators in the 11-day old walkout had rejected what the industry said was its final contract offer.

Some 10,000,000 persons are affected by the strike.

Wagner instructed Harry Van City-owned plant in the Bronx, operated under lease, would produce about 100,000 quarts of milk a day. He said it would take about 12 hours to get it in full operation.

TAKES CARE OF NEEDS

The action, he said, would be "more than enough to take care of all the needs of the hospitals and institutions and some parts of the school requirements."

High Percentage of Graduates Going on to Higher Learning

Belleville high school students completing grade XIII last June appreciate the values of higher learning.

This was revealed this week in a check of Belleville high registrants and at the Quinte Secondary School which shows that a high percentage of last year's graduates are going on to university, Teachers' College or into other ways seeking to further their education.

Approximately 75 per cent of last year's honor graduates at Belleville Collegiate are now attending university with the per centage from Quinte going on to higher learning four under the 50 per cent mark.

At Belleville Collegiate in all out of 56 are going to college while 34 out of 54 at Quinte are attending university.

Eleven of last year's grads from the Collegiate are now attending Teachers' College, while the per centage from Quinte at Teachers' College is a bit higher — 18 out of 34.

Ten go to O.C.E.

In all a whopping 90 per cent of last year's grade XIII from Quinte and Collegiate go on to higher learning. Four girls are working at nurses and three others are employed in laboratory technicians.

Only one is married and is true for Belleville Collegiate. Several Collegiate girls have gone on to train as nurses, while others are attending Ryerson.

As well the two general arts course is by far the most popular for Belleville students.

At Belleville Collegiate in all out of 56 are going to college while 34 out of 54 at Quinte are attending university.

Eleven of last year's grads from the Collegiate are now attending Teachers' College.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Old Neighborhood Not the Same After That Retirement Fling

BY THOMAS COLLINS

The changing pattern of residential areas in the north and east is changing the pattern of retirement.

For a long time responsible advisers have been telling older people to go slow in disposing of their old homes and old neighborhoods and rushing off to sunshine countries. The advice upholds in many cases because an environment that is friendly and familiar is a great consolation when the job is done.

The trouble is that many old neighborhoods no matter how long you've lived there, nowadays have become less friendly and less familiar all the time.

The experience of the Howard J. Smiths points this up.

"We were Pennsylvanians," Mrs. Smith says, "and when I retired in 1939 my wife and I were sold on the idea of holding to the old home place. We were in a nice house in a nice city neighborhood and had been there for 31 years . . .

But they wanted their retirement fling, Mr. Smith explains, and when the pension came they leased their home for a year (storing their furniture), and went off to the southwest. They spent part of their year around Phoenix, Ariz., and part in San Diego, Calif. They were somewhat surprised when they got back a year over and they went back to Pennsylvania to reclaim their home.

WASN'T SAME PLACE

"But we were shocked to find it wasn't the same place," Mr. Smith says. "Our long-time neighbor had died and his widow had moved to live in town with her children. A salesman from Kansas City had bought the house. Two other families on the block had sold out and moved. The people who had moved in were too old for Mary and I to cultivate into good friends.

"Furthermore, a high - speed expressway was going up two blocks away and towering above it a bungalow was something from Outer Space. A little independent grocer who had been our convenience in the neighborhood for years had succumbed to a new shopping centre that had opened three miles away . . .

This sort of change is going on in city neighborhoods all over. It has been going on since World War II, of course, but Mr. Smith thinks it is moving at a faster clip now than at any time in history. He's probably right.

"For ten years or so we witnessed changes on our street. In fact, by 1956 we had only three neighbors who had lived there 16 years. Still the transition had been slow. We absorbed the changes and were still able to make friendships."

Not any more.

"When you hear people talking of changing neighborhoods nowadays they are usually talking about racial change and integration. Undoubtedly that is a factor in northern cities, but that's not what I'm talking about.

"I'm talking about changes much more significant to the peace of mind of the retired person who is happy with the status quo . . . the slum clearance project, the shopping centres, the expressways, the zoning practice corporations have of changing the character of families into a city for a one-year stay, then shipping them on to Buffalo, Dallas or wherever.

ONE BIG HOTEL

"The normal, friendly, familiar neighborhood Americans have come to know and enjoy is being melted into one big hotel, with business and industry moved going every year and with bulldozers everywhere . . .

So the Smiths sold out and moved to a retirement village in Arizona, on the premise "that we could at least get to know and new scenes there just as many as we could meet down in Florida."

(How the Smiths handled their house deal: They put their house up for sale for $17,500. As the coming business executive of-fered to rent it, at $180 a month, for a year, in which he'd buy it if his company decided to keep him in the city permanently. They made an agreement whereby the newcomer would have an option to buy the house at the end of one year for $15,000, provided the deal was made directly without paying a real estate commission. M e a n t while, he would pay all the month over month upkeep.

The Smiths went to the bank put an $8,000 mortgage on the house and used the $8,000 to make a do-anpayment on their $13,000 home in Arizona. They send they are using the $180 rent to pay on the $8,000 mortgage and the insurance and taxes on the old house.

Their retirement income is paying the $13,000 mortgage on the Arizona house. If the newcomer doesn't exercise his option on the ole' home the Smiths think they can continue to rent it until a buyer comes along, or at least until they pay off one or both of their mortgages.

City Firemen Battle Marsh Fire 8 Hours

City firemen were at the marsh at the end of Bay Bridge Road for over eight hours yesterday afternoon and last night as dried marsh grass caught fire and for a time threatened buildings across the road.

The marsh blaze started shortly before 4:30 with a strong south wind rolling clouds of black smoke over the downtown section of the city. Two trucks answered the call and one truck crew remained on guard until one o'clock this morning. No damage was caused.

The only other run by firemen was to a Moira Street, East, residence where a stove became overheated.

Words of Bible Bring Man To His Senses

BOSTON (AP)—A Roman Catholic priest read slowly and deliberately from the Bible's book of Isaiah, undisturbed by a shotgun held menacingly at his chest.

". . . And he shall destroy the wicked and sinners together; and they that have forsaken the Lord shall be consumed."

The man continued to hold the loaded shotgun against Rev. Kenneth Murphy, 40. The priest noticed, however, the words of the Bible were having a soothing effect.

Father Murphy read on.

"He is you that rise up early in the morning to follow drunkenness and to drink 'till wine, and the harp and viol and tabret and pipe, and wine are in your feasts . . ."

The passages from the Bible had the desired effect. The man pulled away his deadly weapon.

SAVES SIX LIVES

Police said the bravery of Father Murphy probably saved six lives. Earlier, they said, the man with the gun, Ralph Roberts, had threatened to kill his five children and take his own life.

The drama began to unfold at midnight Wednesday night when Roberts' wife, Rose, ran to a police station and told police her husband was drunk.

Police quickly called Father Murphy, a 10-year founded and heads Rescue, Inc., a denominational organization dedicated to combatting alcoholism.

Police and the priest arrived at Roberts home at the same time.

"May I come in please?" pleaded Father Murphy, when he identified himself.

"Get my children," replied Roberts. Dr. Ulmer had been treating Roberts for depression.

LETS HIM IN

Police fetched Dr. Ulmer and Roberts permitted him and the priest to enter.

Father Murphy moved by gun, Dr. Ulmer—with the father's permission—went into the next room, picked up a blanket and asked the other children to follow him.

"There are men here to help you," Father Murphy told Roberts. The priest nodded toward the door and received permission to open it.

Roberts went with police to the station house. Police said they will charge him with drunkenness and arrange for him to take a mental test.

Focus on Health

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Topics this week: The non-Distraction camp syndrome, a new technique that may have a surprise, and drugs that do double duty.

MAY BE PHYSICAL

So many former prisoners of Second World War concentration camps complained of aches and pains, fatigue and lethargy many years after they were released that doctors began to call it the concentration camp syndrome.

A group of Norwegian researchers in a detailed study of former camp prisoners feel the problems may be physical —caused by real damage to the brain.

Princeton were often hit on the head during work periods or interrogation. All endured long periods of starvation and exhaustion, and many suffered concussion that could have affected the brain.

COOL IT

The brain can normally go without blood for only three or four minutes at normal body temperatures before damage sets in. This is a serious problem for surgeons in delicate brain operations.

But now Stanford University surgeons have been able to deprive the brain of blood for up to 10 minutes in operations without harm.

They first circulate cold blood through the brain, dropping the brain temperature to 60 degrees, 30 below normal. This apparently slows the brain's metabolism and eventually may enable bloodless brain operations up to an hour in length.

DAILY DOUBLE

The new oral drugs that help diabetics control the sugar in their blood may also be helpful in controlling hardening of the arteries in the same people.

Since the drugs effectively lower blood sugar, they cannot be used for controlling atherosclerosis or hardening arteries in non-diabetics.

A CHILLING HEEL

Radiation experts hope they are on the track of an Achilles' heel in cancer.

They are finding that increasing the oxygen around a living cell also increases that cell's response to radiation. By increasing the amount of oxygen around a tumor cell, they can make it easier for x-rays to destroy.

Soviet Bid for Defence Talks Shatters Finland's Hopes for Neutrality

By CARMAN CUMMING
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Finland, alternately stiff-armed and patted by its giant Russian neighbor for 2½ centuries, has good cause to wonder what lies behind the new pressure from the Kremlin.

The Soviet Union's invitation to defence consultations—about such mutual actions as Sweden or a bid to regain bases in Finnish territory.

RECALLS 1939

Superficially at least the invitation, made under terms of a friendship and mutual assistance pact, bears an unholy resemblance to the Stalin-Molotov invitation of 1939.

On that occasion a Finnian delegation to Moscow, after rejecting a series of Soviet demands, barely had time to get back to Helsinki before the attack that launched the famed winter war and led to Finland's defeat after 105 days of bitter fighting.

But the situation is somewhat different now and Russia's plans—whatever they are—will develop in a more subtle way.

Bases in Finland may appear tempting to the Soviet military, but they are by no means as crucial as in 1939. With the annexation of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, Russia is said to have better bases on the Baltic than the Porkkala base she Long-range missiles also have lessened the strategic value of Finnish forward bases.

But what the Soviet Union does need is support for its German policy. Its present action may be aimed at getting Finland's signature on the line when the Communist nations conclude a peace treaty with East Germany.

Finland, critically dependent on the Soviet Union economically, has tried to avoid affronting the Kremlin without giving up its neutrality. In 1956 a blunt Soviet threat to cut off trade was enough to force the resignation of a group of rightist cabinet members unpopular with Moscow.

Recently, however, Russia also has been polite in its relations with Finland, apparently hoping to bring it gently closer to the Communist bloc.

The Finnish Communist party, with 36 seats in the 200-member Diet, is the largest single political grouping in the country although it is not represented in the coalition government. Without doubt the Soviet Union hopes for a constitutional takeover that would extend the Communist buffer zone to its west from Turkey to Norway.

But the Kremlin may be getting impatient.

Unemployment Theme of Talk By Ken Bryden

TRENTON — A meeting of the South Hastings Riding Association of the New Democratic Party was held on Thursday evening at the town hall in Trenton. Ken Bryden, MPP for the Woodbine riding of Toronto, was speaker for the evening.

Les Hoyle, president of the Riding co - ordinating committee and chairman for the meeting, announced that a meeting was to be held in Belleville November 23 at which time a permanent riding organization would be set up and officers would be elected.

Mr. Bryden, in his address, said Canada's most serious problem today is chronic, hardcore unemployment.

Under the economic policies being pursued by the present government, there simply are not enough jobs to go around. The result is a tragic waste of our most valuable resources, namely, human beings, he asserted.

It is particularly significant that the number of people who have been seeking work for more than six months is now nearly 50 percent higher than it was a year ago, Mr. Bryden said. The irony of it all is that, according to the latest forecasts, profits of corporations are likely to reach an all-time record of $6 billion in the current year of this year. This has led to complacent statements by government spokesmen that we are now out of the recession and on the way back to prosperity, he stated.

The only answer to the problem is economic planning. In this day and age it is the duty of the federal government, in co-operation with the provinces, business, labor and agriculture to set both short-term and long-term objectives for our country and to draw up plans to achieve these objectives, the speaker maintained.

Voters' Lists Now Compiled By Clerk

TRENTON — Clerk-comptroller G. H. Bell said yesterday that the 1962 voters' lists had been compiled and printed and that they will be available for public scrutiny by Monday.

Lists will be placed in each of the town's schools; one at the post office; one at the police station and also at the municipal office.

Mr. Larry said that 250 names had been added to the list this year, the total list now contained approximately 7,000 names.

Every town resident, with the exception of persons who stand in a position wholly, is entitled to vote in municipal elections. Voters will be asked to signify their choice for mayor, four councillors, members of the board of education, and one public utilities commissioner.

All voters may express their views on the need for fluoridation of the town's water supply and on the question of Sunday sports. Both will be asked to vote but only tax-payers may vote on the question of an east-side bridge. Both will be asked on the 1961 voters' list contains the required qualifications.

Election day is Monday, Dec. 4 and a ratepayers' meeting will be held (probably in the auditorium of Trenton High School) on Thursday, November 23. At this meeting, appleals to public office state their platforms and make public statements as to how they will govern the town's affairs, if elected.

"Make mine ginger on the rocks," Yogi Bear instructs his owner, Glen McConkey of Frankford. Barney isn't particular as long as it's pop. Glen admits to being fond of his furry friends and claims "they're as gentle as kittens." Yogi and Barney live back of the McConkey-Bateman store on Highway 33, east of Frankford.

Curling Rink Busy Place as Season Starts

TRENTON — Thursday night saw the start of the curling season in Trenton. Rinks from the newly-formed industrial league took over the Trenton Curling Rink for the evening and although many of the curlers admitted that they were complete newcomers to the game, before the last stone was thrown each and every one of them considered himself a "pro".

Regular league play will commence at once and the curling rink will be by far the busiest place in town for the next six months, and members of municipal bodies will be suddenly called away from meetings to sit up with a sick friend.

PERMITS UP

While the number of building permits issued from the office of William Anderson, building inspector, during the month of October, (22), corresponds with the total issued for September, building values over the month increased by more than $90,000. In October, values totalled $280,780. Sept. values were reported as being $190,000.

October breakdowns are as follows: addition to Queen Elizabeth school, $70,000; cottage, garage, valued at $17,000; 13 single family dwellings, $134,200, (average, $10,-410.; dwelling repairs, (3), $7,000; garages, (2), $1,200; commercial, (1), $2,000; church repairs, (1), $200; sign, $90.

SEEKS MONEY

TORONTO (CP)—Rev. Joseph McCulloch, rector of St. Mary-Le-Bow, London, arrived here Friday on a flying tour to raise money for his famous church. The church was destroyed by Nazi bombs in 1941. On Nov. 20 the Duke of Edinburgh will pull a switch to ring the first peal in the restoration of Sir Christopher Wren's Tower. And London's Cockneys — traditionally born within the sound of the bells—will be at home again.

NDP Supporters Join Picket Line At Royal York

TORONTO (CP)—A group of 10 to 16 New Democratic Party supporters from Greenwood-Woodbine constituencies, headed by Ken Bryden, NDP member of the legislature for Woodbine and M. Andrew Brewin, federal candidate for Greenwood, joined the Royal York Hotel picket line Friday night.

"We are doing this because we want to identify ourselves clearly and unequivocally with men and women who are engaged in a 90-and-death struggle to prevent themselves from being reduced to a state of industrial serfdom," Mr. Brewin said in a statement.

"It is now clear beyond all possible doubt that the Canadian Pacific Railway, a foreign-owned corporation that has been the pampered pet of the Tory party almost since Confederation, is engaged in a deliberate campaign to destroy a legitimate trade union to maintain substandard wages and to deprive working people of protection against arbitrary power."

Mr. Brydon said it was not good enough for Ontario Liberal Leader Whitemeyer to say that he was demonstrating his neutrality by refusing to cross the picket line. He ought to take a position and declare it publicly, Mr. Bryden added.

HONOR MASSEY

TORONTO (CP) — Former governor-general Vincent Massey was honored Friday night at a testimonial dinner given by Massey Fellows. The fellows are former University of Toronto students granted awards from the Massey Foundation for overseas study between 1951 and 1959.

Chance for Survival

The New York Daily News says that, according to an unidentified Washington official, "it's a safe assumption that we (the U.S.) will be testing the neutron bomb very soon."

The New York Journal-American says it has learned this death-ray bomb "is the prime goal in the resumption of nuclear tests by the United States."

Senator Thomas J. Dodd of Connecticut says the U.S. must speedily make "every possible effort to convert the neutron bomb from a theoretical certainty to a practical reality."

The world can only hope that these ethnocentrisms are heeded and that these predictions are true. It can only hope that the U.S. is successful in its experiment. It can hope, too, that the N-bomb will prove as efficient as the H-bomb. And then it must hope against hope that having solved the secret of the neutron bomb, the U.S. will have the wisdom to share this secret with the Russians.

Ridiculous? Not at all.

The neutron bomb, as distinguished from the hydrogen bomb, would cause no property damage. Nothing which was not alive would be harmed. But people, and other living things, would be efficiently killed. However, the deadly neutrons quickly lose their power. It is safe to tread on the bombed area within a brief period of time.

These aspects of the bomb make it an ideal weapon for an aggressor, for a country greedy for living space or bent on filching the wealth of another nation. Both were the full story of the neutron bomb, its development would increase, rather than decrease, the danger of war.

There is, however, one other factor, and that vitally important. No deadly fallout results. Thus a neutron bomb war would not involve a hazard to the continued existence of the human race, unless the war itself became all-encompassing and was waged on such a scale that people everywhere were exposed to these bombs.

We can envisage no prospect of the neutron bomb lessening the likelihood of war. Though it might prove such an efficient killer that the number of survivors in a neutron-bombed city would be less than in a city hit by a hydrogen bomb, nothing in mankind's past history suggests that nations will, for this reason, abstain from war under any and every circumstances.

At the same time, it would not encourage aggression under conditions pertaining today, when any aggressor could not hope to avoid annihilation in turn, either from neutron bombs or hydrogen bombs.

What the neutron bomb would do, if it entirely replaced the hydrogen bomb and the atomic bomb in the arsenals of the nuclear powers, would be to end or greatly reduce the threat to the existence of all life on the earth.

This would be a marked advance.

No benefits to the world would accrue if the U.S., or Russia, used neutron bombs, while the opposing power depended on hydrogen bombs. Nor, from anything we know today, would the neutron bombs bring victory. It is generally agreed that both the U.S. and Russia today possess the capability of destroying each other. Therefore, the nation which first develops the neutron bomb would not be harming its own chances of survival if it gave the secret of the bomb to potential enemies. It would, however, be giving the rest of the world a chance of survival.

It is extremely doubtful, though, if this viewpoint, which appears rational at least from the standpoint of the layman, would prevail in the strained international atmosphere of today.

Paradoxically enough, perhaps the greatest contribution which any peace-loving nation could make to the prospects of the future survival of mankind would be to discover the secret of this deadly death-ray bomb—and to publish this secret to the whole world or at least convey it to all powers which today possess nuclear weapons.

Terrible as is the prospect of slaughter inherent in the threat of a thermo-nuclear war, the most awesome horror is not the fact that millions of people now living may die but that there may be no future for mankind and all the other living things that walk and creep and fly and swim on the earth and in the waters and in the air.

Nothing is more appalling than the prospect of all-embracing, ever-lasting death.

Saving Africa's Wildlife

By Ritchie Calder in UNESCO Features

In the heart of Africa their is a vast natural volcanoes, in arena for the world's greatest menagerie. It is called the Ngorongoro Crater, a cauldron-like setting of an extinct volcano 12 miles 20 kilometers in diameter, with an encircling "grandstand" 2,000 feet 600 m.

From the rim of the crater through binoculars, one can see 13,000 animals—the moving herds of wild beasts, zebra, eland, buffalo and elephants, prides of lions, packs of hunting dogs, herds of rhinos, giraffes, hyenas, jackals, ostriches and leopards. From the heights it looks like a military tattoo, with marching and counter-marching and sudden gallops. It is a wonderful spectacle of wild animals co-existing in their natural habitat.

But when one looks more closely, one sees curious stockades, of thornbrush, enclosing huts which look like brown shoe boxes, of wattle covered with mud and cow-dung and cattle corrals for hundreds of humped -backed, domesticated cattle.

On the floor of the crater these glisten pools But they are surrounded by a more insidious glitter — of the salt left by evaporation as the whole basin shrinks in the dry season, which has disastrously beset Tanganyika.

• • •

With a party of world-famous paleontologists from the African Conference on the "Conservation of Nature and Natural Resources" in Tanganyika, I made the nerve-racking descent down the precipitous escarpment to the floor of the crater. What had been an idyllic landscape became a depressing reminder of the fate which has befallen the wild life of Africa. What had been once a vast, grassy meadow, rimmed by trees among those thousands of variegated animals, was now a desert, cropped that the roots could not hold the soil which was drifting in dust.

The streams which had once perennially fed the pools and the waterholes and the springs, lows, where the hippos loll in the mud, had dried up. In the mountains beyond the craters African timber-men had invaded the forests and, by shifting cultivation, had destroyed the trees, the undergrowth and the vegetation which had once stopped and protected the rains into the underground streams.

The nomadic Masai cattle-tribe had also invaded the area but unfortunately invaded the water with their large herds and were competing with the wild animals for the sparse pastures and the stinkingly water supplies.

There was a wounded rhino, which no one dared to approach in its flank was a Masai spear which it had been unable to bed nine hours before. The game wardens and the indigenous African cross-examined the Masai about his apparently wanton act. The chief answered with quiet dignity. The rhino, he said, had attacked the village and, although it did not kill wild game either for meat or sport they did not like traffic as other tribes and non-Africans did in ivory and rhinohorn; they only protected their cattle.

• • •

This wounded rhino and the depressing state of the Ngorongoro Crater symbolized the problem of Africa. How can the needs of the human population be reconciled with the preservation of wild life of which many species, notably the rhino, are now threatened with extinction? This dilemma, which the Arusha Conference was called to resolve, was exacerbated by the drought of 1961, the worst that east Africa has known in living memory. As the high animals began to migrate in search of whatever food and water was available. But so did the tribes with their domestic animals. The pressure was increased because in recent years the numbers of the tribesmen and their animals have multiplied, human and veterinary medicine having cut down disease and premature death.

Tens of thousands of animals found refuge in the National Parks and game sanctuaries, but even in these - in Tanganyika and Kenya (but less in Uganda) - the drought and the trampling herds played havoc with the tenuous vegetation.

Worse still, savage poaching on a large scale harried the migrating wildlife and beset even the National Parks and the game reserves savage, because this was not killing for food; it was part of a ruthless traffic in ivory, rhino tusks, crocodile skins and animal pelts. In many places it was a massacre. The poachers, encouraged by illicit traders set snares in which game, big and small, were trapped and left to die.

• • •

This was the background against which the Arusha Conference of conservationists met in Arusha, in northern Tanganyika. It was brought together by the Commission for Technical Co-operation in Africa South of the Sahara, and the International Union for the Conservation of Nature and Natural Resources in collaboration with UNESCO and FAO. It was a vitally urgent conference because apart from preventing threats to wildlife, it was essential to arouse the interest and secure the co-operation of the newly emerging African states.

Along with discussions about the maintenance and creation of National Parks and game sanctuaries, the properties for wild animals, much hinged upon the possibility of prosperous co-existence between the wild animals and the wildlife and other domesticated animals. On the one hand, some species might soon be succeeded in the experiment. It can hope, too, that the N-bomb will prove as efficient as the H-bomb. And then it must hope against hope that having solved the secret of the neutron bomb, the U.S. will have the wisdom to share this secret with the Russians.

The price of honey may be cut the up-grade and spray owners may claim that available supplies are not up to their usual standard. But Mr. John Wallace, residing on the Belleville-Madoc road is well supplied every year although he neither keeps bees nor buys his honey. When the time comes to lay in the winter's supply of honey, Mr. Wallace merely removes the siding from the end of his house and extracts the honey which bees so kindly and conveniently place there every summer. Only this week he secured 500 pounds in this way, while three years ago he obtained over 600 pounds from his residence-apiary. Always, however, he is careful to leave a hundred pounds to feed the bees through the winter.

A white rose of rich bloom and six buds were discovered on a bush by a resident of William Street, Bay Shore today. The mildness of the weather has taken as the reason for this work of nature at this late season.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

We look with condescension upon the animal kingdom and say that while most of them have their uses in life, is incapable of reasoning, and their behavior is largely governed by what we call conditioned reflexes. The way of a bird with a worm, for all it is a naked nestling until, all fluff and feathers, it tumbles out of the nest and eats worms, is a matter of weeks, upon the principle of adventure in life, is one of our favorite examples of the principle of conditioned reflex. We say, and we demonstrate, to our entire satisfaction, that in all its actions that infant bird responds, without thought, quite automatically to each stimulus that greets it. Not birds alone but throughout the animal kingdom all creatures other than man are credited with the blind absolute response.

Now we hid occasional flow much of human behavior is not response to conditioned reflex? Very little, if present age. Instinct were as paramount in human affairs, great and small, as we like to think they are, we would mankind be in the perpetual jam it is in itself in?

We are closer to the little birds than we think.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR EARL L. DOUGLASS

PEOPLE OF A SPECIAL MOLD

At the funeral of Lenin in 1924, Stalin spoke as follows: "Lenin has left us. We, the party people of a special mold - - - there is nothing higher than the title of member of a party whose founder and leader was comrade Lenin - - - It is not given to everyone to withstand the stresses and storms that accompany membership in such a party - - - It is given to few to stand up straight, the song of incredible privation and heroic effort who before all should be members of such a party."

Notice of the devotion here reflected. And devotion to what? To the most murderous system of tyranny the world has ever known. It moves to passionate devotion, because of the iron collar about their necks, and then has the effrontery to speak of itself as the peoples' government.

Murder is a specialty with communism - it is at war with Murder Inc, here in our own country many years ago. The only difference is that communism is making war on its work on a larger scale.

You and I are members of the family of God. The message of that body of men and women bound together by love and devotion to a common Saviour and committed to the advancement of the kingdom of love. Yet is our commitment as complete as the commitment of some communists to their false and wicked system?

We can say along with Stalin that we are people of a special mold. But how different the motive!

To Your Good Health

The Flow of Mothers' Milk Is Known as a Reflex

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 38 and in a few weeks will have my seventh child. My problem is that I can never get enough milk for the baby. I don't think any amount of wanting will help.

There has been experimentation with a hormone called oxytocin in hope that it would stimulate lactation. This may be best knowledge, this has been primarily an experimental project.

Physicians with obstetricians leads me to believe there is still no practical way to stimulate lactation. We know that the flow of milk is a reflex. If the reflex is weak, or interrupted, the flow will be deficient.

Mrs. R. J.: In case, I would say that there is positive evidence that her reflex mechanism is intact. Nursing and the nearness of soon to think she will succeed in nursing the new baby.

Maybe, of course, she is "trying too hard" but it's easier to say "relax" than it is to do it.

Millions of babies, however, have been raised on the formula method. Nursing is not still more convenient by bottle. Sometimes when this is done the mother, relieved of the responsibility, feels a feeling that she has to do it all, relaxes and finds that she can do more than the nursing method.

In any event, there is nothing wrong, and much good, in nursing by whatever extent is possible and the decision is left to the bottle either in part or entirely.

By whatever method, the most important aim is to be sure the baby gets enough to eat and gets enough loving.

Dear Dr. Molner: What are the meds signs that a mother is pregnant, besides missing menstrual periods?—Mrs. M.B.

The essence of war is exhilaration. Whoever heard of a happy war?

There is only one kind of thinking that is constructive and that is thinking of how to live from poison. When you think in terms of co-operation with the whole world you are a practical health you are laying the foundation for a healthy, spiritual growth.

Those things which make you happy are usually the things that make others happy. Distribute them.

If you drink in beauty wherever you find it you cannot help but radiate it. After all, it's the inner growth and not your status that you finally feel as the atmosphere of the world and life in general!

Generosity Paid Off

Some 80 years ago a Scotsman of poor means was walking near the village of Edinburgh when a boy dangerously mired in a bog and rescued him. The boy turned out to be Lord Randolph Churchill, the Statesman's son, was graduated from St. Mary's Hospital Medical School. His name is Sir Alexander Fleming, who discovered penicillin. During the Second World War the statesman's son was stricken with pneumonia and would become of penicillin. His name is Sir Winston Churchill.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

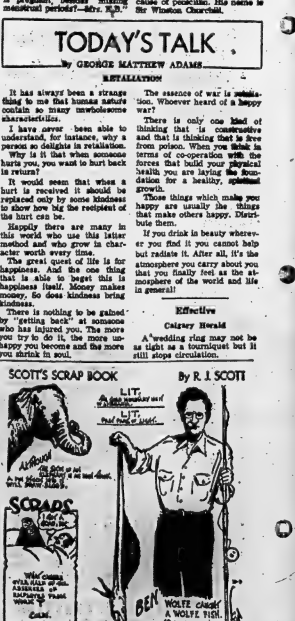
RETALIATION

It has always been a strange thing to me that human nature calls so many unwholesome characteristics.

I have never been able to understand, for instance, why a person so delights in retaliation.

Why is it that when someone hurts you, you want to hurt him in return?

It would seem that when a hurt is received it should be replaced only by some kindness to show how big the recipient of the hurt can be.



Happily there are many in this world who use the latter method and who grow in character worth every time.

The great secret of life is for happiness. And the one thing which is the least part of happiness itself. Money makes money. So does kindness bring kindness.

There is nothing to be gained by "getting back" at someone who has injured you. The most you try to do it, the more unhappy you become and the more you shrink in soul.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

AUTUMN ARRIVALS

By WINIFRED WILSON

We are apt to think of autumn migrants as birds that either pass through our settlements on their journey south or leave our part of Canada for warmer climates. Though this is true of the majority, actually some thus nest far north are willing to choose southern Canada for their winter homes because here they can obtain their required nourishment.

The common snow buntings, sometimes known as "snowflakes", come into this group. They breed in the Arctic and sub-Arctic regions all over the world — in North America from the edge of the barren grounds northward. Sometimes they eat moths, crane flies, mosquitoes, and other insect life so abundant because of the continuous summer sunlight. When snow falls, they subsist on weed, that have not yet been covered up. Once these are buried, the snow buntings start down. Then the northern boundary of their winter resorts is central Quebec and central Manitoba, and we have the pleasure of seeing them occasionally.

From towards the end of October to late November they move about in large flocks, looking for seeds. Their mode of progression across a snowy field with weed tops showing is characteristic — and amusing for us. The birds in the rear fly over the heads of those feeding in front and alight beyond them. This is repeated over and over.

Another summer resident of the Arctic tundra that sometimes winters with us is the hoary redpoll. They seldom just a slightly more southerly diet is seeds. Reach southern Ontario, and breeding range, nesting from Circumpolar in their breeding when they do are few in number the timber to 65°th central range, the farthest north nest- and usually in company with Quebec. Like the snow buntings ing site of Lapland longspurs in common redpolls, those close the summer fare of redpolls is the Western Hemisphere is relatives of theirs which have insects, but their staple winter northern Greenland.

Reports were given by the treasurer and group committee representative.

Plans were made to serve refreshments to the Cubs at their Hallowe'en party held on Monday night. It was reported that 12 pairs of ears required from the sewing convener, and these will be completed in the near future.

The "Ways and Means" committee had many suggestions as to ways of raising money to assist the Cubs and Scouts during the coming months. Two of these projects are to be adopted immediately.

In order to keep the Cub Mothers informed as to the various phases of cubbing, invitations are to be given from the Book — "Pow". With the interests for the various badges is to be made easy.

'Three University Students' Topic at Queen's Alumni

Ninety-five Queens graduates and their friends attended the fall dinner of the Queens Alumni Association, Belleville Branch. The speaker of the evening was Dr. J. Deutsch, vice-principal of Queen's. Mr. Norris McDougall, the president was in charge of the program.

After dinner, served by the ladies of Albury Church, a hearty sing-song was conducted by John Ross with Mrs. Gordon Lorrain at the piano.

Dr. Deutsch spoke of the three great problems of the university, the college age group, almost over night doubling itself, the strong trend of young people to attend college; the age in which we live, an era of technical advances in knowledge and technology. In the past generation we have acquired the same bulk of knowledge as was known in all previous history. In addition we have, until recently, had the best opportunities for research. Now we have to make a rapidly rising contribution to the ever-increasing advances in knowledge.

This year the student body at Queen's increased 10 percent but there is no end in sight to education. The great increase has been in the registration in the science rather than supplied science. This means the addition of mathematics, Physics, Chemistry, and Biology to the curriculum. With the increased number of post-graduate students more extended libraries must be provided. Perhaps most unexpected has been the increase in women students. Ten years ago 426 women registered, this year 1,000 women are in the university, seven rate of expansion the registration in Queens could be 9,000. The Medical faculty this year is already limited to 63. Will there have to be a limit set on the numbers in other faculties? Time alone will tell".

Dr. Deutsch was introduced by Mr. George Hennessy and thanked by Mr. Leslie Reid. Mrs. Rose Dr. J. Deutsch, vice-principal of Queen's, Mr. Norris McDougall, the president was in charge of the program.

'Aunt Helena' Reaches 92nd Milestone

Approximately 12 friends assembled at the home of Mrs. Mabel McCann, Grand St. on Wednesday evening, in honor of her aunt, Miss Helena Johnson, who was celebrating her 92nd birthday.

"Aunt Helena," as she is affectionately called, still leads an active life, doing her own housework and is rising every morning at 6:30 to prepare the family breakfast including the old stand-by, rolled oat porridge.

She was the recipient of several small gifts including personal, chocolates and flowers.

Mrs. Arvin Sanford, a regular attendant at the Standard Church on Dundas Street, assisted in her younger days, as well as being organist for the Methodist church in Eldorado, taught music.

At the close of the evening she favored with the lovely hymn, "O God of God," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. A. J. Slater.

Tokyo — This, then, is the Orient today:

At the airport, a Pan American crew steps aboard a jet with the familiar blue globe on the tail. Half a world away, its hostesses will greet with their own beds tomorrow morning. . . .

The terminal is like most — functional, modern, architecturally sterile. Its pagoda roof. But at the Full Bath cashier's window, our currency exchange is totaled with an abacus . . .

Outside the sun rises mistily over its homeland. It's like a relieve the gray landscape. Needlepoint smokestacks send spreading fingers of smoke-smog over the refineries and flat factory buildings crowding the horizon. It could be any land. Then in the middle of a cobblestone square, a Shinto torii gate, the graceful, arched entranceway to a shrine that stands before all Shinto shrines. But there is no shrine, only the dowdy, brittleness of a city nowhere, standing nowhere . . .

Two aged gentlemen in western attire bow politely to each other in the street. This is the west. And bowing and again. Somewhere when groups of businessmen were to meet in a local lobby for a business conference, they would look for a further bowing going into a huddle.

The Phoenix Lounge of the dramatically modern new wing of the Imperial Hotel. Amazingly, the room is crowded for ball game on TV. The players' mannerisms are indistinguishable from those of baseball fans. That is understandable. The baseball is basically a stylized ballet highly suited to Japan's precise taste in style. But with the intercontinental rivalry, a new pitcher is brought on to face a batter who is not the third baseman . . .

Two young girls walk in with the dated and quick drink before the performance of Kabuki theater. . . . Baseball is suddenly an era out of date: they are stunningly balanced creations of hair and coiffures, white silk robes embroidered with exquisite chrysanthemums, obi sashes carefully wound, folded and puffed into a bow at the back. We were to see hundreds of kimonos, some of them no more than now modest, in anything but the most striking good taste. Each is a work of art and setting of a town. It is big and dramatic, or quiet and ugly. Overhead tramlines and power wires make for too many poles. Here and there are modern bicycles and trucks and motor scooters. Poles are plastered with signs, all of them advertisements and most in Japanese character, but a surprising number in English. Everywhere, dominating and the inevitable Coca Cola pop out of the bewildering maze of colorful scrawls. One street sign also say "No Left Turn" and "Pedestrian Crossing" in English, a holdover from the occupation.

A series of curved roofs pops out of the trees and a blocked-off bequest of Nikko appears. Inside on the grounds a sandal-bell game is in progress and a man nearby identifies the "Shiba Golf Driving Range."

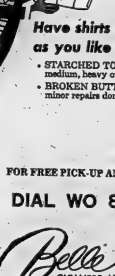
ALEXANDRA ARRIVES

HONG KONG (Reuters) — Princess Alexandra arrived here from Canada Friday for an 11-day official visit to the British colony, the start of her Far Eastern tour.

Moments in History



In 1780, first settlers in the Belleville area began to arrive. In 1789, some fifty families of United Empire Loyalists settled near the mouth of the River Moira, then known by its Indian name "Sagnasaskon". Little is known how these people kept their homes warm in those days. Today, modern oil can make heating efficient and effective; fuel oil is distributed economically. At the turn of this century, Belleville and the Schuster company first began. It has grown with Belleville. Why not let Moira-Schuster supply your heating needs? CHRISTMAS CARDS AND QUESTIONS

Should I send cards or people at the office? Should cards go first class? How should I sign them? And so on and so on.

Here are some questions we've received. The answers, we hope will help everyone get through the maze without cast-ing a shoe.

Question: How far in advance of Christmas should cards be mailed?

Answer: Like this! Not actually "mailed" to send cards unsealed, it does look kind of chintzy. But in favor of going first class all the way.

Question: Must I send a card to everyone who sends me one?

Answer: If you think a person might be slighted if you didn't and if you can get it in the mail before Christmas, then go ahead. But never send a card that will arrive after Christmas. The recipient will know for sure it's an afterthought.

Question: Should I send cards to people at the office

Answer: Only to those with whom you're friendly. I don't think it's good form to send cards to everyone on the roster, just to register your name on the basis of carrying favor. Your own innate good taste should be your guide here.

Question: Should a card to a business associate be addressed to Mr. and Mrs., even if I don't know the wife?

Answer: If the card is sent to the office, no. If it's sent to the man's home, then it should be addressed to both, even if you've never met his wife.

Question: Is it proper to sign both the husband's and wife's names to a card sent to a business associate?

Answer: Only if there's been some social exchange. Otherwise I think it's better taste for the man to sign it solo. The same applies to the working wife, who should use the name she goes by at the office.

Question: When Christmas cards are sent from husband and wife, whose name comes first?

Answer: On engraved cards, the wife's name usually is put first. When cards are signed by hand, they may read "John and Mary Smith," or "Mary and John Smith." Either is correct.

Question: We'd like to include our children in our card. Should it be signed "Mary and John Smith and Children," or should we add the children's names. We have three.

Answer: It's better form to list their names. On a family card, the father's name comes first, so the signature should read: John, Mary, Chris, Jane and Pam Smith.

Readers' Saturday Column

As conducted by Mary Moore

Question: Someone told me what I want is made from Lima Beans. It has some celery, minced beef or pork, spices, tomato or catsup, and the color is brown. I think the beans were dried. It is served from a casserole with hot rolls. Bread. — Mrs. F. D.

Answer: I am a little puzzled by your description but the following Lima bean casserole fills the bill.

SATURDAY

Dinner Menu

Sauerkraut (or Savoy Cabbage) with Pork Hocks or Sparerib; Potato Pancakes; (packaged mix is good); Lettuce Hearts with Roquefort Dressing; Pumpkin Pie (see Friday); Tea.

LIMA BEAN CASSEROLE

2 cups dried limas; 1 medium onion, sliced very thin; 1 stalk celery, chopped; 2 oz. salt pork, sliced; 3 tablespoons molasses; 3 tablespoons granulated sugar; 1 teaspoon salt; 2 tablespoons catsup.

Wash beans thoroughly and soak in cold water overnight. Next morning, drain. Put beans into a 3-quart saucepan, add 4 cups cold water and 1½ teaspoons salt, heat to boiling; then simmer gently until soft (about 40 minutes), being careful not to cook hard enough to break beans. Drain, saving cooking water, and pour half of beans into casserole or bean pot, lay onion slices and celery over them. Add rest of beans and bury salt pork in them, leaving rind exposed. Combine molasses, catsup, sugar, salt, and 1½ cups cooking water and pour over beans; cover, baking at 325 deg. Fahr. 1½ hours. Do not let beans get too dry, add boiling water to bring liquid almost to the top. Uncover and bake 1 to 2½ hours longer, until a golden brown forms on top.

Question: I would love to have a good loaf cake or cookie that uses egg yolks (left from angel food cake). — Doris M.

GOLDEN SPONGE CAKE
(8 egg yolks)

1½ cups sifted cake flour; 1¼ teaspoons double-acting baking powder; ½ teaspoon salt; 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons sugar; 8 egg yolks; lemon rind, grated and lemon colored; 1 teaspoon lemon extract; 1 teaspoon orange extract; 6 tablespoons cold water.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together 3 times. Add sugar gradually to beaten egg yolks, beating with rotary egg beater after each addition until thick and light. Fold in flour, a small amount at a time, and blend. Add flavoring, then add water, gradually mixing only enough to blend. Bake in ungreased tube pan at 325 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour. Remove from oven and invert until cold.

GOLD COOKIES

2 cups sifted cake flour; 1¼ teaspoons double-acting baking powder; ½ cup butter or shortening; 1 cup sugar; 4 egg yolks, unbeaten; ½ teaspoon lemon extract.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, and sift again. Blend butter, add sugar gradually, and cream well. Add egg yolks, one at a time. Add flavoring; then flour. Chill. Roll into ¾" balls; dip in chopped nuts if desired. Bake on greased baking sheet at 350 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes. Makes 3½ dozen.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Bertha J.— He says he'll love me, even after another 19 years together.

Ernest J. — She'd better never forget that this marriage was her idea.

* * *

Bertha J. — We had a "shotgun" wedding 18 years ago, and now we have seven children. On the surface things look bearable. But behind the scenes Ernest does everything he can to torture me.

His treatment ranges from calling me names to flaunting another woman before eyes.

The only period of grace came during World War II when he sent me enough money to support a raising foal love.

How he tells me there's no hope. He avoids my kisses. And he seems sick sexually, because he peeps at our daughter undressing, and shows our son risque pictures.

The strangest part is that I've met the other woman who says she never could stand Ernie, and that she and her husband will use him if he continues to talk about having had an affair with her!

* * *

Ernest J. — Bertha asked for this. She keeps crawling where I stood and how I felt 18 years ago when she roped me into marrying her, even though I was in love with another girl, told her then I had no desire until this day, didn't even like her.

My only recourse has been to get away as much as possible, even though I do my legal duty to her and the kids. The war gave me a break. After that, I spent weeks at a time at my mother's. And, for company, regardless of what my old-time friend Hilda told my wife, I had Hilda. I'm not admitting to an "affair" with her. It's just 20-year friendship. But my wife can't stand it when I mention Hilda. Why shouldn't I? Knowing her was my only happiness.

* * *

The Council: The above provides only the "gist" of one of the most complex cases ever presented to the Council. For now, all we can highlight is the tragic error, and the compounding of more error, in a marriage that was a mistake from the start.

Paramount is the need for these two individuals to go back and grow up. They went into marriage and parenthood, having left the last stages of childhood behind.

This confrontation of self is cancerous; carries pain to every friendly counsellor, one who sits not in judgment but in compassion, would see the cancer and help see it through to something solid on which to build a bearable future.

There is the need for blanket forgiveness. Ernest's sadistic behavior should be understood in terms of his own desperate needs, flouted and ignored by Bertha. And her "cutting aim" of forcing marriages upon him must not be the pretext for an excuse for his avoiding sincere efforts to build an amicable, if not truly loving, relationship.

After 18 years, there may be little left in the place of friendliness here. Forget about Ernest's "love" for the time being, Bertha. The most you can hope for is to convert basic hate, bitterness, and complete and sometimes gratitude for glimpses of happiness into a warmer, more understanding union than you have now.

The easy answer would be "Chuck it all". But comes the echo, "What then?" Each would be left solo, with almost as many problems as before. We recommend clinging to the straw of marriage, while planning a return to a dry patch, another how small, of sane living.

LAS VEGAS VIGNETTES

"Dahling!" she said on entering an elegant new casino. "What a divine rumpus room!"—Tallulah Bankhead (a definite comment, 'tis felt that 'covers Las Vegas.)

This morning we take a drive out to the McCarran Air Field to watch departing guests embarkation for Los Angeles. Guests enticed to Las Vegas by attractive round-trip "champagne package" flights for just under $25. This includes free drinks during flight, transportation to and from McCarran Airport, a floor show, buffet supper and one bottle of champagne. Now such passenger is given a lunch box upon entering the plane and one couple, hoping for ticket-cancellation on this particular plane are fortunate to get it, and there is much rejoicing. The plane, now ready, takes off in circles overhead then soars toward the horizon—I'm not a mountain climber.

We drive back to the Strip via new housing developments where new homes are just the same as in Belleville — with one exception. They were built on concrete slabs and are therefore cheaper. "But where you have furnaces, we air condition-ioners." was the way one man expressed it. Cars and houses alike have built in air conditioners, and in temperatures of 115 degrees, all is lucky, we're all for it. A middle aged man who left Chicago to come to Nevada for his health, works as a bell-hop in one of the Casinos explains that cars with built-in air conditioners can sell around $400 above the usual price, but are worth it. He's leaving today to drive up to Reno for some hunting, and shall do so in cool comfort—I envy him the sizzling heat."

Ten million visitors have been counted here by every device of fun and pleasure possible to man and beast. Each year over three, who just passed by and now stops to speak to a group of friends. She looked surprisingly tall for a dancer (about five feet, six inches) yet perfectly proportioned. In white full-skirted, strapless apricot-colored satin gown, matching slippers and a long fringed stole; her long bobbed, light brown hair was parted in the middle and ranged in a half bubble hair-do. Over yonder at a group of tall devotees of Earl Grant cluster about to listen to his orchestra as he plays and sings the tiny electric organ with his fantastic masterful display of physical and emotional power. It's almost unbelievable. His audience is held breathless and spell-bound. Or to find upon sampling a mid-night buffet supper at the Sands, which is the last to the next table is one of the Crosby brothers and his wife who looks like a fragile flower in her jersey ankle-tight slacks, a pale apple green jersey sweater and a white scarf tied over her head enough to reveal a deep-red mass of fair hair over the ears and talks aminadably with her husband whose dark head and pendicular-striped yellow and white sports shirt, while she sips her after dinner coffee, change her coffee; it's too strong.

Yet one evening as we left a casino where red-coated Viennese violinists were playing spiritedly and the gaiety spilled out into the blue of the night, where a full moon had opened and closed the casino door to find the moon had gone down and the only blossom among the desert flowers was the yellow glow in the sky above the warm gentle, soft air, we carried away a little scene we had just witnessed which stands paramount amongst our impressions. In the lobby where we had been sitting, a large negro mammy wheeled in a

Little Helpers Present Annual Gifts

The Little Helpers of Christ Church held their annual service and party on October 30th, with Archdeacon J. B. Creighton officiating, assisted by the Rev. Everett Smith.

Many Little Helpers and their mothers attended the service in Christ Church, after which they were the guests of the Evening Branch of the Women's Auxiliary for the party held for ice cream, cookies and a cup of tea in the basement.

The Little Helpers is the first step in the planned program for the Anglican Church of Canada in the work with children and young people throughout the world. Little Helpers began in 1904 with eight branches and now over 700 children participate in this organization.

Mrs. Ethel Sawyer, secretary for the service were: Mrs. H. Pitt, president of the Afternoon Branch of the W.A.; Mrs. Ivan Bromley, president of the Evening Branch of the W.A.

Several members of the W.A. assisted throughout the service: Mrs. Little, Mrs. Hughes, Kathleen Gardiner, Cheryl Lafferty, John Bailey and Karen Cox. They assisted Archdeacon in the presentation of the gifts.

Mrs. A. Bongard was the convener for the party which followed the service.

frail white-haired woman whose clothing indicated wealth but whose health was impoverished. She stooped to help pull one of the white leather lounges and slowly the crippled-invalid placed her right arm around the negro's neck, who in turn had both arms about her mistress, so that patient's full weight was supported by this stalwart servant. Slowly, patiently they pivoted with out taking one step, from the wheel-chair to the lounge. About half way the mistress leaned forward (in a pool of lace gown) whispered something in the negress' ear, which made her smile — and all the while the patient so lovingly, it was wonderful to behold, with the most graceful, practised sweep of her arm, the negress seated her mistress. Then opened of the expensive hand bag beside her mistress and drew out the inevitable fan. Then opened also sat down beside her, and both proceeded to read the evening paper or gaze contentedly at the passing scene of humanity in the fancy glow of the slot machines, roulette or at their strolled about.

This small, however unnoticed, scene of quiet devotion and thoughtfulness, was a revelation upon this pleasure-loving mecca that so bountifully embraced all pilgrim willing to pay the fees of physical capabilities, and left many a lighter purse at heart. And all Las Vegas seemed the richer for it.

Christ Restores Lost Nerve

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

We know what we mean when we say that a person has lost his nerve. We mean that he has lost his willingness to dare the difficult and buckle the dangerous. Sometimes such loss of nerve comes in a crisis, as in the case of Joseph Conrad's character, "Lord Jim." That young officer, trained in the tradition of seamanship, threw honor aside when he joined the cowardly crew in abandoning his sinking ship before waiting the passengers. The memories of that deed sank into the morale of Lord Jim that the portrayal of him by Conrad has become a classic.

Can Christ, the quickening spirit, restore a person who has thus lost his nerve in an emergency? Well, He has. Think of Peter, who on last night of Christ's arrest, went skulking among the shadows, denying that he ever knew our Lord. But sometime within the fortnight following the Crucifixion, Peter caught something from the Christ which transformed him from a timid, slinking disciple into a radiant, courageous leader of the early gospel. And what happened to Peter has been duplicated down the centuries.

The more dangerous lacking of nerve, however, does not come in crises but by slow softening and subtle compromise. Some years ago Harold Begbie drew a devastating description of a former British premier, now dead. Begbie asked his readers to look at a portrait of the British leader when he was a young man, full of jaw and prophetic of eye, and then contrast it with the picture of the man in his mellow age, heavy of jowl, with a look of easy-going adjustment in his face. The author then asked, could you imagine the artist painting the portrait ever tackling anything very tough for the Kingdom of God?

LOSE OUR NERVE

Alas, the tragedy of advancing years too often is that we thus lose our nerve. We rationalize our sinister and say it being practical or tactful or diplomatic. But in reality we have shrunk into the protective shell of prudence. And what we need is the quickening spirit of Christ to revive our ideals and courage.

When the late Reverend Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst was trying to clean up New York City's "Tenderloin" some fifty years ago, he aroused a great deal of opposition. Some of the crusade did not seem to carry through. Dr. Parkhurst complained that the good people got tired being good before the people got tired of being bad.

But there is still another sense in which we lose our nerve. We may lose our very conviction before we lose our courage in curing it. When we forget that the voice of conscience at evils that once would have stirred us, then we are losing our sense of the sin and of that process, according to the gospel, is the unpardonable sin against the Holy Spirit, which is the condition of becoming so calloused that no longer feel the prick of conscience, and therefore, never turn to repentance.

And who is to keep our conscience sensitive to wrong doing? Of course, when we commit certain flagrant sins, there are many to remind us. If I get beastly drunk, the scorn of my neighbors will rebuke me. If in a burst of anger I strike my fellow man, he may strike back. But if I only refuse to help my fellow man in his troubles, no one wakes me up by striking me. If I merely abstain from doing good, there may often be no one to remind me of my sins of omission. That is why these sins of omission are so dangerous and damning. In fact it is these which do damn us, according to Jesus' picture of the Last Judgment. You remember His words, "Inasmuch as ye did it not unto one of the least of these." Those with the words of dismissal into outer darkness.

STIRRED TO REPENTANCE

Christ comes to us in the smugness of our complacency when no one condemns us and by the purity of His sinlessness. His aim is to repentance. Alongside His genuine goodness, our little virtues appear to look like cheap stage jewelry. He touches our lost nerves of feeling and conscience.

Wise people go for periodic physicals to examine us to see though they may feel no pain. We are learning that cancer, for example, can often be prevented. The same prevention principle works for preserving the health of the soul.

Some persons go to church only now and then, and they need it, as they say. Recently a husband, who goes to church ordinarily at Easter and Christmas, told his wife that he thought he would get up and go to service the next Sunday. She said that humorously and yet half suspiciously, "What have you been doing that you need to go to church?" It is good to go to God's house when we feel the need of worship. It is even better to go before our consciences get to hurting.

Resignations Received by Scouts MA

The 18th Cub and Scout Mothers' Auxiliary held their October meeting at the Parkdale Community Centre with Mrs. Brooks presiding. Mrs. Brooks expressed appreciation to Mrs. Scott who baked doughnuts for the Cubs on "Apple Day," and also extended thanks to Mrs. Hyatt, Mrs. Spicer, Joan Weagant and Mrs. Kerr for helping serve them to the boys along with doughnuts.

RESIGNATIONS

Resignations were regretfully received from Mrs. Brooks who has served faithfully as treasurer, and Mrs. Weaver, who has served diligently as secretary. The election of new officers took place, and it is hoped that the vacancies will be filled by the next meeting.

The members took part in a quiz and memory game, and the evening concluded with a delicious lunch served by Mrs. Weagant, Mrs. Keeble and Mrs. Andrews.

The writer of this weekly advice column is an 11-year-old boy. The advice he gives is strictly his own. It has not been changed by his parents or the editor. He welcomes letters from parents. If you want him to discuss them, write to ASK HENRY, in care of this newspaper.

Dear Henry:—My son, 14, and my husband, 46, are crazy about football. They talk about it all the time, watch all games on TV, play in the backyard and take off every week-end to see a game. I find my self alone.—FOOTBALL SICK.

Dear Football—If you can't lick them, join them.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—I have enjoyed your lesson one in which you have instructed Kathe how to get a bike. Just for fun, what's lesson two?—STILL LAUGHING.

Dear Still Laughing—If lesson one doesn't work, try lesson two. It is: Kathe has a frozen heart. It must be melted and softened.

2. Keep crying and saying "Daddy doesn't love me."

3. Put up signs all over the house with "Daddy doesn't want me to have any fun."

4. Whenever you meet your dad, give him a long face.

5. Tell your father that Henry's lesson No. three will be even more drastic.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—I broke my leg playing football (I am 10 years old). My leg was up in traction for a month. Now it's in a cast up to my waist. All they do is laugh at me. How can I stop them from laughing?—QUARTER-BACKER.

Dear Quarter-Backer—They are a bunch of brats and aren't worth paying any attention to.—Don't worry, soon you will have a full back.—HENRY.

Dear Henry:—We got two Christmas catalogues by mail. Our Susan has chosen already 15 toys and dolls, some very expensive, which she would like to get and keeps adding one more every day. How can we help her to make up her mind for one only—ONLY ONE WALLET.

Dear Only One Wallet—Buy her a rag doll, she will love it.—HENRY.

Dear Henry:—Any time I go shopping with my mother she always gets what she wants to buy. Last Saturday she said she would buy me a Cub uniform. She spent three hours in one store, then we had lunch, then we went to another store to pick up some things. Before we knew it it was time to go home and I didn't get my Cub uniform. What should I do—STUCK.

Dear Stuck—You are stuck with your mother. Either go shopping with your dad or ask your mother to get you a Scout uniform because by the time your mother will get you a Cub uniform you will be in the Boy Scouts.—HENRY.

DEAR DORIS:—My father insists on wearing specs that he purchased 20 years ago (cheap, metal-rimmed) until they wear out or break. I have suffered a million embarrassments about them and now my teen-age children have started to say, "You'd think Gramp would buy new ones!"

I tried to give him money for new ones but my mother said I couldn't treat them as if they were two years old! Finally I said I wouldn't invite them out again if he didn't get new ones.

I appreciate saving a little more of my children instead of gifts. —WANTING TO BE A LOVING MOTHER.

Peace Research Institute Will Be Established

MONTREAL (CP) — Three prominent Canadian scientists have set in motion the establishment of the Canadian Peace Research Institute—a non-profit institute incorporated under federal charter "to engage scientists in full - time research on problems that underlie international tensions and the nuclear peril."

The announcement was made at the final summary session of international affairs at Sir George Williams University by Norman Z. Alcock of Calville, Ont., engineer and nuclear physicist; Dr. Brock Chisholm of Victoria, former director-general of the World Health Organization; and Kenneth E. Boulding, professor of economics at the University of Michigan and formerly of McGill University.

The scientists said financial arrangements for the institute will be completed early in 1962 and "it will be operating with an initial staff of 25 scientific personnel in 1962."

Institute scientists would examine the physical, economic and social bases of international tension and recommend means of alleviating or eliminating them to the government.

The Peace Research Institute, to be established at a university in Eastern Canada, is supported by five national organizations: the Voice of Women, the Canadian Committee for the Control of Radiation Hazards, the Combined Universities Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament, the Society of Friends (Quakers) and the World Federalists of Canada.

Therapist, Once Regarded As Poor Cousin to Medical Fraternity, Now Welcomed

By BOB TRIMBEE

VANCOUVER (CP) — The therapist, once regarded as a poor cousin by the medical fraternity, now is welcomed with open arms.

She has emerged from cramped basement quarters and her sphere of influence has spread through the entire hospital, says Dr. Brock Fahrni, head of the new school of rehabilitation medicine at the University of British Columbia.

"This change has been brought about by the shift in concept of the treatment of the general hospital patients," he said in an interview.

"Work with the thousands of Second World War casualties showed the value of getting patients up and out of bed as quickly as possible.

"This was the task facing therapists, both occupational and physical, in the service hospitals throughout Canada. Today their work has spread throughout civilian hospitals."

PART OF TEAM

Rehabilitation has stimulated progress in other areas of medical care, he added.

"The therapist gave the doctor another arm with which to work and rapidly became a key part of treatment. It seems the most practical medical team of the future will comprise the practising doctor as captain and the therapist and nurse as his lieutenants."

The early ambulation of patients, especially older patients, helps to prevent any upset in body chemicals and fluid balance.

"We have found that a large percentage can be activated to a degree where they can dress and look after their personal hygiene. Older patients allowed to lie in bed, even for a few days, lose their strength. If this is not checked they might never get out of bed again, and be exiled to life in a nursing home the remainder of their days.

"This is a cost usually borne by the community, and it is an expensive one. Early therapy can help arrest this trend."

LESSER BURDEN

Dr. Farhni said savings to the community could be as high as $1,500 a year for each patient placed in a boarding home rather than a nursing institution. The savings would be higher if the patient returned home.

"Unless some concerted program is undertaken, within 20 years the costs of nursing home care will prove too much for the community to bear."

The provincial government, after consultation with the medical community and its own B.C. hospital insurance service officials, has agreed to assist hospitals in inaugurating such services. It has also agreed to assume one-third of capital construction costs of new rehabilitation wards, and to assist in meeting staff costs.

MORE PRESSURES

The progress in therapy has brought about additional pressures on hospitals—space for activation wards, training programs for nurses and other hospital personnel, special general ward and activation ward therapy equipment.

Even in these directions, the therapist is helping to find the answers.

She is becoming a teacher, instructing hospital personnel in activation, rehabilitation and self-care technique. She enters the clinics and the home, assisting doctors in establishment of sound rehabilitation programs for out-patients. She goes into nursing homes to assist in teaching techniques that will assist patients to keep as active a schedule as possible.

The assistance of the therapist, he said, is easing the work load in both the acute and chronic care wards, thereby helping doctors to shift the medical effort to a more balanced regime.

The complete change will be slow, and will come only after an intensive educational program involving both the professional and the layman, he said.

"This is part of the job our school is attempting to do. In five years we expect to have a university hospital. Then we hope to integrate the basic training of doctors, nurses and therapists.

"The reasoning behind this is the production of a medical team with a basic knowledge of all phases of treatment so that in practice each will be able to see the problems of the other and establish a treatment program best suited to the patient and allowing the greatest team play."

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

TORONTO — The guardians of Ontario's greatest youth movement, some 400 of them, are sitting in solemn conclave in the King Edward-Sheraton Hotel here today.

They constitute an all-time record for delegates to the annual convention of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association. They're here from the north, the eastern areas of "Lower Canada," the west to Lake Erie and the south to Windsor.

It is a far cry from 32 years ago when a small group gathered to discuss the future and organization of "kid" hockey to the 400-man delegation now in session here.

The men dedicated to hockey and boys have been responsible for the tremendous growth of the OMHA for nearly three decades.

Each year they establish new records. From the 14 teams entered in the OMHA 28 years ago, last year saw 525 clubs entered in playoffs. This is an increase from 359 in the 1956-57 season. Besides these the OMHA has another 3,078 teams affiliated and playing in local leagues across the province.

Many top senior and professional hockey players included on a list in the National Hockey League got their start under OMHA organizations. Surely the idea of a "feed-box" for the pros is not the predominant feature of OMHA activities. Rather it is to promote, provide training for and teach minors the favorite age how to play the game, sportsmanship, and how to become good citizens.

Popular Frank Doherty, the "World Bachelor," turned over the presidential chair this afternoon. Frank has served ably and well during his two-year tenure. He is also a member of the OHA executive.

Taking over was Ted Kimas of Galt, a popular chap who has served the OMHA in executive and vice-presidential capacities for years. "The OMHA will be in excellent hands for the next two years.

Eastern Ontario executives moved up a notch in the vice-presidential ladder. Albert Watkins of Pet-erborough, is the new first-vice, while the well-known Doug Robinson of Bitbrog, occupies the second-vice-president's spot.

Incidentally Doug took over the secretarial job for today's convention in the absence of the ex-regular and re-appointed secretary Gary McLeod, unable through business reasons to be present. The OMHA will be in excellent hands for the next two years.

Six amendments to the constitution face the convention this afternoon. These include: that election results should be posted; game officials should be referees rather than one linesman and referee; the home team have the same privileges for arriving late as the visiting team, and here's one that should provoke a lot of discussion, "bodychecking in centre be allowed in bantam and lower series."

Guests here are Lloyd Pollock, OHA president; Jock Exxburgh, CAHA president; Mr. W. A. Hewitt, "Mr. Hockey," that grand guy from Elmira. Mike Weisbrod, MP, who was instrumental in getting the federal sports grant of five million put through, and His Worship Mayor Nathan Phillips of this village.

The guest speaker for the post-banquet ceremonies this afternoon will be Frank Selke, general manager of the Montreal Canadiens, who flew here this morning and will fly out again this afternoon for the Habs-Rangers game tonight.

Boston Bruins Start To Jell

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Coach Phil Watson eyes the future with optimism now that his Boston Bruins have overcome early - season miseries.

"The whole team, especially the eight rookies, are starting to jell," says fiery Phil in explaining Boston's stunning reversal of form.

The Bruins, after yielding 47 goals in salvaging only one tie in their first eight National Hockey League starts, now have a three - game undefeated streak on two wins and a tie.

"Not bad, eh? Not bad," says Watson. "By Christmas we won't be too badly off and you know I've got a funny feeling we're going to make the playoffs."

The amazing thing about the Bruins is that they are only one point behind Toronto Maple Leafs, Chicago Black Hawks and three points out of fourth place, now occupied by Detroit Red Wings.

They're idle tonight but Sunday will be host to the Black Hawks, who have yet to show any semblance of the form that carried them to their first Stanley Cup in 29 years last spring.

HAVE ONE-POINT EDGE

The Black Hawks also play tonight. They are at Toronto for a date against the Maple Leafs. In another game tonight, New York Rangers play at the Canadiens at Montreal in a battle for first place. Canadiens have held a one-point edge over the Rangers atop the NHL standings.

In another game Sunday, Detroit Red Wings will be at home to Toronto.

Watson was specially pleased with the way the Bruins had skated and outhustled the Canadiens for a 5-2 win at Montreal Thursday.

But, he said the play of goaltender Don Head was the decisive factor. "He was terrific," said Watson.

Head, an unorthodox 28-year-old who has only one full season of pro experience behind him, is one of the rookies Watson is counting on.

He has three more newcomers on defence and four up front. On them, defencemen Eddie Westfall and Pat Stapleton were strong candidates for Calder honors. forwards — Cliff Pennington, Terry Gray, Wayne Connelly and Bob Beckett — each picked up at least one point in the victory. The other newcomer on defence is Ted Green.

GIVES CAUTION

Watson cautions, however, not to expect too much from his rookies until Christmas.

"They're going to make mistakes and those mistakes may beat us now," he says, "but the time will come when they won't be making so many of them and then we'll start to win.

"I'd say we'll be okay at Christmas. It takes that long time. But everybody on this team is hurting and I like all of them."

Coach Toe Blake was not so happy about the showing of his Canadiens, now beaten twice in a row after going through the early season in first place unbeaten.

"We weren't skating, hitting or checking against Boston," he remarked. "We didn't deserve to win. Our players were looking for breaks that were not there.

"I hope those two losses will do us some good. My players are not accustomed to losing. They have to work if you want to win."

Blake said he isn't planning any lineup changes for tonight's game with Rangers even though Dicke Moore probably won't be ready for Canadiens next start Thursday in Montreal.

ANXIOUS TO PLAY

"Moore is anxious to play," said Blake, "but I don't think I'll use him until after he gets into a scrimmage or two next week. If he's right, Dickie will help us solidify."

Coach Rudy Pilous of the Chicago Black Hawks, meanwhile, hopes to have Bill Hay, his sparkling back in the lineup for the week-end games.

Hay underwent an operation recently to remove a bone chip or bunche in his right knee and has missed the club's last eight games.

Pilous said there was a good chance Hay would be back Sunday night, but that he might not be at full strength.

Pilous said a Hay can mean a lot to us at this point," recalling that Chicago has won only once in 10 starts. They've had five times and lost four.

Stop Hornung

Baltimore Colts Have Task

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The disappointing Baltimore Colts will have this battle cry Sunday in their National Football League game with the Green Bay Packers: Stop Paul Hornung.

High scorer Hornung, halfback and field goal kicking artist, dealt the Colts nothing but misery a month ago when Green Bay clobbered Baltimore 45-21. He scored 33 points and made 131 yards rushing in the NFL's finest individual performance so far this season.

Until Wednesday, it appeared the Colts might not have to contend with Hornung Sunday. Hornung underwent extensive hospital tests this week to determine whether he's physically qualified for army duty. The army says he is, but he won't begin his military service until Nov. 14.

Green Bay leads the Western Conference with six victories and one loss. Baltimore has a 3-4 record.

STAGE BIG FINISH

In the American Football League, Boston Patriots staged a frantic finish Friday to make it their undisputed first-place team in the league by whipping Dallas Texans 28-21.

A spectacular 91 - yard sideline dash by Ron Burton on a five kickoff return late in the third quarter gave Boston their victory. Quarterback Babe Parilli scored on the field with 10 seconds to play.

The Green Bay - Baltimore scrap shares the NFL spotlight Sunday with a game at Philadelphia between the defending champion Eagles (6-1), Eastern Conference leaders, and the Chicago Bears (5-2).

In the AFL game players once more from the AFL and Eastern Conference teams were scheduled for Boston.

Long Range Plan

Status Of Amateurs To Be Lifted

By BOB TIMMONS

EDMONTON (CP)—The Amateur Athletic Union of Canada will be asked today to approve a long-range program to lift the status of amateur sports in Canada with the aid of federal funds.

The union's finance committee will put before delegates, a resolution submitted by Dave Mathews of Vancouver, president of the British Columbia branch. It seeks federal help and implementation of a program to develop senior and junior amateur athletes on the home front and gain improved results in international competition.

Mathews said in an interview Friday night the resolution "calls for federal assistance to $1,000,000 over a four-year period, not more than $250,000 in any one year."

It is designed to promote national coaching, assist junior development, expand and make use of current facilities and assist in underwriting costs of Canadian athletes competing at home and abroad.

At its last session, Parliament passed legislation aimed at promoting physical fitness and amateur sport through grants of $5,000,000 a year.

WOULD LOSSY

The finance committee will bid for general session approval to place an AAU representative in Ottawa to lobby for AAU requests. The man would be armed with statistical and financial information to support requests for money from the federal government in the staging of AAU programs.

The question of federal assistance was the biggest facing the union's annual meeting.

Jack Davis of Montreal, chairman of the record committee and a member of the British Empire Games committee, told delegates:

"We are in Ottawa trying to help further AAU programs that must be armed with realistic facts of current branch and national association costs and programs and future plans and their cost. He has to be able to back up every request for a single dollar from the federal government."

Pete Heath of Toronto told delegates the bill passed by Parliament does not pay $5,000,000 a year.

"It will be only each year to further federal financing in amateur sports, but "up to $5,000,000."

WILL REORGANIZE

The AAU approved reorganization of gymnastics which will again put the sport on a committee basis rather than as an association affiliation. The reversion was taken two years ago but filed to achieve success.

The 1962 Canadian gymnastic championships will be staged in Montreal next July with a full team likely to be sent to Prague for the world championships in August. Cost of the trip will be borne by branches of the athletes selected.

The federal government will be asked for $35,000 to finance a six-point program aimed at increasing participation and improving the calibre of weightlifting in Canada.

An AAU committee has been appointed to prepare a program for presentation to the federal government's national advisory council.

WOULD AID SPORT

Maurice Allan of Quebec City is the head of the weightlifting chairman, said the money will be used to stage clinics, send delegates to international coaching schools, support age-class and junior lifters; subsidize major competitors in international meets; assist in building training facilities and promotion of the sport.

The 1962 Canadian weightlifting championships will be completed with the Empire Games trials in Sudbury next July with the seven best lifters going to Hershey, Pa., in August for the world championship.

Minor Hockey Returns

With the Belleville Minor Hockey Association officially opening its 1961-62 season this morning, Memorial Arena once again echoed with excited young voices and all the other sounds that go with the occasion.

The first puck was dropped at 6.30 this morning, before many of us were out of bed, and the kids played through until 1.30 this afternoon.

Five pagewee games and two bantam games were on tap all and the results of most of these games will be in Monday's edition.

In the morning's earlier games, the Browns whipped the Maple Leafs 6-1 and the Barons downed the Red Wings 6-2.

In the afternoon were peewee division games.

Goodfellow and Weymark each scored two of the Browns' goals, while Burns and Lambert bagged the others. F. Hope, D. Lambert, B. Bowins, Goodfellow, W. Hay and Weymark picked up assists. P. Barrett fired the lone Leaf marker while Mayhew drew the assist.

J. Holgate sparked the Barons to their victory by scoring four goals and assisting on another. Doc Scott added the other goals while C. Scott bagged a hat trick. R. Means and L. Moore replied for the Wings while R. Jones and T. Boulter drew assists.

The squirt and midget leagues get under way on Tuesday night while Wednesday night will see the Bantams and juveniles in action.

Affiliation Granted to Four Bodies

EDMONTON (CP)—The Amateur Athletic Union of Canada Friday granted affiliation to four organizations, completing the most extensive expansion program in modern history.

Official acceptance of affiliation bids from the Canadian National Exhibition, the Canadian Amateur Speed Skating Association and the Royal Canadian Legion was given at the union's annual meeting.

Affiliation with the Royal Canadian Legion will open the way for the staging of the Legion Olympic training program in some 1,000 centres.

"This has made the working agreement official," said Fred O'Brodit of Durham, Ont., second vice-president of the Legion's Dominion Command and chairman of the training program.

Affiliation will allow the legion to alter its present program under which athletes are selected by each province and sent to a national clinic in Toronto.

O'Brodit said as part of the new program, the legion will be able to stage travelling clinics in each province with the top athletes from there being sent to Toronto.

Top-Ranked U.S. College Teams Clash

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Michigan State and Mississippi, the two top-ranked U.S. college football teams, shake their reputations today against dangerous opponents in the most power-packed day of the 1961 season.

Michigan State puts its 5-0 record against once-beaten Minnesota in the top game of the day. Two conference, Second ranked Mississippi teesee its 6-0 mark, and a 21-game unbeaten streak, at Louisiana state.

In other important games, Ohio State, tied for the Big Ten lead with Michigan State and Minnesota, meets once - beaten Purdue while Colorado takes on Missouri.

Michigan State, with Halfback George Saimes leading a bevy of backs, relies on a conceded ground game. The Michigan State defence has allowed only 10 points, fewest among major powers.

Minnesota does not have the same offensive potential. How- ever its quarterback, Sandy Stephens, is the Big Ten's total offence leader.

Mississippi holds an offensive and defensive edge against sixth - ranked Louisiana State. But Louisiana State, 5-1, has the toughest defence Mississippi has faced so far this year.

Colorado, ranked eighth with a 5-0 record, and 4-0 in the Big Eight, pins its offensive hopes on the passing of Gale Weidner and the receiving of end Jerry Hillebrand.

Hornung Fit For Service In U.S. Army

NEW YORK (AP) — Green Bay halfback Paul Hornung, the National Football League's leading scorer, and shortstop Tony Kubek of baseball's world champion New York Yankees have been added to the mushrooming list of professional athletes summoned for military duty in the United States defence build-up.

Hornung has been declared fit for army service after extensive physical examinations and ordered to report for military service Nov. 14. That will allow him to play two more games for the Western Conference leading Packers, already hard hit by roll-up of linebacker Ray Nitschke and the impending loss of flanker Boyd Dowler.

Hornung has been bothered by a pinched nerve in his neck.

Kubek, married only two weeks, was called for a one-year stint. Kubek joins in service unit from such first - line baseball players as Baltimore pitcher Steve Barber and shortstop Ron Hansen, Cleveland batters Tito Grant and Wynn Hawkins, Chicago White Sox pitcher Dick Hartzell and Philadelphia Phils shortstop Ruben Amaro.

Harry Jerome Nominated For Award

EDMONTON (CP) — Sprinter Harry Jerome was nominated Friday for the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada for the Lou E. Marsh Trophy, awarded annually to Canada's outstanding amateur or professional athlete.

Jerome, the only man ever to hold both the 100-metre and 100 yard world records at the same time, also was awarded the J. W. Davies Trophy for the second straight year. It is awarded annually to Canada's outstanding amateur track and field athlete.

ARMY MAN WINS

Sgt. Wilhelm Weller, three-time Canadian gymnastics champion who won the 1961 Mexican title and placed fifth in the United States competitions, was awarded the Norton H. Crowe Memorial Award. The trophy goes to a male athlete competing in AAU events who best combines ability, sportsmanship and character.

Sgt. Weller, 36, an instructor at the Canadian army physical training centre in Camp Borden, was one of five men nominated for the award. Last year he conducted more than 200 gymnastic clinics for both armed forces and civilian clubs, much of it on his own time during weekends.

His fifth-place finish in the U.S. championships at Dallas, Tex., was notable because Jaap's International Cup win also took part in the event.

Velma Springstead Rose Bowl, for the outstanding female athlete in any amateur sport—Mary Stewart, Vancouver;

Tom Longboat Trophy, to the Canadian Indian who has contributed most to the betterment of sports and leadership—Bruce Hruyer, Bala.

Stage Mothers Don't Stand Very High With Leon Ames

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—By all rights, Leon Ames should hate children.

After all, hasn't he spent a large part of his professional career playing papa to a succession of kid actors? Isn't he now playing TV's Father of the Bride, his second series as a famous father?

Ames, for both questions. So I asked him "Do you hate children?"

"No," he replied thoughtfully. "I don't hate children. How could I? I've got a son and daughter of my own. As for child actors, I've worked with some good ones, also some that were not so good. I don't hate them. I just hate their mothers."

Ames gave an eloquent elucidation as he contemplated the stage mother. He has special memories of the breed he worked with in Life with Father, his previous series outing in which he starred for 2½ years.

"But my new family is okay," he reported. "Myrna Fahey, who plays my daughter, is a bright girl. Ricky Sorenson is a pixie boy. He's 7, but he's old enough not to be any trouble."

LEADS DOUBLE LIFE

Ames, who leads a double life as actor and auto dealer, is breaking Father of the Bride at MGM Studios. It's like old times for him, because he was under contract there from 1943 to 1950.

"I played a lot of fathers in those days," he recalled.

"Elizabeth Taylor was my daughter in two or three pictures. She was a pretty little girl, eager to learn. Jane Powell was another nice one.

"Margaret O'Brien? She could drive you nuts. You'd be playing a big dramatic scene and down and there she was tearing off in another direction. You'd say 'Margaret, cut that out!' And she'd give you that sweet look and say 'I wasn't doing anything.'"

Springfield Back on Top In Division

Springfield's attack for both its goals in the first period and held up when there is dropping the Bears from first place. Bruce Cline got the first while the Bears were shorthanded and Brian Kilrea produced the winner at 19:30, slapping in a rebound.

Willie Marshall scored for the Bears.

Pittsburgh had to overcome a 2-1 Rochester lead with a pair of second-period goals. Earl Balfour got the tying marker and Norm Corcoran, veteran ex-Bear, Ross got Pittsburgh's first goal, with Mike Donaldson and Ted Dineen scoring for the losers.

Astrological Forecast

Sunday, November 5, 1961

General Tendencies: Is quite apt to be depressed today because they feel others do not like them and so react and respond in a negative manner, which is to the detriment of everyone concerned. Instead, think out ways to be more helpful this Sunday to those whom you like and with whom you wish to be allied in the future. Then you replace potential estrangement with a strengthening of your bond of friendship.

Aries (March 21 to April 20) It is important that you consider the opinions and ideas of partners today instead of carrying through in your own solitary Arien way. This brings about real understanding between you and you avoid unnecessary argument. Make this a happy Sunday.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Since you want beauty and serenity about you, but often have little time for putting surroundings in order, this is one Sunday when you can do just that. Get clothing in order, too. Be co-operative with associates in part.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) If you are to have a good time now, it requires that you forget that anxiety that has been gnawing away at you. However, indulge in entertainment that is not too expensive for best results. A carefree day is what you need to ease tensions.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Make it a point to be far more agreeable with kin if you want greater co-operation and harmony within that important realm of your life. Plan to stay at home in the evening and restore your lagging energies. Feel fit tomorrow.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — This is not a day for dashing about here and there, but to budget your time wisely and invest others with your kindly welfare. Thus be sure tonight to plan your activities for the new week very carefully. Retire early.

Virgo Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — A fine day to get some of that repairing done about the house or putting surroundings in better order. Later in the day, take care you do not let someone thinking partner with some impossible day dreaming. Be steady.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)— Here is one of those times when everyone seems to make wonderful promises but then fail back on them. Don't get grieved. Also, be sure you don't commit yourself in like manner.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be tactful in dealing with friends and relations today, since they are a bit on the doleful or edgy side and valuable connections could be severed. Be courteous and listen to their ideas instead for use at a later date. Grow.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Don't act somewhat strangely with those you love. Be forthright, but think before you speak. When you go out socially in the evening, avoid that rather caustic remark usually on the tip of the Sagittarian tongue.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) This Sunday is ideally suited to any civic duty that is important and showing that you have the courage of your convictions while at the same time being polite. Don't give way to that urge to lose your temper. Speak calmly.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) With all the inspiration about you, particularly if you attend services of your choice, you can hit upon a better philosophy of life and follow it in the future. Also, see to it that you make friends of highest moral character.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Don't trust your intuition today since it is apt to be erroneous. Simply carry through with methods that have proved successful in the past, and all is well. Also, make it a point to show valued allies appreciation they desire and deserve.

If your child is born today— there is apt to be a slight depressive tendency in his make-up which can best be offset by early giving problems to solve requiring a good deal of mental ingenuity, and these could be philosophical as well since the interest is aroused and success in them gives needed confidence. Life then becomes a challenging game to your progeny and great things are in store for him or her.

Monday, November 6

General Tendencies: Nothing that has to do with the past or long pent - up frustrations should even be considered. Forget them tonight. Instead think of what the other fellow wants and be charmed and work with your attitude toward him, or her. Thus you can well get the difficult accomplished by lightening others' burdens, forgetting your own.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Be highly diplomatic with all associates in the morning so that no serious arguments ensue, else, try to patch up any differences with a competitor. If you use that fine reasoning power of yours, you find that the road ahead will be much easier.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Endeavor to get routine tasks finished quickly so that you can get out and look into new interests and ideas that is vital to future well-being, increased success. Make a good impression on influential persons you meet so they become allies.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Listen to the advice of a trusted higher-up and do not go out and spend so much money for your entertainment pleasure. Find wholesome, inexpensive entertainment or better still, look into some fine, new remunerative outlet. Grow.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — A depressing, malicious partner could indirectly cause you trouble with kin, if you pay any attention to his or her instigation. Avoid such an individual if you can and keep working diligently so that home life will be more harmonious than in the past.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21)— Rather than get annoyed with dull work ahead of you, thereby making errors and becoming at odds with co-workers, look in to your paper and other fine printed media for new ideas. Don't hesitate to buy really practical labor-saving devices.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Instead of following that capricious whim that would take you out a most expensive and hardly worthwhile pleasure, concentrate on ideas or work that will increase income appreciably for real security in the future. Consult experts, too.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)— Here is one of those difficult days when kin are apt to feel [illegible] You leave them alone and get to yourself to improve own disposition. P.M. fine for social pleasures.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — You feel like running out here and there and registering complaints with others because they are not doing enough for you or doing their work properly. This would be very foolish. Be more self-reliant, efficient yourself instead.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Rather than buy your way into things furtively or of great expense, make it a point now to find true friends who can really assist you to operate on a larger level and more according to wonderful principles you possess.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — It is very important that you act most circumspectly today and tonight so that you adequately protect your reputation. Also, don't be forceful with anyone. Whatever you have promised to do, do it to the very best of your ability.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Get rid of that feeling that others are against you or that you must worry over the inevitable and dig right into your paper and clear printed steer for the information you need to make the future brighter. Success is up to you.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to ...) — It is vitally important now that you get bills paid up and that you co-operate with associates though it may seem irksome to you. Be enthusiastic, get into the spirit of things and be more successful. Steer clear of gossips.

If Your Child is Born Today — the physical body is apt to be somewhat fragile and for ... your youngster will forever be worrying about this or that. Attend to the diet early ... learn the chart in time for ... ment, suppose, make it a ... point now to find true friends who can really assist you to operate on a larger level and more according to wonderful principles you possess.

Customer Not Always Right

By EUGENE B. MILNOR

In a long letter, a veteran mechanic lets the bricklayers fly at one of his customers.

"Some weeks ago, a new customer drove in, said his car pulled first when he braked — and before I said a word, told me that a rocky left front wheel. I had pulled the brake with my hand. As it turned out, he was right, so the lining and cylinder were replaced. But he absolutely refused to have me out on the road, insisting that a new right front lining might be wise, too. Well, days later, he kept after us, demanding that I recheck the job. Finally, I decided to humor him. That's why I recommended grinding the brake linings and refinishing the right front wheel."

From D. E.: "Besides changing the speedometer gear, will a switch to overdrive stires affect the steering?"

(A) Yes although it may not be very evident, the car will steer harder.

V. N. writes: "I keep all four tires properly inflated, but the front pair always wears out faster."

(A) The normal—although many drivers speed up rear tires, by swapping front and rear and high speeds particularly on curves and turns. Rotating the tires at 5,000-6,000 mile intervals will lengthen tire life.

S. P. asks: "There was a strong gasoline smell from my carpet and floor mats and it was caused by a bad float adjustment. What's the purpose of the float?"

(A) The carburetor must control the supply, regulating the amount coming into the carburetor. When it set too low, not enough fuel enters — if too high, flooding results.

From G. O.: "I must disagree with your diagnosis that fluid loss or air leakage are the usual causes when the brake pedal goes all the way to the floor board. This happened to my car and I was told job was the cure."

(A) Wasn't it pointed out that lining wear is the reason when this condition comes on gradually — but not when it develops overnight?

CAVITIES ANYONE?—This pneumatic drill, a special type built by the Beaver Construction firm, is definitely not recommended for dental work but it does a very good job at making holes in hard rock. It is shown above at work on Haig Road.

PICK UP STICKS?—On the contrary these eager Beavers on the blasting crew are putting sticks of dynamite down the holes which have been drilled. Each charge is then wired up and the blast is set off electrically.

WELCOME MAT?—Not quite, but it is a very handy thing to have for keeping loose debris from flying all over when a charge is set off. Constructed of heavy steel cable, these mats are being placed over the area to be blasted on Haig Road between the CPR tracks and Highway 2.

CLEAN UP — Once the earth and rock has been broken up by the blast the bulldozer gets to work, levelling the area off prior to the shovel moving in to excavate the shaft from which tunnelling under both Highway 2 and the CPR tracks will commence.

THERE SHE BLOWS! — With a nary a problem. This picture, at the quite "whump" and a mighty heave height of the blast, shows no loose or which raises dark, rock and steel flying debris which might fall on pricable rocks skyhigh, the blast goes off with vate property.

Beaver Construction Crews Use Gentle Art of Blasting

One might not think of blasting as a gentle art but this appears to be the main characteristic of this operation as the Beaver Construction people slowly wade their way through the hard rock on Haig Road between the CPR tracks and Highway 2, on part one of the city's $6,800,000 sewage disposal project.

Right now they are working on an open cut, the preliminary operation to sinking a shaft from which they will construct the four-lane highway, to the south. From this same point they will also be working north, tunnelling under the CPR tracks.

Meanwhile there has been considerable blasting going on in order to cut through the hard rock lying below the ground. Drilling machines, driven by compressed air supplied by the Independent compressors, make the initial holes in the ground. Quickly this operation is a slow one until the soft clay level has been cleared and the drill hits the hard rock. Due to its softness the clay clogs the drill, requiring this part of the operation to be more time-consuming than when the drill hits hard rock. When this level is reached the specially constructed equipment developed and built by the Beaver people can run through hard rock at the rate of a foot a minute.

The soft earth facing could be cleared away by a bulldozer or shovel, exposing the hard rock to the mercies of the pneumatic drills, but the contractors have preferred to remove the soft dirt after the blasting is over since it provides an insulation to the blast in two ways. First it helps to reduce the amount of debris which might become airborne from the explosion of the dynamite and, secondly, it muffles the loud sound of the explosion making it easier on the ears of local residents.

MATS CUT FALLOUT

However the Beaver people do not rely solely on nature to reduce the extraneous effects of the blasts. Heavy mats woven out of steel cables are laid over the area which has been drilled and charged, helping to reduce the possibility of debris "fallout" on the surrounding area.

Once the blast is over, the mats having been momentarily blocked off from traffic and uncovered for the explosion, the steel mats are removed and the bulldozers and shovels go into action to open up the hole in the ground.

Supervisor Bill Russo states that work on the tunnels should begin next week. Progress on this phase of the contract is estimated at four feet per day, so the Beavers should be quite busy for the next few weeks in this east-side area.

Woodrow Lloyd New CCF Leader In Saskatchewan

REGINA (CP) — Woodrow S. Lloyd, provincial treasurer and veteran CCF cabinet minister, Friday was elected leader of the Saskatchewan CCF party. He defeated Co-operatives Minister O. A. Turnbull in a secret ballot. Count of the vote was not announced.

He succeeds Premier T. C. Douglas, leader since 1942 and premier of the province since 1944, who now will devote all his time to the leadership of the New Democratic Party.

Mr. Douglas and his cabinet are expected to resign Tuesday. Mr. Lloyd then will form a government.

CCF holds 37 of the 35 seats in the legislature. Liberals hold the other 18.

The last general election was held in June, 8, 1960.

Mr. Lloyd's first major task after assuming office will be completion of legislation designed to set up a prepaid, compulsory medical care insurance plan in the province.

The legislature adjourned last Friday until Nov. 13 to allow CCF members time for the convention and the new leader time to prepare his cabinet.

Science at Work

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Topics this week: Claim that Napoleon died of poison, claims of proof of other planets outside our solar system, and the saliva of a lamprey octopus.

NAPOLEON POISONED?

Did Napoleon die from cancer as the official reports said? Many doctors have doubted this. Now from an analysis of Napoleon's hair 140 years after his death, there is evidence he may have been poisoned.

Scientists at the University of Glasgow reviewed Napoleon's health in his final few years, including his imperiousness on the Atlantic island of St. Helena. They also analyzed a sample of the emperor's hair taken probably right after he died.

His symptoms indicate chronic and acute arsenic poisoning. And in his hair were found high levels of arsenic. The report does not suggest how the arsenic may have been administered — either by Napoleon's hand or the hands of others.

ANOTHER PLANET

Soviet astronomers claim to have confirmed that planets exist outside our own solar system. In studying the double star in the cygnus or swan constellation, they found an extremely slight variation in orbit. It was due, they said, to the revolution around the star of a large planet.

OCTOPUS HOLES

Scientists were curious about the small holes in the abalone shells. The octopus in the aquarium tank had obviously devoured the shell fish. But why the holes? The octopus was believed simply to pull the two shells apart to get at his dinner.

After several experiments, scientists concluded the octopus uses two methods of feeding. If force fails, he apparently drills a hole through a shell with his teeth, injects a paralyzing venom, and then easily pulls the shells apart.

OLD GREY MOUSE

Animals that ride rockets into space sometimes get grey hair shortly afterward. Scientists now believe they have the reason, they say.

The radiation has been found to kill or impair the melanocytes, the skin cells that produce the dark brown and black pigments that give color to skin and hair.

Castro Limits Diplomatic Asylum Rights

HAVANA (AP) — The Cuban government clamped new restrictions Friday on Cubans seeking asylum in Latin American embassies here.

The Latin American diplomatic corps promptly announced it would file a formal protest, charging the restrictions make impossible "fulfilling the conventions of asylum."

The Cuban foreign ministry told the embassies they would be permitted to grant asylum to Cubans only in the private residences of the ambassadors and chiefs of mission. Most of the Cubans now in asylum live in embassy office buildings.

SEAWAY FALLING

30,000,000 tons and $15,196,000 in tolls. But tonnage — 30,310,346 — actually fell below 1959 "levels although tolls collected were higher—$15,196,000.

This year's prediction was for 33,000,000 tons and $17,292,000 in tolls.

Although the seaway corporation has made no attempt to compile this season's toll collections, based on past experience they can be expected to total about half the tonnage figure. This would mean about $11,700,000, substantially less than predicted before the seaway opened.

Canadian and U.S. seaway officials are scheduled to review toll charges in 1964.

By law the tolls must be high enough to pay operation and maintenance costs and amortize the construction cost of the project over 50 years. This would require an annual average earning of $25,076,215 if operation costs remained steady.

Russia Claims Moral Right To Test as Many as West

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Russia has claimed "a full moral right" to test the same number of nuclear bombs as have already been exploded by the United States, Britain and France.

The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said the Soviet Union set off 55 announced tests prior to the present series, in which there have been 31, making a total of 86. The U.S. total, including four in the current underground series, is 197. Britain has fired 32 and France 4.

The official news agency Tass said Sunday it had been authorized to issue a statement on the U.S. decision to reserve the right to resume nuclear testing in the atmosphere.

Tass said that since Russia's nuclear tests have been fewer than the U.S., Britain and France together, the Soviet Union "has a full moral right to equalize the situation and prevent a discrepancy between the number of tests conducted by the Soviet Union and the number of tests conducted by the countries of the (Western) military bloc."

The Tass statement came after Premier Khrushchev was reported to have declared that Russia will continue its nuclear tests if America carries out nuclear tests in the atmosphere.

The Russian people still have not been informed of the test series which Khrushchev told the 22nd Communist party congress would end by Oct. 31 after a 50-megaton bomb had fired. There have been Western reports of four more blasts in the last five days.

Yesterday's outcry was Russia's latest huge debonrations have brought the Soviet power total to about 170 megatons, a megaton equals 1,000,000 of TNT—which the West has set aside adding less than 130 megatons.

The Tass statement ended by saying Russia was again ready to sign—"it could be today"—an international treaty on general and complete disarmament on the basis of which nuclear tests would be ended.

4 DEER HUNTERS ASPHYXIATED BY CHARCOAL GAS

Found in Camp At Port Loring

PORT LORING, Ont. (CP) —Four deer hunters who disregarded a warning not to use charcoal in their hunting cabin stove were found asphyxiated by carbon monoxide Sunday.

Harold Shannon, 32, Fred Harnden, 36, Herbert A. Rickis, 38, all of Toronto, and William Austin, 39, who recently moved from Toronto to Moonstone, Ont., were found dead in a cabin at Pressaury Lodge, about 70 miles south of Sault Ste. Marie.

A friend of the four, Anthony Buchanan of Port Loring, had asked police to check on the cabin when he failed to return after a four day absence from the cabin. Friends said Mr. Austin had intended to bring hard coal but had forgotten it at home.

Jack Arthurs, one of nine hunters occupying the next cabin, said they noticed the stench the day before last Thanksgiving but had used cord wood in the stove.

DECIDE ON CABIN

The four dead men had hunted together for the last three years. They lived in a house trailer on property they had decided on a winterized cabin for this year.

Police said one of two men rescued from Lake Simcoe in August, 1960, after clinging for 16 hours to an overturned boat died of exposure on that occasion.

The men were found by Joseph Bowie, 38, of Toronto, and Port Loring when he visited the cabin Sunday morning.

"I walked into the cabin and looked out but there was no reply," Mr. Bowie said. "Then I looked over the bunks and saw he was dead."

All windows in the 20-by-15 foot cabin were closed, police said. Coroner William Cousens said an inquest will be held.

Man and Woman Shot to Death Near North Bay

TROUT CREEK (CP)—A man and a woman were shot to death outside a hotel here Saturday night and the woman's 16-year-old father was later found dead in his half-ton automobile with a bullet wound in the head.

Police said the deaths were a double murder and suicide.

Dead are Mrs. Mona Dean, 25, of Trout Creek, John Buchan, 50, of Woodcock, and Delbert Watt, 20. All were shot with a .300-calibre rifle.

Mrs. Ewan and Buchan were killed outside the Evers Hotel. Watt's body was found in a car which raced away from the shooting scene. Police said Watt set fire to his car before shooting himself.

Provincial police said, Watt had objected to his daughter's relationship with Buchan. Watt had left the hotel an hour before the shooting said Watt and Buchan had an argument in the beverage room and Watt left.

"Two Saturday nights I heard three shots," the ninth said. "Of course out to see what it was and saw a man lying in a car on the ground and Mrs. Evans lying in a puddle of water near the corner of the hotel."

Mrs. Evans was employed in the Evers Hotel kitchen. Mrs. Her husband died 13 years ago.

Watt, a native of Trout Creek, had been employed at Sturgeon Falls and Cromarium, about 7 miles southwest of here.

Trout Creek is about 30 miles south of North Bay.

Police Order Evacuation Of Office

TORONTO (CP) — Police today ordered the evacuation of a downtown Toronto office building after finding "enough dire ordnance to cause a huge explosion."

A bottle full of the explosive was found in the office of stockbrokers Thompson - Aher and Company.

A woman employee found the bottle of the mixing agent and wires protruding from the holes. She called police when she spotted the bottle of fluid.

Police said the safecrackers had been scared off before they had a chance to blow the safe. The bomb squad was called in to defuse the bomb and before employees were allowed to enter.

Farm Federation to Request Exemptions From Sales Tax

TORONTO (CP)—A resolution urging that goods used for farm production be exempted from the three per cent provincial sales tax is to come up during the 36th annual convention of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture which opened today.

"Now, more than ever before, there is the opening session heard William Tilden of Harriston, federation president, say: "Now, more than ever before organized agriculture . . . must move decisively and decisively if it is to perform the role for which it was intended."

Another resolution calls for government price supports which are "flexible, designed to meet emergencies and give a measure of stability by preventing collapse of prices."

Amamalgamation of the Ontario Farmer's Union with the federation will be suggested, to make for a "stronger organization to speak with one voice, not two."

Delegates will be asked to support present provincial legislation which prohibits manufacture and sale of colored margarine; to ask that the Ontario Agricultural College be taught be granted university status; and to ask that farm equipment be exempted from assessment for real estate taxes.

Another resolution urges that a separate Workmen's Compensation Act be set up "with benefits specially designed for farm owners as well as farm workers."

And another asks the federal government rather "to reverse restrictions on immigration in respect to properly qualified farmers, farm workers and their families."

3 Persons Die As Fireworks Ignite House

LONDON (AP)—Two persons burned to death, another died of a heart attack and film star Diana Dors got a bad scare when a pile of fireworks blew up Saturday night at a Guy Fawkes party.

The explosion and fire demolished the wooden bungalow of the host, actors' manager John Kennedy, on an island in the Thames.

Mrs. Hilda Parson and David Horsnail were trapped in the basement and burned to death. Michael Harroway got out of the blazing house but collapsed and died of a heart attack.

Miss Dors, expecting her second child in June, was eating a steak in the kitchen.

"Everyone screamed and ran outside," the blonde actress said. "I went heading through the window and hurt my knee."

Her husband is Dickie Henderson, a top comedian now doing TV work in the United States.

Guy Fawkes Day commemorates Fawkes' unsuccessful gunpowder plot to blow up Parliament in 1605. This year 315 persons were arrested in London, mostly for setting off fireworks illegally, and 129 persons were admitted to hospitals in Liverpool.

LIVING COSTS EDGED HIGHER IN SEPTEMBER

Consumer Index Up Four-Tenths Point

OTTAWA (CP) — Living costs edged higher during September due to scattered price increases in food, housing, clothing and transportation, the bureau of statistics reported today.

The consumer price index rose to 126.1 a month earlier, the bureau of statistics reported today.

The index—yardstick of living costs in Canadian cities — still was below the year-earlier level of 129.4 and the record high of 129.6 last Nov. 1. The index is based on 1949 prices equalling 100.

There were increases of one-tenth of a point in the indexes for the two major sectors of consumer costs — food and housing.

The food index rose to 122.3 from 122.2 during September. Price tags went up on tea, eggs, citrus fruits, fresh tomatoes, some canned and frozen fruits and vegetables, and for veal, pork and veal. But prices were substantially lower for most fresh fruits and vegetables and chicken, turkey, margarines and coffee.

RENTS HIGHER

Both rentals and home ownership costs moved higher to advance the housing index to 126.6 from 126.3. But prices of household supplies, furniture and appliances were lower.

The September advance in living costs followed a slight increase in industrial wages dur-

American Crime Syndicates Moving in Says RCMP Head

TORONTO (CP) — RCMP Commissioner Leonard Wood said today that American crime syndicates are moving into Canada.

"The American syndicates are showing an increasing interest in Canada and are moving to take over direct control or some activities of Canadian organizations and to expand their criminal activities," he said in a speech to the Canadian Club of Toronto.

Crime syndicates active in the field of gambling, narcotics trafficking, counterfeiting are in the process of "market" ing.

"There are many indications, and there is some evidence, that these syndicates have already started to treat Canada as an area for expansion of their activities."

Commissioner Harvison said it is important that the crime problem be tackled before crime organizations become established in this country.

"Action now could prevent crime and suffering and loss of life and heavy financial losses in the years to come," he said. "But it is important that such preventive action is applied before it becomes ingrained and fakes quickly.

If gambling could be stopped or greatly reduced in Canada, he said, there is little doubt that the syndicate would be interested in the point of direct control."

Narcotics, he added, gambling in Canada involves "many millions of dollars" with the syndicates taking only a 5- to 10- to 15-per-cent profit.

"Narcotics are the best part of the public might bring about a falling-off in the percentage of profits against the syndicates' means by which gambling can be curbed . . .

Motor vehicle theft, curbing and indeed, seriously crippling the syndicates' profiting in the cutting off the wire and telephone services that are operated by the syndicates.

Commissioner Harvison said the gangster syndicates "are in all million-dollar operations, but are rarely found in the upper ranks right down to the lowliest beneficiary. Their eyes are on Canada because of stepped-up activities that have been, or are, the object of tourist trade to Cuba and shutdown of many notorious vice establishments in Cuba.

He said experts in the field report that crime syndicates

Suggests Blockade

VANCOUVER (CP) — Gen. Guy Simonds, chief of staff of the Canadian General Staff, believes the West should counter the Soviet Union's expansion in Berlin by blockading the Baltic or the Dardanelles.

The West doesn't have to do battle over the Berlin crisis because "we have other ways to block Soviet strategy, the general said Saturday.

One of the ways, he told a seminar on the Berlin issue at the University of British Columbia, would be blockading of the Baltic, a Russian outlet to the Atlantic, or the Bosphorus, Russia's link from the Black Sea to the Mediterranean.

Radioactive Ash Passes Over Canada

WASHINGTON (AP)—The invisible cloud of radioactive ash from the Soviet 50-megaton blast of last Monday passed over Canada and the U.S. on a west coast Sunday and began moving across the North Atlantic.

Weather Bureau 'hour winds it is expected to reach Europe and the Norwegian Sea in the current series of Russian first swing around the world.

At the same time the Soviet shook off the last powder of its radioactive cloud toward Alaska.

The weather bureau restated that most of the radioactivity from the 50-megaton bomb set off in the Novaya Zemlya area probably will not come down until next spring. The present cloud, moving at a high level in altitude, will probably lose most of its radioactivity during the next several weeks as rains and snow wash it to earth, it said.

East, West German Police Fight Biggest Tear Gas Duel of Crisis

BERLIN (Reuters)—East and West German police fought a total of 144 tear gas grenades at each other in what West Berlin described as the biggest tear gas duel to date in the crisis at the East-West Berlin border.

East Berlin police hurled only gas at West Berlin workers who were removing a 500-yard wire mesh fence dividing the border in West Berlin territory.

The East Germans had previously attached it to their barbed wire border fence.

West Berlin police retaliated and each side threw 72 grenades. Nobody was hurt, West Berlin police said.

East German police Sunday opened fire on a group of about 30 men, women and children attempting to escape into West Berlin.

They also fired shots at a West Berliner as he smuggled his 15-year-old fiancee out of East Berlin to the trunk of his car, hitting the vehicle six times.

The couple reached West Berlin safely but only five men and four children in the group of 30 escaped it across the heavily-guarded border.

West Berlin police said they did not know the fate of the others, who included the mothers of the children.

Meanwhile Gen. Lucius Clay, President Kennedy's representative in Berlin, today opened an information centre in West Berlin devoted to the wall dividing East and West Berlin—an exhibition which will continue so long as the wall stays up.

He described the wall as "something we must never forget and never forgive."

The exhibition, called simply "The Wall is a photographic documentation of the wall built by East Germans Aug. 13 and subsequent border events.

Veterans Hold Church Parade To Citadel

The annual church parade of A.N.A.F. Unit 381 held on the Sunday preceding Remembrance Day, formed on the market square, and paraded to the Salvation Army Citadel for church services under the direction of Major John Carter.

The colorful parade of grey and blue-clad members left the market square headed by the color party and followed by the A.N.A.F. pipe band resplendent in their Mcdinis tartan, and led by Drum Major George Christopher, with the band under the musical direction of the youthful and newly-appointed Pipe Major, Dave McLauchlan.

The impressive sermon by Major Carter likened a private giving his all to that of the Great Redeemer of the Christian world, who gave His life for all mankind, thus holding the congregation in reverent attention throughout.

After the service, Sgt.-Major Art Hobbs reformed the parade and led them back to the market square via Front Street, where those who turned out were heartily thanked before breaking off.

Austere Argentine President Starts Four-Day State Visit To Canada on November 7th

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Arturo Frondizi, the slim, austere Argentine president, who leads a four-day state visit to Canada Nov. 7, has lived in almost continuous atmosphere of crisis since he took office three years ago.

The 53-year-old politician, a quiet six-footer with a pronounced nose and a talent for compromise, has calmly survived one attack after another—from the right and left.

The military leaders who ousted dictator Juan Peron in 1955 and supervised the '58 elections that swept Frondizi to power have remained prominently in the background, briefing at any sign that leftists or Peronists were gaining power in the administration.

These latter groups, meanwhile, have been constantly agitating the labor unrest and terrorist bombings that have plagued the government. At least twice Frondizi was said to have survived Peronist coup plots in his first 12 months in office.

FORCEFUL SPEAKER

The president, a solemn and dignified man who is credited with a lively sense of humor, is a forceful speaker who tends to make his arguments intellectual rather than emotional.

The son of a doctor of an Italian immigrant family, he was born Oct. 28, 1908, in the French-Central province of Corrientes. He joined the left-of-centre Radical party as a law student and took an active political activity through law classes at the University of Buenos Aires.

He practised law while continuing his hobby in politics and gradually worked his way to the upper levels of the party.

He was the Radical party's candidate for vice-president in 1951, when Peron was re-elected, with his own men supervising the election machinery. Shortly afterward Frondizi was imprisoned briefly by the Peron regime for his outspoken opposition.

With the overthrow of the dictator in 1955, Frondizi set his sights on the presidency and broke with his party when he felt he was being squeezed out of the presidential nomination. He formed his intransigent Radical party, campaigned long and a series of victories that presented the first honestly-elected Argentine leader in 30 years.

IMMEDIATE CRISES

He inherited a political and economic mess, legacies of the corruption and extravagances of the Peron regime, and almost immediately was forced to begin compromising his way through a series of crises that threatened to topple his government.

On one occasion in 1959, after three days of tense lookeying with unhappy military chiefs, he met with reporters and told them:

"Well gentlemen, good evening. . . . etc. . . . etc. . . . I have received you because you wanted to see me. You are seeing me and I am here working under conditions of crisis. Tomorrow I will attend flag ceremonies to which I invite the Argentine gentlemen."

At times Frondizi has been forced to sacrifice key officials of his regime under pressure from military or political leaders. Most of the cabinet has been changed at least twice, and foreign ministers have resigned.

PRESSURE DWINDLES

But the pressure on the government this year was Alvaro Alsogaray, a caustine opponent whom Frondizi named economy minister in 1959 to lead an austerity program that has begun to pull the Argentine economy.

With the pressure less intense recently, Frondizi has had more time to spend with his wife and children, Sheffy and Silvia, in the spacious presidential residence in the suburb of Olivos.

But crises still pop up—the latest major one in August when Peron's body was taken by force office seized the government-made police and rushed for overthrow of the regime.

Throughout, Frondizi has remained self-confident in the situation with a stock reply:

"Argentina needs order. . . . Argentina and I intend to serve."

erence to the Queen's visit or to internal troubles in Ghana which had resulted in the arrest of many leading opposition politicians, shortly before the talks.

Last month the British government announced suggestions by a group of Conservative, Labor and Liberal MPs that the Queen's visit to Ghana should be cancelled because of the country's turbulent political situation.

BLAME OPPOSITION

The government blames the bombing on the opposition United Party which has been fighting Nkrumah's one-party state. Its ex-Ministerial Ben Safe who stated he would be a candidate for the mayor's office.

Aldo. Ben Corke Will Seek Re-Election

With elections just a month away, the local municipal election pot started to boil over the weekend as two more hats were announced their intention to enter the municipal candidates' race.

First candidate to declare his intention was Alderman Ben Corke who has been active for her himself for re-election. Alderman Corke was elected two years ago and played leading role in solving the city's water treatment problem.

The other man to toss his hat into the municipal election ring is Ex-Alderman Ben Safe who stated he would be a candidate for the mayor's office.

Ben Safe Will Run For Mayor

Ex-Alderman Ben Safe, well known business man of this city, announced today he will contest the mayoralty at the December municipal elections.

Mr. Safe is no newcomer to the field of municipal government.

He served on the city council from 1933 to 1936, inclusive, then retired temporarily.

He was elected to city council again in 1954 and served until the end of the 1959 term.

This is Mr. Safe's first entry into the mayoralty field.

are more powerful now than they were in the heyday of the prohibition years.

He said the overlords wield a power greater in many ways than that of the heads of legitimate business enterprises. They are aided by "bribed and corrupt officials," have goon squads to enforce discipline and hold the "power and ability to buy, ruin or remove permanently many of those who oppose them."

The police forces of Canada, he added, are taking steps "at improving our efforts against the incursions of syndicated crime."

Text of his speech was released to the press in advance of delivery.

The wages index, computed from a survey of firms employing more than 10 persons and covering a wide range of industries, represents an average of total wages paid.

The index of clothing prices advanced to 115.8 from 113.1 and health and personal care costs to 163.9 from 163.0.

Lower prices for TV and radio sets, phonograph records and bicycles reduced the index of recreation and reading costs to 148.2 from 148.7.

Although gasoline prices were lower, this was not enough to change the transportation index which remained at 140.0.

Cornerstone of New School For Retarded Children Laid

TRENTON—Saturday afternoon saw the realization of a dream; a dream that has been hoped for, prayed for and worked for by district parents of retarded children and members of the Trenton-Brighton and District Association for Retarded Children. The cornerstone of a school for the retarded children of the area, was laid. The school, which will cost local association an estimated $17,000, after the one-third of the total cost of $36,000 provincial government grant has been allowed, is located almost half-way between Trenton and the neighboring village of Brighton.

Harry Lafferty, president of the Lafferty Smith Transport Company, officiated at the ceremony, Mr. Lafferty donated the site on which the school stands, and in recognition of his generous gift, Murray Township council has voted to name the county road, running east to west, north of the school site, "Lafferty Road" Douglas McMaster, township reeve, announced during the ceremony, and also presented a cheque, to be applied to building costs, to association president, John Turner, on behalf of the council. The township council was also represented at the ceremony by Leo McAuley.

MANY THANKED

Association building chairman, Bart Boers, introduced the speakers. Mr. Boers said that the list of persons who had donated their money or their time and work to the building of the school, was lengthy. He said that the members of the association were deeply grateful for the interest in these "special" children evinced by the people of the area.

Mrs. Bobbie Reid, a member of the association at local and federal levels, said that this interest would result in establishing a "rightful heritage" as Canadian citizens for these children.

Mrs. Reid, chairman of the Trenton Kinsmen association drive for funds locally, said that many individuals and organizations had responded to the association's plea for funds which will carry out a school building program, and she asked for continued support in the door-to-door canvas which will start next week.

Mayor D. James MacDonald, Senator W. A. Fraser and Reeve McMaster also spoke to the assembled parents and well-wishers, briefly.

Rev. Joseph Walsh of Wooler blessed the cornerstone and asked for Divine assistance in the carrying out of the association's future program.

Rev. J. T. Irwin, president of the Trenton Ministerial Association was unable to attend the ceremony, through illness.

DOG SAVES LIVES

Fire Chief Bob Scott said if the animal, named Buster, had not smelled smoke and barked, 12 or more people including two babies might have died." DEATH PREDICTION WRONG

NEW DELHI (AP) — Bhagwan Singh, an Agra-old Sikh holy man who claims he saw the divine light in 1908, announced he would die on the Sunday. Then thousand persons assembled before a temple in Lucknawi, 175 miles northwest of New Delhi. The old man came out on the balcony and lay down on a platform, his coffin waiting nearby. Thief Trips Burglar Alarm In Jewelry Store

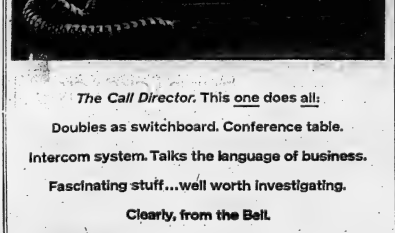
TRENTON—Corporal Lloyd Lyle of the London detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police, said today that tripping of a burglar alarm had evidently frightened an early-morning thief intent upon robbing the H. J. Buck Jewelry Store in Brighton, and that the man, who was seen making his escape through a smashed show window at the front of the store, had got away with around 100 worth of goods only. Four watches are missing from the store.



Entrance to the store had been gained by forcing the rear door to the premises. The alarm was tripped at 7.20 a.m. on Sunday, and a person, living in the neighborhood of the store saw a man smash the plate glass window at the front of the store, crawl through and make good his escape before police arrived.

Corporal Lyle said that he had apprehended the persons responsible for robbing Sorners' Variety Store in Colborne over the weekend and that the money stolen from the store had been recovered.

Will Consider O'Leary Report

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has announced that the next session of Parliament will be called upon to deal with the recommendations of the O'Leary Royal Commission.

This is good news. There had been disturbing rumors that the government might consider the O'Leary report too hot to handle and might allow it to gather dust, like the recommendations of many other royal commissions in the past to other governments.

For the benefit of those readers whose memories may be short, the O'Leary Commission was headed by Grattan O'Leary, editor of the Ottawa Journal, an independent Conservative newspaper, and dealt with the plight of Canadian periodicals.

The Liberal Government of Louis St. Laurent, dealing with the same problem, had imposed a tax on Canadian advertising in periodicals whose editorial content was, wholly or in large measure, imported. The Federal Government repealed this tax. But it soon became apparent that, whether or not this tax was justified, Canadian periodicals were in trouble.

The O'Leary Commission held many sittings and considered voluminous evidence. Its report is aimed at reserving for Canadian publications the Canadian advertising market—in much the same manner in which customs regulations reserve many another Canadian market for home firms. The publications most directly affected are Time and Reader's Digest, both of which publish so-called Canadian editions, filled with Canadian advertising but with the bulk of the editorial material the same as that in the U.S. main, or U.S., editions of these magazines. In a very real sense, they are practising a form of "dumping."

There is nothing in the O'Leary report which would prevent the importation into Canada of any magazine published in the U.S. It does not urge censorship in any form. Its recommendations may not be without flaws—few opinions are—but they certainly deserve careful consideration. And, what is more, the Canadian Parliament not only has the right but the duty to make certain that Canada, as a nation, is never left wholly dependent on the publishers of another country for periodical reading material, particularly in the realm of comment on current affairs.

It is no solution to refer to the role of newspapers. They play an important part in presenting to the Canadian public facts and opinions—but in the very nature of things they are not equipped to give the same coverage "in depth" which can be achieved by a reputable magazine, nor has any Canadian newspaper a truly nation-wide coverage. We need Canadian periodicals.

Too Much Intervention

The ridiculous length at which labor legislation has gone in this country is illustrated by the case of the railway "non-ops," the fifteen CLC affiliated unions whose members do not actually operate trains but whose services are essential if railway service is to be maintained.

The policy-making body of these unions last week met and drafted new wage and fringe benefit demands—just six months after a strike-averting agreement was signed.

The rail unions' case is, of course, special—because of the Government intervention. Nevertheless, this merely serves to emphasize, by exaggeration, a general complaint—the inordinate dragging-out of wage negotiations in an endeavor to avoid a strike. Conciliation officers, conciliation boards, cooling-off periods and such like devices, while desirable in theory may be less than efficient in practice. It seems to us unbelievable that production can be efficiently maintained and normal relations between management and employees unaffected during these lengthy periods of legislation-enforced "cold war."

One of two things should be done. Either governments should devise some means of speeding up this process or else unions and management should be freed of the shackles of the law and left to fight it out as best they can, with economic laws deciding the winners. However, in the case of an essential service, whether publicly or privately operated, only the former course is feasible.

Right now, both unions and managements are hampered by legislation designed primarily to protect the consumer. If the objective were being obtained, the gain might be worth the price. Somehow, though, we doubt very much whether the consumer reaps much ultimate benefit. Eventually he has to pay—and sometimes we suspect that the delay in payment only increases, rather than diminishes, the amount of the bill.

Eating Way Through Year

Milwaukee Journal

What this country needs is a 24 month year. A conscientious respondent to all of next year's sales presentations during its the field of food alone will know from his grumbling tummy how many days and hours he has now. Here is how it will go, according to the 1962 Swiss Production Board's calendar for Advertising Age:

January starts off rather well as Colorado Beef month, capped by Kraut and Frankfurter week, with Cooking Yeast Supper season extending through March, taking in stride Pimento Cheese and Peanut Month and overlapping Fish and Sea Food Time. The piling gets rougher then for gastronauts who must heed Pickle Ways for Lenten Days.

That's just the onset of the pickle ordeal. Bounce back for Pickle week in the middle of May. Picnic Time in July and August, and don't forget come mid-December the Stuffed Olive Ave Pickle Days, to go with Ice Cream for the Holidays. How are you feeling?

Adieu for the nation's Cereal Institute then—somewhat bit mushy, we think. The nation's bakers having scheduled Quick Breakfast Week in February and March, the Institute has just September. Meanwhile, wake up cheery during Honey for Breakfast week in April.

Summer may prove bearable if you don't mind Hot Dog month and the Great Summer Season. But here's a warning that will be a real turn-off to some; its loaded. Go into heavy training for National Apple, Macaroni, Wine, Popcorn, Hosiery and Pretzel weeks during the month long Cheese Festival, Shrimp Fiesta and we hate to say it — Yambilee. Feeling queasy?

Yes, the same thought occurred to us, but we didn't get up early enough to beat the sales promoters to it. What you're thinking of is already organized—National Indigestion week, by a baking soda firm, starting the day after Thanksgiving.

Invests Red Loan in U.S.

Stratford Beacon-Herald

Let both the Seaniers and the politicians, of the highest degree, step aside and bow to Ella Rowell of Stratford. Co-operating Lion of Judah, Emperor Haile Selassie and Ethiopia.

All in one stroke, he has shown the way to sit the feace between the rival camps and the power blocs of East and West and to set up a high cost of living. His East African country, incidentally, is celebrating the 1,700 years of recorded history, his ancestors have successfully defended in war in 1895, and Emperor Haile Selassie has been the leading driven from his country by Mussolini's armies in the war of 1935-36, returned in triumph to the Ethiopian throne in 1941, as Mussolini's empire began to collapse.

In 1,700 years of statecraft, Ethiopian rulers have learned something.

They pretty ago, Soviet Russia promised a low-interest loan of $100,000,000 to Ethiopia, as a convenient way to increase Russian influence. Haile Selassie may have reckoned the loan would increase the influence, because the negotiations dragged on, and when the Russian ambassador arrived, basically, the alluring $100,000,000 had been reduced to actual $2,000,000. The interest rate, however, was low, so he said he'd considered — and took a half per cent.

So where is the $2,000,000 now? Haile Selassie's government has invested it in United States Government bonds, which pay 2.75 per cent interest.

A neat difference of $35,000 a year, and who has any right to complain?

STRENGTH for the DAY

BEWARE THAT CHIP

Relax! Relax Brother! Relax!

We hear this admonition a great deal today and there is plenty of reason for it. When we are tense, our mental energy begins to flow into channels which can only destroy the power of good judgement. The tense person is not a fit executive at well considered judgements. Above all, the tense person is not to be querulous and ill-tempered.

Someone has said that we can never relax with a chip on our shoulder. To relax means escape from the word tensions, to loosen all tensions, become approachable as reasonable people and reasonable ideas can gain a hearing before our minds. Great art depends upon muscular relaxation. The athlete knows just what muscles to flex and when to flex and to relax. The pianist has a relaxed forearm and wrist else he could not play skilfully or effectively.

It is hard to tell parents to relax when teenagers are probably of every generation but particularly of this one are driving as many things as they do to destroy adult peace of mind and arouse anxiety. But tension and excitement, anger and scolding words do little — and probably always have done little — for the settlement of problems between parents and children.

It not find it hard to relax. Just examine one of your shoulders or the other. You may find a chip thereon.

"What stocks would you recommend for someone like me, with a merely-rich husband?"

Cleanliness Is Dangerous

Stratford Beacon-Herald

Any time we run a short of things to worry about, we could consider the risk that we may be getting so cleanly in our habits that we will destroy ourselves in our own cleanliness.

Reports from Winnipeg, of a new theory in getting rid of water for comfort, recall the events at Clinton, earlier this year, where thermometers in the water effected high on the average treatment basis, and where the people in each case the explanation offered was that detergent soaps, flushed down the sewer pipes from hundreds and thousands of households, kept the germs both detergent and sudsy.

Detergent chemicals have a knack of floating over waters as far as 1,000 miles downstream from the discharge they should, according to a report from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, cited at a stream pollution meeting.

Rats have been made to do some scientific work in aid of the battle against the ills that stem from this is good. From laboratories, researchers have given rats water which contained detergent residues for days and weeks of sudsy drinking and the rats seemed to have suffered no ill effects. Maybe the human race should be free of the same would be true of human beings.

Research scientists are at work on the search for a detergent which will be safe, as well as a cleaner, and then be destroyed by bacteria after its useful disposal. Sooner or later they are likely to find something. If they don't we may be condemned to a future in which the human race gets cleaner and purer in better-scrubbed, until it finally suffocates in the blanket of detergent suds.

We offer this as an argument in support of the housewife, whose natural instinct is to dodge the bath-brush.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It is time we developed a new word for cleaning woman. This is the title by which is now known the most important member of modern society. And she deserves a better designation. She is the dynamo, or in the domestic field without electric, the emissaries of homes in our big cities would be stackless.

She is the realist in a world of fantasy who knows that despite all the labor-saving devices of modern living, you can't get by without a little hard work. Let's look at one a week. A whole generation of housewives has now been raised up who are persuaded that life is just one round of pleasure. They are equipped with every possible appliance, from frozen food cabinets to devices to hair dryers and spray deodorizers. Even marketing for the household consists of selecting what does not require cooking, phone which they collect in wheeled go-carts and the super-market boy carries them out to the car trunk. Then off hours are filled with music and drama out of bones in the living room. It is fantasy.

Then comes the cleaning woman comes.

The Cleaner

There ought to be a respectful title for her, like Home Reorganizer.

Still Receiving Angry Letters From Doctors

By SIDNEY J. HARRIS

I am still receiving angry letters from the doctors about my two articles on quackery in the summer, in which I dared to suggest that medical practices are not everything they should be in this fair land.

Yet much of what I said publicly has been said privately to the doctors at their own meetings and conventions. In Grand Rapids last month, for instance, the legal counsel for the Michigan State Medical Society warned physicians that their "stubborn refusal" to admit any possible malpractice is leading them into deep trouble. This was said not by a friend, and indeed an employee, of the State Medical Society — a distinguished attorney who is also past president of the Michigan State Bar Association.

He further warned the physicians that they have demonstrated bitterly resentful adverse attitude toward those of your erring colleagues who do not deserve your full protection."

Doctors, of course, immediately imply that only about five per cent of their colleagues are guilty of malpractice. But the question remains, if the medical men protect one another, and refuse to testify in malpractice cases in order to prevent the five per cent from disgracing the profession?

The outspoken counsel for the Michigan State Medical Society went on to say things and usages than I had. He termed this protective attitude a "conspiracy of silence," and cited a recent $350,000 malpractice suit in which doctors who testified the lower courts to this problem.

"No matter how lacking in skill or how negligent the medical man might be," observed the high court, "it is almost impossible to get other medical men to testify against him because of his reputation based on his negligence."

And this conspiracy of silence, the counsel continued, has led to "the embarrassment of malpractice suits, it is cried to "more and more suits, more newspapers, more verdicts and a broadening of the rules of evidence to give juries greater leeway to find for the plaintiff's expert medical testimony."

Now, if a lawyer or a person makes such allegations he is angrily decried as an example of "yellow journalism" and "irresponsible reporting." He is accused of wantonly "digging up the public's flank" in the medical profession. It seems to me if the medical profession are the last to know how little faith the public already has in the medical profession and organizations. We like our doctors, as men and as healers; but as a corporate body we demand neither our respect nor our trust.

Technology, oiled at a stream pollution meeting.

Rats have been made to do some scientific work in aid of the battle against the ills that stem from this is good. From laboratories, researchers have given rats water which contained detergent residues for days and weeks of sudsy drinking and the rats seemed to have suffered no ill effects. Sooner or later they are likely to find something. To Your Good Health

Three Main Reasons for Having That Tired Feeling

By Joseph C. Meisner, M.D.

(This is the first of a series of two articles.)

"Dear Dr. Meisner: It seems as though I'm tired all the time. Even daily vitamins haven't helped. What can I do?

Mrs. L. E."

Vitamins aren't the answer to "that tired feeling" except for people whose eating habits are such they just don't get a balanced diet.

But there are plenty of other reasons for fatigue, and I think the most helpful advice I can offer is an outline of how a physician tackles such a complaint. There's a good chance that many readers may find the answer stating them in the face!

There are three main causes of "that tired feeling."

1. Natural weariness. Fatigue, in itself, isn't bad. It is nature's signal that we are running the human machine hardly or too longer than it is supposed to go.

2. True physical ailments.

3. Nervous or emotional causes. Boredom is one very real reason why people are "tired all the time." Unrelieved nervous tension can leave you feeling worn out. And frustration, such as feeling that you can't ever catch up with all the things you have to do (and think you should) is a fairly common one.

Lots of people who complain of fatigue hope to find its answer in a pill. It is simply overlook the fact that they are trying to do too much.

The young mother who feeds, bathes, dresses, spanks, entertains and puts her children to bed—run all day, and keeps the house and herself neat and attractive, hardly up until 11 o'clock every night mending, fussing over the budget, writing letters, trying to watch TV while she irons, and seeing whether last year's clothes can be shortened to where hems are now — well, she ought to be tired. She may argue that "I worked just as hard last year, and I wasn't always tired then", but this doesn't make sense. Young, healthy women can get away with much overloading for quite a long time. Eventually, however, it catches up.

The test is quite simple: If, after one or two nights of solid, restful sleep, she finds her vigor returning, she has the answer. She's been doing too much, too long.

Another classic type of "tired patient" is the jobber who won't admit that being 50, 60 or 70 makes any difference.

It does. Muscular reserve declines, and sheer stubborn will power won't make this up. Short periods of rest scattered through the day will do wonders for such people.

Incidentally, too many oldsters do the opposite: They give in to stiff, painful joints. They sit. They resign themselves to "being old" — and condemn themselves to boredom — and the fatigue that is the price of boredom.

It is better to force themselves into regular activity (like walking, for the muscles, and reading for the mind.) Trying to do much is better than trying to do little is worse.

More about this tomorrow.

"Dear Mr. Molner: Am I wrong in thinking that a two-year-old child is too young to get popcorn or nuts? Aren't baby organs too delicate to digest them? —Mrs. R. T."

You're right, but not as a matter of digestibility — it's the danger of getting particles caught in the windpipe. Definitely would not give either of these foods to such a young child.

Mrs. B.E.A.: I can't see why the amount of ascorbic acid you mention could harm you. Large doses may help some individuals if the sinus trouble is on an allergic basis.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Chicago Sun Times, Wabash Avenue, P. O. Box 158, Dundee, Illinois for my booklet, "Ear Noises — Their Causes and Cures," enclosing with your request 15 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed envelope. It's meant to cover handling and postage.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

OUR GUIDING SENSE

I am sure that we know only a small part of all that is wonderful in this bodily life of ours. And we are just beginning to take note of the fabulous mysteries that enfold our spiritual existence.

So many times in my personal life I have arrived at cross corners and have been puzzled which road to take. And so I have waited for a sense to arise from some part of the spiritual realm within me I have felt an urge — which in the end proved the right.

I have often wondered at this seemingly secret guiding sense. Who gave it to me? Why have I got it?

Not that I am favored in this way. Many, many do. All have it. It's what makes us thoughtful or others, kind and helpful, and what makes stable and forebearing in so many of the details of daily life.

It's what makes us understand the frailty of our own and others' nature, and so inspires us to better and fairer efforts in our daily lives.

A British engineer says that if 10 minutes could be cut off the time taken at each end of the run, it would be equivalent to increasing the speed of airlines on the London-Paris route from 400 to 1,000 miles an hour.

Sherbrooke Record

Air travellers know that in some cases it takes longer to travel from the city to the airport at one end of the line and from the airport to the city at the other than it does for the flight itself.

A British engineer says that if 10 minutes could be cut off the time taken at each end of the run, it would be equivalent to increasing the speed of airlines on the London-Paris route from 400 to 1,000 miles an hour.

142 on Parade First Day Of National Survival Course

This morning 142 able-bodied Canadians were on parade at the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment's Belleville Armouries for the first day of the National Survival course, which will carry on for six weeks.

Major Alec Cunningham, officer in charge, advised that more recruits are expected. A number showed up this morning and area headquarters has advised that recruits for this course may be accepted up to this Wednesday.

It is expected that the final complement of the course will be in the region of 160 to 170 persons.

The first day's training was limited to basic drill and a history of the regiment as there was much basic administration to be taken care of in forming platoons, arranging nominal rolls and the various other necessary chores adherent to the formation of a new military unit.

Major Cunningham remarked that the unit was composed of a very good calibre of recruit which should do justice to the fine history of the regiment. Even ministers and mine foremen are amongst the ranks of recruits as well as many unemployed persons. There are also so a few representatives from industry who have joined at the express desire of their firms.

The second of the scheduled three courses commences on January 8th, 1962. It is reported that a number of farmers have already indicated their intention of signing up.

Poppy Sales Total $1,430, More to Come

Poppy sales on Friday and Saturday amounting to $1,430.00, were reported today by Leslie Digby, chairman of the local poppy committee.

Returns from outlying areas expected to total around $100 have not been received by the committee and when these are in total receipts for the annual poppy day are expected to be near a record.

Wreath sales this year were better than for several years, with a total of 130 wreaths being sold.

AIR TRAFFIC

Member airlines of International Air Transport Association carried 82,400,000 passengers in 1960 against 77,700,000 in 1959.

Political, Economic, Social Reforms Needed Is Report

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — To boost the fighting will of the South Vietnamese people, the United States may have to exert strong pressure on their pro-Western government for political, economic and social reforms.

This was the view of many Americans and Vietnamese interviewed recently in embattled South Viet Nam.

President Ngo Dinh Diem is a virtual one-man government and in the past he has not responded readily to prodding.

Gen. Maxwell Taylor, who returned to the U.S. Friday from a fact-finding visit to Southeast Asia, has shown in a number of ways his belief that the problem of shoring up South Viet Nam against a rising Communist onslaught involves more than purely military considerations.

A number of Vietnamese and Americans who have been living there contend South Viet Nam's crisis is compounded of much more than the Communist threat.

CITE FREEDOM LACK

They say a lack of political freedom and of economic-social betterment have contributed to the apparent apathy, They also criticize the Diem government's handling of the Montagnards, the hill tribes along the vulnerable Laotian border, across which the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas have been receiving reinforcements in swelling numbers.

The Communists have been active among the hill people, providing them local self-government and their own lands. Observers say the rebels, playing down communism and playing up Montagnard grievances, have made considerable headway.

This could turn out to be south Viet Nam's Achilles heel if, as some Vietnamese officers predict, the Communists make a big military push in the highlands this fall and winter.

British Warning Draws Quick Reply From Reds

WINCHESTER, England (AP) — Britain warned the Russians Saturday it will reply to any Soviet attack with nuclear weapons as well as conventional arms.

Defence Secretary Harold Watkinson followed up Friday's warnings from Foreign Secretary Lord Home and Air Secretary Julian Amery by saying:

"Any doubt on the part of the Soviet high command that we might attempt to meet an all-out offensive without recourse to tactical nuclear weapons might well lead to a miscalculation on their part."

The tough British line — restated three times in 24 hours — drew a quick reply from Moscow.

Yuri Ayzman, a commentator on Moscow radio, called the speeches provocative and irresponsible and said they "show conclusively that (Britain's) present foreign policy is one of preparation for another war."

The Soviet Union, he said, is not afraid of threats — but "wouldn't it be better to abandon the policy of force and nuclear blackmail and to sit down to negotiate."

Moscow radio also scoffed at Lord Home's speech in which he claimed that Britain's nuclear power could wipe out most of Soviet cities.

Russia "like Gulliver threatened by Swift's Lilliputians is not afraid of threats," it said.

"We don't propose to go into the question of the actual potential of British nuclear bombs; but we should like to remind this very warlike lord that very few nuclear bombs are needed to destroy small, densely-populated countries."

Watkinson said Britain's army in Germany is "ready to give a good account of itself."

Tanker Explodes

TUNIS (AP) — The 7,129-ton Scottish tanker Clan Keith exploded and sank in heavy seas Sunday night off the north Tunisian coast, and 61 of her 63 European officers and Pakistani crew members were reported missing.

"Seven survivors have been picked up and we are still missing 61 others," said a radio message from the scene.

The seven were picked up by the Italian freighter Durham Trader. Three or four other ships were searching the area.

STIRLING — On November 2nd, 18 ladies gathered at the River Valley School and were transported in three cars to Belleville.

The group enjoyed a conducted tour of the new county building. They viewed the court room, photos of the Hall of Fame, the library and the various rooms. There was much to see and the hour sped by swiftly. Warden Harleigh Hamilton, and treasurer Eric Denyer, extended a welcome, along with staff members who conducted the tour.

Th group then journeyed to the home of Mrs. Ernest Carr, River Valley for its November meeting, with 17 members and two visitors in attendance.

Widows Advised Not to Lock Selves Behind Closed Doors

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—"A woman behind closed doors is one of the most tragic things in the world," said Olive Clapper.

"I know widows who have lived for years behind locked doors.

"Their trouble is that they refuse to give to life. They just sit and nurse their sorrow. It's the easiest thing in the world to do. But it is destructive to a woman in every way—it can destroy her health, her personality, her very life."

Mrs. Clapper's own world fell apart Feb. 3, 1944, when her husband, Raymond Clapper, noted U.S. political columnist, was killed in a plane crash while on a wartime mission in the Pacific.

She tells the story of her happy marriage—in a warm - hearted and inspiring book, Ope Lucky Woman.

WIVES LIVE LONGER

Since most wives today outlive their husbands, Mrs. Clapper believes they should face up realistically to the prospect of widowhood.

Here are some of her suggestions:

"1. Keep up any skills you have — just in case. A woman who was a secretary should keep a typewriter around—and use it. If she was a nurse before marriage, she should continue doing voluntary nursing.

"2. Even if a widow has no occupational skills, I'd advise her to find some kind of work outside the home — even if she doesn't need the money.

"Work is the great consoler. Get out among people and don't hide yourself in sorrow.

"Many women, after a period of widowhood, hope to remarry. But since men are giving better than even chances, the chances of a woman finding a second husband are meagre. It is better for her to face up to this—and adjust to the prospect of a single life.

"4. Don't impose yourself on your children, or try to run their lives—or the lives of your grandchildren.

NO RESENTMENT

Mrs. Clapper, attractive and happy at 56, has lived up to her own creed.

"I never had any resentment or bitterness over Ray's death," she recalled. "He died as he would have wanted us—and I feel he went out in glory."

In the years since then she has busied herself writing and speaking and serving as an executive of CARE. Last spring president Kennedy appointed her co-chairman of the American Food for Peace Council.

Looking back across a crowded lifetime, Mrs. Clapper revealed the lines with which she closed her book:

"I'm convinced . . . that love's real love, never dies. It follows the beloved forever."

She feels she has, indeed, been one lucky woman.

Simulated Shaping

By VERA WINSTON

Here's a new one-piece wool dress that is a good exponent of the "body conscious" line. Slightly shaped, it has seaming to render the midriff concave. The seaming indicates a yoke at the shallow scoop neckline.

The wide contour belt dips downward and stops short of the center in front. It buttons on to the dress.

There are gentle gathers on either side of the otherwise straight skirt.

Dress comes in black and colors.

HELPING A BOY ON A MAN'S ERRAND

When "little" Stevie Smith dropped in to see me a few days ago, I must confess I was slightly taken aback when he asked how to go about asking a girl for a date.

(It seemed like only a few months ago that I was handing out cookies instead of advice, but then I realized that Steve — oops, I mean Steve — had turned seventeen during the summer and had shot up to six feet.)

Naturally, he wanted his new maturity to be reflected in the way he sought to induce a sweet-sixteen neighbor to go to the local movie with him on Saturday night.

It was Steve's first crack at dating a beau. Ordinarily, the crowd assembled at someone's house, then went en masse to the pictures, each paying his or her own way. The time had come for Steve to strike out on his own, and he wanted to do it up brown. Here's the gist of what I gave him, in lieu of a handful of chocolate chips:

When you phone a girl for a date, don't beat around the bush. Don't be coy and ask, "guess who?" She might guess wrong, and then where is your ego?

Tell her who's calling, then that for a few minutes, if it will make you feel easier, but don't stall too long before coming to the point. Mention that there's a good movie playing at the local theater on Saturday, and ask if she'd like to go with you.

If the answer's "Yes," then be specific about what time you'll call for her. Don't say "I'll pick you up at six or seven." This could mean anywhere from seven on the dot to eight-thirty-five after. Naturally, her parents will want to be on hand to meet you. They'd appreciate knowing exactly when you'll arrive, so they can make their own plans for the evening accordingly. So set an exact time, then make sure you're there promptly.

If there's to be a stop later, for a coke and a sandwich, be sure to mention it. Also — and this is very important — tell her what time you'll deliver her home.

Her parents may have set a deadline earlier than yours. If so, this gives her a good opening to say so, and, naturally, you'll have to abide by the house rules.

In short, as I told Steve, don't be brash, offhand or a wiseacre when asking for a date. This approach is strictly for juveniles.

A true gentleman — even a young one — issues an invitation in a friendly manner and is direct and specific about details. The latter approach is much more flattering to a young lady — and certainly more reassuring to her parents.

Davey — Grandma's Little Helper

By Mary Moore

So many letters come saying "we enjoy your little notes about your family" that I am yielding to temptation today and telling you a Davey anecdote.

He helped Grandma plant the tulips. Each variety was in its bag in which it came from Holland. Lily flowering White Triumphator, Red Shine, Fascinating (creamy yellow) etc. I dug the holes and he put in the bulbs. There's where the mix-up began. Being four years old he cannot read very well so I slipped into the house and got white chalk and red and yellow crayons and put color marks on each bag. Then all went well. Anyway I'll know next spring.

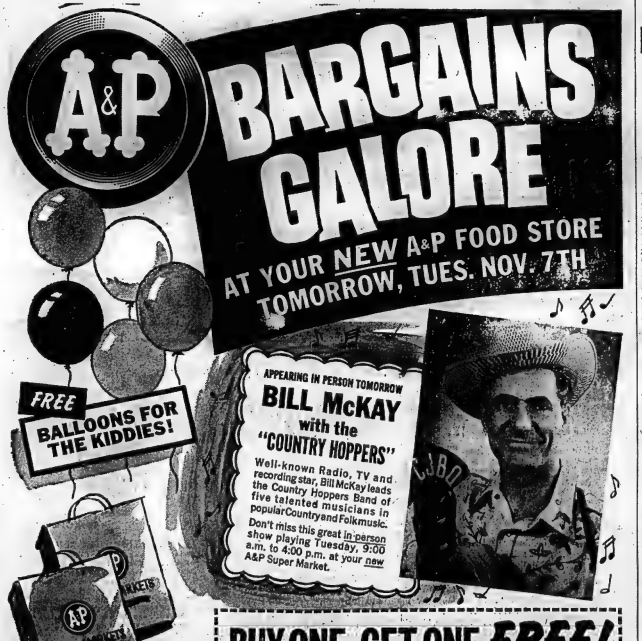
While all this was going on outside my second batch of Christmas fruit cakes were baking inside and I had to keep running in to peek at them. Next week you will know how the 1961 fruit cake baking turned out for then I will have made my decision and will give you the recipe. I hope you will tell me it is the best yet!

Again meanwhile in my deep well cooker soup was simmering. Davey loves soup and slurps it up like a miniature Frenchman. All the bones from roast chicken and beef went into the pot along with leftover bean and carrot water. But I must be specific with you.

HOMEMADE SOUP:

To the bones from 1 roast chicken and 1 prime rib roast of beef I added 2 quart cold water and the liquid from cooking beans and carrots (about 1 cup) and simmered them 2 hours in deep well cooker. Then I strained it. I let it stand overnight and skimmed off the fat. To the resulting 5 cups liquid I added: ½ cup each ¼" carrot and turnip cubes, chopped celery, and onions and tomatoes and 1 cup packaged noodles and a handful of macaroni alphabets. Of course I added salt and pepper and, for good measure, 1 chicken bouillon cube. I simmered it until vegetables and noodles were tender. Davey picked out the letters of his name while he gobbled up two bowlsful.

Another little idea that worked well with Davey was made with French toast.



FRENCH TOAST JELLY SANDWICHES:

Cut 3 slices whole wheat bread at least ½" thick and cut slice in half. To serve two beat 2 small eggs, add ½ cup milk, 1 teaspoon sugar and ½ teaspoon salt. Soak the bread in this 3 minutes. Saute in 1 tablespoon melted butter or more until golden on both sides. Spread half the slices with red currant or apple jelly and cover with remaining halves. Serve hot with crisp bacon. A surefire supper for all the young children I know except 5-weeks-old Danny who is on mother's milk.

Wolves Stop Beavers

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener - Waterloo Beavers finally ran out of steam during the weekend and the rest of the Eastern Professional Hockey League is breathing easier.

Beavers' red - hot winning streak was stopped Saturday night in Kitchener when Sudbury Wolves erupted for two quick goals and a 4-2 decision in the final two minutes of play.

The league - leading Beavers had chewed through the opposition for eight straight wins after dropping their first two games of the season. And they played with a meagre 18-man squad for the entire run.

In other weekend action the second-place Kingston Frontenacs managed a split, downing Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds 4-3 at home Saturday night and losing 3-1 to Hull-Ottawa Canadiens at Hull Sunday afternoon.

North Bay Trappers tied the Thunderbirds 3-3 at North Bay Sunday to stay one point up on the cellar-dwelling Soo club.

BAGE TWO GOALS

Centre Kobe Morrison was the Sudbury hero, scoring both the late goals which stopped Beavers. His first was a corner drive which deflected off a Kitchener defenceman and the second a flip into the empty net after Kitchener pulled goalie Jack McCartan in favor of a six-man power play.

Gord Labrosiere and Neil Forth got the other Sudbury goals while Kitchener counters came from Leo Rochefort and Jim Neilson.

At Kingston Saturday the Frontenacs had a 4-0 lead in the second period and coasted home. Pete Panagabko scored two for the winners with Dick Cherry and Tommy Williams adding singles. Sault Ste. Marie got goals from Eddie Kachur, Merv Kuryluk and Doug Robinson.

Fred Hilts sparked Hull-Ottawa with two goals. Bob Elliott notched the other. The lone Kingston goal was by Orval Tessier.

North Bay had to come from behind three times to stay up with Sault Ste. Marie. Goals by rookie Ted Wright, Kuryluk and Milan Marcetta of the Soo were matched by Roger Sawicki, coach Bob Sabourin and Joe Saura.

New AAU Head Says

Dynamic Action Needed

By BOB TRIMBEE

EDMONTON (CP)—Dynamic and aggressive action is needed immediately if Canada is to broaden and raise its standard in amateur sports, says Jack Davies of Montreal.

Davies, whose association with amateur sport stretches back to the First World War, Saturday was elected president of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada.

"The AAU is in an enviable position to give this leadership, but it must move now," he said in accepting the top post of the country-wide amateur body.

"We must prepare a program that will widen the scope of participation in amateur sports and in the same step improve the physical fitness of Canadians.

"The federal government has said it is willing to spend up to $5,000,000 a year to obtain the same results. But if we can show them a sound program that will give the greatest benefit to the greatest number of Canadians, I'm sure, they'll be willing to spend a lot more than that."

PLAN STUDY

Davies's comments followed closely the appointment of four men to study the problems of amateur sport in Canada and prepare a broad plan for a recommendation to the communities were Dr. Newman Haslam, professor of physics at the University of Saskatchewan; Bob Adds, 1958 track and field coach of Canada's Empire Games team; Clarence Hilts, immediate past president of the AAU; and Wally Johnson, veteran Saskatchewan police in Regina, are from Saskatoon.

Their recommendations must include a program of national coaching for Canadian athletes; junior development assistance; training of officials and coaches; utilization of current facilities; construction of new facilities; assistance to athletes competing at home and abroad; and a public education program to acquaint Canadians with AAU aims and objects.

The plan will be presented to a national advisory council on fitness and amateur sports when it is established by the federal government early next year.

The AAU will endeavor to place supporters on the council and keep a man in Ottawa to lobby for its wishes. Davies is expected to get this task.

The AAU's new executive will also establish a three-man commission to study methods of gaining financial support from sources other than the federal government.

Tweed High Ousts OSD Team

TWEED — In an evenly matched game between Tweed Junior High School football team and H.L.C. Tweed became the winners by a score of 25-18. The game was played in Belleville at the O.S.D. field.

The teams were evenly matched and the score was tied at the middle of the third quarter, when Leonard Gray scored a point on a convert, making it 18-18 for Tweed. Tweed held the lead until the last play when Greg Kelly got a touchdown, making it 25-18 for Tweed. Greg was the star of the game, scoring three touchdowns and Alec French scored the other one in the second quarter. The star defensive player for Tweed was Charlie Very.

This win makes Tweed the Junior "B" CORSA semi-finalists. They expect to play next Saturday but to date do not know who their opponents will be.

Tweed sustained two minor injuries when Raymond Lesage lost a fingernail and Neil McGrath received a bruised shoulder. All players played a good game and their coach, William Buckley, is indeed proud of the team.

NEW YORK (AP) — Philadelphia Eagles, leading the National Football League's Eastern Conference, won the battle Sunday but fell victim to a casualty that could make a big difference in the league war.

The Eagles defeated Chicago Bears 18-14. Tom Brookshier, the Eagles' all - pro defensive halfback, suffered a compound fracture of the right leg in the fourth quarter. He will be out for the season.

Green Bay Packers, Western Division leaders, were beaten 24-21 by quarterback Johnny Unitas and Baltimore Colts, but retained a one-game lead over Chicago.

In other games, St. Louis Cardinals, still using quarterback Sam Etcheverry only to hold the ball on placement kicking, defeated Dallas Cowboys 31-17, Pittsburgh Steelers upset Cleveland Browns 17-13, Los Angeles Rams overpowered Minnesota Vikings 31-7 and San Francisco 49ers and Detroit Lions battled to a 35-35 tie.

NEAR A TITLE

San Diego Chargers completed an unbeaten sweep and gained a certain share of the Western Division championship of the American Football League. The Chargers lashed New York Titans 45-13 for their ninth straight victory, giving them a 2½-game lead over second - place Dallas Texans with only five games to play.

Dallas, however, has six games to go and could tie for the title by winning all of them—if San Diego were to lose six of its remaining games. Dallas took a 28-21 trimming from Boston Patriots Friday night — its fourth loss in a row.

Boston moved into the Eastern Division lead while Houston, the 1960 champion, smashed Bronco 45-14. It kept the Oilers only a half game away from Boston.

Parker Again Tops West

Jackie Parker has captured the Western Football Conference scoring title for the second time in an illustrious eight-year career with Edmonton Eskimos.

The 29-year-old import quarterback kicked a field goal, a convert and a single Saturday in the final game of the 1961 regular schedule to finish with 104 points.

Parker now joins five other players who have won the conference scoring title twice.

The others are Gerry James, Joe Aguirre, Bob Shaw, Paul Rowe and Ed Sloan. James the only one of these still active, finished second this year with 79 points. He won the title last year with 114.

Clay, who is ranked fifth in a light-heavyweight, filled in for Argentina's Alejandro Lavorante, who suffered a split lip in a sparring session Wednesday.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Belleville Collegiate's fine senior football club came through handsomely here on Saturday and proved their unbeaten string during district play was no flash in the pan. They defeated the strong Peterborough Kinsmen C.I. squad by 40 points to seven and were full value all the way for their victory.

According to this department's favorite family observer, Coach Stan Barbour's gridders combined a fine running attack with a hard-hitting defence and thereby hangs the story. The Peter' youngsters showed fine ability mainly keeping to the air for their offensive plays, but a well drilled BCI defence neutralized the passes for the most part.

According to Homer "Red" Townsend BCI's title is the first senior "A" award captured by the school since way back around 1933. That is a lot of waiting but it was worth it.

The story of the BCI junior punters is a different one. Mentor Peter Carver who counted it end for the team and scrivened the activities for both school squads during the season, take the story of the juniors as "from one extreme to another." Two coaches, Coach Cecil McBride's gridders finished the schedule with seven wins, no losses and a COSSA title under their belts.

"Mr. McBride's 1961 edition also finished with a perfect record; six defeats, no wins and no COSSA title."

"However," he says, "the season was not a total loss. This year the age limit for junior players was lowered one year and many of the players were untried. The entire junior squad learned much of sportsmanship, team spirit and the fundamentals of football. This is more important than winning games."

Peter goes on: "The juniors played home and home series during the course of the season. They dropped both games to a powerful Minto team, 21-13 and 20-6. Two games were also played with Trenton. These games BCI could have and should have won. The scores were 8-6 and 20-6."

"The Pirates juniors are the envy of the league," he handed BCI a 16-7 defeat on the Prince Edward gridiron. The city youngsters, however, turned in their best effort of the season when they were edged 6-0 by the Little Saints of Quinte Secondary."

"Both the junior coach and Coach McBride," Peter says, "are to be commended for not giving up on each other at any time during the season."

This department extends its congratulations to Coach Stanley Barbour and his BCI senior "A" champions. They played consistently good football under consistently good coaching, Ottawa opinions to the contrary. They are worthy champions and proved it not only in their unbeaten drive through the schedule, but in a fine effort against a grand young team from Peterborough.

HOCKEY

Belleville's intermediate hockey entry in the Lakeshore League had its first workout in Memorial Arena at the weekend last night. The team, according to Manager Jean Paul Lamirande will practice every night, starting 11 o'clock. The laziness of the hour is due to the previous commitments.

The schedule has not been released as yet but we are given to understand Belleville opens against Uxbridge on the latter's ice on November 20. Other teams get under way November 18. More about this tomorrow.

'A Good One' Says Bell

Juniors 'Big' Club

The Belleville McFarlands, during the schedule's opening quickly rounding into shape for what is hoped will be a fine season during the opening of the OHA Eastern Ontario Junior Hockey Loop with the club coach Joe Primeau expects to field a team that will be strong on defence, but not lacking in scoring punch. Primeau gave schedule one week from tonight, sweated through a stiff hour and a half workout among his bigger teammates, at Memorial Arena yesterday and drew favorable comment from coach Gordie Bell.

"We have a big club this year and I think it will be a good one", reckoned Bell following the practice session.

The club, which opened camp with about 36 players three weeks ago, has been pared to 18 at the present time and Bell hit the nail right on the head when he described it as a "big club".

Most of the players appear quite capable of looking after themselves on the ice with only about one or two "pint sized" among the whole group. Big Alex Barron, king-sized defenceman who tips the scales at 210, heads the list but gets close competition from guys like Larry Mavety and Garry Bull. Barron is from the Belleville Jr. "B" club.

The smallest player in camp is Gary Duvall, a smart, headsup digger, playing on a line with Everett "Pug" Keller and gaining Graydon Scott. This combination bustled with the best of them yesterday and Bell feels confident that it will jell into a goal-producing unit

Tie Blues For Second

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Centres Red Kelly and Dave Keon and goalie Johnny Bower have put Toronto Maple Leafs power play in the thick of the race for first place in the National Hockey League.

Kelly and Keon banged home unassisted goals in the third period as the Leafs won twice during the weekend. Bower was spectacular in both victories.

Kelly, who at 34 is one of the leading figures in the Leafs' offence, burned the trick at Detroit Sunday night as the Leafs edged the Red Wings 3-2.

Keon, 21 - year - old sophomore being looked on by coach Punch Imlach to succeed Kelly as team leader when the veteran decides to call it quits, fired his game - winner in a 3-1 triumph over Chicago Black Hawks at Toronto Saturday.

Bower, nearing 40, pulled off 40 saves against the Black Hawks and 35 against the Red Wings as he lowered his goals against average for 10 games to a spectacular 1.90.

TIES WITH RANGERS

The double victory boosted the Leafs into a tie for second place with the New York Rangers. Each team has 15 points, just one less than the leader - running Montreal Canadiens.

Rangers and Canadiens battled to a 4-4 tie at Montreal Saturday in the only outing of the weekend for both clubs.

Chicago Black Hawks, 1960-61 Stanley Cup champions, won their second game in 12 starts Sunday, edging lowly Boston Bruins 4-3 in the weekend's only other game. Chicago's first win since was against the Bruins.

Kelly, an all - star defence - man with Detroit for 12½ seasons before coming to Toronto in 1959-60 where he has emerged as an all - star centre, broke a 2-2 tie against his former teammates at 8:34 of the third period.

Kelly's goal completed the three - goal comeback for the Leafs who at one point trailed the Wings 3-0.

Detroit had taken an early lead on goals by Gordie Howe and Eddie Litzenberger. Pat Howe and Litzenberger, who work on the same forward line, it was the seventh goal of the season for each.

BREAKS THE ICE

At Toronto, Keon broke a 1-1 duel against the Hawks at 13:02 of the third period. The tie had existed since the halfway mark of the second.

After a scoreless opening period, Bob Nevin, another sophomore, put the Leafs in front 1-0 early in the second. But Chicago came back to tie it up 1-1 on Ken Wharram's second goal of the year.

Veteran Bert Olmstead saw action in both Toronto scores after recovering from an injury suffered in the season exhibition game tour. Olmand Paul Zakos from the Peterborough Junior "A" squad.

Zakos, drafted by Montreal for Peterborough two years ago, wants to play here this year but the Canadiens would like him to go to St. Thomas. Bell said the McFarlands are negotiating with the Petes for Zakos. "He is the key to our defence", remarked the coach who would like to have Zakos to fill the spot of team leader Pat Ascelatine, overage this season.

Boyle is still of midget age but both he and Ted Rowland look good and are very much in the fight for defence spots. Smith is said to be a master at putting the puck in the net, Gary Goyer style, and although Bell did not say so in as many words, it could be that the team's success will depend a great deal on Zakos filling Ascelatine's shoes and Smith filling Goyer's.

The club has two more practice sessions scheduled before they open the season in Kingston on Monday, November 13. The [illegible] Wednesday night at [illegible] again next Sunday.

Belleville's first home game will be against Peterborough on Friday, November 17.

Defeat Argos, Cats Beaten

Chandler Stars In Riders' Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ottawa Rough Riders never seem to run out of surprises for Toronto Argonauts.

Saturday they used a 16-point defensive lead, dissipated earlier by Hamilton Tiger Cats to a pass catcher. Little Lan Chandler revelled in the role, going for two touchdowns as the Riders defeated Argos 35-23 and wrapped up second place in the Eastern Football Conference final standings.

In the other Big Four game Saturday, the last - place Montreal Alouettes defeated the champion Tiger Cats 37-6 in a "nothing" game at Montreal.

By finishing second, one point ahead of Argos, the Rough Riders earned home grounds for the sudden - death clash next Saturday between the second- and third - place teams. The Tiger-Cats will relax on the sidelines and prepare to meet the winner in a home - and - away series.

Frank Clair's Riders, who got away with a sleeper play in signing Argos from the Big Four playoffs last year, came up with an unanticipated passing offensive Saturday. Before Argos could adjust, quarterback Ron Lancaster dropped two touchdown passes into Chandler's arms on identical patterns. That gave Ottawa a 14-1 lead in the first quarter and Argos never quite recovered.

Lancaster, who went the distance while Russ Jackson, his quarterback alternate, rode the bench, went over for another touchdown in the second - period smash and pitched a desperation pass to Dave Thelen who went 35 yards for the last quarter touchdown which sewed up the game.

Doug Daigneault had the other Ottawa touchdown on a three - yard smash and Gary Schreiber converted all five.

The Big Four's perfect performance for Toronto was put on by Grenadier Bobby Kuntz, whose second touchdown narrowed the Argo deficit to 16-12. The first Kuntz major, in the third quarter, saw him go 56 yards on a burst through centre when he was sent into the line in a bid for a scheduled game this year. for the first time. Montreal already had missed the playoffs might have been largely responsible

John Lewis Wins Lift Title

John Lewis of the Apollo Bar-Bell Club here, distinguished himself at the 1961 Ontario Senior Weightlifting Championships held in Hamilton on Saturday.

Lewis won the 198-pound class title with the following lifts: press, 260 pounds; snatch, 220 pounds; C and G, 210 pounds, for a total of 690 pounds.

The "snatch" mark was a new Ontario record. Not since Tommy Pedder won the title in 1938 has a lifter from Eastern Ontario taken the top award.

Club officials believe Lewis has a good chance of making the Canadian team for the British Empire Games in Australia next year.

Argos Retain Lou Agase

TORONTO (CP)—Lou Hayman, managing director of Toronto Argonauts of the Eastern Football Conference, confirmed during the weekend that Argos have decided to retain Lou Agase as head coach.

Hayman and Agase are expected to meet later this week to negotiate a new contract. Both men said the terms had not yet been settled. However, the club is believed willing to offer a two-year deal at about $30,000 a year.

Defeat Peterborough Kenner 8-0

BCI Gridders Win COSSA Crown

By PETER CARVER

The Belleville Collegiate Institute senior gridders captured their first senior "A" COSSA crown in nearly three decades, by virtue of an 8-0 victory over Peterborough's Kenner Collegiate "Rams" Saturday afternoon at Quinte field.

Coach Stan Barbour's crew combined a good running game with a hard-hitting defence to stymie the Rams. Kenner showed a strong aerial attack but their ground plays were contained by a determined BCI line.

Peterborough kicked off to open the game and the BCI offensive movement led by Pete Weston quickly advanced to Kenner's 25-yard line. The Rams took the ball on a recovered fumble at their 30-yard line where Doug Cummings on the "sleeper" play ran to the Belleville 7. The BCI defence held on the first down. Then came the big play of the game. BCI's Doug Boomhour fell on a Kenner fumble and the wizers took over on their own 5-yard line.

Both teams battled out the remainder of the first quarter around the mid-field stripes.

In the second quarter BCI's hard-running fullback Pete Weston, behind a key block thrown by Gary Lazier, galloped to the Kenner 35-yard line. John Miller ripped off eight yards and on the next play Weston plunged off tackle for a 25-yard touchdown. Weston converted the major to complete the game's scoring.

Neither team got into scoring position again until the dying minutes of the first half when Kenner recovered a BCI fumble at centre field. Four short passes put Kenner on the BCI 20-yard and on the final play of the half Kenner quarterback Paul Rex passed incomplete in the BCI end zone.

Late in the fourth quarter a penalty and a 10-yard plunge by John Miller put Belleville on the Kenner 30-yard line. Miller ground out another first down but an interference penalty forced BCI to punt. Peterborough took over on their own 1-yard line. Several good runs by Rex and a long pass to Ray Kangro moved Kenner to the 35-yard line but Bob Burr's interception halted the drive. BCI were forced into a punt situation but a bad pass from centre gave the Rams first down on the BCI'S 25-yard line. A pass interference penalty moved the ball up another 10 yards and Kenner had a first down. The BCI defence showed its true colors in the next series of plays. Kenner advanced eight yards in two plays but on their third down the BCI line rushed the quarterback for a 10-yard loss and thus the winners pulled themselves out of another jam.

The gun sounded as BCI's Bruce Regensburg intercepted a pass on the Kenner 35-yard line and BCI reigned as COSSA champions for 1961.

Pete Weston was the star of the game as his great running and hard defensive play marked the winners. Gray Scott, Gary Lazier, Jim Hatfield and John Miller were other standouts along with the whole BCI'S roster.

Officials: referee — H. Moorcroft; umpire — W. Gilbert; head linesman — W. Daniel, all of Toronto.

Bulldogs Whip Rams

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Weekend play in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior Series League left the teams occupying the same positions as before although Windsor Bulldogs and Stratford Rockets strengthened their grip on the top two places.

The Bulldogs walloped Sarnia Rams 11-3 at Windsor Sunday to give the unbeaten league leaders their fourth win. Second-place Stratford won 3-2 over Galt Terriers at Stratford Saturday.

Sarnia, playing its third game in as many days, was no match for the rampaging Bulldogs and had to thank goalie Jim Heddle for keeping the score down to what it was.

Ramo Jack Costello, Louis Crozier, Gord Haidy and Bill Ringrose shot two goals apiece for Windsor while Lou Sender, Wally Ingraham and Joe Klukay netting singles. Sarnia scorers were Jerry Mars, Don Slaughis and Jack Keeward.

In the other Sunday game Waterloo Tigers romped to a 6-0 victory over St. Thomas. Bob Morris, Royale at Waterloo for Chris Bando was in four league games. The newly-formed Royals had dropped a 7-2 decision to Sarnia Saturday night.

EARNS THREE POINTS

Winger Larry Wiegpz paced Waterloo with two goals and one assist, with Ralph Kosowan also getting a double and singles coming from Bob Myers and Jim Dahmer. Waterloo outshot the visitors, 40-25.

Redmen Win

Queen's Clobber Blues

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Queen's University Golden Gaels are becoming more ferocious as the intercollegiate senior season progresses.

Saturday afternoon they smashed out a 34-0 victory over University of Toronto Blues. At the same time McGill Redmen were defeating University of Western Ontario Mustangs 20-7 to put next Saturday's McGill-Queen's clash in Montreal in the "crucial" category. By stopping the Gaels the second-place Redmen would force a playoff for the Intercollegiate crown, the same as last year, when McGill emerged as playoff winner.

The Gaels are unbeaten in five games while the Redmen have won three in a row after losing their first two, including one to Queen's.

The Gaels, said by coach Frank Tindall to be the most balanced team he has ever directed, frolicked for 41 points in the second half against the visitors from Toronto. Cal Connor, quarterbacking this potent scoring machine, tossed four touchdown passes and ran for another.

Bill Sirman, who caught seven passes, turned three of them into touchdowns. Rookie Bill Edwards ran for two touchdowns behind expert blocking in by the Queen's line, and Kinzton fans already are comparing him with Ron Stewart, the brilliant Gael grid who plays professional ball for Toronto Rough Riders.

Larry Burridge and John Quinn got the other Gael touchdowns. Gary Strickler converted seven of the eight and kicked a field goal.

For the Blues, who have lost four straight after winning the season opener, Pete Robinson led by scoring two touchdowns on passes from quarterback Harold Hall to open the fourth quarter.

At London, the Redmen handed the Mustangs their third straight defeat. McGill quarterback Tom Skypeck, battling Connor of Queen's for all-star ranking, tossed touchdown passes to Willie Lambert and Eric Walker and also fired two booming 55 - yard punts which went for singles.

Two field goals by Harry Pawliukkala accounted for the other McGill points.

ON PASS-AND-RUN

The Mustangs' only scoring thrust was an 85 - yard pass-and-run play in the third quarter, when quarterback Ken Ryan dale pitched to halfback Whit Tucker, John Nash kicked the convert.

The Redmen had charge of the game throughout, but failed to capitalize on some of their scoring chances.

Western and Toronto with identical records of on win and four losses, play one another in Toronto Saturday.

Red Wings Defeat Teeps 7-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hamilton Red Wings burst into a six - goal scoring streak in the last period of their Ontario Hockey Association junior game against St. Catharines Teepees Saturday to bounce Teepees 7-2 and avenge their league lead still further.

At Montreal Sunday the junior Canadiens took over third sport from St. Catharines, leapling Niagara Falls Flyers 6-2.

The Red Wings, chalking up their sixth straight win, were led by Pit Martin with two goals, Martin also drawing only 12 seconds after Bob Hamilton fired his single goal in the third.

Other Red Wings scorers were Marcel Monfette, Paul Lawcron, Wayne Rivers and Jim McLellan.

Teepees replied from John Brenneman and Gerry Burbacco.

The Red Wings now have 12 points, seven ahead of second-place Niagara Falls.

Big Ingle led with two goals in the junior Canadiens' victory. Yvan Cournoyer, Andre Boudrias, Jacques Laperrière and Norm Dennis shot the others. Niagara Falls' marksmen were Bill Kotsbe and Ron Shock.

Nostalgic Shows Brighten TV Tubes During Weekend

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Television had been feeling out an appropriate nostalgia shows—looking back over the careers of old vaudeville headliners, film stars, movies, newsreels and songs—it should have a stiff neck. Two more hit the TV tubes over the weekend.

CBS' Golden Anniversary musical special Friday night was the more ambitious. It was looking over the past 50 years.

Sunday night's NBC Music of the 30s concentrated on the depression years, that whole familiar area including the speakeasy door, the apple seller, the girl singer perched on the piano, the stock market graph, and, of course, the voice of the late president, Roosevelt.

The anniversary show was bright entertainment, with some funny and clever song numbers and some inspired moments of clowning by Annette Fabray and Tony Randall.

Get braced for a freshet of public affairs shows probing chances of survival after a nuclear attack. Such reports has a two-parter on the subject starting Thursday night and NBC will present a Nation's Future debate on the subject Nov. 19.

Calvin and the Colonel is scheduled to be removed out of its Tuesday night spot after this week's program, probably only part of considerable reshuffling of ABC shows. The network has been doing poorly on the ratings charts this season.

Recommended tonight: The Danny Kaye Show, CBS, 9-10, EST—Kaye showing off his mimicry of the triple tongue songs.

Astrological Forecast

Tuesday, November 7, 1961

General Tendencies: An excellent day for arriving at a much better understanding with all with whom you have any association by discussing with them how you can gain your joint objectives more readily. After completing necessary tasks, a fine time for whatever has to do with romance, art, music, culture in any of its forms. Think lofty.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — A certain period of meditation at some time today will bring intuitive flashes that can be most helpful to you in the near future. Later, be sure you pay bills and collect what is owed you. P.M. be happy with loved one.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — It would be very wise at this time to find out what your true relative position is with partners. Then through co-operation you come to a far better understanding. Get contracts in order. Then get out to dinner together.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Delve right into all that work that has been piling up and put behind you quickly. Improve relations with co-workers, too. Then in p.m. be sure your home is in fine order and get wardrobe in shape for busy days ahead. Work.

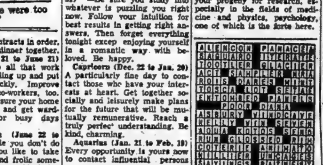
Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — While you don't do it very often, you like to take a day for fun and frolic sometime, and this is an ideal day for just that. Get together with good friends and impress them with your sense of humor, camaraderie. Have fun!

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Plan day by humoring his and doing those things about the house they have been pestering you about for some time. Use your ingenuity and make surroundings truly comfortable and charming. Then invite friends in for fun.

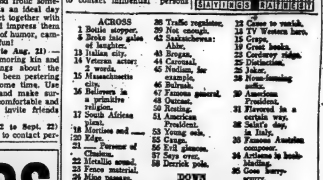
Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) — It would be wise to contact personally or by phone, letter, etc., all those with whom you are vitally connected in any enterprise of importance and discuss details, etc. P.M. get ideas from your paper that help with hobbies.

Libra (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22) — Impress interested parties with your fine logic in handling anything connected with finances and property. This brings greater support in your ventures in the future.

Scorpio (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21) — Thinking in terms and almost selfish manner today is fine since it is about time you got what is rightfully yours. Contact the right people early. Then get about socially in p.m. and impress others with savoir faire, charm.



Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Be sure you study into whatever is puzzling you right now. Follow your intuition for best results in getting right answers. Then forget everything tonight except enjoying yourself in a romantic way with beloved. Be happy.



Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — A particularly fine day to contact those who have your interests at heart. Get together socially and leisurely make plans for the future that will be mutually remunerative. Reach a truly perfec' understanding. Be kind, charming.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Every opportunity is yours now to contact influential persons who can truly help to make the future much brighter and successful for you. The best approach is the direct one. State you aims, wishes and don't waste their time.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — If you are more broadminded and alert today, you will make the fine, influential contacts you desire, as well as round up the information needed. Raise your level of consciousness and get out of dull routine existence. Grow.

If your child is born today—he, or she, is one of those delightful youngsters who seems to have been born with a sixth sense, since there is a fine ability to penetrate into the mysterious and little understood. Be sure you give an academic education that will fit your progeny for research, especially in the fields of medicine and physics, psychology, one of which is the forte here.

CAMPBELLFORD
More Classroom Space Paramount Issue in Council
CAMPBELLFORD — The question of additional classroom space and a cafeteria for the Campbellford High School was the major topic under discussion at the regular meeting of the town council.
Councillor Petherick expressed the fact that he is not convinced of the necessity for increases in accommodation, saying the classes in public school in the area are not larger and in fact the matter should be investigated. He stated that he did not approve of the cafeteria and moved that no action be taken on the Board's request. A polled vote was asked for but not seconded the motion died.
Councillor Dennis expressed surprise in the discrepancy between Mr. Petherick's figures and the 500 pupils quoted by the Inspector of High Schools within five years. Reeve Free said the cost of the building program is about one mill, an increase which will be absorbed or exceeded by the Board in 1962 by the Trade Fund. He believe to build for accommodation and on which there is no grant.
Mayor Rutherford agreed that sites are good investments for consumer protection and leadership of industry.

Great Show of Pageantry Is Opening of Parliament
By ROD CURRIE
LONDON (CP) — The Earl of Arms was there. So were the Gold Stick in Waiting, the Black Rod and the Mistress of the Robes and the Lady of the Bedchamber.
It was the opening of Parliament, the pageant of the ancient ceremonies, the rustling gowns of satin and lace with jewels and jewelry, were awaiting the Queen.
The judges, in early grey wigs and scarlet robes, took their seats on the Woolsack, an ottoman studded with wool from Britain and the Commonwealth and dating back to Edward III when the wool trade in England depended largely on the sheep.
The ambassadors and heads of missions from more than 100 countries took their places in ceremonial or national costume.
OVERFLOW CROWD
Throughout the noble Gothic hall of the House of Lords they sat on the red leather benches overflowed into the "strangers' gallery" above—the titled ladies, the knights of the realm and the talented from Britain and abroad.
Sir Winston Churchill, wife of Sir Winston, sat near Lady Dorothy Macmillan, wife of Prime Minister Macmillan. Ballerina Margot Fonteyn, star of the London Festival Ballet, sat in the ambassadors' gallery near Panama.
Georges Drew, Canadian high commissioner, and Mrs. Drew sat together in a box.
Lord Home, R. A. Minister Walker, viewing the ceremony for the publication of his latest book, was the grandest show he ever had seen.
"The finest brings tears to the eyes," he said.
Lord Home, saying it was Britain's "most wonderful show of pageantry."
It is preceded a scintillating ceremony.
QUEEN MAKE SEARCH
In the cellar below the chamber, the Yeomen of the Guard make their traditional search while waiting for the Queen—a dubious tribute to the memory of Guy Fawkes, who was caught in 1605 as he was about to blow up the House of Lords, lords and commoners, at the opening of Parliament.
Outside, in the brisk autumn sunshine, the Queen and Prince Philip approach through the crowded streets in the Irish state coach.
As they arrive at the royal entrance and proceed to the long room, the royal standard breaks and flutters high above the majestic clock tower overlooking the River Thames.
Back in the lords' chamber the whispering is silenced by the arrival of the young Duke and Duchess of Kent, Princess Marina and the Princess Royal.
Then the herald trumpets sound in the distance. The Queen's bodyguard, tall in their plumed helmets and glistening breastplates, can be seen through the arched entrance mapping to attention.
LIGHTS DIM
House lights dim, a theatrical effect that never fails to bring the most jaded observer to the edge of his seat.
Amid the silence, the Queen enters and the Duke, Duchess and Princess Royal curtsey. Prince Philip follows, a handsome figure against the out-sized gold throne, the yards-long red velvet and ermine cloak of the royal imperial crown.
"My Lords, pray be seated"... traditionally her first words at the ceremony.
At the signal, the call echoes down the corridors summoning the commoners to the rear of the chamber.
The Queen stares fixedly, almost statue-like at all the wealth in their places.
Her speech from the throne is handed to her by the Lord Chancellor who bows and, well practised, it's the Prime Minister Macmillan. Ballerina Margot Fonteyn, star of the London Festival Ballet, sat in the ambassadors' gallery near Panama.
Georges Drew, Canadian high commissioner, and Mrs. Drew sat together in a box.

Successful Living

Plain Miserable

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—How can I learn to treat my family more decently? I'm ashamed but when, I am home I'm so miserable it isn't funny. I'm "ornery" and when I come from school I take it out on the family.—FIFTEEN.

DEAR FIFTEEN:—Why? Your long letter gives a clue or two: need for girl friends, a boy you want and can't have, tongue-tied when dancing! Sum total suggests some reason for misery.

Your family has your best friends in it. For this very reason you release pent-up feelings on them. You know this is safe because they will stay friends with you, even though you make them miserable.

There are other, better ways to release feelings. Boys can take it out on a punching bag or football field.

Girls have their own ways—tennis, swimming; a hobby like cooking or making your own dresses; dancing lessons—which would help you with self-confidence as well. I took mine on a piano when I was your age.

Then talk it out with your mother—whatever it is. Frustrations and edginess evaporate when we look them squarely in the eye and take action. Stop bottling things up.

* * *

DEAR DORIS:—There is a boy I really like (not a crush). I think he likes me because he smiles at me all the time and sometimes says "Hi!"

He is going with a girl in another village and has been for a long time. He is 18 years old and a half years older than me. I don't think that is too old. My problem is how can I talk to him without dropping my books for him to fetch! —DEAR HERSELF.

DEAR HERSELF:—Are your intentions honorable? Don't forget that this boy has a girl. Better drop your books for somebody who is more likely to pick them up.

Old Documents Throw Light on Ancient Revolt
NEW YORK (AP) — First-century documents found in remote caves along the western shore of the Dead Sea are throwing new light on the Judaean rebellion against Rome of 132 A.D.

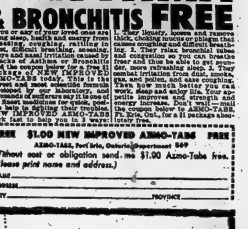
The documents were discussed here by Dr. Yigael Yadin, professor of archeology at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem. He described the recent findings as second in importance only to the Dead Sea scrolls.

The discoveries also include clothing, a Roman jug and furniture.

Yadin said most of the documents except a few found in Nahal Hever, are written in Aramaic compared with the Dead Sea scrolls, have fixed the time of their writing as the first century.

The dates of the scrolls have been disputed.

All of the findings date from 96 to 136 A.D., when Judaea was in rebellion against Rome.



They include letters from Simon Bar Kosiba, a man whose partisans in history have been a matter of some dispute.

Given the pseudonym of Bar Kokhba—son of a star—this leader and his ill-armed soldiers defied the might of the Roman legions and set up an independent state.

In the 132 A.D. the Roman legions returned and, after a long and terribly costly war, crushed the revolt.

The documents are on papyrus, except for two of leather. Biblical fragments on parchment. The parchment fragments, Yadin said, are different from the traditional Old Testament text.

Cross-Canada Survey

Many Persons Are Secretly Building Fallout Shelters Without Building Permits

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The tense international situation has stimulated public interest in civil defence measures—but not to the extent of any marked action.

A Cross - Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows that this interest is reflected mainly in inquiries to civil defence officials concerning fallout shelters and other survival plans.

The survey indicates that many more persons are building in secrecy — fallout shelters than the number of building permits shown.

John H. Pollard, director of Metropolitan Toronto Emergency Measures Organization, says he is convinced more shelters are being built than indicated by the number of building permits because people are apt to try to hide their shelter plans to avoid comment from neighbors.

Maj. Marcel St. Pierre, civil defence co - ordinator in Montreal, says people are secretive about their shelters.

NO EXTRA SPACE

"When they build, they like to keep it themselves," says Maj. St. Pierre. "The shelters are family size and there is no room for outsiders."

About 12 firms have gone into the shelter-construction business in Montreal.

In Windsor, Ont., there is no record of anyone taking out a building permit for a shelter. But one official says he is certain that half-a-dozen shelters have been built by persons who have kept the fact secret to avoid an increase in property assessment or keep the neighbors away in event of nuclear war.

In Winnipeg, officials estimate 30 shelters have been built. But in most cases the owners are keeping the fact quiet.

Vancouver has exempted fallout shelters to a value of $600 from municipal taxation. Officials estimate 30 or 40 shelters have been built or are under construction in the city.

16 TARGET AREAS

Only one person in Victoria has applied for a building permit for a shelter. But officials estimate six or seven others are secretly building shelters.

Only one shelter has been completed in Newfoundland, at St. John's. Two others are being built, one of them at Deer Lake in central Newfoundland.

In Nova Scotia, plans for shelters have been sent on request to 11,000 home owners.

The federal government lists 16 likely target areas in Canada: St. John's, Nfld., Halifax, Saint John, N.B., Quebec City, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton, London, Niagara Falls, Windsor, Winnipeg, Edmonton, Calgary, Vancouver and Victoria.

At least 20 miles from each of these targets the army is establishing headquarters from which survival operations would be directed. There will be some 200 mobile rescue columns comprising about 30,000 troops and 100,000 civilians to be trained this winter on six - week militia courses.

WILL MOVE GOVERNMENT

Ottawa and the provinces are setting up emergency headquarters for government. The federal cabinet and senior officials would operate, in event of war, from an underground headquarters at Carp, 25 miles west of the capital.

However, Prime Minister Diefenbaker has said he would remain in his basement shelter with his wife at 24 Sussex Drive, the home of prime ministers in central Ottawa.

The federal government has had many other emergency plans such as stockpiling of medical supplies, provision of warning sirens, a communications network, broadcasting and emergency direction of air, land and water transportation.

It has given up its original plans for target evacuation because it was considered there would not be sufficient time to carry it out.

However, evacuation can be carried out voluntarily and some cities have made plans for this.

KEEP GAS TANK FULL

Evacuation routes are sent to citizens of Halifax, Dartmouth and Sydney, the three Nova Scotia cities for which evacuation programs have been established.

In Saint John, a pamphlet of evacuation instructions is being distributed.

In Winnipeg, evacuation districts, dispersal routes and destinations for refugees are outlined on a map page in the telephone directory. The page also includes such advice as "Be sure your car is kept filled with gas."

The Winnipeg civil defence organization plans to survey emergency lodging in Portage la Prairie, one of the main evacuation centres for Greater Winnipeg.

The survey includes questions dealing with the educational, religious and cultural backgrounds of prospective emergency hosts. The object is to make sure evacuees and hosts have something in common to talk about after they've exhausted the immediate conversational piece presented by a disaster.

WELCOME SHORTLIVED

"After the first 48 hours, the milk of human kindness tends to run dry and the host starts wishing his emergency guests were gone," says Albert Bestwick, Manitoba civil defence coordinator.

Both Calgary and Edmonton have evacuation plans. Calgary is divided into seven sections, each with its own color and exit point. It is hoped that cars in each section will bear that section's color and that a warden will be appointed for each 50 families.

G. O. Bell, Calgary civil defence director, says that with three hours' warning there would be enough time to complete the exodus to pre-arranged points in southern Alberta.

The federal and some provincial and municipal governments have made or are making surveys of government buildings to determine their value as fallout shelters.

SUBWAY SURVIVE

Provincial Secretary David Stewart of Prince Edward Island says all provincial buildings built in future will have some protection against fallout.

Toronto is making a survey of its subway and underground parking facilities.

Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba has his own do-it-yourself shelter.

Mayor Henry Baker of Regina suggested a three - or four-year program to provide shelters in all private homes and public buildings but indicated unable to provide their own.

Regina is not listed as a likely target area but a private company that designs and builds shelters is prepared to sell 60 farm orders. Prices range from $265 to $985 installed.

In Alberta, some large shelter projects have been undertaken by groups of people. There are an estimated 300 shelters in eastern Alberta and inquiries have been received from trailer camps in remote regions.

In Vancouver, the mile-long tunnel that connects the new post office and the CPR railway station is being surveyed as a possible public shelter.

Fire Destroys Movie Mansions In Posh Area

More Than 2,000 Persons Evacuated

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two disastrous brush fires threatened today to join and burn oceanward on a 10-mile front that officials said would threaten a whole new community — fashionable Pacific Palisades.

The major multi-million-dollar blaze—the worst in southern California history—already had destroyed more than 200 costly homes including those of a score of members of the movie colony. Former vice-president Richard Nixon was among those who fled.

This fire raged out of control today like an ugly, flaming crown in the Hollywood Hills-Santa Monica mountains range above swank Bel-Air and Brentwood.

Eating through Topanga Canyon's explosively dry brush during the night, a conservation officer said that also broke out Monday moved to within slightly more than a mile of the Bel-Air fire.

The Topanga fire had raged through 4 acres, the Bel-Air through 3,300. Only Rustic Canyon, which has a few expensive homes, separated the two.

Officials said the fires probably will join, forming a 10-mile flaming front. If they continue burning southward, all of heavily populated Pacific Palisades, near the ocean, would be in danger, the officials said. The two fires already were only three or four miles from that community.

Minor injuries to 10 firemen in the Bel-Air fire were reported.

More than 2,000 persons had been evacuated from one of the richest residential areas in the United States.

There were no reports of death or serious injury. Governor Edmund G. (Pat) Brown declared Los Angeles County a disaster area.

The city fire department said it counted more than 200 homes destroyed — many valued at more than $100,000 — and a specific information officer for the department said the total "easily could go as high as 300."

FIRE RAGES ON

But, he said, it is impossible to give a precise damage figure until the fire is out. And the blaze, driven by wide, heat and low humidity, showed no signs of weakening. Control, or even containment, was not in sight.

The spokesman said the total value of ruined or damaged residential stone could exceed $15,000,000.

Meighan. Each cost more than $100,000.

More than 1,300 men fought the fire, which started Monday morning and raced across Bel-Air and surrounding suburbs. Sprinkled with helpful rain, the 3,300-acre blaze was declared under control at 6 p.m. Another 2,000 reserves were available.

WORST SINCE 1946

It represents the worst property destruction for a single California community since the 1906 San Francisco fire, said the National Fire Underwriters.

The worst properties fire in California burned about 40,000 acres and destroyed 67 homes in nearby Malibu in 1956.

Flames temporarily threatened Monday isolated homes of Cary Grant, Red Skelton, Kim Novak, Maureen O'Hara, Fred Macmurray, Alfred Hitchcock, Ginger Rogers, Marlon Brando, Robert Stack, Jeanette MacDonald, Bobby Darin and wife Sandra Dee, Greer Garson, Freddie Bartholomew, Peter Lee, Meredith Wilson, Rock

Gerald Kellogg, Campbellford, Shot in Head

PETERSBOROUGH (CP) — Gerald Kellogg, 46, of Campbellford, shot in the head Monday in a hunting accident, was in fair condition in hospital today.

Kellogg was hunting with Douglas Mason, 23, also of Campbellford, when his gun accidentally misfired.

A 30-30 rifle bullet struck the victim in the forehead. Surgeons said Kellogg was in danger of losing the sight of his left eye.

An RCAF helicopter from Toronto was unable to land at the accident site in the bush north of Havelock and a smaller Ontario Hydro machine was brought in to take him out.

U Thant Seeks Advice on Congo From R. Bunche

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Acting Secretary-General U Thant started his first week on the job by seeking advice on the Congo problem and other matters that fall on the shoulders of the United Nations chief.

U Thant, 52-year-old Burmese diplomat, was named to succeed the late UN formal meetings Monday but said consultations on the first concern was a series of conferences with secretariat officials.

Undersecretary Ralph Bunche, an expert on The Congo, gave U Thant a rundown on the situation in which forces of the central government in Leopoldville are engaged in apparently successful skirmishes with secessionist President Moise Tshombe's forces from Katanga province.

Canadian diplomats, meanwhile, were in consultation with the delegations of the United States, Britain and other countries regarding the situation in The Congo where Canadian noncombat troops have been on duty since mid-1960.

FEDERATION ASKS IMPROVED MINIMUM WAGES

Attacks Railway On Hotel Strike

WINDSOR (CP) — The Ontario Federation of Labor opened its annual convention here Monday with a drive to force the province's minimum wage laws and a vehement attack on the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Eight hundred delegates to the two-day meeting were told that even a minimum wage of $1.25 an hour, which organized labor has proposed for several years, is probably inadequate.

A brief prepared by Federation President Donald Archer, Secretary-Treasurer Doug Hamilton and Research Director Irving Abella contends that an hour - wage, non - union employee is generally to get as much work out of their employers for as little money as possible.

The brief also brands the statement said, "that so many people are forced to bolster an economic ladder hold down two jobs or more and still end up with less than many other workers with only one job."

CRITICIZE HOTEL TYPE

The convention also passed resolutions condemning the Canadian Pacific Railway for its management agreement of Toronto's Royal York Hotel which the CPR operates. Leader Lorne Cooper has been on strike since spring.

At least half a dozen speakers from the floor advocated a Canada - wide boycott of CPR hotels, railways and other public. But the resolutions approved made no mention of such a step.

Delegates contributed nearly $1,000 for the strikers and cheered when Archie Johnston, Toronto vice-president of the Hotel and Club Employees' Union (CLC), stated that his members would never agree to the hotel's part settlement offers unless Cooper was rehired.

The convention passed a resolution urging the government of Canada to call a conference of labor, industry and government representatives to consider ways and means of combatting unemployment.

Also approved were resolutions seeking free university education for all deserving students, requesting that expensive luxuries be taxed to make possible for income tax purposes and favoring the support of the co - operative movement in housing construction.

FOIL SMUGGLERS

NEW HAVEN, England (AP) — Smugglers ditched the equivalent of $140,000 worth of contraband whiskey and cigarettes from customs agents in a 100 mile-an-hour chase through the Sussex countryside Monday. The customs men closed in on the fleeing vehicle as they reached a farm before one bale fell from the boat. But the smugglers crashed through a fast car and crashed through a barrier set up to stop them.

Blind Since Birth, Girl Takes Great Pride in Marching Ability

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The 16-year-old girl marches briskly with the band down the football field, guided by two bells and the ringing courage of her heart.

The blazing floodlights overspring squints to Leah Russell's eyes, but the floodlights are black to Leah.

"I have only one terrible fear," said Leah, blind since birth.

"I'm scared . . . that sometime I may not hear the sound of the bell - players . . . and I'll go marching off by myself . . . all alone . . . in the middle of intermission. I would be so ashamed."

Almost three years ago Leah began studying the piccolo, painstakingly putting the music into Braille. Last year her band director, Marvin Mockabee, welcomed her into his 66-member unit at southwest Miami High School.

"As a sitting member only," said Mockabee, "she practised with us, playing in concerts, but I was afraid to try her out as a marcher."

But Leah felt lonely sitting out the drills at football games. She pleaded to be taught to march. It was trying and often frightening for Leah.

"Her patience and determination almost brought tears to our eyes," Mockabee said.

Now the band struts down the field two husky bell-players ringing out the instruments with Leah marching between them.

Only the near-like hearing of the blind Leah maintains a straight line of march — the sound of the bells measuring distance for her.

"When the bells stop momentarily, you can see her hesitate," said the band director. "But when the boys whisper, 'Lea, we're coming to the left flank . . . or a right flank . . . get ready'."

Leah has a near straight-A average.

Several U.S. Election Races Being Watched Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Political pulse-takers are intently watching the voters of New Jersey and New York City today for any symptoms that could linger until the United States general elections in 1962 and 1964.

Of particular interest was the governor's race in New Jersey, whose unpredictable voters have skipped back and forth between both major parties for over a decade. Here as Eisenhower Republican, James P. Mitchell was matched against Democrat Richard J. Hughes who carries the endorsement of President Kennedy's New Frontier. New Jersey was narrowly counted for Kennedy in last year's presidential election.

In New York City's mayoral race, much of the attention is focused on the bitter feud within the Democratic party. Republicans also offer provide little more than token opposition—expected to vote.

Liberal Campaign in Quebec Based on Broad Appeal

- - Pearson

QUEBEC (CP)—The Liberal campaign in Quebec opened here for the next federal general election will be based on a broad appeal for national unity and promises of legislative and fiscal decentralization.

"We are inseparable," Opposition Leader Lester Pearson told an audience of 900.

Mr. Pearson aimed his part at the Quebec separatist movement and appealing to the moderates who want more sovereignty for the province without severing ties with the rest of Canada, was the keynote address of the first nominating convention in Quebec.

Maurice Lamontagne, 44, Mr. Pearson's economic and political adviser and a member of the cabinet secretariat of the former Liberal government, was nominated in the riding of Quebec East, which includes Orleans Island. Bill Wilfrid Laurier, Rt. Hon. Ernest Lapointe and Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent in the House of Commons. Mr. Lamontagne narrowly won the election in 1958.

Mr. Pearson, speaking mainly in French, said Canada "must hope" their candidate, Attorney-General Louis J. Lefkowitz, can muster a strong showing against Democratic Mayor Robert F. Wagner, who is trying for a third term.

Virginia voters are expected to follow tradition and elect a Democratic governor. Michigan's Wayne County (Detroit) is electing a U.S. representative. Scores of state legislature seats are up in New Jersey, Virginia and Kentucky.

In the contest for mayor of New York, Wagner has President's endorsement. But the party's state chairman, Michael H. Prendergast, withheld his support, giving it instead to Comptroller Lawrence Gerosa, a Democrat running as an independent.

Wagner is heavily favored. Polls open here at 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. There are 3,506,814 eligible voters. More than 2,000,000 are expected to vote.

VOROSHILOV NOT ALLOWED ATOP REVIEW STAND

Former President Given Rebuff

MOSCOW (AP)—Former President Kliment Y. Voroshilov was rebuffed today when he tried to force himself onto the Lenin Mausoleum reviewing stand for the parade celebrating the 44th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

The 80-year-old marshal, who has been among those taking the salute from atop the tomb every year since the parades began, was denounced at the recent Communist congress as a Stalinist.

He apologized for his sins and Premier Khrushchev said he forgave him. But forgiveness does not get him his former place of honor overlooking Red Square.

Dressed in a black overcoat and fur hat, Voroshilov moved with the square just before the police. But an officer in the elaborate blue and gold uniform of the Kremlin guard kept struggling his way near the reviewing stand. The marshal argued and gesticulated before the officer just kept struggling his way near.

ABUSIVE MOOD

Eventually the old marshal, a former army commander, was allowed to enter the tomb. There he joined some more with men in similar robes.

After a few minutes he was escorted out by two men in dark blue overcoats and green trousers, the usual uniform of the secret police.

Voroshilov was taken to a spot near the tomb where a middle-aged woman in a white uniform was selling ice cream. One of the men in dark blue talked with him as he watched the parade from there.

As soon as Voroshilov was disposed of, Khrushchev and the other members of the presidium mounted to the top of the tomb to take the salute.

BOASTS AS USUAL

The Soviet defence minister, Marshal Rodion Malinovsky, made the keynote speech, which he boasted as usual that the Soviet Union was "the master" on "powerful enough to smash any aggressor."

The military section of the parade lasted nine minutes. Fifteen military attaches said they saw nothing with which they were not familiar, although the Radio Moscow announcer claimed the display included "things never before seen by Muscovites."

There were only two things to be seen that have been referring: A display of eight intermediate range ballistic missiles of the Khrushchev says are permanently aimed at Western European interests; a dozen state-sized rockets concealed in heavy steel casings.

Liberal Candidate Is Named

Mr. Pearson also said any government would be sacrificed to their standard of living to an absurd technological.

The Liberal leader, speaking of a new approach to federal-provincial relations, said the power in Ottawa the new government to go into effect next March 31, uses the national average of provincial incomes as a base, with adjustments in cultural resources.

Mr. Pearson also said any government would be sacrificed to their standard of living to an absurd technological.

British Entry Into Common Market Discussed by Panel

TORONTO (CP) — Britain's proposed entry into the European Common Market formed the central theme Monday at the first day's opening of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture's annual meeting.

Heading up discussion of the effect of such a move on Canada's economy was a panel of three, Ottawa reporter Peter Stirling, Commons critic Mitchell I. G. Needles and Douglas Waterman, Ontario Dept. editor of The Farmer's Advocate.

Mr. Needles expressed concern over the possible effect of such a move on Canada's employment picture in view of the country's rapidly expanding population.

Mr. Waterson predicted a continuing market in the U.S. for Canadian hard wheat and cheddar cheese despite possible tariffs. But prospects for barley and pork would be poor.

Mr. Stirling's point on pork demanding that Britain stay out," he said. "We should work out a long-term agreement to compete."

Mr. Disraeli left agriculture would present the greatest problem confronting British involvement in the Common Market.

The panel was to have included Agriculture Minister Ontario, but Mr. Hamilton was busy elsewhere in the world combine Federation's 1949-50 representative Minister Alvin Hamilton said in a speech to conference.

Mr. Hamilton is at Rome attending the conference of the Food and Agriculture Organization.

In general problem of agriculture is Canada and other countries, Hamilton said the decline in income the last 10 years—down 20 per cent for the United 1949-50 compared with an increase of 35 per cent in the same income for the industrial workers—said the speech.

He reviews steps taken by the government to help the agriculture. The Farm Credit Corporation, established in 1959, has made loans totalling $60,000,000 and guaranteed a monthly $75,000,000 was anticipated in the current year. This compared with an average $8,000,000 annually under the old Farm Loan Board.

Reference also was made to the Rural Rehabilitation and Development Act — with particular reference to turning low-income marginal farm land into production of forest products.

Gaullist Mayor Escapes Bomb

Some 4,000 security police were on duty when a powerful bomb blew in from Paris on the first day of the two-day tour of Corsica and southern France.

Gaullist Mayor Jacques Gaffory and his wife, a cabaret late Monday night when a powerful charge exploded on the stairway of the apartment.

The putty-like charge—a favorite weapon of right-wing terrorists opposed to de Gaulle's Algeria policy—severely damaged the stairway and shattered surrounding windows.

Farm Meeting Told Federal Govt. Working on National Dairy Policy

TORONTO (CP)—The federal government is working on a national dairy policy, the Ontario Federation of Agriculture was told today.

Divided jurisdictions, conflicting marketing laws, regulations and prices higher than those elsewhere in the world combine to make dairying difficult, Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton said in a speech to conference. E. Cardiff, his parliamentary secretary.

However, if present willingness to co-operate is kept up, a solution should be found, the federation was told.

Canada's cereals surplus was being met by governments and by working with provincial governments and the Canadian Federation of Agriculture on the dairy problem—chiefly butter which has reached record stocks in government storehouses.

The remarks were contained in a text of the speech issued to the press before delivery.

Queen Scheduled To Visit Ghana On Thursday

Cabinet Will Make Decision on Wednesday

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Macmillan announced today he will call his cabinet into session Wednesday to decide whether the Queen should go ahead with her visit to Ghana.

Aides said Macmillan will drive to Buckingham Palace after the cabinet meeting to give his final advice to the Queen. The decision will be announced to the House of Commons later in the day.

Fears have been widely expressed in Britain that the Queen's life might be in danger during the visit—scheduled to begin Thursday. Opponents of President Kwame Nkrumah have set off four bombs in Accra, capital, in the last four days.

Conservative Sandys, Commonwealth relations secretary, conducted bank in London Wednesday that Ghana will put a 110-hour check on Ghana's security for the royal visit.

CLAY PIGEONS?

Sandys' check included a forecast that Nkrumah will not follow in touring Accra. Some observers have suggested that the men were deliberately setting themselves up as "targets for assassins."

Macmillan received a preliminary report from Sandys this morning. Pa contents were not disclosed. It is presumably it dealt with the significance of the four recent bomb blasts which rocked Accra during the visit.

The prime minister is due to have a regular weekly audience with the Queen at Buckingham Palace today. Aides said he will ask her to wait for his final advice next after the cabinet meeting.

Macmillan has said he feels a heavy burden of responsibility in deciding whether the monarch should be sent to a land of increasing disorders.

Informed sources say, there was a suggestion in the cabinet that British would have welcomed a cabinet unanimous opinion from for example, Malcolm Muggeridge, Diefenbaker of Canada or Robert Menzies of Australia.

This suggestion was flatly denied in official quarters.

Parliament on Monday's debate in the British House of Commons. A Conservative MP said massive anti-Nkrumah feeling has been in consultation with other Commonwealth prime ministers to ask their advice on the wisdom of postponing the visit.

Macmillan pointed out the government had been "in contact" with the Commonwealth prime ministers recently, and would remain in contact.

Bert Hardwick Mowatt, R. S. 2, Belleville, was fined $100 when he was found guilty on a charge of impaired driving, before Magistrate T. Y. Wills in city magistrate's court, Monday morning.

Evidence was that Mr. Mowatt had gone out early in the morning on Saturday, Oct. 3 to tow a truck which had stopped in the middle of the street, on east Moira Street, near the city limits. The police came upon the unattended vehicle and while they were there, Mr. Mowatt drove up in a tow truck, accompanied by the driver of the stalled truck.

Police Constable McColl said when Mowatt saw the police cruiser, he backed up his truck and left. He was arrested and charged with impaired driving.

Secondary School Inspector Explains Various Programs Provided by New Curriculum

"The objective of the reorganization of the Secondary School curriculum is to provide every pupil the maximum education that his latter living and preparation to earn a livelihood," stated Mr. L. M. Johnston, Secondary School inspector, as he addressed a meeting held in the auditorium of Secondary School Home and School Associations last evening in the BCI auditorium. Mr. Johnston a graduate of Stirling High School, Queen's University, Peterborough Normal School and the Ontario College of Education and appointed resident inspector for Quinte District July 1, 1960, was introduced by Mr. E. A. Hall, principal of BCIVS, who also introduced secondary school inspector Mr. A. Gamble.

Mr. A. Wan, president of the Secondary School Association introduced the presidents of Moira Home and School Association, Mrs. D. H. Whitsitt and of Quinte Home and School Association, Mrs. H. Kearns, who each spoke briefly.

Mr. Johnston in his opening remarks stated that no longer can a student step out of school into the world of employment as in former years. He now finds it difficult to obtain a position without a diploma.

The speaker explained the new program which will be augurated next September in Ontario. The three courses at present are: general, commercial and technical. The first objective is to now be certified is the renaming of these courses, which will be as follows: instead of the general course; business and commerce in place of the commercial course; and engineering, technology and trade taking the technical course. Rather than courses, there is now to be called branches. A course was defined as that which the teacher outlines in class.

VARIOUS PROGRAMS

There are two programs — a five-year program with grades 9 to 13 for the three branches, or a four-year program for those who wish with grades 9 to 12. These are designed to educate and train for a higher education and also to educate for employment in the completion of grade 12. There is also a two-year program in grades 11 and 12 for those students who have the consent of their parents and who are seventeen years of age and only two years in high school.

There is still a further program in occupational training which is for those students who are not regularly promoted and who have not attained the level of achievement for graduation from elementary schools. This course may be completed in two years or perhaps only one, and a service trade will be taught, having 50 per cent practical and 50 per cent academic training, with the whole program being optional.

The position of the parent and pupil will be thoroughly discussed before the introduction of this new course in 1962, and a brochure will be prepared prior to that time with information. Five details: Pupils from grade 8, through guidance, will receive information and will be asked to make a tentative choice of which branch they will prepare for in grade 9. On entering grade 9, the majority of students, regardless of birth, will take a common course, which consists of 80 per cent obligatory subjects and 20 per cent optional subjects. The speaker emphasized the fact that all pupils who wish to enter university must take a second language.

DECIDE IN GRADE 9

At the end of grade 9, the student is asked to reaffirm his choice or make a decision otherwise, as to career choice. He may then decide whether he will enter a four-year program and go from there to full-time employment, or take the five-year program to go on to higher studies. All this depends on his interest, aptitude and further plans.

The arts and science branch will remain similar to the present general course, but the five-year program in all three future branches will not be a watered-down version of the five-year but will have a different emphasis which will lead to employment. University requirements will not be prescribed. Different courses of study are being prepared at the present time for a four-year program, with completely new subjects being added.

The inspector stressed also that all three branches of the new curriculum will have uniform standards, which means that one choosing the five-year program in technology will have the same standards as other five year programs and the same applies to the four-year programs. Even at this time in grade 10 a student may reaffirm whether he wants the four or five-year program and a horizontal transfer into another branch is still possible, at the discretic. of the principal.

The speaker clarified his address on an illustrated chart and went on to say that grades 9 and 10 are described as common courses with a split course for grades 11 and 12. There will be three other courses — a one-year special commercial, and one special technical, and a one year special arts course and a one year course in one of these, at the end of grade 12, in a 4-year program or at the end of grade 11 in the five-year program.

The speaker summed up his remarks by stating that in these new programs there is a place for every boy and girl who wishes to enter Secondary School — the four or five year programs, the two year program or the occupational training course for those not promoted.

Following Mr. Johnston's most informative and timely address, he was assisted by Mr. A. Gamble in a spirited question and answer period.

Prior to the meeting, while the audience was assembling, the BCIVS Band, under the direction of Mr. Clifford Templer rendered several selections and during the program Mr. John Tooth, accompanied by Mr. Templer at the piano, contributed several fine selections on the trombone.

MRS. (Rev.) J. U. ROBINS (Gertrude)

Mrs. Ellen Lavina Robins, wife of Rev. J. U. Robins of Wellington, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. M. E. T. Rhodes, 60 Advance Drive, Scarborough, Monday.

Mrs. Robins was the daughter of Rev. Joseph Archer and Mrs. Archer of Lake Alfred and sister of the late Rev. A. E. P. Lane of Lennox Hospital and the late Rev. W. R. Archer of Edmonton and of Miss Mrs. Hooper and Mrs. M. S. Rhodes of Uxbridge. She moved about with her husband who preached two and only two years in high circuits.

LODA Report States City Requires Planned Program For Industrial Development

Although Belleville has experienced above - average industrial expansion and growth since the end of World War II, this city still needs a well planned industrial development program for the future.

This was the recommendation submitted to city council last night in the report of the Lake Ontario Development Association following a study of Belleville industrial development.

The report was given to council by Don Kingdon, manager of the LODA at Peterborough. The report indicated that successful industrial promotion required definite "know-how" and persistance. Wishful thinking, temporary enthusiasm and disjointed planning could lead nowhere but to failure, it was stated.

14 NEW COMPANIES

Since the war 14 companies, with more than 10 employees with more than 10,000 square feet, had located in the city. In the same period 30 companies with 10 employees had made major expansions.

The report stated that the present industrial promotion program in the city seemed to be directed toward the encouragement of new industry while the possibilities of existing industry is overlooked.

Also it appeared there was no detailed list of available industrial sites, either privately or municipally owned, and there was no policy statement regarding the payment of costs for bringing municipal services to the boundary of industrial sites. Neither did there appear to be a list of available industrial buildings.

No personal contact was maintained with the various industrial development agencies, and no attempt made to be no part of the present program designed to keep the public informed of the value of new industry and the establishment of new industry.

Completion of a land study revealed that, contrary to general belief, there was a number of excellent properties in the city which could be developed for industrial purposes. Not all of these properties were serviced by the city.

The report recommended the creation of council and the executive body of the industrial commission so as to assure a close liaison and co-operation between council and the Chamber of Commerce. The city engineer should also be member of the industrial commission. Periodic detailed reports of reference" should be set out to guide the activities of the commission.

Preparation of a program of work to be carried out by the industrial commission was recommended as was the name of an industrial spokesman with authority to carry out the policies and programs of the commission.

Alderman Jack Ireland, chairman of the LODA expressed the appreciation of council to Mr. Kingdon for what he said had been a "bang-up" job for Belleville.

At the same time he gave notice of motion that he would move at the next meeting of council the recommendations contained in the report.

At the next meeting of council he said he would move for the appointment of council and its being turned over to the industrial commission for definite action.

He said he would move for a committee of council to be appointed to the industrial committee executive and also for the city manager to be a member of the commission. Also to be named was the municipal solicitor to ascertain the costs of servicing municipally owned industrial sites. The obtaining of options on privately owned lands recommended for industrial use and ascertaining the cost of services to these properties was also requested.

The idea of this was so that a package price could be submitted to prospective industrialists.

Ald. Ireland said he would also move for up to $1,000 for the year to be spent by the city to assist in locating industry in Belleville.

Petition Signed by 2,300 Leads Council to Authorize Sunday Sports, Movies Vote

After turning the proposal down two weeks ago, Belleville city council yesterday voted by a right-about-face and voted by a 10-3 count to allow the voters of the city to decide whether they want Sunday movies and sports.

The by-law introduced will enable a special meeting of city council will be held Wednesday night to pass the necessary by-law, following which the referendum on Sunday movies and sports will be taken at the time of the municipal election early next month.

Decision of council to allow the referendum vote came after the presentation of petition bearing 2,300 names asking that the vote be allowed. The communication to allow the referendum was put to council by Alderman Don Whalin, who said the issue should be decided by the people of the city, whether or not they merely be giving the people the opportunity to vote on the matter.

This was disputed by Alderman Willis Jarvah and Mayor A. M. Haig who said that council members should not be afraid to avoid taking a stand one way or the other.

Alderman Jarvah said it would be "foolish thinking" not to take a stand on the matter and stand on whether or not they favored Sunday sports and movies.

OPPOSES TIMING

Mayor Haig said he was all in favor of the problem going to a vote of the people, but argued that the vote should not be held at the same time as the municipies election.

"Candidates should not stay neutral even if they wanted to," he said.

Continuing he warned that a quick vote on the matter might well mean the issue would be defeated at the polls. Such a project needed development, he said.

He said, however, that he was merely opposing the timing of the vote. Polls should not be avoided if the vote was held in connection with the municipal election.

Alderman Whalen wanted the referendum to pass the second yesterday's council, but Alderman Willis Bill pointed out such a by-law should be properly drawn by the city solicitor. Mayor Haig said he was agreeable to calling a special meeting of council to pass the by-law, if necessary.

Those recorded vote Alderman Bailey, Hughes, Corke, Elliott, Ellis, Harrison, Ireland, Whalen and Whalin supported the recommendation calling for the referendum. Opposing were Mayor Haig, Aldermen Jarvah and McDougall.

BY-LAW ON BOWLING

In voting to allow the referendum on Sunday movies and sports, council at the same time passed a by-law which will rule out the operation of bowling alleys on the Sabbath.

Alderman Whalen said in view of the fact that the referendum on Sunday sports was to be held, the by-law might well be out of order.

But this was disputed by Alderman Jarvah, who said the by-law was one which should properly be on the books.

"You never know how people are going to vote," he said.

The amended by-law included "proprietory" clubs and Alderman Ireland asked council to know what the word meant. He wondered if the curling club would be affected.

Alderman Dr. John Barlow pointed out that the term was qualified by inclusions of the words "billiard, pool or bagatelle tables."

"It is just the places that we don't like that we want to close," he quipped.

City council yesterday voted to write off approximately $1,300 in outstanding accounts due the municipality for the paving of private property during the municipal parking lot and the stores on the west side of Front Street.

The actual amount involved is $1,300.

Finance committee chairman William Jarvah said the businesses had been approached on several occasions but payment had been declined due to the fact there was no written agreement. No names were mentioned but it was learned that several successful businesses were involved.

Alderman Jack Ireland said he was in no way involved in the matter and so was able to speak freely.

He said the paving had been done by the public works department several years ago when the municipal parking lot was paved. The work on the private property was done to make a level job over the entire general paving was underway.

City manager R. J. Gibson said there were no records at city hall covering the work.

The various problems which were being considered do to an increasing population and a diminishing supply of public lands for recreational use - such as hunting and fishing, was going to require a new attitude on the part of hunters, who would soon be required to depend on the quality of natural property owners if they were to get in any hunting or fishing without travelling great distances. He noted that many careless, thoughtless and negligent acts on the part of some hunters would soon result in the possibility of no open hunting positions in some areas, such as has occurred in some States.

The University of Toronto graduate urged that hunters work for, build up and maintain a good relationship with the farmers on whose lands game could be found and cited a number of instances where abominably poor taste was shown by some hunters in respecting other people's properties.

Following the address, which commanded the close attention of all present, Mr. Taylor was answered any questions put to him in a lively question and answer session.

Robarian Bruce Graham introduced and fellow club member Ron Case thanked the speaker. President Virgil James expressed the official thanks of the club with a presentation. During the course of the meeting new members M. R. Mallory was introduced and the birthday of Richard Dr. Max McLean was celebrated.

Heated Discussions to Result When Kennedy, Nehru Meet

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Prime Minister Nehru of India confers with President Kennedy at a time when the United States has become increasingly critical of India's position in the cold war.

While most of this criticism centres on U.S. Krishna Menon, India's controversial United Nations delegate who, in the American view, seems more often to berate the United States than Russia, some American officials wonder whether Nehru's own neutralism tends to favor the Communists more than the West.

Four months ago, Pakistani President Ayub Khan told the United States Congress that if it came to a military showdown, the only Asian country on which the U.S. could depend would be Pakistan.

Ayub Khan urged Kennedy to restrain his economic aid to Nehru and to press the Indian leader to settle his differences with Pakistan on a settlement that respects their territory or Kashmir.

TICKLISH JOB

Stepping into a referee role between India and Pakistan is a ticklish job for Kennedy. Kennedy now finds himself—in relationship to India — facing a gulf of difference as wide as from Red China to a nuclear test moratorium.

Kennedy's aides say the president will raise the Kashmir issue. He is not hopeful of obtaining Nehru's agreement to resume negotiations with Pakistan.

Kennedy may also seek to modify the Indian position that Red China be admitted to the U.N. But again, there is little likelihood of a meeting of minds.

Even on Berlin Kennedy's attitude seems stronger than that which Nehru has found. He hoped Nehru would strongly attack Red Premier Khrushchev's unclear testing in the atmosphere but the Nehru criticism that did emerge was a compromise. Americans as relatively mild.

MORATORIUM URGED

As for ending nuclear explosions, India feels both Russia and the U.S. should declare a moratorium on tests even though Russia has announced it would only give Russia another unfair advantage. Experience has shown that nations which broke the moratorium whenever it suited her.

Thus the meeting between Kennedy and Nehru is not likely to produce any new shocking display of cohesion and harmony in American-Indian affairs. What Kennedy's associates hope is that this first confrontation between the two leaders will lead to greater personal trust and friendship.

District Forester Outlines Work To Rotarians

Some 75 Rotarians and their guests were given a glimpse on Monday of some of the many duties and responsibilities of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests by District Forester Jim Taylor of Trenton.

Mr. Taylor, a veteran of 30 years service with Lands and Forests, advised that although the problems inherent to the 23 various districts in Ontario may vary greatly according to their individual characteristics there are still many resource management principles which can be applied to almost any situation.

These principals were sustained yield (endurance of the maintenance of a constant level of wood cuts), multiple use, the use of all available surplus and an increase of the available surplus where possible), multiple use and public use.

The first principal upon which the department does its flish and wildlife, just one of many assets administered by the 32 acts which the Lands and Forests department has to administer, is to extensive study this area, the Tweed district. This district, made up of Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington and Frontenac consolidated the second end of Renfrew County.

The various problems which were being considered do to an increasing population and a diminishing supply of public lands for recreational use - such as hunting and fishing, was going to require a new attitude on the part of hunters, who would soon be required to depend on the quality of natural property owners if they were to get in any hunting or fishing without travelling great distances. He noted that many careless, thoughtless and negligent acts on the part of some hunters would soon result in the possibility of no open hunting positions in some areas, such as has occurred in some States.

The University of Toronto graduate urged that hunters work for, build up and maintain a good relationship with the farmers on whose lands game could be found and cited a number of instances where abominably poor taste was shown by some hunters in respecting other people's properties.

Following the address, which commanded the close attention of all present, Mr. Taylor answered any questions put to him in a lively question and answer session.

Robarian Bruce Graham introduced and fellow club member Ron Case thanked the speaker. President Virgil James expressed the official thanks of the club with a presentation. During the course of the meeting new member M. R. Mallory was introduced and the birthday of Richard Dr. Max McLean was celebrated.

Costs Stalling Provisions for Fluoridation

Installation costs are still stalling provision of fluoridated water for city consumers.

Yesterday Alderman Gene Harrison, board of health chairman, asked regarding the status of fluoridation and was told the cost element was still holding up the installation.

Mayor A. M. Haig said the matter was sufficiently important as to warrant being investigated at the Utilities Commission and elected council representative level and suggested that a special committee be named.

Accordingly a committee of Aldermen Harrison, Jack Ellis and William Jarvah along with the city manager, was named to go into the matter.

The fifth year council voted in favor of fluoridation but the Utilities Commission has estimated it would cost about $32,000 to put the fluoridation plan into effect.

REDS CAN'T TAKE IT

ROME (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev's latest campaign against Joseph Stalin is proving a hard pill to swallow for some Italian Communists. Informed political sources say the campaign against Stalin coupled with the Soviet nuclear tests has produced internal unrest in the Italian Communist party reminiscent of the 1956 days of the Hungarian revolt.

Three Members Are Absent From Town Council Meeting

TRENTON—Mayor D. James MacDonald, Councillors Rose Burtt, C. W. Graham and N. J. McNair met in regular session last night to consider various items of town business. Councillors Fraser, Worvall and Langs were absent from the council meeting.

In one case, council was unable to act on a recommendation, the lack of a forum. Councillor McNair was advised by town solicitor Roderick Campbell not to vote on a motion concerning the Rushmid Ambulance Service because he owns the building from which the service is operated. Councillors Burtt and Graham voted to recommend that the Trenton Board of Health pay Mr. Rushmid $700 representing two and a half months' portion of the $3,600 annual subsidy agreed upon when a contract for the service was signed.

According to the terms of the agreement, Rushmid was to have supplied a performance bond when he took over the ambulance service. Rushmid has notified council that he cannot find anyone to supply such a bond and has asked to be covered by such a bond has already been paid. The bond was to cover performance from April 17 to Dec. 31 of this year.

"It hardly seems feasible to demand a bond for the remaining 45 days of the year," said councillor C. W. Larry.

"If this were allowed, the bond should have been produced before it was signed," said Councillor Burtt. "I don't want Maybe this service should be put on a bond for next year. I recall that a certain ambulance service did that a while ago. Now, we have other arrangements."

"Rushmid's is a private service," contended Councillor McNair and the other two councillors agreed. The recommendation for the partial payment of the subsidy will be forwarded to the health board responsible for the payment.of the subsidy.

TO EMPLOY GUARD

Council voted to employ a watchman to guard the Bath Provincial Police Station, at a cost of $1,250 to install and $1,250 to operate. Council rejected traffic lights. The light would cost $1,150 to install and the school guard would cost only $58 a week. His services will be needed until after the first of the year, when money for the stall the lights will be available in the 1962 budget.

"We need some sort of protection for the children at that crossing," said Councillor Graham. Street is getting busier all the time."

"I move to get a guard," said Councillor Burtt. "You can't put a price on a life."

"Heaven help us if anything happened to a kid at the crossing," said Councillor Graham, "We've been asked to do something about it."

Polling booths for the December election will be located in the following places: College Street School, Queen Elizabeth School, North Trenton School, Prince Charles School, Dufferin School, North Trenton School and the Trenton Community Gardens.

"I hope we have bigger ballot boxes this year," said Councillor Graham "On year we had to punch down the ballots with rulers."

"Those were bread boxes," the clerk reminded him. "We have larger boxes now."

Mr. Larry said that, separate ballots are needed because ballots for councillors, boards of education members and public utilities members are colored, differently.

Councillor Burtt reported that during Octoner the dog catcher had answered 30 calls.

PARADE SIGNED

Reporting on the Community Gardens, he said that the Gardens had the lowest deficit ever this year.

"This year's board is doing a terrific job," he said.

Councillor Burtt said that work on the police station was "coming along," in spite of rumored discontent among the farmers over the frequent the market several times a week.

"The market's a needed thing," said the councillor, "the farmers buy a lot from town merchants. I would recommend that different parking arrangements for the market area be made next year to satisfy the farmers and the public toilets be installed at the rear of the building."

Councillor Burtt said that as a result of complaints about conditions on the street, made by Frederick Street residents, the public works department would be instructed to restrict work in that area.

The councillor also said that Gerald Weaver had asked to have the sidewalk area in front of his automotive showroom repaired at his own expense and that the 1962 council for the job. Mr. Weaver was reported to have offered to do the work, but understood that the public works department finds were "limited" at this time because the work was taken because it was felt that the sidewalk might cave in like paying Mr. Weaver the money for the work.

He offered to put asphalt on the sidewalk last year," said Councillor Larry, "but he didn't want that."

"I think an old town citizen like Harry deserves something better than asphalt," said Councillor Bonter.

Council appointed accountants James M. Dunwoody & Co. and Bonter, Boyter and Morphy to handle 1961 accountancy details for the municipality and approved the appointment of Dr. W. J. Gray to replace James Parker on the recreation committee. Mr. Parker has moved to Ottawa. Dr. Gray would fill out the 1961 term.

Will Consider Demolition Of Building

Demolition of the small building at the south end of Pinnacle and Market streets property used to house the city weigh scales, is to be considered by city council.

Yesterday, council it was noted that the recently purchased new city weigh scales would be installed at a different location and there would be no further city need for the building.

It was pointed out, however, there may be a lease in connection with the rental as part of the structure as a coffee shop. Conditional on a possible lease the city manager was authorized to call for tenders for the demolition of the weigh scales building.

Tenders for the new weigh scales building has not yet been determined although properly owned by the public utilities commission in Fosier Ward is favored as a site.

A Journalistic Achievement

Jack Hambleton, Great Lakes sailor, soldier, newspaperman, publicist and author, died recently.

Many tributes have been paid to him, to his work when he headed the tourist information branch of the Ontario Government under Premier Mitch Hepburn and particularly to the publicity he had given Northern Ontario, the locale of practically all his books.

We have not noticed, however, any reference to an unique distinction which he earned—"enjoyed" is hardly the word. He turned quickly to social projects to relieve the distress of the Great Depression, loneliness, fiscal pulsation, etc.

In much too much worrying over the problem, there is the assumption that spending for relief and similar things is somehow economically healthy, and that if the army spending is cut off, something will be found for this money extracted from the taxpayer or borrowed against the future.

Basically it just isn't so. Nikita Khrushchev, after his visit to the U.S. a year and a half ago, declared the public when he reported his findings that "many representatives of American industrial circles were confident of U.S. industrial ability to cope with the task of the discovery of the entire country to the production of consumer goods."

In a similar vein, the Morgan Guaranty Trust Company analysts, in a 1959 study, said that experience "gives no support whatever to the view that heavy military spending in itself is in any way essential to prosperity or to the rate of growth."

Military spending is in reality a drag on the productive resources of a nation. It makes no more economic sense than it would to have one-third of the population digging holes, another third filling them up and everybody else paying for the work.

Peace and disarmament, even a small degree, should be embraced instead of feared. Perhaps the Geneva experts will provide some convincers.

Is No Reason To Fear Peace

Norfolk Ya. Ledger

The question — "Suppose there's a lasting world peace soon?" — comes up at a strange time, both in men and in industry. Genesis under the auspices of the United Nations is certainly that very possibility — the economic consequences of world disarmament.

The attention they are considering may be pretty remote, but what they have to do is interesting and should be useful, even short of general disarmament.

For, in the United States certainly, and very appreciably elsewhere, in defense spending the production of some of those "peace" years' tremors in the past. The stock market has reacted — momentarily, at least — to rumors that if the arms spending cut off, something would be found for this money extracted from the taxpayer or borrowed against the future.

Basically it just isn't so. Nikita Khrushchev, after his visit to the U.S. a year and a half ago, declared the public when he reported his findings that "many representatives of American industrial circles were confident of U.S. industrial ability to cope with the task of the discovery of the entire country to the production of consumer goods."

Want to Keep Right to CCF

Vancouver Sun

Life-long CCFers can't be blamed for wanting some way to retain title to their well-known party name somewhere in the New Democratic Party records.

And from nostalgia, there's a tendency to cling to that concern.

CCF as Canada now knows it stands for Co-operative Commonwealth Federation. But how many people remember or use the full name in conversation? How many even know it?

Supposing it is dropped completely by the New Democratic Party.

And suppose that Tim Buck, within a decade or two, decided to re-name his Communist Party the Canadian Communist Federation, CCF in other words.

By such a simple manoeuvre, it is possible that the Communists could capitalize on years of assembling goodwill, hard work and reputation of such men as Woodsworth, Coldwell, Webster, Angus, Winch, Douglas and Strachan.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS.

CONCRETE MINDS

Someone has said that too many minds are like concrete — all mixed up and permanently set.

Firmness of conviction is a virtue well to be cultivated. The wishy-washy variety of individual is a discredit to his generation and a pestiferous influence without which the world could get along very well. But those who arrive at decisions hurriedly, who are influenced in these decisions by prejudice or background, and who make their stand whether or no, are of the variety which kills the happiness of homes, breaks up friendships, dissolves partnerships, and arouses animosity.

We have had occasion often to remind ourselves that life is primarily a matter of balance. Our planet is held on its orbit by well balanced forces. We walk correct because of physiological processes which enable us to perform this rather astonishing feat unconsciously.

William James, the philosopher, used to say that he never got enough of anything without getting too much of it. There is no virtue in the world which cannot be overdone. There is no virtue in any activity which does not become a bad policy if pushed too far.

It is well for all of us to cultivate the capacity for quick and firmly held decisions. But once made, these decisions, unless they are to become liabilities to us, must be capable of amendment and change.

Avoid the concrete mind which is all mixed up and permanently set. It can do you and your generation infinite harm.

Irish-Made Boomerangs

Ulster Commentary

An Ulster businessman, who has never been to Australia in his life and has no links with this country, has produced boomerangs which experts have said are at least as good as those produced in Australia.

He is Claude Austin, 37-year-old director of a Londonderry store and shirt manufacturing firm, whose entry into the boomerang business began as a hobby when he saw an aboriginal demonstrating the art and throwing in the course of a film of the Queen's visit to Australia. A keen woodworker —at the moment he is building a yacht at his own dockyard—Mr. Austin decided to try his hand at making one of these weapons although he had only a few ideas of what they looked like.

It proved a frustrating business. Time after time Mr. Austin's efforts ended in failure until one day prototype No. 40 circled round and came whizzing back to land at his feet. Many of the succeeding boomerangs were flops but gradually Mr. Austin acquired a high degree of skill and now can throw his own boomerangs fails to return when thrown.

As a businessman I will buy and sell anything so long as there is a profit in it and I explored the possibility of hunting this hobby into a small export industry," said Mr. Austin. So far, however, it remains a one-man industry.

Mr. Austin found that there were opportunities in the export of boomerangs to the traditional source of supply—Australia—if they could be mass produced. He found a machine which would be adapted to carry out about 80 per cent of the work but costs were prohibitive.

Working at home at nights, Mr. Austin himself has produced more than 800 boomerangs. Many of his hand carved mahogany and obeahi veneer models have found a ready market of his products he has concentrated with several schools in Northern Ireland. Recipients include Mr. J. McDonald, Dr. Ian Paisley, Mid-Ulster M.P. and Mr. Weir, who has a throw of 105 yards around the school's vertical on the Londonderry cricket ground. Mr. Austin says: "It flies just as well if not better than, those made in Australia."

Although "boomerangs" are included in the Australian Against official handbook "Who makes what in Ulster," Mr. Austin has few of the moments shelved his plans for mass-production. He is, however, continuing to make them at home in his spare time in order to satisfy a small demand from Australia and in the hobbies department of his store in Londonderry.

In the Blue Peanut Canteen Theatre, built at Bexley in 1958, boomerangs made by Mr. Austin decorate the captain's cabin and first-class lounge.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

An acquaintance of mine just back from a visit to Brazil has an interesting experience to tell of the smaller ways of that country. His guide introduced him to a chief of the wild side street where a staff of craftsmen were busy making Eskimo carvings. With modern electrical drills and cutters, they were faithfully copying some genuine Eskimo carvings, even down to the significant and Canadian arctic place names on the originals. Busier than bees, the Brazilian craftsmen were turning the stone jobs out by the hundreds.

Formerly the primitive African carvings, imported by the foreman of the shop, "Who knows?" replied, indifferently, adds from the originals we obtained from the Congo. But the demand nowadays is for Eskimo et."

And there on the other side of the square, in semi-tropical surroundings is being demonstrated the affinity of art and industry. Nobody is more alert to the art than the marketeers.

Strictly Personal

Unemployed Out-of-School Youth Problem

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

In his newly published book, "Slums and Suburbs," which is a sharp commentary on schools in America, James B. Conant, ex-president of Harvard, points out that "social dynamite is building up in our large cities in the form of unemployed out-of-school youth."

That social dynamite is already crackling with explosiveness, as the enormous rise in juvenile delinquency has indicated during the last ten years. Youngsters who neither work nor go to school are bitterly overripe for any kind of anti-social behavior. What do they have in their lives?

In my own city, Chicago, more than one-half of the public high school student drop out of classes. Most of these cannot find jobs — and if they are looking — the nation-wide rate of unemployment for youth is more than twice the rate for all workers.

As Dr. Conant tersely says, "a continuation of this situation is a menace to the social and political health of large cities." It is ironic, of course, that the greatest social evils in the wealthy suburbs is twice as much as it exists in the poor schools — when, actually, these ratios should be reversed.

The big difficulty here are obviously unable to cope with the problem. They do not have enough money, enough teachers, enough facilities or enough initiative to be creative in their approaches. Thus, more and more children get frustrated in the suburbs, permitting this concentration growth to spread throughout the entire urban area.

Yet nothing is being done — on the local, state or Federal level — to come to grips with one of our most explosive domestic problems. The bill proposing federal work camps has gotten nowhere in Congress, and the schools remain overcrowded, underpaid and pervaded by a futile sense of defeat, as neighborhood after neighborhood begins to deteriorate.

"Slums and Suburbs" is a thoughtful, fair-minded and constructive book that is to reconsider and revaluate the whole vexing question of public education, and to bring about changing social patterns. Unless we are willing to do this, and rather soon, the slums may begin to overwhelm the suburbs.

To Your Good Health

Is "Tiredness" Physical, Mental or Emotional?

By Joseph C. Meiner, M.D.

(This is the last of a series of two articles.)

Continuing from yesterday, we'll deal with "that tired feeling." Some other simple causes of this condition are sleeping in a room without adequate ventilation; inadequate sleep (some people instinctively prefer afternoon on "getting along on six or fewer hours a night"); excessive stimulants (such as evening; carousing; staying up too often; the late-late show and kidding yourself that you are "resting" because you are just sitting. "Tatat on.

Another cause of fatigue — and I can hear the chorus of protest now, saying, "You don't mean me!"—is the dumb American habit of skipping breakfast. Many people stretch the evening out too long, sleep until the last minute in the morning, rush to work without breakfast and then wonder why they are so drowsy and pooped.

Some people have systems which either become set at an emotional factor or from careless eating or both, react to a low blood sugar level at 10 or 11 in the morning or mid-afternoon. The "lazy" individual is the exception, not the rule, is to eat a little more protein and a little less starch and sugar. Starches and sweets absorb more slowly and prevents that between-meals sag. That's the reason for the "meat in the middle" lunch hour. The harm of the laxative habit is primarily in irritation to the digestive tract.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

OPINION

To have an opinion is to establish yourself on a rock.

When you have an opinion come about as many property in an honest, straightforward way as have something that is worth anyone's notice.

There are too many people who are nothing more nor less than collectors of opinions.

Public opinion is the total stock of a brave group of opinion owners. Then it is that all great movements take their start.

If you have arrived at an opinion, stay by it. Defend it. Nourish it as you would a child it to as healthy a life as you know.

Robert Louis Stevenson once wrote that "All opinions, properly so called, are stages on the road to truth."

The man with an opinion of his own has already reached a valuable destination.

Such a man should stay at that destination until he feels strong enough to travel to a better one.

But all opinion has to be demonstrated. It has to have the elements of life and growth in it cannot live.

No mature opinion should ever be accepted as final.

In thought are opinions born. It therefore follows by reason that you should not live upon the labor of someone else.

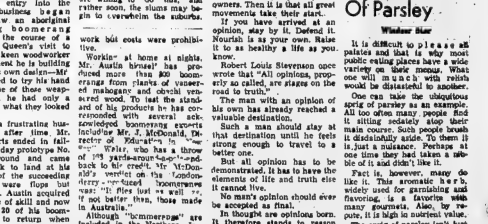
I prick up my ears when I hear a man say: I have my own opinion." I am not sure of that man's action. I know he will not work with the tools of another. He will first owe his tools and then present some finished work as his own.

Opinion is not a decision from which all the problems of life have worked out for the betterment of this world.

Many Fond Of Parsley

Windsor Star

It is difficult to please our palates and that is why the most public eating places have a wide variety of foods served. What one will m u c h with relish would be distasteful to another.



One can please the palate of a popular sprig of parsley as an example. Its use in many recipes for it sitting sedately atop their main course. Such people brush it disdainfully aside. To them it is just a nuisance. Perhaps at one time or other we have taken a notice of it and didn't like it.

Fact is, however, many do like it. It is a favorite with a widely used for garnishing and flavoring. It is a favorite with many gourmets. Also by repute, it is high in nutrient value.

The sprig of parsley isn't just a modern fad. It long has been used in soups, etc., as adding flavor. But it is widely used is shown by a court case in England, involving the amount of sand found in 42-pound sacks of it.

Talking Crow Entertains On East Bridge

A talking crow, with either Harold for a name or Harold for an owner, made his presence known on East Bridge Street near Albert Street, Monday afternoon but didn't stick around long enough to give any other details.

The crow was first spotted by young Tracy Orr who rushed into his parents' store to announce that "there is a talking bird perched on a tree limb out there".

Older members of the Irvin family and the staff investigated the matter, although rather dubiously, and sure enough, Tracy's black-feathered friend was still perched in the tree.

The crow's only comment was "Harold" but he gave forth with his one-word message just as clearly as could be.

And, he wasn't afraid of people either. The crow's newfound fans called "Harold" up to him and every time the crow came right back with the same reply.

The crow appeared ready to carry on the conversation for some time until an air plane flew over and gave "Harold" similar ideas. He too took to the wing.

He didn't even say good bye. Just "Harold".

Guided Tour To Upper Canada Village Possible

Recently in the auditorium of the Corby Library the first fall meeting of the Hastings County Historical Society was held. There were forty members present.

During the business meeting the president, Mr. G. Boyce, expressed appreciation to all those who had helped with the plans for the museum and with the museum opening. Attendance figures of visitors to the museum were given. Thanks were extended to Mr. Woolley and Mr. Wrightmeyer who had arranged the Historical Society's display at the plowing match. Support was registered for the Lake and Addington Historical Society's resolution concerning the arrangement of guided hours for interested groups at Upper Canada Village prior to or after the tourist season.

The speaker of the evening, Mr. Max Woolley, was introduced by Mr. F. Routhier. Mr. Woolley gave an interesting illustrated talk on the land forms of south Hastings. The origins of land forms in the area and their influence on the economic development of the area were explained.

Council Tables Request To Get Costs

Traffic conditions on Herchimer Ave. and particularly at the intersection of Herchimer and Bridge Streets were up for discussion again at city council yesterday.

Council tabled a recommendation from the traffic committee calling for the installation of traffic actuated lights at the corner. The recommendation was laid over to allow a cost estimate for the equipment and its installation to be obtained.

On several occasions this year traffic conditions on Herchimer had been discussed at council and last night Alderman William Jarvah continued his query as to whether or not council had any jurisdiction to bar transport trucks from using residential streets.

He was told by the city manager there was permissive legislation available and a report from the city solicitor on the legal aspects of the matter had been requested.

Alderman Walter Elliott said that train whistles and the noise of transports were a nuisance in the city and wanted to know if it was possible to pass an anti-noise by-law such as had been passed in certain other municipalities.

He was told by Mayor A. M. Haig that council had no jurisdiction over the blowing of train whistles. He felt however that an anti-noise by-law might be a good thing.

The city manager was directed to investigate the matter.

GIRLS DIE IN CRASH

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP)—The bodies of two little girls were found Monday in the wreckage of an airplane on a snow-covered ridge near here. The plane crashed Sunday while attempting to land during a snow storm. Killed were Laurie Lee Bond, 3, and Tracy Lynn Bond, 1, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson R. Bond of Baytown, Tex.

Mayor Haig Will Stand For Re-Election

For the first time in four years, Belleville electors this year will see a contest for the office of mayor.

At yesterday's regular meeting of city council, A. M. Haig announced that he would allow his name to stand (for re-election, thus making this contest at least).

Yesterday former Alderman Ben Sash announced his intention of running for the office of mayor after two previous terms on council.

Mayor Haig was elected by acclamation two years ago following the judicial enquiry into Belleville's finances and last year was returned to office without a contest.

Yesterday Mayor Haig's announcement that he would again seek office as the city's chief magistrate brought a round of applause from his fellow councillors. Mayor Haig said much of the program which council two years ago had set out to do had now been accomplished. However, he said there were still a few matters which he would like to see finished and he would accordingly stand for re-election.

Retired Deputy Chief G. FRANKLIN 'FRANK' ORR

G. 'Frank' Orr Dies in Hospital, Ill Short Time

George Franklin (Frank) Orr, retired Deputy Chief of the Fire Department and lifelong resident of this city, died in the Belleville General Hospital early this Tuesday morning, after suffering a stroke about two weeks ago.

Frank Orr as he was familiarly known to many residents of this city and district, was born and raised in this community. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William J. Orr and was born 72 years ago. From his earliest manhood he took an active interest in fighting fire and prevention of the destruction of property by fire. He joined the volunteer fire department and on the formation of the Belleville Fire Department he joined as a regular and for 47 years was a faithful and efficient member of the department.

He passed through the various grades and on the re-organization of the department he was appointed Deputy Chief, a position he held with distinction. He was also liked by the horses they were in the right. In the days when the racing world is well known and respected. During the years he owned and trained some of the best gaiters in the district. He was a great caretaker and his horses were always ready to race. If not racing one of his own he could always be seen at the tracks meets around the district and in his retiring years his happiest moments were spent sitting around the tack rooms at the fairgrounds, swapping horse tales of long ago.

Mr. Orr was a kindly man. Although he was gruff to a point yet underneath there was a warmth of friendship that grew throughout the years and he numbered among his intimate friends many from every walk of life.

He was a member of Christ Church and is survived by his wife, the former Alfrida Eaton; three sons, William E. and Robert V. (Sonny) Orr of this city, Thomas D. Orr of Kingston; four daughters, Mrs. Ernest (Margaret) Preston, Point Anne Road; Mrs. Gilbert (Evelyn) Zebedee of Belleville; Mrs. Roscoe (Patricia) Cummings of Sidney township; Mrs. Douglas (Shirley) McGee of Minden, and one sister, Mrs. May Cavanagh of Toronto. Also surviving are thirteen grandchildren.

The funeral will be held from the John R. Bush Funeral Home on Thursday afternoon with interment in Belleville Cemetery.

Re-mand Accused For One Week In Assault Case

George Palmanter pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault causing bodily harm to Mrs. Freda Abrams when he appeared in city magistrate's court this morning before Magistrate T. Y. Wills. Palmanter was represented by B. W. Hurcomb.

Two witnesses who live next door to Mrs. Abrams, testified that they heard a lot of noise and someone screaming, and went out into their yards to see what it was all about. They told the court they saw Mr. Palmanter punching and kicking Mrs. Abrams. They said Mrs. Abrams was on the ground when Mr. Palmanter was seen to get out of the house ahead of him and came over to their place. When she came inside her face was a mess and she was holding her stomach, said the witnesses.

Mrs. Abrams was put on the stand and she told the court that she could remember being hit or kicked by Mr. Palmanter. When asked how her lip got cut, she said it must have happened, when George opened the aluminum porch door. She said they had been drinking all day and when she wanted to go out that night, Mr. Palmanter wouldn't let her.

Constable Armstrong and Sgt. Duggan testified that when they went into the residence of the witnesses, Mrs. Abrams was sitting on a chair, sobbing and her eye was black. She refused to call a doctor's attention and they took her to the hospital.

When asked why she was in hospital for five days by Magistrate Wills, she said it was on account of her blood pressure.

The case was remanded for one week, at which time the attending doctor will be called to give evidence as to the condition of Mrs. Abrams, when he saw her.

Child Patients Given TV Set By Shriners

Interest in the welfare of Belleville children protestors never diminishes within the ranks of the Belleville Shrine Club.

For nearly three decades now the shriners have seen to it that these less fortunate children look for nothing with in the realm of the club's possibilities.

The amount of money paid out for hospitalization, orthopedic appliances, treatment and other physical necessities will never be known.

In the summer the children are given a picnic at the fine summer home of Shriner George Mueller on Roblin's Lake. The Morton Circus in Toronto is another highlight in the kiddies lives. They are taken on by their fezzed sponsors to the Belleville Fair.

From time to time simple but necessary things are donated to kiddies both inside and outside hospitals.

Take yesterday for instance. Shrine president Jack Allin and Crippled Children Committee Chairman Orliff (Boiler) Lloyd presented a television set to the kiddie patients in the pediatrics ward of Belleville General Hospital.

The set was presented to the kiddies by the shriners through director of nursing Miss Doris Smith who voiced her appreciation of the hospital as well as her young patients.

Transit Commission Losing Money Due to Fine Weather

Continued mild fall weather is not in the financial interests of the Belleville Transit Commission.

It seems that when the weather is fine and mild people just don't ride the buses. It takes dirty fall and winter weather to coax people into using the city's public transportation.

This was revealed at city council last night following an inquiry into the commission's finances.

City manager J. R. Reynolds said the 1961 bus deficit was about $3,000 more than had been anticipated for this time of year. He said if the present fine weather continued the bus deficit could approach $30,000 by the year end.

Alderman Ben Corke, chairman of the special bus committee, which a year ago headed up the council action resulting in the city purchasing the Rawson Bus Lines equipment, said he had hoped the bus line could be operated without appreciable loss.

However, the general trend seemed to be for public transportation systems to go down hill.

He regretted that Belleville buses were not being ridden by greater numbers, but he said there were hopeful signs for the future. One of these was the purchase of smaller buses to be used on the less busy routes and during the evenings.

Earlier during the meeting a communication from the Transit Commission was read asking council to give consideration to the possibility of extending Glen Road thus completing the connection between Wright Ave and Avondale Road in West Belleville. This, it was stated, would provide a loop circuit for buses and reduce the walking distance to buses in the Avondale district.

The matter was referred to the city manager to get cost estimates for the work.

Modern group insurance has made it possible for thousands of Canadians to obtain low-cost life insurance protection they might not otherwise have–and this is important! But, it cannot and should not take the place of permanent personal life insurance–the type which you own and control.

Such permanent insurance policies will not only give your family immediate protection for the full amount, they will also have values, increasing year by year, which can be readily used as collateral for emergency loans or business purposes.

Permanent personal policies assure you of these benefits and most plans may provide a guaranteed monthly income on retirement.

ernment he heads would grade ally drop out of Dominion-provincial joint projects, turning over to the provinces the responsibility and the tax fields necessary to finance such projects.

GIVES RESPONSIBILITY

This would give the province greater legislative and fiscal responsibility, and leave the federal government to enter new fields of joint endeavor. He did not spell out which fields he thought the federal government should raise itself out of now.

The Liberal leader flies today to Sydney, N.S. to begin a three day tour in Nova Scotia.

Mr. Pearson promised a distinctive Canadian flag, adoption of O Canada as a national anthem, encouragement of bilingualism in the federal civil service, bilingual cheques, and extension of present radio and television networks to give all Canadians access to both cultures.

The Liberal party believes also in a strong and stable central government within the limits of its jurisdiction," he declared. "Such strength, however, must not rest on weak provincial governments quite the contrary, the stability of our confederation rests to a large extent on healthy provincial states."

English Canada should increase its consciousness of the aspirations of French Canada, Mr. Pearson said. Canada should "show a bit more patience when this consciousness is slow to find its full expression," Mr. Pearson said.

City Population Reported at Over 30,000

Belleville is now a city with a population of over 30,000 persons, according to the quarterly report of City Manager J. R. Reynolds, submitted to council yesterday.

The report noted that the population figure of 29,182 is recorded on the assessment roll, but this year's federal census figure shows the count to be 30,161.

As the result of the increased population figure, the city manager's report noted that the unconditional grants to be received next year will be increased by approximately $8,000 over that of this year.

Three Queen's Students Go On Hunger Strike

KINGSTON (CP) — Three Queen's University students started a three - day hunger strike today.

David Hill, chairman of World University Service Committee, Stewart Goldings, president of the Alma Mater Society, and Donald Fraser, chairman of the Student's Union Committee, ate their last pre-strike meal today at 12:30.

For three days they will live on tea, rather than tea and milk! and water to put a dramatic emphasis on the fact there are people living in the world today.

The money they save from not eating will be given to World University Service. They issued a challenge to every student on the campus to try to either keep up with them on the strike and give their meal money to WUS, or to at least miss one or two meals to get the sense of frustration and give the price of one meal to WUS.

Prison Parole, Female Offenders, Vividly Described at WCC Meet

"Stone walls do not a prison make, nor iron bars a cage", said the poet Wordsworth. But those incarcerated could tell a different story both from the physical as well as from the mental angle. This was most vividly portrayed last evening in the Canadian Federation Club's annual dinner meeting held in Hotel Quinte, by Miss Mary Louise Agnew, as she addressed the assembly of approximately 160 members on the topic "Prison Parole, and the Female Offender".

Miss Lynch is a graduate from the Faculty of Law at the University of New Brunswick with the degree of B.C.L. She is also the winner of the Sir Douglas Hazen prize for the highest standing in the senior year. She has written an essay on the status of St. John law firm of Gilbert and McGloan and, in 1956 was called to the New Brunswick Bar.

ALL CRIMINALS NOT DEFECTIVES

The speaker, who was introduced by the president of the club, Mrs. R. D. Guy, stated that all criminals could not be reformed, possibly ten, twenty or thirty per cent; but there are the other 90 or 70 per cent who try to reform. In the early days prisons were just mere places of punishment without facilities to lead the criminal to a better outlook on life, moral rehabilitation, which can be changed.

Miss Lynch also mentioned to the institutions, the Mercer, at Kingston, and the Institute at Victoria, B.C. The former is typical penitentiary, and the latter a modern, deluxe in ranch style which has 16 inmates, and a staff of 3 and is completely open, where the inmates have several occupations, including the making of hats.

PAROLE SYSTEM

In touching on the parole system, Miss Lynch explained that the parole officer, whereby the inmates can serve a sentence outside. A case sheet is made out, which sets forth the history, education; family; police report and; social rehabilitation, which can be changed.

Miss Lynch also mentioned to certain conditions, one being that all criminals could not be reformed, possibly ten, twenty or thirty per cent; but there are the other 90 or 70 per cent who try to reform. In the early days prisons were just mere places of punishment without facilities to lead the criminal to a better outlook on life, moral rehabilitation, which can be changed.

In the early days prisons were just mere places of punishment without facilities to lead the criminal to a better outlook on life, moral rehabilitation, which can be changed.

WHAT MAKES A CRIMINAL

The causes which make a criminal, Miss Lynch, usually begin with broken homes, neglected by the divorce, but bad homes; where mothers run around; where fathers are drunken on weekend "bats"; wife beaters; the children are punished and screwed at for no apparent reason; and in some cases the girls of the family are victims of incest. Children who know neither father nor mother; those brought up in institutions without love, or understanding; and some are sold their own homes, taken from foster home to foster home, sometimes even as many as ten or 12 homes.

The girl prisoners are always young, between over 40, and mostly in the teens and 20's. The have never known co-education; what they want now, and to obtain it they give themselves over to prostitution.

The maximum one person for one year in a penitentiary costs $2,500 and their family has also to be maintained, which is borne by the municipal province.

In speaking of Kingston Penitentiary, which was one of the first built in Canada, the speaker said that it was a grim place, and what she saw is a lasting memory. The great iron door with bars, the matron, a female prison sergeant major, always barking orders to the girls; the drab uniforms of blue and white stripes which is through many washings, became a dirty grey; the broken down bedroom slippers which they wort due to the fact that they were not measured or issued, only for the men, and to provide shoes for the women that they were asked down to also most unwearable. The women were all dressed alike, which goes against the female idea of clothes.

MORE ADVANCED AP PROACH

Today there is a more advanced approach; there are social workers who come in, including Miss Patterson, and Miss McNeill, who are experienced with reformatories; and the Minister of Justice. The girls have a choice of one out of ten colors for their uniforms; and though they are designed in shirtwaist style, there are a few differences in the making which make them more personal. They are permitted to have two pairs of shoes, one for everday, and one for dress-ups, as well as stockings, and outer coats.

Besides the changes in the prisoner's realm, the inner doors are no longer locked in the woman's prison. The cells in the long ago, and not so long ago, either, were grim, like those of the men. Now they are permitted to have curtains over the bars; rugs on the floor; and the poet Wordsworth, But those incarcerated could tell a different story both from the physical as well as from the mental angle. This was most vividly portrayed last evening in the Canadian Federation Club's annual dinner meeting held in Hotel Quinte, by Miss Mary Louise Agnew, as she addressed the assembly of approximately 160 members on the topic "Prison Parole, and the Female Offender".

Guy, stated that all criminals could not be reformed, possibly ten, twenty or thirty per cent; but there are the other 90 or 70 per cent who try to reform. In the early days prisons were just mere places of punishment without facilities to lead the criminal to a better outlook on life, moral rehabilitation, which can be changed.

Miss Lynch also mentioned to certain conditions, one being that all criminals could not be reformed, possibly ten, twenty or thirty per cent; but there are the other 90 or 70 per cent who try to reform. In the early days prisons were just mere places of punishment without facilities to lead the criminal to a better outlook on life, moral rehabilitation, which can be changed.

WHAT MAKES A CRIMINAL

The causes which make a criminal, Miss Lynch, usually begin with broken homes, neglected by the divorce, but bad homes; where mothers run around; where fathers are drunken on weekend "bats"; wife beaters; the children are punished and screwed at for no apparent reason; and in some cases the girls of the family are victims of incest. Children who know neither father nor mother; those brought up in institutions without love, or understanding; and some are sold their own homes, taken from foster home to foster home, sometimes even as many as ten or 12 homes.

The girl prisoners are always young, between over 40, and mostly in the teens and 20's. The have never known co-education; what they want now, and to obtain it they give themselves over to prostitution.

The maximum one person for one year in a penitentiary costs $2,500 and their family has also to be maintained, which is borne by the municipal province.

In speaking of Kingston Penitentiary, which was one of the first built in Canada, the speaker said that it was a grim place, and what she saw is a lasting memory. The great iron door with bars, the matron, a female prison sergeant major, always barking orders to the girls; the drab uniforms of blue and white stripes which is through many washings, became a dirty grey; the broken down bedroom slippers which they wort due to the fact that they were not measured or issued, only for the men, and to provide shoes for the women that they were asked down to also most unwearable. The women were all dressed alike, which goes against the female idea of clothes.

MORE ADVANCED AP PROACH

Today there is a more advanced approach; there are social workers who come in, including Miss Patterson, and Miss McNeill, who are experienced with reformatories; and the Minister of Justice. The girls have a choice of one out of ten colors for their uniforms; and though they are designed in shirtwaist style, there are a few differences in the making which make them more personal. They are permitted to have two pairs of shoes, one for everday, and one for dress-ups, as well as stockings, and outer coats.

Besides the changes in the prisoner's realm, the inner doors are no longer locked in the woman's prison. The cells in the long ago, and not so long ago, either, were grim, like those of the men. Now they

MOUNTAIN VIEW W.I.

MOUNTAIN VIEW — Mrs. Ed Hall of Belleville, opened her home on Wednesday evening for the Mountain View Women's Institute. There were about 21 in attendance. The meeting was opened in the usual manner by the president Mrs. W. Barber.

Plans were made for 'Family Night' to be held in the church basement on November 17. Delegates were appointed to attend the Area Convention to be held in Belleville. Two readings Mrs. Charles Wetzering and Mrs. Allan Wallbridge.

Mrs. Fairclough Claims Present Laws Sensible

HAMILTON (CP) — Immigration Minister Fairclough Monday suggested sober second thoughts for those who would remove restrictions from Canada's immigration laws and open its doors to "any immigrants."

"The real test of a desirable immigrant today," she said, "is what contribution he can make to the strength and development of the Canadian economy."

If those who argue for looser immigration laws "stopped and thought a little," Mrs. Fairclough said, they would see the present laws are reasonable."

The immigration minister was speaking to the annual convention of Hamilton and Wentworth Institutes.

Earlier, Mrs. L. G. Lymburner of Port Colborne, president of the Federated Women's Institutes, of Ontario, told the 40 delegates they should concentrate efforts to establish an international scholarship fund to send trained Canadian women to developing countries.

Centre St. Church Marks Anniversary

On a recent Sunday evening Centre United Church held its 85th anniversary service. This church built in 1876, is better known to some as the older folk as "Centre St. Mission".

The church was quietly decorated with the fall flowers.

The Rev. R. Vessey gave an inspiring message on the theme "Our Work is Never Finished."

Mrs. Boyd from Canadiana, was the pianist for the evening. The Jr. choir sang "God Sees the Little Sparrow Fall". Mr. Vessey read from Joshua 1: 1-9.

For the offertory music, Mrs. Boyd played "Sweet Hour of Prayer". A solo was rendered by Mrs. Furmidge, "This is My Father's World".

Mr. Vessey told the children a story about a stranger in Europe, "One hot day a strange came along to where man were building a large place, they had no machinery in those days, two people at one end, one man what he was doing, he was chipping stone. The second boy was hitting a some heavy material and his answer was making mason. The third man explained he was building a great cathedral. For the glory of God. Moral of the story is we all should keep working.

A duet "How Great Thou Art" was beautifully rendered by Mrs. Harold Wilson and Mrs. Reid from the United Church Dundas St. East. The Sr. choir favored with singing "Praise the Lord" and the congregation lovely hymns included, "The Lord's My Shepherd" and others.

Mr. Vessey thanked all who helped to make this anniversary service a day to be remembered.

There were visitors in attendance from surrounding districts.

This cute little miss is Sylvia Anne, seven pound old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Allore of Tweed.

Cooking for Two on a Shoestring

By Mary Moore

(Second of Three Instalments)

Last week I gave you the first of a three-instalment series on cooking on a shoestring and promised a second this week. For the meat I have chosen the inevitable hamburg but am giving you a fine meat loaf recipe that may be used cold for a second meal.

ECONOMICAL MENU

NUMBER TWO FOR TWO:

Meat Loaf with Tomato Sauce (see below)
Baked Potatoes (see below)
Cole Slaw (see below)
Half-hour Pudding (see below)
Tea

TUESDAY

Dinner Menu

Homemade Soup (see Monday); Sliced Cold Meat (from Sunday's roast); Corn Relish; Scalloped Corn and Green Pepper; Celery Hearts; Apple Pie with Cheddar Cheese; Coffee.

MEAT LOAF:

Ask the butcher to grind together ½ pound beef or veal and ½ pound lean pork to make ½ pound ground meat for you. Soak 1½ slices fine bread in ¼ cup milk for 5 minutes. Add to meat along with 1 egg, 2 tablespoons chopped onion, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon each pepper, dry mustard, celery salt, garlic salt, 1½ teaspoons Worcestershire sauce. Mix all ingredients and shape into 2 loaves on shallow baking pan. Spread with catsup. Bake 1 hour at 350 deg. Fahr. Serve 1 loaf hot, the other cold for another meal.

Tomato Sauce: One cup canned or pealed and chopped raw tomatoes, ¾ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, shake of pepper, 1 tablespoon each finely chopped celery and onion, ½ tablespoon margarine, ½ tablespoon flour, saute onion and celery in margarine until limp. Stir in flour, salt, sugar and pepper until blended. Stir in tomatoes until thick. Simmer gently until vegetables are tender — about 8 minutes — stirring often. Serve without straining.

Baked Potatoes: Scrub 2 large potatoes thoroughly and brush outside with margarine. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes before putting meat loaf (above) in oven. Reduce heat to 350 deg. Fahr. and both potatoes and meat loaf will be ready at same time.

COLE SLAW:

Shred cabbage thread-thin. Measure 2 cups for 2 people. Add a little onion or garlic salt and a little chopped dill pickle if say on hand. Season with cooked salad dressing or mayonnaise or French Dressing.

HALF-HOUR PUDDING

1 cup flour, 1-3 cup brown sugar, 2 teaspoons baking powder, pinch of salt, 1 cup raisins, ½ cup milk.

Mix these six ingredients together and put in greased pudding dish. Then mix together 2 cups boiling water, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 tablespoon margarine and ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, and stir. Pour over batter in pudding dish and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. one-half hour or until batter is baked. (It rises to top.)

The syrup is sufficient to "sauce" the pudding.

Watch next week for 3rd instalment of Cooking for Two on a Shoestring.

OVERCOMES DEAFNESS — Pretty Ann Kieran, 17, of Hampton, N.B., totally deaf since infancy, now can carry on a normal conversation by lip-reading and instruction at deaf schools in Halifax and England. A commercial student at Saint John Vocational School, she has mastered spacious machines and instructs beginners in their use. (CP Photo).

Total Deafness Fails To Daunt Student of 17

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — has a high scholastic standing. Undaunted by total deafness. "Ann is so good at office Ann Kieran, 17, returned to machines that I let her demonstrate her home in nearby Hampton strate them to first-year stuwhere she was with an accent ac- dents," says her home room quired during eight instruc- teacher, Mrs. Marguerite Herteacher, Mrs. Marguerite Herrion at a famous English school for the deaf.

The petite, spoken - haired, blue-eyed teen-ager can't remember ever hearing a word, but sure, after therapy and lip-reading lessons, she is able to carry on an animated conversation.

Ann is taking a two - year commercial course at Saint John Vocational School. Her sister Norah, 16, a third-year home economics student at the same school, has a similar but lesser problem solved by a hearing aid.

Both girls attended a Halifax school for the deaf and one is in Montreal before Ann flew to Wessington, Herefordshire, in 1958 to become the English institution's first overseas pupil.

Her further education is sponsored by the New Brunswick health department under its re- habilitation program and the Says Norah: "If it wasn't for Ann I'd never meet half the kids. It's been lots more fun since she came back from England and went to Voc.

"Ann speaks so much better and talks more than she did before she went to England. When she went away we couldn't understand her half the time and she was so frustrated. Now it's better for all of us. She works harder than I do at her school work but she is ambitious and doesn't mind it."

Remembrance Topic at WA Meet

JOHNSTOWN—The Johnstown Women's Association held the November meeting at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Gore last Wednesday evening.

The lesson was taken from Matthew 21 and read by Mrs. Alva Alyea. Thank-you's received for "the gift to Ernie Pickell, who is in Trenton Memorial Hospital. North Preston and Batawa United Churches extended an invitation to attend their tea and sale later in November, at Batawa in the afternoon, and N. Trenton at night. Wesley also sent an invitation to attend their tea November 18th is missionary night at Johnstown Church and Mrs. and Mrs. Lemaan who are on furlough from Africa will speak and show slides at the Johnstown Church.

Mrs. Douglas Harry and Mrs. B. Hamilton were responsible for the program. Mrs. Harry was unable to be present, so Miss Alice Vanderwoert read her paper based on "Remembrance" saying in part: "November is here, and with it comes the feeling of security, the knowledge that again a successful planting, growing and harvesting season is now behind us. But ten days from today November 11th, is a day set aside to remind us that our secure feeling has been bought with high price tag. On this day we remember those whose lives were taken on battle fields, in action to protect and insure our safety.

So often we forget those men who were able to return home, but were scarred for life, physically and mentally. The torture they endured to return to civilian life; the patience to learn the awkward swing of a wooden leg; the incessant repeating of picking up objects with mechanical hands replacing the mangled and beyond repair human hand; the mental agony in trying to close doors on memories of cruelty to men in prison camps; the starvation, work, and the slow passing of time as they awaited the great day of liberation. Nor was it a happy time for mothers, wives and children at home.

The task now is to forget and forgive our petty arguments and grievances and begin the creation of a chain with golden links. Our chain will perhaps be a small one to begin with, but with earnest devotion it can grow and grow."

Says Apathy More Dangerous Than Communism

KITCHENER (CP) — Apathy, more dangerous to Canada than communism, is the greatest affliction facing Canadians, Senator Olive Irvine of Winnipeg said Monday.

The 85-year-old senator will speak at the annual meeting of the Waterloo North Women's Progressive Conservative Association today.

"Everything is too easy these days," she said.

Too often householders want to get opinions as distant as third and fourth cousins and aged aunts, and turn the house into a happy hunting ground for weeks on end. Be considerate. Until you take title, you're still a visitor and should behave as such.

If you want to make a bid on a house, make it through an "in real" estate agent. Don't talk money to the homeowner. This is always the most delicate part of the negotiations, and a deal is more satisfactorily concluded by a third party who is not emotionally involved.

Buying and selling a house is an extremely personal thing, and can be pleasantly accomplished when all parties are gracious about it.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

TIPS FOR PROSPECTIVE HOME BUYERS

There's an old saying that "people who live in glass houses shouldn't throw stones." There should be a footnote added: "and neither should people who visit."

And the same should apply whether the house is brick, frame, concrete or log — especially if you're a prospective buyer and have just come to inspect the premises. If the house doesn't suit you, it's better to explain why to the real estate agent than to chuck in front of the homeowner and hurt her feelings.

A friend of mine recently had — trying time selling her house, which is what brings this subject to mind. As she reported, people came trooping in without notice, and they made scathing remarks to the effect that there were a few kinks in it. Of her new gutters wouldn't last five years, the stucco weren't adequate, the kitchen was a horrible color, etc., etc.

The house eventually was sold to a couple who found it just what they had hoped and and who will maintain it as lovingly as she did over the years. But in the meantime, the rudeness she had encountered did sour her on human nature. So, if you're going house-hunting, here are a few points of etiquette to remember.

Always make an appointment first. If you're dealing through a real estate agent, let him make the arrangements. The homeowner may be anxious to sell, but the time for inspection should be mutually agreeable.

When you inspect the house, refrain from making comments about the decoration unless they're complimentary. You're not buying the carpets or wallpaper, but what's underneath.

The real estate agent should be able to supply you with particulars about taxes, zoning, water, schools, etc. These are details which the homeowner gives when the house is listed. There's no reason to ask her when you meet.

If you want to bring other members of your family to see the house, do so only if you're seriously considering buying it.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Quentin B. — Her salary could use plenty. It involves us into a higher tax bracket.

Shirley B. — I'm so much happier being paid for my work instead of serving as a volunteer.

Quentin B. — I don't need my wife's money. But she insists on working as a bookkeeper and, she's such a crackerjack one that her boss just gave her a big raise. Now her income combined with mine throws us into a tax bracket which hardly makes her job worthwhile. Added to this factor, there's practically no profit left when you figure the salary we pay a full-time maid to replace Shirley at home.

If time hangs heavy on her hands at home, why doesn't she contribute her talents for free to some charitable organization? She could be a secretary-treasurer in a club, or keep the books for one of those thrift shops. She'd benefit morally from this, and we'd both benefit financially. But she refuses to quit.

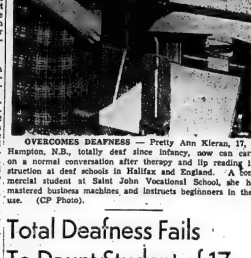
* * *

Shirley B. — Volunteer work is fine. I do donate my services to the Cancer Committee, and I'm on the telephone squad of a settlement house. But that's part time. In my full-time employment, I seek the challenge of competition. I want to be paid, and I want my salary to be an indication of the value of my ability.

Offering to keep the books for charitable organizations is ridiculous. Most of them are serviced by auditing firms with whom they have contracts. A small unaffiliated group would not need my aid. Almost any member could make the entries.. What else? I'm not the "gray lady" type. I'm no good at arts and crafts. Instead of taxes, would Quentin rather pay a doctor to cure the state I'd be in from boredom?

The Council: As an "umbrella" comment here, let us hasten to remind Quentin that paying taxes to the Government never broke anyone who lives within his means and puts aside something for that purpose.

From the dollar-and-cents angle, Quentin is undoubtedly right. But from the solid-good sense angle, he's wrong psychologically, from the viewpoint of Shirley's morale, the status tax dividends are to be taken seriously.



Some people, including the world's greatest benefactors, have such a strong sense of self-worth that they can go on doing what they're doing with no thought of pay-back or praise and no rewards. Something inside tells them, "You're okay. Your work is top". Others — and Shirley is among them — must be told. And outside data can't say it satisfactorily. Cash does.

Shirley does bookkeeping. Her employer and they can go on saying so. Quentin suggests — from quiet, non-competitive volunteer work.

Until then, Quentin, keep Shirley (and Uncle Sam) doing what comes naturally — collecting!

Newfoundland Harbor Craft Floating Library for Seamen

By BILL CROKE
Canadian Press Correspondent

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—To a landlubber who notices such things, the 30-foot Jacob Brinton looks somewhat mysterious making its regular Sunday rounds of ships in St. John's Harbor.

But to every seaman, the Brinton is as familiar as the roll of the sea. It's a floating bookstand that has been operating for 66 years.

The men aboard visiting ships, mostly Spanish, Portuguese or German, know the Brinton's six - man crew by name.

The boat is part of the service provided by the international organization known as the Missions to Seamen. Last year, from May to November in fair and foul weather, it distributed 14,000 books and magazines.

"It's a labor of love," says Eric Caines, the Brinton's skipper for 20 years. He has been doing the Sunday rounds for more than 20 years. All the work is voluntary.

"Our efforts are not wasted either. When you see the faces of these seamen, far from home, light up as you approach, you know it's all worthwhile."

Bishop Field College in St. John's is the ship's main supplier of reading material. Books also come from individuals and Red Cross surplus stock.

A seaman on any British cable ship Monarch raid the Brinton's books are never destroyed. Each is signed and passed along to the next ship they meet at sea.

The city branch of the mission is sponsored by the Cathedral Men's Bible Class which pays for upkeep and maintenance of the Brinton with donations from parishioners. The class was formed in 1903 and the Harbor Mission, as it was then known, began as a branch in 1895.

In 1919 the Harbor Mission was amalgamated with the Mission to Seamen which then had 136 stations around the world.

A Portuguese seaman on the big men look forward to receiving the books. "They really get excited," he said. The Portuguese fishing fleets have been calling at St. John's for years, as the most integral part of the harbor scene. Since most cannot read English, the seamen prefer books with plenty of pictures.

Texas Publisher Given Pasting By President

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — The Chattanooga Times has published what it says was part of President Kennedy's reply when Texas publisher E. M. (Ted) Dealey sharply castigated the president at a recent White House luncheon.

Dealey, publisher of the Dallas Morning News, attended the luncheon Oct. 27 of 19 Texas publishers and editors with the president. Among the statements the publisher said he made to Kennedy were:

"We need a man on horseback to lead this nation and many people in Texas and the Southwest think that you are riding Caroline's tricycle.

The general opinion of the grass-roots thinking in this country is that you and your administration are weak sisters."

The Times, in a story by its Washington correspondent, Charles Marsh, said: "There was no transcript of the luncheon . . . but the president's reply, a spontaneous expression of his basic philosophy, has been partially reconstructed from the recollections of some of those who were present."

IN DEAD SILENCE

The story said: "Dealey's interruption came suddenly toward the close of the meal and there was a dead silence after he finished his lengthy indictment. The president, challenged for the first time at his own table, began his reply in a low voice.

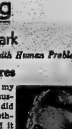
"He said that everyone was entitled to his own opinions in this country and that this was a healthy thing. But the difference between you and me, Mr. Dealey,' Kennedy continued, 'is that I was elected president of this country and you were not. I have the responsibility for the lives of 180,000,000 Americans, which you have not.'"

The president told the publisher, The Times said, that "while he is president, he intends to be certain that the nation's vital interests and its security are at stake before he puts the lives of the people in jeopardy from a nuclear exchange."

QUICKLY GET ENOUGH

"The president said he had observed that men tend to like the idea of war until they have tasted it but that they quickly get enough of it," the story continued, then quoted Kennedy as saying:

"Wars are easier to talk about than they are to fight. I'm just as tough as you are, Mr. Dealey, and I didn't get elected president by arriving at soft judgments'.



The newspaper claimed one publisher of six southwestern U.S. dailies, C. C. Woodson, was quoted as saying after the outburst: "Well, you're leading the worst Fascist movement in the Southwest and you don't realize that nobody else is with you."

Mate Interferes

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—From the day my daughter was born, 2 years ago, my husband has interfered with everything I did for her. He criticized my feeding methods and the baby got sick when I did it his way.

My husband says that just because I am a woman and a mother, it doesn't mean that I know more about babies than he does. But he is an only child while I am one of 8 children and have been around babies all my life. My husband did not even know how to hold our baby when I brought her home from the hospital.

I keep the child neat and healthy. I teach her good manners. Yet my husband has told me several times that I am an unfit mother. When the doctor saw our daughter he said I had done a fine job.

In line with the doctor's advice I put the child in her room when she screamed and my husband became furious. I gave in. Next day there was another disagreement in which my husband broke a promise I had made to the child, saying she had to be disciplined. He undoes all that I work on.

Why can't he do the man's job around the house (he won't do a lasky job) and leave me to do my duties as a mother, woman and wife.—BROKEN UP.

DEAR BROKEN UP:—Besides trying to be the mother, your husband is undertaking to be a home wrecker in as methodical a way as it can be done. He is also a child wrecker, because a united front in his parents is what every child needs for contentment.

Social workers call this a confusion in roles. There are man-sized jobs for man-sized men. When your husband grows up he'll know better. Meanwhile you are not of the fishwife disposition which stands up to such a man and says in no uncertain terms, "You do your job and I'll do mine!" Yet that is what is needed.

Need I suggest a counsellor? In Belleville she will be found at the Children's Aid Society.

DEAR DORIS:—I have always wanted to be a teacher since I was a young man. I only got part of grade 9. Now I am 35, and I have a greater desire than ever to do this. When I tell people I want to go back to school they try to tell me I am too old.' I would start with some night school subjects, then go back full time next school year.

I come from a home where all I ever saw was fighting. All I wanted to do was get away from home as fast as I could. I was married seven years and this ended up in a divorce court. I am now alone.

I used to be a very heavy drinker and smoker. I have now done my very best to reform and have stopped both drink and smoking.

I feel I have wasted 35 years of my life and now whatever years I have left I would like to use to be of help to others. —REFORMED.

TO G. G.:—Your girl friend is right. It's a mood boys get into. But just some boys. Boys with manners speak to a girl they are acquainted with, whether or not they are now more interested in someone else.

He is more likely to come back if you leave him alone than if you run after him. So invite somebody else next time.

Remarks Junior Diplomat Gets Tired of Hearing

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Remarks might build up big self-confidence.

"I hear the Russians are planning to bring a mind reader to the next meeting. Why not really mix the pot up by letting Ronald act as our spokesman?"

Income Tax Explained

Written and designed for the taxpayer who is not in a position to employ the services of a professional accountant or visit an Income Tax Office.

By C. A. MILLER
Former Supervising Assessor
Income Tax Department

Today we discuss the problems of many clergymen, particularly in regard to those that are not supplied with a parsonage or manse. The clergyman who is supplied by his congregation with a free house is not taxed on the value of such free accomodation.

Now we come to the clergyman who does not receive this added benefit. If a clergyman has to pay rent out of his salary for living quarters, he is allowed to deduct the yearly amount paid from his salary. This prevents any discrimination between the ones paying their rent and the other who gets it free.

Another situation arises when the clergyman owns his own home and pays all the upkeep on it. In such cases the clergyman owning his own home, may deduct from his salary, the fair rental value of such premises. By handling it this way all clergymen are placed on the same level for income tax purposes.

In addition to clergymen, a deaconess in some denominations, and working full time for her church or parish will come under the above regulations. Before a deaconess makes such a claim, she should check with the Income Tax Office to determine if she has an allowable claim.

A clergyman who uses his car for calls on his parishioners is entitled to claim his car expenses, to the extent that he was not reimbursed by the church board. The total of the car expenses for the year will have to be reduced by the percentage portion that the car was used for personal or pleasure driving. Car expenses also include depreciation at 30% of the cost of the car, at the same division as other expenses.

Question? I am a clergyman in charge of a small rural parish. I am single and supplied a free room in one of my parishioners' homes. I pay a small sum each month for board. May I deduct this payment on my tax return?

Answer: No. Board is not deductible.

Question? I am a clergyman, not in charge of congregation or parish, but am employed by the church in an executive capacity doing administrative work. Do the same regulations regarding house rent apply in my case?

Answer: Yes. You may make the same deduction as a clergyman in charge of a parish, congregation or diocese.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

We're too far south in the banana belt to hear the staccato reports of the deer hunter's rifle, but reports here indicate there was quite an exodus of nimrods to northern haunts in time for the season's official opening yesterday.

The hunting in the northern areas as we know them here, is said to be good. The deer population, according to all reports, is in a pretty healthy state and should offer some excellent shooting throughout most of the region.

Officials of the Department of Lands and Forests have been looking over reports of surveys made in various parts of the province. The predictions, they believe apply only to the number of deer believed available. They point out that weather conditions during the actual hunting periods will be a major factor in deciding whether many deer are taken.

Officials state: "In Eastern Ontario the deer have benefited from several mild winters though they were affected slightly by the winters of 1958-59 and 1960 and 1961. All evidence points to a good year for hunters in this district."

"The situation in Central Ontario is more complex," stated departmental officials. "Very few dead deer were found in the Lindsay and Tweed districts or in the southern parts of Pembroke and Parry Sound districts. The surveys in the northern part of the Pembroke and Parry Sound districts showed a heavy mortality in some deer yards, little in others."

Past year's surveys and subsequent hunting results indicated that a hard winter results in a poor shoot. By this rule, it is stated, hunting this year should be good in the Lindsay, Tweed, southern Pembroke and Parry Sound areas.

As a reminder the season opened yesterday south of the French and Mattawa Rivers, Parry Sound, Muskoka (except the eastern part of Medora and Wood); south part of Nipissing counties of Haliburton; Renfrew and Frontenac, Hastings, Lennox and Addington and Peterborough counties, north of Number 7 Highway and parts of Victoria county. The season runs through November 18th. (Shotguns only are permitted in Ennismore, Smith, Douro, North Monaghan, Otonabee and Asphodel townships in Peterborough county.)

Hunting south of Number 7 Highway and north of Number Two Highway is permitted in the counties of Peterborough, Hastings, Lennox and Addington, Frontenac, Carleton county, west of the Rideau River, and western Leeds county, November 6 to November 11th.

Reports from Sudbury way are not too good. A Sudbury Star outdoor writer says: "The deer season is open and when you've said it, you've said almost everything. From all reports they are about as scarce as bikinis at the North Pole. Actually the first deer brought into a frozen food locker at the end of the first day's hunting was one shipped in from Nova Scotia."

"Lands and Forests men," the writer goes on, "have been out during the past week in the bush checking hunters and looking over the deer situation and report not one deer seen and very few fresh tracks noted."

"Even the reports coming in from Manitoulin Island where the season is not yet open don't sound too good."

"From all reports," the writer states, "it seems definite the deer population is working its way south from which direction it originally came. One could write a book on the reasons for this and still not come up with all the answers but in the main it goes back to the story of forest fires and lack of second-growth hardwoods which make favorite deer browse."

"In the past three days 596 hunters in 163 cars have been checked in by conservation officers and not one deer reported. This is in the area south of Highway Number 17," according to the writer.

"I believe," he says, "one of the reasons for this sad situation is the two previous bad winters and the number of hunters. This used to be terrific deer country but that was way back in 1947 before the whole world seemed to be flocking into the region."

Incidentally, for moose hunters the season opened yesterday through November 18 in the areas south of the French and Mattawa Rivers, including parts of the Nipissing district; counties of Haliburton, Renfrew, Lanark and the northern parts of Hastings, Frontenac, Lennox and Addington and parts of Victoria. Shotguns only are permitted in Ennismore, Smith, Douro, North Monaghan and Asphodel townships in Peterborough county.

Licence fees differ. You can buy the resident bear and deer licence for $5.00; farmer's bear and deer licence $2.00 and bear and moose licence $10.00.

Larivee Leads A.H. League

NEW YORK (AP) — Paul Larivee, veteran centre of Providence Reds, has taken over the American Hockey League's scoring lead on the strength of a seven - point pickup in four games last week.

Larivee has seven goals and 11 assists for 18 points. Bill Sweeney of Springfield Indians, defending scoring titleholder, is next with 17 followed by Willie Marshall of Hershey Bears 16, and Brian Kilrea, Springfield, 16.

Dennis Delpardy of Buffalo Bisons is the leading goaltender with an average yield of 1.82 goals a game.

I myself to his general attitude in ago Wednesday, Montreal Alouettes rocked the Canadian football game by trading quarterback Sam Etcheverry and end Hal Patterson to Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

In return, they were supposed to get quarterback Bernie Faloney and defensive end Don Pequette.

Patterson reported to Hamilton and Pequette came to Montreal, but the other half of the deal didn't go through. Etcheverry signed with St. Louis Cardinals of the National League and Faloney remained with the Tiger-Cats.

Hamilton finished first in the Eastern Conference this season while the Als, without any proven quarterback, finished last.

Would the Alouettes have made the playoffs if they had had Etcheverry and Patterson?

"We would have made it comfortably with Faloney at quarterback," Perry Moss, head coach and general manager of the Als, said today. "I'm satisfied in my own mind we'd never have made it with Sam.

CITES REASONS

"And for several reasons. One of them is the fact that Faloney has a better pass - catching record as a passer, as he showed in the game against Ottawa last year (Montreal lost). And the evidence is there that he can call a fight. Otherwise St. Louis would be using him.

"I'm not taking anything away from Etcheverry as a football player. He had his outstanding record as a passer, as he is kicker and as a gambling wild quarterback.

"But I could never reconcile myself to his general attitude in backing a serious match for a player. My rebuilding plan called for a running quarterback which he isn't."

Moss continued: "I hold the highest regard for Patterson. He's a great footballer but you can't have an unhappy player in camp. That's why I okayed the trade for him.

"I'm only sorry we didn't make a stronger effort to get Faloney. He was a dissatisfied boy and wanted to come here.

RULED TICATS' PROPERTY

After Etcheverry refused to report to Hamilton, Faloney took his case to court. The decision was that he was under Hamilton contract.

Moss said neither Etcheverry nor Patterson could have helped the Alouettes because of their injuries.

Etcheverry has been reinstated to Hamilton by displacement in recent St. Louis games as a result of an injury to his passing arm. Patterson missed the last half of the season for Hamilton with pulled tendons in his shoulder.

Patterson has accepted the whole situation gracefully, continued Moss. "I can't say the same for Etcheverry. On a radio program out of St. Louis recently he said I probably was laughing because he wasn't quarterbacking the Cardinals. That isn't true."

Moss, who leaves Wednesday for Calgary, United States, college scouting trip, said he is satisfied with his rebuilding plans.

"We'll be competitive in 1962," he added. "We did almost as well this season as in 1960 and without satisfactory quarterback backing."

Tops Thelen

Clark Leads Rushing

TORONTO (CP)—Don Clark of Montreal Alouettes rolled up a total of 1,143 yards rushing in Eastern Football Conference games this season, dethroning Ottawa Rough Riders' Dave Thelen as top ground-gainer.

League figures listed following the end of the regular season show Clark averaged 5.7 yards in 200 carries.

Thelen, who set a league record of 1,407 yards in 1960, finished second with 1,032 yards in 180 attempts, also for an average of 5.7 yards. He also led in rushing in 1959 with a record he exceeded the following year.

George Dixon of the Alouettes trailed Thelen with 906 yards in 138 carries for a 5.8 average. Cookie Gilchrist of Toronto Argonauts finished with a total of 749 yards, two more than Hon Stewart of Ottawa.

MANN SETS RECORD

Dave Mann of Toronto set a kicking record average of 46 yards in 107 punts, eclipsing the former Big Four mark of 47.34 yards set by Cam Fraser of Hamilton in 1955. Bernie Faloney of Hamilton followed Mann with an average of 45.7 yards in 50 punts.

Faloney hurled 22 touchdown passes while completing 156 of 274 attempts to lead passers. Toronto's Tobin Rote completed 220 of 389 passes, 16 for touchdowns. The Hamilton quarterback gained a total of 2,565 yards, less than Rote's figure of 3,090. But his completion percentage of .569 was slightly better than the Toronto quarterback's .566.

Mann also was the leading pass-receiver, taking 33 for a gain of 634 yards and an average gain of 12 yards. Hamilton's Gerry Dougall caught 40 passes and rolled up 532 yards for an average of 13.8 yards.

Don Sutherin of the Ticats led in pass interceptions, with 11 for a total of 150 yards regained.

Yankees Britons Draw

LEEDS, England (AP)—The U.S. amateur boxing team, coming off a shutout performance in London, fought a 4-4 draw with England Monday night on the second stop of its European tour.

A match against Ireland in Dublin is scheduled Nov. 10.

A hastily assembled and accordingly no coach Bert Taylor, inadequately trained U.S. team took a 10-0 beating in London a week ago from a British team that included several Olympic boxers.

Only two members of that team fought for England Monday night, and the U.S. team won three of the last four bouts to gain the tie.

Riders Will Be Healthy

OTTAWA (CP)—The sick bay report from the Ottawa Rough Riders football camp bodes ill for Toronto Argonauts.

General manager George Terlep said Monday that with the exception of defensive end Ted Smale the Riders should have all their injured back in action here Saturday against the Argos.

"We'll be in as good or better physical shape than last Saturday," Terlep said.

With three substitute halfbacks, Riders were in good enough shape Saturday to beat Argos 35-28 and claim home grounds for next Saturday's sudden - death Eastern Conference semi-final against Argos.

Halfback Ron Stewart, who appeared in only one play Saturday because coach Frank Clair didn't want to risk aggravation of his knee injury, will start.

Also expected to return are halfback Chuck Stanley, injured a month ago, and defensive half and flanker George Brancato, who last weekend missed his first game in five seasons with the Riders. He was hurt in practice.

Says Lunsford

Wrestling Helps Football

CALGARY (CP) — Earl (Earthquake) Lunsford says the things he learned in wrestling help him a lot on those extra yards as a fullback.

In his hometown of Stillwater, Okla., and later at Oklahoma A and M, Lunsford used this relaxed exercise to put muscle and balance into his five-foot-11, 205-pound frame.

The payoff has come in his professional career with Calgary Stampeders of the Western Football Conference and notably Monday afternoon in Vancouver when he ran 209 yards against B.C. to hold set a conference ground-gaining record for one season.

His total of 1,794 yards—more than a mile—is 72 more than the previous record set by Johnny Bright of Edmonton Eskimos in 1958. Accomplishing it in Wednesday's greatest thrill in the sport.

"I did a lot of amateur wrestling in high school," the freckled, 26-year-old said Monday. "It helps keep your weight evenly distributed and regain your equilibrium when you're hit.

"I've always been coached in college to run low and I worked on it quite a bit. You can spin and twist and get your head down to keep you on your feet and keep going."

This season, playing with a third-place team, Lunsford averaged better than 100 yards per game against every Western Conference club except Winnipeg and picked up 444 yards in four games against Eastern Conference teams.

Pitchers Need Help

'Bring Back Spitball' Says Frick

NEW YORK (AP) — Relaxed baseball rules, aimed at a record 7,730 home runs last season, have a strong ally in commissioner Ford Frick.

"I hope they bring back the spitball," Frick says. "The pitchers need help. Most of the ruling changes the past few years have favored the batter. Something has to be done to give the game more balance."

According to Frick, a proposal to legalize the spitter was submitted to the major league rules committee last month. The group is expected to consider it during the major leagues' meetings early in December in Tampa, Fla.

The similar proposal was submitted to the committee a few years ago but was turned down. Frick recalled. "This time I think there's even more cause to give the spitter. The fans will eventually get tired of seeing all those home runs. The spitball would help bring back the stolen base, the hit-and - run and the sacrifice and would give the fans something new."

Frick pointed out Joe Cronin, American League president, and Frank Shaughnessy, former president of the International League, also are in favor of the spitball's return.

"Shaughnessy has the right idea, I think," said Frick. "He says the greatest effect of the spitball is when you don't throw it. The batter will be kept off balance wondering when it's coming up. It would give the pitchers another weapon."

The spitball, outlawed in the early 1920s, moves up to the plate like a baseball, only faster, Frick pointed out.

"It's an easy pitch to make and is not too hard on the arm," Frick added. "It's also not unhittable. But it would cut down the career of many pitchers."

Win Western Title

VANCOUVER (CP) — St. James Rods, displaying more poise than their younger and lighter opponents, trounced Vancouver Canucks 6-2 before a crowd of 8,307 Monday night to win their fifth Western Canada junior football championship since 1954.

The Manitoba champions now will seek their third national title when they meet the Eastern Canada champions in the Canadian final Nov. 13 in Calgary.

The Rods took advantage of mistakes by the inexperienced Maroleaus to run up an early lead, then held their own with a hard - hitting defence in a rough, penalty-filled game that saw three players tossed out for rough play.

College President Blasts

Low State Of Pro Sports

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (CP) — The president of the college where basketball was invented in 1891 said Monday that "confusion, dishonesty and commercialism" have led the game away from the spirit that inspired its Ontario-born inventor.

Dr. Gordon S. Blaik, president of Springfield College where Dr. James Naismith, a native of Almonte, devised the game with a pair of peach baskets and a soccer ball, was speaking during the commemoration of the 70th anniversary of the birth of basketball.

Dr. Olds criticized what he called the low state of professional sports which he said had led to basketball betting scandals.

Naismith's invention of the game was described as the work of a young instructor trying to keep a restless gym class busy during the cold winter months.

Rain forced Monday's ceremonies indoors where there was no formal placing of the cornerstone for the two-wing Hall of Fame building scheduled to be completed in about five years.

Great players, coaches and officials of basketball past and present were on hand for the issuance of a special four - cent commemorative stamp by the post office department, the ceremonies and a dinner.

Two sons of the game's inventor, James S. Naismith of Cornell Christi, Tex., and John C. Naismith of Kansas City, Mo., were among the relatives who took part.

A standing ovation was given Raymond Kaighn, 82, sole survivor of the first basketball game played Nov. 6, 1891.

Marvin Stone of Toronto, rid ing Top Gallant was fourth with five points. Jim Elder of Aurora, Ont., Gaylord, the show's defending top rider, and six other entrants tied for the eight points but Stone's time of 33.5 seconds was the best.

Two out of the game's inventor, James S. Naismith of Cornell Christi, Tex., and John C. Naismith of Kansas City, Mo., were among the relatives who took part.

A standing ovation was given Raymond Kaighn, 82, sole survivor of the first basketball game played Nov. 6, 1891.

OUTDOORS with John Alden Knight

Fishermen Seek Consideration

For some reason or other, Federal and State departments in the U. S. have the knack of developing offensively bi-partisan attitudes when it comes to dealing with the wishes of the rank and file of the taxpayers.

Why this should be so, I'm sure I can't say. After all, it is the tax dollar that pays their salaries. But they keep on doing it, year after year.

This is particularly true of such bureaus as highway departments and—or forests and waters departments. These fellows are engineers (always the pronounce that word as though the only way to spell it were in capital letters) many of them self-styled, and they don't let you forget it. So they continue their merry ways and you and your layman's ideas can go hang.

Highway departments are particularly offensive along these lines. Roads, as you know, generally follow through the valleys in mountainous country. Also, this is the country in which you find trout streams. Thus, roads and trout streams usually go side by side.

GOOD EYE PRIMP

Then a highway department decides to build a new highway or improve an existing one. Do they pay the slightest attention to the welfare of the nearby stream? Not at all. They gouge out the hillsides and dump the rubble into the stream, regardless of what effect this may have on the fishing. In this way, they fill in and ruin many good pools. Then comes high water and the rubble is washed up and carried downstream. Within a short time a lovely stream becomes little more than a shallow ditch.

Years ago, before automobiles and super-highways had brought their dubious blessings to present-day civilization, we used to fish the upper waters of the East Branch of the Delaware River of New York State.

This was a famous place for big brown trout. Moreover, difficulty of access kept many anglers on a carp-to-carp division so that we had the East Branch pretty much to ourselves.

One pool in the East Branch was called Tlahmacher's Flat. From its generous waters we extracted many king-size brown trout over the years. By the same token, we used to scratch best with many more tackle busters which had no eyes on rods, lines and terminal gear. It was truly a wonderful place to fish, an angler's dream.

Then the Highway Department decided to build a new road through the valley. Instead of following the old road which served the farms of that valley, they chose the other side of the river, gouging and blasting the road bed out of hillsides of solid rock. The submerged ledges, of course, were covered with small rock and trash. The old trees - elm, maple and pine - which had shaded the pool were ripped out and destroyed. Now Tlahmacher's Flat is an unproductive, shallow stretch of water, not worth fishing.

SAME THING ELSEWHERE

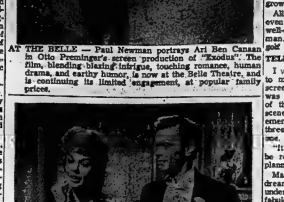
Here in the East our experience is not at all unique along this line. You have seen the same thing happen elsewhere in the country. Consider the flood-control work of the Army Engineers or the big-dam program of this group and the Bureau of Reclamation. The amount of damage these two outfits have done to the fishing and recreation facilities in our public waters is beyond estimate.

Now a new project is in progress, again by the Army Engineers, again in Pennsylvania. Route 17 which winds its way through the Catskills carries a great deal of traffic. It is an inadequate and dangerous and streams road to drive.

This road, as you may know, parallels for many miles the famous Beaverkill River and its tributary, the Willowemoc. These streams are outstanding in American angling history. They have been celebrated for a century in book, song, and story. About them hangs an aura of tradition not duplicated elsewhere in this country. They should be preserved as they are, a monument to angling in these United States.

But does the New York State Highway Department take this under consideration in their construction plans? Have they consulted with their Fish and Game Commission? Not so far as we can learn. They evidently plan to repeat the tragedy of the East Branch many years ago. What with bridges, fills, blasted-out hillsides, etc., the Beaverkill and the Willowemoc are slated for destruction.

Well, there has been much protest. Letters to the Governor and to the Highway Department from individual and sportsmen's groups so far have been to no avail. Protests in the public print seem to have little effect. And so Bureaucracy marches on its merry way, "laymen" to the contrary notwithstanding.



Well, I'm happy in the knowledge that I was lucky enough to have known many of these streams in their original condition. Too bad that future generations will not be able to avail themselves of the same privilege.

CHARGE POLICEMAN

MONTREAL (AP) — Harry Lazear veteran of the police force and sanitation department employee Monday were charged with stealing a truckload of cigarettes. Charged with theft and possession were Traffic Constable Louis Turcotte, 31, and Jacques Viens, 32. Preliminary hearing was set for Nov. 14.

AT THE BELLE — Paul Newman portrays Ari Ben Canaan in Otto Preminger's screen production of "Exodus". The film, blending blazing intrigue, touching romance, human drama, and earthy humor, is now at the Belle Theatre, and is continuing its limited engagement, at popular family prices.

AT THE PARK — Paul Massie romances Dawn Addams in an eerie scene from "House of Fright". New chiller in color now playing the Park Theatre. Ted Heath fill-in also in color "Girl in Room 13" features Brian Donlevy, Andra Martin and Elizabeth Howard. Both features are first showings.

Moira Jrs. Edge Quinte

Moira Juniors won the Bay of Quinte District championship yesterday by defeating their Quinte rivals 12-6 in a well fought contest. This game was the last in a best of three series. Each team had won a game previously in the series. Brilliant defensive play was the order of the day as a good crowd watched the game at Quinte.

During the first quarter both offensive units were held repeatedly by strong defensive squads. The offensive units were forced to punt on no less than six occasions in the first quarter of play. Not until late in the second period did either team have a good scoring opportunity. Midway through the quarter, Ken Vesterfelt recovered a Quinte fumble on a Moira look over at midfield. After short gains they were held and punted. Quinte gained possession on their own 30 yard line and began a drive which carried them to the Moira 20 before penalties where they were held and forced to punt. Moira too was held and punted. Quinte took over on the Moira twenty. They moved to the ten in two plays. Richard Eves scored the touchdown on a quarter-back keeper from five yards out. The convert was missed. This was the only scoring play in the first half.

The second half started as a repetition of the first, but in the third quarter the Moira offensive found itself. After each team had changed possession several times through punts, Moira gained possession at the Quinte forty yard line. They moved in six plays to the one. Dan Fraser scored through the centre of Moira's line. The convert was missed.

After the kick-off Moira began a march from their own forty yard line. Moira's Stan O'Brien intercepted a key pass to halt the drive and give Moira possession on their own forty yard line. Moira moved in five plays to the Quinte twenty on five runs by Dave Lloyd and Ron Faulkner. Dan Fraser scored his second major of the day on a ten yard run off tackle. The convert was missed.

Quinte came close to tying the game twice late in the fourth quarter. On one occasion they drove to the Moira five but were halted by a strong Moira defence. The game ended with Quinte in possession on the Moira thirty yard line.

Notable mention for Quinte goes to Leslie and Richard Eves, while the stars for Moira were Don Faulkner and Dan Fraser. A pat on the back goes to Moira's entire defensive team. Moira advances to the C.O.S.S.A. playoffs with Oshawa, in that city, on Saturday.

Heavy Work Cutting Into Golf Time Says MacMurray

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Fred MacMurray, switched families again this week-end.

Last week he was husband of Jane Wyman and father of Yvonne Kirk, Kathleen Crowley and Kevin Corcoran in Walt Disney's Son, Voyage.

This week he reunited as widower and father of Tim Considine, Don Grady and Stanley Livingston in TV's My Three Sons.

He also devotes his evenings and weekends to his real-life wife, June Haver, and their growing brood.

All this doesn't confuse or even exhaust MacMurray, a well-organized and resourceful man. "But it does cut into my golf time," he admitted.

TELLS OF HIS WORK

I visited Fred as he prepared to make the switch from one screen family to another. He was crawling through a replica of the Paris sewers for final scenes of Son Voyage. When he emerged, he looked only three lives, especially the TV one.

"It's working out all right," he remarked. "Not exactly as planned, but all right."

MacMurray was offered a dream deal to induce him to undertake My Three Sons—fabulous money plus the assurance he would work only three months a year. The schedule was adjusted so he could do all his scenes in one batch, then the rest of the show would be filmed later.

ROUTINE TRESOME

"It didn't work out exactly as planned," Fred said. "I ended up working four months instead of three."

"We started out shooting all my scenes in each set. First we'd go to the kitchen and do all the kitchen scenes from all the shows, then move into the living room. Well, that got a little tiresome—not because it was hard to shoot in bits and pieces, after all, we shoot movies out of sequence all the time.

"The thing that got me down was changing clothes all the time. So now we shoot my scenes from each show in sequence, going from one room to another. The rest of the cast do their scenes afterward."

Fred is happy with the way the series has gone. It is one of the top-rated shows.

Fred will be able to relax after the first of the year. He has no plans until the spring, when he returns to Disney's for Son of Flubber. It's a follow-up to Absent Minded Professor. The first movie that Walt has permitted a sequel to one of his hits.

Danny Kaye Makes Annual House Call to TV Success

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—That frequent but welcome visitor to television, Danny Kaye, made his annual house call Monday night via CBS. As usual, one's reaction to his dancing, singing and foreign language double-talk "goo, what a talented fellow."

Danny, however, seemed in a slightly different mood from his usual mood Monday night. His best moments came when he was not performing. He's at his best singing, half talking and songs about youth and age.

As if television didn't have enough troubles with current criticism of the quality of its programming, now comes word that the Federal Trade Commission will start looking closely at the content of its commercials.

Broadcasting, a trade magazine, reports that a prime FTC interest will be the commercials stating that "Four out of five doctors recommend . . ." and "Nine out of 10" movie stars. They will be asked to prove it.

ABC's Sunday night Follow The Sun is one of the season's new programs which started in a shaky condition.

The hour-long show is showpaced twin of last season's Hong Kong, on ABC, knocked out by NBC's Wagon Train, except that it has three heroes instead of one and the excitement is based in Hawaii.

Some other new shows which have proved disappointing — in terms of audiences — include ABC's New Breed, CBS' Johnnod and Me, Window on Main Street, Investigators, Father of the Bride, and NBC's Saint's Hundred and 87th Precinct.

The problem in many cases isn't so much the show itself as the opposition it faces. The New Breed, a pretty good police-action series, is a good example; it is opposed by Red Skelton, one of the top shows, and by The Dick Powell Show.

Recommend Tonight

Somebody's Waiting, NBC, 9-10 EST—Mickey Rooney in a serious dramatic program on The Dick Powell Show.

Moment of Decision, ABC, 10-11—Fred Astaire playing an escape artist in a non-dancing role.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Wednesday, November 8, 1961

General Tendencies: There is a decided temptation today to be very competitive and contentious in any discussions or associations whatever. Nevertheless, if you will channel all of the energy that is being released, you will be able to gain the good will and active assistance of influential personalities who will help you build a more solid foundation for yourself. Avoid all arguments tonight. Relax.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Make appointments early so that you can discuss at length with higher-ups whatever is of vital interest today. Plan to meet at some place that has good atmosphere. Take care to be warm and friendly in p.m., but avoid arguments.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) This is a very good day for discussing matters of policy with associates in every sphere of your life. Plan the future modus operandi more wisely. Forget business and concentrate upon having a good time in p.m. Don't argue.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) By co-operating harmoniously with others, you are able to accomplish a very great deal today. Get most of that piled-up work behind you, and respect the rights of helpers. Take it easy while driving this evening. Avoid disaster.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — By going to beauty or barber shop early you can then be prepared for a happy day of accomplishment or fun, since this will give you needed confidence. Take care in p.m. that you do not commit yourself beyond your means.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Until sunset time there is every opportunity to handle home affairs wisely and thereby please kin, but be sure not to work too hard or you may be tempted to start an argument this evening. Maintain what calm, gentle attitude instead.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23)— A particularly good day for shopping, keeping important appointments and then getting out with good pals for a good time. However, take care while out driver and avoid places where arguments could start easily.

Libra (Sept 23 to Oct. 22)— You are able to increase revenue, by handling wisely whatever practical matters concern you and your family today. Be clever. P.M. avoid that wheedling individual who would cause you to splurge.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)— By being friendly, you can today contact those persons who will be in a position to assist you to get ahead faster in your career. Sit down and write to those who are out-of-town. Tonight fine for riding favorite hobby with friends.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Ideal day to see banking experts and influential persons so that you can map out a more lucrative and practical future for yourself. Also, tonight a most dynamic friend gives fine support and wonderful ideas as well. Expand.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Now that an influential person realizes your true worth and merit, he, or she, is in the mood to give you the boost you need to go forward in life. Also, make new contacts that are worthwhile, but you will have to take the initiative.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can increase fame, fortune and prestige now by slinging down quickly with those who are in high position politically or in the field of business and art. Discuss affairs intelligently, kindly. Take them to dinner in p.m.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) If you contact close allies you will benefit greatly by the suggestions and ideas they proffer. Don't muff this opportunity. Ask leading questions that are important and listen carefully. Gain much where wisdom and philosophy are concerned, too.

If your child is born today—there will be much good, practical sense in this nature, and also a decided flair for investigation whatever is puzzling to him, or her. This leads to planting the feet firmly on the ground and then making a fine success of whatever profession your progeny may choose. Will power and perseverence here are almost phenomenal so be sure to give spiritual training, too.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itch—without pain. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "shrinkage of hemorrhoidal tissue" was reported and verified by doctors' examinations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very large number of long-standing conditions, some of over 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, astringents or dangerously constricting agents. And this in any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body!

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Wing Presents Wheel Chairs To 3 Counties

The November meeting of 418 Wing was held at 6 R.D. Repair Depot Thursday, with 35 in attendance.

Cpl. M. Bell of the R.C.A.F. Photo Section showed a number of pictures of the acceptance by the President of Medical Supply Chairman, of the 13th wheel chair purchased by the Wing for the Air Force for free charge, by persons in the Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington Counties.

Another milestone was added to the Wing's accomplishments of service by the formation of a community band to form upon Air Cadet squadron. It has been felt for some time by a number of Wing members that an open squadron should be formed to give more opportunity to the youths of this district, to familiarize themselves with the highly trained R.C.A.F.

A film was shown on the work the Universal Service Committee of Canada was doing for the needy children and adults in Greece, South Korea and Northern India. It was moved and seconded that the Wing's decision to become a foster parent to one or more of these needy children be left to the executive.

It was reported a very successful Hallowe'en dance was held on Saturday, October 28th, with the majority being in costume. The winner of the fair looker, which was drawn for at the dance, was Mrs. D. Totten, 208 William Street, Belleville.

The speaker for the evening was F/L Wentworth of 6 R.D. Acceptance and Ferry Flight, who outlined the work this department is called upon to perform. Many thanks to F/L Wentworth for the gifting of his time to bring this information to us.

The usual buffet lunch followed.

FIRE DESTROYS

and Laverne Andrews and Cliff Robertson.

Former vice - president Nixon was working on his forthcoming book, Six Crises, in his rented Brentwood home when he and research assistant Al Moscow noticed flames a few hundred yards away. Nixon, lose in hand, clambered up the roof and watered the shingles. Firemen ordered him, Moscow and a fireman forced to leave. They took his manuscript.

RESCUE DOG

They relurged later to recover personal effects and rescue Nixon's cocker spaniel Checkers. Among the personal effects: Recordings of Nixon's talks with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The house, leased from producer Walter Lantz, was a total loss. The Nixon family spent the night at a downtown hotel.

Flames leaped from the garage near the entrance to Red Skelton's home, $200,000 estate. But firemen pumped water from the comedian's swimming pool and saved the home. Skelton and wife Georgia were en route home from Boston. His 13-year-old daughter Valentina and the household staff were evacuated.

The $400,000 home of Zsa Zsa Gabor—loaded with paintings, jewelry and furs—was a smoldering ruin. She obtained the mansion in a property settlement when she divorced millionaire hotelman Conrad Hilton.

All that was left of Burt Lancaster's hillside home were two stone chimneys, a waterlogged baseball diamond, scorched exercise-bicycle and bedsprings.

KIM SPRAYS BOOM

Kim Novak, clad in leotard and skimpy blouse, hurried home from a movie studio, climbed the roof of her Bel-Air home, worth an estimated $200,000, and sprayed a hose over the property, which was saved. The blonde actress, her face besmirched with soot, her blouse soaked, emerged unhurt with her fiancee, director Richard Quine, who ripped his trousers.

Joe E. Brown lamented to reporters: "Everything went so quick. It was over. We were almost burned out 20 years ago when we lived in another canyon home. But we got off lucky—that time."

"I can't talk to you right now," said Marlon Brando, rescued by police as he scurried about his Japanese-style house atop Mulholland Drive. "I'm kinda busy." The fire let up in the immediate area, but it could be seen for miles. Fire ate up its way up on the roof and water it down." His home was left intact.

Actors James Garner and Doctor Walter Lantz also used hoses to save their homes.

FLEETS WITH ART

Art collector James Vigeveno fled from his suite in the Bel-Air Hotel with an auto load of 40 paintings, including works of Modigliani, Utrillo and Picasso. A friend estimated their value at about $500,000.

Wind-whipped flames roared through sleep canyons, exploding at times into a dreaded "fire storm," which occurs when flames get so hot they generate their own winds, up to 100 m.p.h. or more and devour everything in their path.

The brunt of the fire is in a compact complex of mansions and vast estates — where the smallest chimneys, a mere $40,000 and costs jump past the $500,000 mark.

Homes in the area have been caused by spontaneous combustion—brush becoming so dry that it literally explodes into flames.

Cross-Canada Survey

Prairie Drought Causes Higher Grain Prices, Less Farm-Equipment Purchases

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The dollars-and-cents impact of Prairie drought on the Canadian economy is unfolding slowly.

A Cross - Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows that effects range from higher feed-grain prices in central and eastern Canada to reduced Prairie retail and farm-equipment purchases.

A preliminary government estimate forecasts the main slump in farm income will occur in early 1962 when grain reserves dwindle.

The hit out of the value of farm produce for Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta may run around $300,000,000.

Saskatchewan would suffer most with a dip of $250,000,000, almost halving the 1960 gross value of farm output of $500,000,000, says the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool.

Manitoba would follow, down perhaps $70,000,000 from 1960 at about $345,000,000.

Alberta, where drought last missed northern areas, is least affected. R. E. English, Alberta statistician, estimates gross farm will be only slightly less than last year's $459,000,000.

FEAR 1962 CRISIS

Drought again next year—and prospects are not good on the basis of low moisture reserves—would mean a crisis for many.

While selling have been better than originally expected in many areas, farm equipment sales have slackened, though it is suggested this may partly be due as much to over-stocking as to actual drought reaction.

Federal finance and credit agent - day marketing practices have climbed out the doldrums in Prairie purchasing power to some extent. Diversity, including special crops and beef, and increased prices have lightened the losses.

"On the whole I was very pleasantly surprised, particularly in southern areas," said Chairman T. J. Rutherford of the Farm Credit Corporation which handles loans to farmers. He has just completed a Prairie tour with field representatives.

Farm equipment sales are down but a heartening attitude appears to have occurred even before the drought, he says. More farmers now appear to feel they can carry on with adequate machinery for another year or two.

Corporation loans totalled $61,000,000 last year and after six months of the new crop year—April 1 to Oct. 1—were running ahead of the 1960 rate at $46,000,000, Alberta alone had taken more than all last year.

Few of the loans are to pay debts, says Mr. Rutherford. Most are for land purchases or for barns and cattle - raising operations.

There have been few immediate drought repercussions outside the Prairies. Some items, such as aluminum pipe and running shoes, have shown increased sales. September layoffs of about 4,000 men at Massey - Ferguson Company plants in Toronto, Brantford, Ont., and Woodstock, Ont., provided the sharpest Ontario reaction. A drought-inspired backlog was blamed. The plants produce mostly harvesting equipment.

Higher feed-grain prices are reported from the Maritimes to Ontario. Prices have gone up $10 a ton, say Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island customers. But easing that condition has been a prolific pasture and fodder season in central and eastern Canada.

Ontario, which can buy United States corn at competitive prices in many areas, also had a good silage year.

There has been no visible decline in any of the few items—some manufactured commodities, seed potatoes, canned apples — going west from the Maritimes.

Quebec reports no industrial layoffs attributable to the drought. Feed grains have risen by 10 cents or more a hundredweight in the province. Dominion Rubber Company at Montreal says sales of canvas footwear on the Prairies "exploded" due to dry conditions but it will take time to see the impact on other lines.

Clothing salesmen from Montreal report no firm trend toward reduced Prairie purchases but say it is too soon to tell. It was noted, however, that Prairie sales have not shared the increase evident in the rest of the country.

Aluminum sulphate, used for water purification, had larger-than-usual Prairie sales while aluminum tubing for irrigation was in much heavier demand as the drought progressed.

In Ontario, except for Massey-Ferguson, little drought impact was recorded. Massey - Ferguson reported sales down generally for North America as U.S. Midwest drought contributed to the fall.

Other industries, including Canada-wide retail outlets such as Simpson-Sears, say spring will be the time when clearer indications of drought impact will materialize.

Canadian Industries Limited says the possibility of a decline in sales of farm insecticides and weed killers in ammunition sales were expected to drop due to the bad year for Prairie-potbole duck populations.

In British Columbia, business spokesmen are more concerned with later effects than with present trends. No layoffs are attributed to the drought so far. There are some suggestions that farmers' plans for winter west coast vacations may be dropped, paring tourist income.

Here is the picture for each of the Prairie provinces:

MANITOBA

There were reductions in orders for general products, particularly in the food-processing industry, but this is believed to have passed. Orders for harvest equipment declined but farm receipts have risen from good years helped ease the impact on sales of other farm machinery, autos and trucks and appliances.

No serious labor layoffs developed, as first feared. Some reductions were noted in rural retail store purchases.

Gurney Evans, Manitoba minister of industry and commerce, said the net result of drought might be to curb the rise in economic activity that otherwise would have resulted.

The provincial economy was diversified to the point where mining, forestry and industry could take up much of the slack.

Rudy Usick, president of the Manitoba Farmers Union, declared, however, that the full effects of the drought has yet to be felt.

"If next year's is bad, we'll be in a grim position."

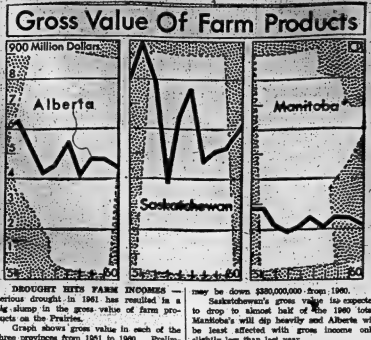
He said feed and seed reserves are low and a second consecutive drought would mean that "large numbers of farmers would be forced to sell out and seek employment off the land."

SASKATCHEWAN

The province with the most to gain from good crews and the most to lose from drought is the main victim in predicted Prairie harvest of 230,000,000 bushels of wheat compared with 488,500,000 last year.

A big drop in farm machinery sales is noted by the provincial economic and advisory planning board. This includes trucks. Barring good prospects next spring, the drop is expected to increase sharply.

Auto sales are down $1,225,000,000 for the first six months of the year, although grocery sales picked up, perhaps due to shortages of farm-grown products in a dry year. In July, when drought loomed large, retail sales dipped nearly 12 per cent. They were down five per cent in August.



CATTLE SALES UP

Higher livestock marketings—running ahead of normal due to the discounted Canadian dollar and high feed and fodder prices — have helped cushion the farm income drop. Although payments under the Prairie Farm Assistance Act for crop failures may reach $30,000,000 this is half the total once expected.

In a province where agriculture accounts for one-third or more of the value of total commodity production, many manufacturing farmers are expected to be wiped out if drought returns next year. Even more grasshopper damage is anticipated with another dry year.

ALBERTA

The pattern of rainfall split

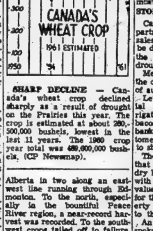
DROUGHT HITS FARM INCOMES

Serious drought in 1961 has resulted in a big slump in the gross value of farm products on the Prairies.

Graph shows gross value in each of the three provinces from 1951 to 1960. Preliminary estimates indicate the total for Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba this year may be down $300,000,000 from 1960.

Little if any unemployment due to the drought is reported. R. M. Putnam, deputy minister of agriculture, said the grain crop would be two - thirds of normal but that higher prices would help offset the drop. He said livestock producers, paying higher prices, would suffer most.

STORES FEEL EFFECT



Calgary and Edmonton department stores report reduced sales but spokesmen say it may be due to the publicity given to the drought as well as the drought itself.

Medicine Hat, in the heart of the dry belt, reports lower sales of autos and kitchen appliances.

Lethbridge can count on special crops flourishing on irrigation—"the ditches saved our bacon this year," said one banker — although retail customers are devoting more time to shopping for bargains.

There are some indications that real estate in the Alberta dry belt is moving more slowly, with a levelling off in land values that have been rising for the last three years on property running east from Calgary to the Saskatchewan border.

An Alberta Wheat Pool spokesman said small - town sales of hard goods dropped markedly during the summer and that big farm operators with cash reserves are ready to step in and acquire smaller holdings where other farmers are hard-pressed.

SHARP DECLINE — Canada's wheat crop declined sharply as a result of drought on the Prairies this year. The crop is estimated at about 280,500,000 bushels, lowest in the last 11 years. The 1960 crop (gear total) was 488,000,000 bushels. (CP Newsmap).

Alberta in two along an east-west line running through Edmonton. To the north, especially in the bountiful Peace River region, a near-record harvest was recorded. To the southwest crops tailed off to failure.

President Hi Nelson of the Alberta Farmers Union said the drought has proved diversification of crops is the "whole answer" to central Alberta farming. Oil crops such as rapeseed—good even in drought—could help.

Rylstone

RYLSTONE — Ted Reid, Grant Hagman and Kalvin Sharpe, members of the Stirling 4-H Calf Club, spent a few days last week at Toronto where they attended the Ontario Winter Fair and exhibited their calves, representing Hastings County. All three calves were placed in the first group and Rylstone's own 4-H member came ninth. The boys report a real good time.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Stewart visited over the week-end with Mrs. Jessie Morrison, in Cobourg General Hospital, on Tuesday, where she is a patient awaiting surgery.

Mrs. Kelly Joyce visited her parents, Mrs. Bert Sokins, in Springbrook, on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dunsen, of Hamilton spent the week-end here, with her brother, Thomas McKeown, his wife and daughter Agnes and her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Solmes and family, at Springbrook. On Sunday, they called on their aunts, Mrs. Lily Anderson and Mrs. John Stewart, in the Rylstone cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Granston and Gerry of Odessa spent the week-end with relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. William Donaldson and Susan, Peterborough, and Mrs. Albert Holland, Havelock, called on Mrs. Jessie Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. John Stewart and family, on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Ann Cleaveland, Mrs. Stirling and Mrs. Clarence Bunsalla, Harold, were supper guests of Mrs. Clarence Cleaveland's sister, Mrs. Cora Reid on Saturday evening.

Several from here attended anniversary services at Springbrook United Church on Sunday morning and evening when the Rev. Noel. Nicholls, a former Campbellford boy brought the message.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Spencer and Gary, Oshawa, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Spencer and boys.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Morton and grandson Reed, were dinner guests of her sister, Mrs. Susie Heath, in Campbellford, on Sunday.

SEES FULL EMPLOYMENT

HAVANA (AP) — Economic Minister Ernesto (Che) Guevara says unemployment will be wiped out in Cuba by the end of 1962. He told a meeting of directors of state factories and farms there will be no per 8.30-per-cent approved in 1956.

Final Count in Census Will Probably Show Canada With 18,200,000 Population

By ALAN DONNELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — The final count from this year's census probably will show Canada with a population of close to 18,200,000 at June 1.

The first official report on final census figures by the bureau of statistics is not expected until early next year.

However, a series of preliminary reports issued by the bureau in the last three months and totalled by The Canadian Press gives a population of 17,954,000 in Canada's organized municipal districts.

If this year's count follows the pattern of the last census in 1956, the population in the country's unorganized districts—together with various small areas should add about another 1,180,000 persons to the total.

A population of 18,200,000 would mean a growth of 13.2 per cent in the five years since the 1956 census—short of the 14.6 per-cent increase in the five years 1951 to 1956.

Canada's population climbed from 14,009,429 to 16,080,791 between the 1951 and 1956 censuses—an increase of 1,071,362. A population of 18,200,000 would mean a further gain of some 2,119,209.

FEWER IMMIGRANTS

The country's net gains from immigration in the last five years have been up to the crest of the previous period.

Official estimates published by the Bank of Canada puts the population at 18,188,000 on June 1—figure based on birth and death records together with estimates of net migration. gains since the 1956 census.

In the 1956 census, the preliminary report of population in organized municipalities added up to 15,092,783. This was 8.38 per cent short of the final, official figure of 16,080,791.

About 84 per cent of the total, officials say, were persons enumerated in the final figure during the census and not included in the preliminary figures. The rest of those not shown in the preliminary report were living in areas unorganized municipalities.

Preliminary reports of this year's census add to 17,954,580.

However, the difference between this and the final figure may not be as great as the

FARMER OUT GROWTH

For one thing, a number of areas that were unorganized in 1956 have since become municipalities and thus are included in this year's preliminary report. Moreover, it appears now that the population of urban centres has been growing at a faster rate than Canada's hinterland.

One unknow factor that could affect the population total was a new measure adopted this year hastily to ensure that city households were not missed in the census-taking. Post office lists of addresses were checked for this purpose.

Following are totals in thousands by provinces from the preliminary reports, with 1956 figures shown for comparison:

Lending Rate On Mortgages Down ¼ PC

OTTAWA (CP) — The lending rate under the National Housing Act for home-owner mortgages and rental housing has been reduced to 6¼ per cent from 6½, Works Minister Walker announced Monday.

The reduction applies in proportion to a variety of projects entitled to NHA financing—such as loans for low-rental and elderly - persons housing and advances for university housing projects and research and treatment programs.

In all these cases, the rate is reduced to 5¾ per cent from the present 6.

Mr. Walker, noting in a statement that the decline reflects a drop in the federal government borrowing rate, also announced that the charge on the government's share of capital expenditures for federal - provincial housing and land assembly projects has been reduced to 5 per cent from 5½.

He said the reduced NHA rate of 6¼ per cent for home-owner mortgages will lower by 2.2 per cent the monthly payments on NHA mortgages.

Queen To Pay 11-Day Visit To Ghana

Prime Minister Makes Announcement in House

LONDON (CP) — The Queen will pay an 11-day visit to Ghana starting Thursday as scheduled despite a series of bomb blasts in the French West African nation, it was announced today.

The announcement was made by Prime Minister Macmillan in the House of Commons.

Earlier he had heard a first-hand report on security arrangements from Commonwealth Secretary Duncan Sandys, who returned from Ghana's capital of Accra this morning.

Four explosions, apparently aimed at the government of President Kwame Nkrumah, were set off in Accra Saturday night and Monday night.

Macmillan said of the Queen: "She has never been deterred in undertaking previous tours because of personal risk to herself which is inevitable, especially when great crowds are assembled."

RISK NO GREATER

"The government has reached the conclusion that the degree of risk attaching to this tour is no greater than that which has been present in many of her previous journeys," Macmillan said.

Macmillan said the Queen's safety was the primary consideration, although "no royal tour is without risk."

He added:

"On the information and advice received by us, the government has formed the view the explosions do not indicate any intention to perpetrate acts of violence during the Queen's visit which would endanger Her Majesty's safety.

"The cancellation of this visit would seriously impair the invaluable contributions made by the Queen's journeys toward strengthening of the ties which bind together . . . people of the Commonwealth."

PMs CONSULTED

The prime minister said the decision to go ahead with the tour was made after consultations with all other Commonwealth prime ministers, with no government objections.

"On behalf of the whole House we send the Queen our warmest wishes for the success of her visit to Ghana," Macmillan said.

Opposition Labor party leader Hugh Gaitskell joined in wishing the Queen a safe and successful trip.

Macmillan announced the go-ahead for the trip after a 48-hour security check by Sandys.

Sandys and Nkrumah yesterday drove along the route planned for the royal procession in Accra. It has been heavily decked with hundreds of British, Ghanaian and Commonwealth flags.

Outside Parliament House, they stopped to inspect decorations to a 50-foot statue of Nkrumah with a sculptured bomb explosions Saturday night.

Milling crowds lined the route, the first visit by Sandys — head of a group of ministers in Ghana — to such a gathering.

A firm indication that the royal visit would go ahead as planned was given in Accra Tuesday with the arrival of the royal yacht Britannia at the port of Takoradi.

Macmillan said the Queen's safety was the primary consideration, although "no royal tour is without risk."

He added:

"On the information and advice received by us, the government has formed the view the explosions do not indicate any intention to perpetrate acts of violence during the Queen's visit which would endanger Her Majesty's safety.

"The cancellation of this visit would seriously impair the invaluable contributions made by the Queen's journeys toward strengthening of the ties which bind together . . . people of the Commonwealth."

DEMOCRATS DEAL STUNNING PUNCH TO REPUBLICANS

Win N.Y. Race, N.J. Governorship

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Democrats dealt a stunning one-two punch to the Republican party in two major elections in New York City and New Jersey on Tuesday as voter unrest was apparent in many parts of the United States.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner, a multi-millionaire man who modestly turned down his big successful campaign as "self promotion" in city affairs, was elected to a third four - year term as mayor of New York City by a slightly less than 400,000 votes in a three-man race.

As had been expected, he breezed past Republican Louis J. Lefkowitz and Independent Lawrence R. Gerosa, but the margin was more than 500,000 votes less than in 1957 when there were only two major candidates.

New Jersey elected its first Roman Catholic governor, Democrat, in a major upset that saw President Kennedy's decision to personally back the loser pay off.

Richard J. Hughes, a little known liberal Democrat, knocked off a nationally-known liberal Republican, Gov. Robert Mitchell, also a Catholic, in a cliff-hanger finish.

Hughes, a former judge, won by less than 40,000 votes in a poll of more than 2,000,000. Kennedy, himself the first Catholic ever to be elected president of the United States, carried the state by only 22,000 votes a year ago.

Both parties had used heavy artillery in the New Jersey campaign. Kennedy and former president Eisenhower campaigned for Hughes. Former president Harry

PICKET JOSTLES RED EMBASSY PARTY OFFICIAL

Calls on Guests To Boycott Party

OTTAWA (CP)—A picket who shouted insults and jostled a Russian embassy official on the embassy fence Tuesday night was shooed off by police who had to escort the ambassador's annual cocktail reception honoring the Bolshevik revolution.

About a score of pickets with placards and banners converged on the building in east-central Ottawa as hundreds of guests were invited to the party to support and drink. It was orderly except for the picket who danced on the steps, which we over in a few minutes and passed uneventfully for the rest of the night.

Vasili Welsh, secretary of the Canadian Anti-Communist Secretariat, entered the embassy grounds—usually Russian territory—to pose for photographers on the steps. An embassy official reached him and said politely:

"Please to go outside the gates."

"Don't," shouted Welsh to fellow-workers approaching with more leaflets calling on guests to boycott the party. "The Red Army's not here now."

Approaching closer, the embassy official pointed out the ground grounds aren't Canadian soil.

"We're bloody right it's Canada," retorted Mr. Welsh. "I fought for Canada."

The official turned to mount the steps, evidently to call police, Mr. Welsh shoved him on the shoulder and shouted:

"Scram inside you dirty Soviet spy . . . You Red swine!"

Being Crowded Off Fishing Banks Report

QUINCY, Mass. (AP)—John Stimberis, a commercial fisherman, said Tuesday he has reported to United States Navy intelligence instances of U.S. fishing boats crowded off Georges Bank, 180 miles east-southeast of Cape Cod, by Russian trawlers.

Stimberis said the Russians have been using small vessels to set nets that pose a threat to the fish supply.

He said also that he and no other fisherman from the trawler Winnecook aboard that Russian fishing supply boat recently and received a "letter requesting that we get aboard the Queen Mary."

"We made a tour of the entire ship," Stimberis continued. "Hid were deluged by the crew with invitations and gifts, varieties to take back to our wives and children.

"We talked no politics or bombs. Our visit was entirely friendly."

The Russian vessel had well-equipped carpentry and net repair facilities than any American merchant ship he had seen.

But he said Russian trawlers are beginning to crowd American vessels off Georges Bank in disregard of international law. He suggested the navy should patrol the banks to keep an eye on things.

Canadian Trucker's Romance Hits Snag When Wife Turns Up

LONDON (CP) — The romance of a member of the Canadian truck driver and the Devon girl he complicated today by a third party—the truck driver's wife.

Monday British newspapers carried the announcement of the engagement of 23-year-old Peter Doran to wealthy debutante Elizabeth Rhys, a friend of Princess Alexandra.

Tuesday night, the couple was confronted with 28-year-old Tessa Doran, who lives with her four-year-old son in Hamilton, Ont.

"I am absolutely horrified the way my husband has behaved," Mrs. Doran was quoted as saying. "How I shall see about a divorce."

Miss Rhys, 19-year-old niece of Lord Dynevor and a descendant of the Duke of Wellington, met Doran at a roadside canteen three weeks ago. An engagement notice published in The Times identified Doran as coming from Hamilton, Ont.

Doran told British reporters it is "true" that he is married to Tessa, but said he wants a divorce.

Miss Rhys lives with her parents near Reading, Berkshire.

UN Attack on Colonialism Launched on Three Fronts

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The Soviet bloc and a host of Asian - African countries today pressed one of the bitterest attacks on Western colonial powers in UN history.

Colonialism was under simultaneous fire in the 103-country General Assembly and two of its main committees. However, there was no stream so far in Communist domination of subject peoples, while United States countered that Russia is using colonialism as a pretext for a propaganda attack on the West.

Kennedy, Nehru Far Apart On How to Solve Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy and Indian Premier Nehru, reported to be still far apart on how to solve the Laotian crisis, have pressed on with efforts to achieve a nuclear test ban treaty and other arms control measures.

The talk will be the third session between the two men. They did not meet publicly but got together again until Thursday.

Officials say Kennedy and Nehru have discussed most of the main problems of the cold war, including Southeast Asia, Berlin and nuclear testing.

The latter was one of the points of disagreement reported between the United States and Britain before Nehru's arrival Monday. The issue: A test ban treaty with controls, which the U.S. wants, vs. a treaty without controls, which India feels is the immediate need.

Nehru, informants said, held that a voluntary moratorium on testing already has been agreed to by the Soviet Union and that this would not stop an agreement on outside intrusion.

In the trusteeship committee a parade of Communist, Asian and African countries blasted Portugal for the way it runs its overseas territories.

In the special political committee, country after country piled into South Africa's white supremacist policy and pointed to it as an outgrowth of the colonial system.

Colonialism also was probably in for another going-over in the main political committee, which opened debate on an Afro-Asian resolution demanding that it be applied to the remaining trust territories as well as foreign bases on the continent be liquidated. With the powerful 48-member Afro-Asian bloc and a number of other states, most of the resolutions against colonial practices were virtually certain to win approval.

Ecuador Army Installs Supreme Court Judge Pres.

GUAYAQUIL (AP) — Camilo Gallegos Toledo, president of the Supreme Court, took office today as the country's new chief executive with the backing of the armed forces.

President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra quit Tuesday night under pressure from the military and opposition. He now has been flown to Panama, his country for three times and thrown out three times.

Army leaders decided to support Gallegos. Later Gen. Gonzalo Freire, director of the National Military Academy, announced the army's decision to the country's people.

Gallegos was reported to be making up a cabinet list representing all parties in order to restore peace to this strife-torn country.

By backing the court president, the army passed over both Velasco Ibarra and left-leaning Carlos Julio Arosemena, the vice-president. Gallegos was second in succession to the presidency after Arosemena.

Reports during the night have said Congress proclaimed Arosemena president.

Velasco Ibarra apparently resigned under army pressure.

His whereabouts were not clear. There were reports he had flown to Panama and others that he had taken refuge in the Argentine Embassy.

Arosemena, arrested early Tuesday by Velasco Ibarra, was released from prison during the night. His present whereabouts also were unknown.

Velasco Ibarra had accused Arosemena, his second political ally, of being a Communist and attempting to set up a dictatorship.

Gallegos is expected to call national elections soon to choose a constitutional president for the country.

The officials said the army is making itself responsible for public order and has called on all workers to return to their jobs.

Velasco Ibarra's popularity has declined sharply recently ago as a result of economic hardship resulting from falling prices for Ecuador's chief exports — bananas, coffee, cocoa and rice — and a host of new taxes the president decreed to combat inflation.

Eggs Thrown At Kenyatta

LONDON (AP) — Militant British Africans threw eggs at Jomo (Burning Spear) Kenyatta, Kenya nationalist leader, here today, as he arrived at the colonial office for talks on the East African colony's future and as he left.

The egg that hit Kenyatta's car window as he left the office arrived was fresh. The one that struck Kenyatta as he left it two hours later was rotten. Both throwers were arrested.

The eggs were a protest against conference Kenyatta," said the first thrower, apparently a member of the right-wing group which opposes independence for Britain's colonies.

Kenyatta, the president of the Kenya African National Union, is discussing the new constitution for the colony with Colonial Secretary Reginald Maudling.

Kingston Worst Offender When It Comes to Breaking Smoke By-Law

KINGSTON (CP)—The City of Kingston is a chronic embarrassed today.

Last year, city officials have been trying to control black smoke belched from many factories and buildings.

Tuesday night the city's administrative committee heard a preliminary report on smoke pollution.

And the two worst offenders are the Kingston communist center and the Brock Street fire station.

In a report to the committee, Ald. Morton, new chairman of the smoke abatement committee, said it is difficult to enforce a by-law "if we ourselves aren't abiding by it."

He suggested the city buy a better grade of coal which would not pollute the atmosphere so much.

Ald. Morton said the smoke abatement group suggests a full-time pollution inspector be hired for 1962.

W. Goodfellow New Minister Of Highways

Kelso Roberts Retains Attorney-General Post

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's Front era ends officially today.

The man who guided the province's development through 22 of its most prosperous and progressive years was scheduled to preside over his last cabinet meeting as he turns over the premier's office to John P. Robarts, and became simply Leslie M. Frost, private member of the legislature for Victoria.

If he is due for other posts in public life, he hasn't let anyone in on it.

Speculation has had him becoming a senator, ambassador to United States, chief organizer of Canada's 1967 centennial celebrations, a representative in the United Nations and high commissioner in the United Kingdom.

But the 66-year-old Lindsay lawyer never bowed to make hasty pronouncements, remained true to form by remaining constant on his decision.

Mr. Frost, who quit as Ontario Conservative leader this summer to let someone else have a crack at the premiership, retained and tightened his reputation as Canada's most successful leader.

WIDE DISPUTE SCANDALS

He has never suffered an electoral defeat since entering the legislature in 1926. He led his party to thumping majorities in 1955 and 1959 and dispute scandals involving highway contracts and natural gas pipeline stock deals by members of his cabinet.

Never given to flamboyance, he had an appeal to voters that was difficult to analyze. He was probably related in an overwhelmingly conservative way to personal integrity and a seemingly instinctive sense of propriety.

Ontario voters would not look right, he refused to crown Queen Elizabeth at the Wakefield Royal York Hotel in Toronto although he had made it quite there in a number of years. At the same time, he declined to take a bath in the town.

Remembrance Day Observed By Kiwanians

Kiwanians were urged to dedicate themselves to preserving the good things about the Canadian way-of-life, particularly amongst the young people, by Chaplain Robert P. Condon of RCAF Station Trenton, guest speaker at the local service club's annual Remembrance Dinner in the Kiwanis Centre yesterday afternoon.

Mentioning the fact that many of the people, who will be observing Remembrance Day will have no knowledge of the events which happened in the Second World War because they were not present at that time, Padre Condon, a graduate of Mount Allison and Dalhousie universities, noted that they would not remember the national days of prayer, such as that held on June 5, 1944, which took place during that conflict.

Today there is a feeling of moral decay throughout the country and much criticism of it is interpreted by many as freedom from going to church", he said. Church attendance is only a figure of 40 per cent as regards Protestant denominations who never worship on Sundays and mentioned that for many others prayer is only indulged in except when the calendar suggested the time may be appropriate.

There is a trend today for people to be more interested in getting what one can no matter what the consequences may be. Because of this decadent attitude it becomes more necessary than ever before for leadership amongst young people, he advised. It is the youth who will be in the conflicts to preserve the nation and the freedom of the individual or to be worthless.

Colorful poppies which people will be wearing in observance of Remembrance Day were on the tables for their own decals but of others' sacrifice in the Second World War, said Wear it proudly, he concluded.

Following his address the Last Post and Reveille were blown by Bandmaster R. Green of the Salvation Army.

Preceding the Remembrance address all Kiwanians were led in a number of songs popular amongst both World War I and World War II service personnel by Canon A. S. McConnell with Major John Carter of the Salvation Army at the piano.

Two musical numbers were introduced by Kiwanian past president Mark Vanner, Phil Allison, manager of Northern Electric and introduced by Kiwanian Jack Stewart and Grant Harrison, an employee of the McColl Turner firm of charterers, introduced the guests by past president George Tripp, were the two new members of the club.

President Bob Brain presided over the initial part of the meeting with Canon McConnell acting as chairman of the Remembrance Dinner program.

Veterans and City Organizations To Observe Remembrance Day

War veterans' organizations of the city in conjunction with others will again mark Remembrance Day with a parade and memorial service at the city Cenotaph on Station Street.

The parade and service will take place on Saturday, Nov. 11th, emanating from the Station Street armouries at 10.30 a.m.

Markers, bandmasters and the color party will report to the parade marshal at 10.15. At 10.20 the various units will "fall- in" and at 10.30 the parade will move off. At 10.55 it will be formed over to the chaplains in charge of the service at the Cenotaph.

The parade will move from the armouries to Bridge St., to Pinnacle St., to Station St. and the Cenotaph.

The order of march will be the color parties, parade marshal and representatives Dominion, Provincial and Municipal governments; the Regular RCAF Band, Trenton; Queen and Prince Edward Regiment Band, Sea Cadets, Army Cadets from RCTC, Trenton; Cadets led by the Quinte Secondary School Band, Royal Canadian Legion and Ladies' Auxiliary, Army Veterans and Ladies' Auxiliary and Naval Band, RCAF Association, Navy League, Canadian Legion Pipe Band, Boy Scouts, civilian organizations and the police and fire departments detachments.

Following the service will follow the placing of wreaths at the foot of the Cenotaph.

This will be in the following order: the Governor of Canada, Province of Ontario, City of Belleville, Royal Canadian Navy, the Army, the Air Force, Veterans, Naval Veterans, RCAF Association, Royal Canadian Legion branches, civic and municipal and individuals.

An honor guard of four sea cadets will man each corner of the Cenotaph with reversed arms.

Canon A. S. McConnell, Padre Carter of the Salvation Army Band and "Last Post" and "Reveille" by the RCAF trumpeter. In event of heavy rain, the service will be held in the armouries.

Three Areas To Be Improved By Authority

A program of continued development of the three Authority conservation areas of O'Hara's Mill, Parrot Lake and Lake of the Vandewater Park, has been recommended by the Moira River Conservation Area's advisory board.

Cost of the work recommended to be done next year is estimated at $8,500. Estimated cost of the work at the O'Hara Mill site is $1,500; at the Price area $3,000, and at the Lake Vandewater area, $6,100.

Included in the work at the Price area is the drilling of a well and installation of a pump and the erection of a memorial plaque indicating the area was donated to the Authority by the Price family. Improvements to the playing area and picnic sites are also planned.

At the Vandewater area further development of picnic and parking areas is recommended as well as extension of the access road and construction of two boat launching ramps.

STILL DEADLY

GENEVA (AP) — The World Health Organization has issued a new warning that malaria is a killer disease, claiming about 1,000,000 lives annually.

United Appeal Fund Stands At $51,000

Recent returns have put the 1961 United Appeal receipts up to $51,000 as of 10.00 o'clock this morning it was announced by campaign chairman Ross David. Donations have been increased in a number of areas especially amongst groups on the payroll giving division, and currently the indication is that last year's receipts will be surpassed with an excellent chance that the campaign will achieve its goal of $80,000, Mr. David said.

In many of the payroll deduction groups donations have doubled and in some cases have almost 100 per cent participation. Several have already exceeded last year's contributions for their groups.

Unfortunately in some areas canvassers have been lax and a number of instances still exist where they have been required to make a second or third call in order to achieve a donation. Returns from some divisions are not complete, many givings are yet to be received and it is expected that the campaign total will be given a good boost when these returns are in. Mr. David advised.

Close Park Until Spring

Chairman of the parks board William Hurst said yesterday afternoon that Zwick's Island park would be closed off to the public as of yesterday, due to the fact that over the weekend and during the past week there have been several loads of garbage dumped on the roadways and in the park itself by individuals.

He said that no more cars would be permitted into the park until next spring.

PICKET JOSTLES

Mr. Walsh remained a few minutes longer until three Ottawa policemen appeared and ordered reporters and photographers, who outnumbered the pickets, to move outside the gates.

The decision to move outside their protest outside the gates was greeted, including Foreign Minister Hugh John Flemming representing the Canadian government, with applause.

WILL PRESENT BRIEF

Mr. Walsh told reporters that the Anti-Communist Secretariat soon will present a brief to the government detailing "inadmissible" actions by Soviet embassy people, including espionage, drunken driving and rape. He said at least 12 cases of drunken driving were involved and the rape incident occurred two weeks ago.

He recalled that in 1956 a brief to the government by him had unveiled "scandalous" bribe a Canadian air station clerk and that subsequently Gennadi Popow, a Russian embassy press secretary, was expelled from Canada.

Mr. Walsh, 45-year-old former labor union official who says he worked for several years as an undercover agent for the RCMP, had announced before the party that 300 persons had volunteered to picket the embassy. Apart from the Hungarian group, only one soldier, the above-sevier, showed up.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Lake Dufault erupted again during heavy morning trading and yet another new high to speculatives higher as index sagged.

Dufault climbed to 27.75 with volume of more than 62,000 shares at 11 a.m. then later backed to 27.50, ahead 25 cents. This came on the heels of rumors that Dufault will issue compared with 4,188,000 Monday on Thursday.

Speculatives were relatively quiet as McWatters Gold, Menora and Murray all gained a cent, and Marlin McKinley lost it. Wright eased 13 cents to 81.50 with volume of 29,300 shares.

Industrials fell behind widespread fractional losers among steels, papers, utilities, refining oils and banks, and financial institutions.

On index, industrials fell .88 to 604.46, golds .02 to 88.56 and western oils .02 to 104.12. Base metals rose .19 to 205.09 and the 11 a.m. volume was 1,100,000 shares compared with 987,000 at the same time Tuesday.

The senior metals list was ahead with Ventures and Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting both up 50 cents and Denison and Consolidated Mining and Smelting ¼.

Gold trading was light with Kerr-Addison down five cents.

Western oil trade was weak with Dome and Home A both off 25 cents.

On Tuesday western oils reached a 22-month high on the index and speculatives scored a handful of gains.

The 15-stock western oils index touched 104.14, ahead .87, to reach its highest point since November, 1959. Industrials rose 1.14 to 605.08, base metals 1.11 to 204.90. Golds fell 36 to 89. Volume was 3,129,000 shares compared with 4,188,000 Monday.

Speculatives were led by Dufault, which rose 25 cents to 27.25 on reports of a new high of 27.45 at one point. It turned over more than 137,000 shares.

Industrials picked behind widespread fractional gains among steels, papers, utilities and refining oils. A number of new highs were recorded—Crown Trust, Trans - Canada Pipe Line and Montreal Locomotive for instance—and turnover in industrials was generally weak.

Typical among ground-gaining stocks were Steel Company of Canada, Bank of Nova Scotia, Bell Telephone, Quebec Lithium, Provincial Transport and Great Lakes Power, all of which advanced as much as a point.

Senior base metals were generally higher with Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting leading the way with a gain of 50 cents.

Gold trading was light and sporadic but western oil trade was active.

Hall, all from Trenton and Anthony Dalcar, general sales manager and Harold Scott, purchasing department manager at the Bata Shoe Company of Canada, attended the Eastern Ontario Trade and Industrial Promotion Conference at Queen's University in Kingston.

Rotarians Hear Story of Congo At Luncheon

TRENTON — Wing Commander "Ken" Dobbin, who served as the chief air operations officer for the United Nations in the Congo for a six months' period last year, was the guest speaker at the Trenton Rotary Club on Monday night.

Wing Commander Dobbin said that although the Canadians were in the Congo in small numbers — there are 200 to 300 Canadians in the army right now there and a "handful of RCAF men" — they seemed to "have a knack" of getting along with the natives and that Canadians had had very few problems.

He said that while sections of the larger cities were very modern and sophisticated, the outlying districts were extremely primitive.

Prior to the country gaining its independence from Belgian rule, there had been a healthy economy and a workable communications system. Now, much of the cultivated land is going to waste and the communications system has been badly disrupted.

United Nations civilian personnel and military forces are doing all they can to stabilize the situation."

MONTREAL (CP)—The U.S. dollar was at a premium of 3⅛ per cent in terms of Canadian funds near noon today. Tuesday the noon rate was $1.03 9-32.

Confer on Plans For Site of Federal Building

TRENTON — On Tuesday, three representatives of the Federal Department of Public Works were in town conferring with Mayor D. Ross MacDonald and comptroller O. W. Larry on plans for the new federal building which the Federal government plans to locate in Trenton.

Today, Mr. Lee Grills, MP for Hastings South, said that the government representatives had visited a number of suggested sites for the building and while nothing was final as yet, one site seemed to meet with the approval of all factions. Mr. Grills said that the site under consideration would allow for future expansion of the proposed $200,000 building.

TO PRESENT COMEDY

Members of the Trenton Drama Group and the Belleville Theatre Guild have combined efforts and will present the sparkling comedy, "Anne Little Hut", to Trenton and Belleville audiences later this month.

On November 17 and 18, Trenton play-goers will be able to see the play in the auditorium at Trenton Collegiate Club. Director Jim Alexander feels that the intimate atmosphere of the club will add to the enjoyment of the audience.

During the following week the play will be staged in Belleville.

Leads, Margo Hall, Harry Mundell and Jim Alexander, familiar to theatre goers in both communities. Rounding out the cast is Bill Goldie.

Quits Planning Board

TRENTON — Howard Langdon, a member of the Trenton Planning Board for the past four two years, has resigned due to business pressure. The council will appoint another member to the board.

GETS $1,650

TRENTON — Joe Hopps, 102 Division Street in Trenton was notified by cable last week that his ticket on the Irish Hospital Sweepstake number "Dr. bridgeshire" race, had been drawn, and that while the horse, "Goa" had not come in one of the first three winning places, he had won a prize award $1,050.

Mr. Hopps said that he had bought "innumerable" tickets on sweepstakes and that he had given up all hopes of ever winning anything.

Wing Commander Dobbin has also been a visitor to Belleville.

Relief Costs Running Higher Than Last Year

Relief costs in the city at the end of September were running higher than at the same period last year, but the month end figure of 67 cases per month receiving financial assistance is lower than during a peak period in July.

A third quarter welfare report given out this week by the city manager showed there was $7,918 provided in relief at the end of September compared with 6523 during the same period in 1960. In July there were 823 persons on relief as compared with 643 a year ago.

The downward trend since July in the number of persons receiving welfare was noted optimistically at city hall with hope that the trend would continue for the balance of the year.

One of the reasons given for the increased number on relief was that during the summer the number of children taken into care had increased considerably.

PREMIER

In 1951, in his first election campaign leader, the Conservatives took 79 of 90 seats; in 1955 they won 84 and in 1959 they took 61 out of 90 seats.

One political school feels his attraction was a magnetic father image — Bracken's dignified platform manner, a friendly way of calling everyone "my friends" and seeming sincerity when them with wide sweeps of his arms. One of his shock phrases was "this great province of ours."

Others said his success came from his ability to choose the right moment for the accommodation of new ideas. For a long time he opposed night harness racing on the grounds that United States gamblers would flock to Canada's racetracks then seemingly changed his mind to permit night harness racing. Under pressure to bring some order into chaotic liquor advertising methods, he established a code of ethics which was accepted by both church groups and brewers and distillers.

Dapper, white - haired and handsome, Mr. Roblin the premier suggests a kindly professional man, but newcomers are surprised at his vigor and forcefulness in the legislative arena.

He works at a pace that frequently has most young men breathless and a reputation for keeping his cabinet hours short. Yet he has kept two or three engagements sometimes every morning from one office to another to discuss the business at hand.

BEGINS INNOVATIONS

During the "Frost era," Ontario established a hospital insurance plan, increased education and municipal grants, created a human rights code to stop discrimination in employment and housing, began major road projects on the 401 and Highways 400 and 401, pressed the development of the St. Lawrence Seaway power project, brought in fluoridation of public water supplies on a local option basis, and drafted a safety bill to make seat belts and a portable pension scheme across Canada.

Mr. Frost will also be remembered as the Conservative leader who pushed through legislation for a three - per - cent retail sales tax. With Ontario's $1,000,000 a day bill, Mr. Frost said the tax was necessary if health and education services were to be enlarged and the provincial highways program expanded.

Mr. Frost became financial critic soon after his election to the legislature, when the Conservatives were in opposition. He was chairman of the Conservative administration of Premier George Drew in 1943, he became treasurer and minister of mines. He rose to party leader and premier after Mr. Drew resigned to lead the federal Conservative party.

RECALLS CONFLICTS

Politics were no stranger to Mr. Frost. Born in Orillia in 1895, his middle name recalls his godfather, Andrew Mitchell Campbell, Conservative member of the legislature for Simcoe East.

His father, William Sword Frost, came to Canada from Glasgow in Confederation years and later held almost every elective office in Orillia, including the mayoralty twice.

Mr. Frost went overseas in the First World War and was wounded. He still limps slightly from a leg injury that kept him 17 months in military hospitals.

He married his wife, Gertrude, live in Lindsay, but spend much of the summers at their cottage on Sturgeon Lake. They have no children.

Close family friends say Mrs. Frost has always preferred her husband to quit politics and stay at home where he could take a more active part in the affairs of Lindsay. Both are interested in the history of the Victoria and Haliburton area, and Mr. Frost has gathered cabinets full of historical data.

ESCAPE TO WEST

BERLIN (CP) — Two 17-year-old East Berlin boys swam to West Berlin across a border canal during the night. A third refugee reached West Berlin earlier by hiding in her jacket on the barbed wire barricade dividing the city, police said.

Will Start New 'Y' Building Early in Spring

The first stage of construction of the new Belleville YMCA building is expected to be started during the spring of 1962 it has been announced by YMCA president John C. MacDonald.

Committees have been kept busy this past summer and fall reshaping the plans for the new building to fit within the bounds of the $283,000 raised during the building fund campaign held last year. The "Y's" board of directors has appointed the firm of Craig and Zeidler as architects for the project.

The funds raised are sufficient to include a complete swimming pool and the required dressing room facilities as originally planned. Consultations with trustees from the local committees and the architects to try and fit in as many club room facilities in the first stage of building as currently will allow so that most of the current youth problems will not have to be discontinued.

The construction of the first stage is being planned so that additions of a gymnasium and auditorium can be easily and economically made at some future times in the future as the funds necessary for their construction can be raised, Mr. MacDonald advised.

mer labor minister; William Nickle of Kingston, former commerce and development minister; Allan Grossman of Toronto St. Andrew, unchanged, with the added post of liquor commissioner; Charles MacNaughton of Huron, elevated to cabinet.

Premier John Robarts Dufferin, former minister without portfolio, was dropped from the cabinet.

In a press statement, Mr. Robarts said the departments of commerce and development, energy resources and economics were being set up "to implement the vehicle and the machinery for an intensified program of commercial and industrial development in the province, and to promote the expansion necessary to our economy."

He added the actual merger of the three departments would take place as soon as possible.

Under the new alignment there will come the recently created Ontario Economic Council, the Economic Development, the premier said.

The Emergency Measures Branch of the Commerce and Development department will be shifted to the attorney-general's jurisdiction.

Mr. Robarts said Mr. Daley, stepping down to become minister without portfolio, would continue as chairman of the Niagara Escarpment Commission and vice-chairman of the Niagara Bridge Commission and will remain a member on the Ontario Parks Integration Board.

Mr. Root, leaving the cabinet,

Eisenhower stumped for Mitchell.

Virginia voters followed tradition by giving Democrat Albertis S. Harrison Jr. — and the state organization — a victory over Republican Richard Obenshain in the race for governor.

In Kentucky, however, Republicans ended 28 yards of Democratic rule in Louisville by sweeping into the mayor's office and other top posts.

tests, plus a party member's victory in a special election in Texas, last Saturday, lifted Democratic morale for the 1962 off-year congressional elections, which traditionally go against the party in the White House.

Mayor Wagner's re - election after one of the dirtiest political campaigns in modern New York City history could single him out as the most likely Democratic opponent of Republican Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller in the New York governorship election next year. Or Wagner might wait to bid for a Senate seat in the 1964 presidential election.

Rockefeller hasn't ruled himself out of a bid for the Republican presidential nomination in 1964. He campaigned hard for Lefkowitz with the hope of building Republican strength in the city for his 1962 state-wide race.

Faulty Reasoning

T. C. Douglas, national leader of the New Democratic Party, says that nuclear weapons in Canada would not be a defence but only a partial deterrent (against war).

He is right.

He also says that an increase in membership in the so-called "nuclear club" "geometrically increases the chances of nuclear war."

Once again, he is right.

A natural conclusion would be that Canada should not accept nuclear warheads for its Bomarcs and for its Honest John rockets.

This, though, is not necessarily the correct conlusion.

The flaw in the reasoning is the assumption that acceptance of these weapons by Canada would amount to membership in the "nuclear club." We submit that this conclusion is erroneous. Control of the weapons would still remain, at least partially, in the hands of the U.S. The Federal Government is trying to arrange an agreement whereby such weapons, on Canadian soil, could not be used without the consent of Canada. Even if this agreement is achieved, though, (and it is far from certain that it can be), it is certain that Canada would not be able to use them without the consent of the U.S.

We do not see how this arrangement would of itself increase, in any way, the chances of war.

The difficulty is that it would be extremely difficult for Canada, possessing such weapons, to oppose other nations arming themselves with like weapons but under different conditions, with full power to use them because they had developed and produced these weapons themselves.

The question facing Canadians is thus whether the slight addition to the deterrent power of the West's nuclear arsenal would be an adequate recompense for the inevitable diminution of Canada's influence amongst the non-aligned powers.

It is also possible to argue against Canada acquiring nuclear warheads from the U.S. on the basis of national sovereignty—but the hard and unpleasant truth of the matter is that a country like Canada, situated in such a strategically important position, can only be a satellite of its big-power neighbor, willingly or unwillingly. Refusing to accept warheads would do nothing to preserve our sovereignty in the event of a major war.

Suggest Farm Groups Unite

The Ontario Federation of Agriculture annual convention, which is opened in Toronto Monday, has before it a resolution suggesting amalgamation with the Ontario Farmers' Union.

This is likely to be easier to suggest than to accomplish.

The unity of interest of the farm population is not as illusory as that other well-known mirage, the common interest of farmers and urban labor. Nevertheless, there do exist not only differences of viewpoints but actual clashes of interest between different farm groups. This ought not to surprise us. Organized labor often produces the spectacle of different groups being at loggerheads with another.

The Ontario Federation of Agriculture is now 25 years old. At its inception it received the support of the majority of influential men and women in rural communities. But after a while there were murmurs of discontent. There were those who did not believe that the Federation was doing enough to solve the problems of farmers. The Farmers' Union, which had its origin in the more radical atmosphere of the western provinces, found adherents in many parts of Ontario. It has many lively locals in this district. Whether today it can be said to favor a more radical approach to farm problems than the Federation of Agriculture perhaps depends as much on the viewpoint of the judge as on anything else.

The contention that the farmers would be better represented if the two organizations were joined is easy to understand. It appeals to one as logical. A decision on this issue, though, is a matter solely for farmers. Perhaps there may be those among them who will remember the proverb about the lack of wisdom shown by those who put all their eggs in one basket.

Under existing conditions, what the Federation leaves undone the Union may attempt—and vice versa. This may not be without certain advantages, particularly as there are some situations in which the interest of all farmers are not identical and in such cases it is always desirable to have opposing viewpoints represented.

Praises Children For Aid to UNICEF

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer

I should like to take great interest that I read the editorial comment in your issue of Friday, November 3, titled "A Five Generation," which commended the children of Belleville and city on their good behavior on Hallowe'en.

It is the spirit of this annual frolic has passed I would like through your columns to refer to the "Shell-Out for U.N.I.C.E.F." collection which was participated in by a large number of public school children. I am thinking of the part of our citizens know, the children's presented themselves at our doors and in lieu of candy, pennies, received pennies to help feed and protect underprivileged children of the world, through U.N.I.C.E.F.

While I had no close connection with this organization I believe this to be a fine effort and that the children should be brought about so doubt by teachers and principals in the schools leading this organization: also certain members of home and community organizations who sponsored the collection.

Certainly the children who participated in this effort benefited greatly. Is there any better time to create an awareness of the needs of other people than in the tender years of childhood? I am quite willing to believe if some of the spirit of unselfishness and sacrifice is not absorbed in the early years it never will be displayed in adult life.

It has been my experience with children that they respond quickly to the concept of "fairness". Surely it is neither fair nor right that our Canadian children have food, clothing, toys and Christmas in abundance, while children in other countries do not have the bare necessities of life.

All credit to those who sponsored and helped in this worthy effort. It helps restore one's faith in the goodness of humanity.

Thanking you for this space in your very worthwhile newspaper.

Sincerely,
"A Mother of Two".

THE PACKSACK*

—By GREGORY CLARK

To me the most ignorant of men is the one who is incapable of learning any more than he already knows. And you will find this person in all walks of life. I have met university professors who have studied a stiff with their own subject that they scarcely know what anybody else was talking about. Mechanics have come my way who knew so much about engines that when the engine blew up in their faces, they considered it an act of God. Religious zealots by the thousand, are so frightened of one aspect of the universe that they will not permit knowledge that they will get up and hasten from the room with an expression of stark horror. Old men are often the worst example of this refusal to amend their convictions though their convictions creak worse than their joints. And it is the young, between the ages of eighteen and twenty-five who present to the world the most astonishing face of ignorance.

Compelled with the impossible logic of statistics are the facts with regard to traffic accidents, injuries and deaths. These facts are presented with all the force of publicity and the cold hard hand of cash in insurance rates. The eighteen to twenty-fivers are the kids' cars. They kill themselves. They know it all. Ignorance kills them.

beings at the time of death. Jesus was the greatest person ever to appear on this planet. Time is dated from His birth. His words have made an everlasting impression upon people of all races. Yet he lived to be only thirty-three years of age. Alexander the Great conquered the world and died at the same age.

Time is the greatest of all mysteries. Our little, man-made calendars furnish measurements that we can use to our advantage. But the calendar is not the ultimate measure of time. God has measuring sticks. "A thousand years in thy sight is but yesterday when it is past."

Let us not question God's management of His world. Instead let us ponder the significance of this thing called life.

Strength for the Day

—DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WAS IT UNTIMELY?

Before me as I write is an announcement issued by an organization of which I am a member and disclosing the fact that one of our comparatively young colleagues has passed away. The doctors knew it was coming for months, so did the family and the man himself. There was nothing that could be done.

What can we say about early death? All we can say is that God's calendar and ours are not the same. What appears brief to us is not necessarily brief in the eyes of God. What seems like an untimely death may be the winding up of a triumphant career. Some people may be staggering along in advanced old age without ever having learned the secret of living. Others die in childhood and are mature

Plucky Duck Deserves Luck

New York Herald Tribune

Eloise may not be the luckiest duck in Brooklyn's Prospect Park, but she's the pluckiest. Or so it would seem, for her determination and resourceful efforts to boost the duck population of that Westchester community in the face of all the natural hazards of suburbia.

Eloise's first ducklings she hatched last spring were all eaten by weasels from the nearby creek. After spending two nights in her pond, one night have expected her to give up and leave. But Eloise didn't built a moss-and-duck-like nest high in a maple tree and hatched another 15, this time in her original nesting-place under Bed and Bath. Next door dining room window.

The weasels and the turtles are still there, and we've no idea how this latest brood will fare. Nor do we know what Eloise's husband, a drake called the Baron, thinks of her almost continuous maternity leave. We can't help saluting her perseverance in the face of adversity, at a time when survival of the species is of some concern to us. We like to think Eloise believes in the old saying about what is, and if first you don't succeed. We wish her luck, and hope that after this try she can take a well-earned rest.

Strictly Personal
Purify Air To Overcome Animal Odor

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The circus died for me some years ago, when Barnum and Bailey announced that it would open at Madison Square Garden with the "New Smell"—Gerden engineers had developed an air-purifying device that enabled them to keep the circus free of "unpleasant animal aromas."

Shades of Phineus T., what good is a circus without the overwhelming complex of smells that includes sawdust, popcorn and the heady fragrances of the stable? An odorless circus is about as emasculated and effective as producing "Hamlet" without the Prince of Denmark.

Instead of trying to restrict, we ought to encourage our olfactory sense. Most people in the United States of the industrial world have lost an acute sense of smell (all of them are heavy beauty smokers), and with it have lost a profound source of pleasure.

Most of our childhood memories are inextricably bound up with smells — especially youngsters who were reared in the country. The smell of living can compensate for the smell of dying (Ed. Note: and home-made bread.)

I am told that the British essayist and critic, some time ago, published a list of the "most delicious scents." I remember most of them, because I have a highly developed olfactory memories:

Sweetbriar in the air. Pine trees on a hot day. Lime blossom. Brake fern crushed. Wallflowers. Smell of clover. Smell of a coupe. Any kind of gardenia's rubbish. Cinnamon. Ripe apples. Hay. Fresh bread and coffee just ground. A racing stable. The perfect inside of everybody's rubbish. Cinnamon. Ripe apples. Hay. Fresh bread and coffee just ground. A racing stable. The perfect inside of a new pencil. The underside of a new pencil.

Of course, a circus: it must be included in every list. Who but a sadistic moron Barnum would even contemplate "air-purifying" a circus? Scientific madness can go further than to obliterate one of the most glorious sources of smells in man's experience.

The sense of smell is the most educated sense of all, the arousing memories," wrote Schoolmaster Amos Bronson Alcott. Poe said much the same in the title of his Marginalia essays. And creative writers throughout history have played cunningly on the nostalgic sense of smell in order to re-create scenes we could identify with our lost youth. Proust was the first to fine at evoking the memory of childhood through a description of odors.

There is some evidence that the olfactory nerves are dying away in modern society. It takes a long sniff from the woods waking up to the odor of bacon frying and coffee perking to make one realize that, in our normal lives, we are becoming anosmic, just as a few unfortunate are color-blind or tone-deaf.

Bad Bargain On Mongolia

New York Times

The entry of Outer Mongolia into the United Nations, made possible by the unofficial Chinese abandonment of its original intention to veto Mongolia's admission, appears to be a case of bargaining on the part of the Soviet Union.

In the process of persuading Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek to withdraw the veto, the United States promised: (1) not to recognize Outer Mongolia, as Red China urged, at this session; and (2) to abstain in the Security Council vote on a trial period for the Mongol republic instead of voting affirmatively. It now appears that as a further political concession to the Nationalists the United States also cancelled a decision to admit to this country Dr. Thomas W. T. Liao, a Taiwan Christian leader who is leader of a group advocating independence for Taiwan.

Dr. Liao, who has been making his Tokyo headquarters, has been trying without success for two years to get a visa to come to the United States. He received the support of leaders in this country and wants to tell Americans about Taiwanese aspirations for self-rule, independent of both the Chinese Nationalists from mainland China and the Chinese Communists. Earlier this year, after Senator Fulbright had made representations in Dr. Liao's favor, the State Department seems to have decided to give the Taiwanese independence leader a visa; but this decision now has apparently been reversed.

To Your Good Health
Trust Is Vital Ingredient In Good Medical Care

By Joseph C. Molner, M.D.

It was just a postscript in a letter to me: "I want to know if I can change doctors. I've had one for the last few years, and he's only come to see me about four or five times. — A.G."

The answer is yes, of course you can change doctors.

It so happens that this letter comes from a region in North America (I'm doing my best to keep this article non-political and non - geographical) which has one of the various "plans" for medical care.

I have, I admit, certain opinions about some "plans." Call them prejudices if you wish. Maybe you're right. But I try to keep them to myself.

The only thing I try to do in this column is to give the best possible advice to people about their health. If I want to vent my opinions on political matters, I'll write a letter to the editor, or make a speech, or something. Whether it's a medical "plan," a "panel," a "system," or whatever, the only test by which all must be judged is the quality of care which the patient gets.

So, plans aside (and, frankly, the one in use where this writer lives is good, so I hear and believe, pretty much the best), the point is this: If a patient isn't satisfied with a doctor, can he get a different one?

Yes. But whether this is best for the patient is another matter. The quality of medical care cannot be measured in the number of visits a doctor makes. If the problem involved is a big one, a good doctor shouldn't waste time (and money) on unnecessary visits. He should spend his time at the bedside and in the laboratory, keeping track of the general progress of the case and planning the treatment to call him if some sudden or unusual development occurs. If, for some reason, the patient just doesn't like, trust, or can't stand the sight of his doctor, a different one should be consulted. And by every human judgment the patient has a right to do so. Trust, liking, empathy, or whatever you want to call it, is a vital ingredient of good medical care.

But in any country, under any plan, libraries wait patiently to realize that "shopping around" for doctors is wasteful. Trying to judge a doctor by the number of visits he makes is futile.

Switching from one doctor to another is entirely proper if some friction exists. But switching because of a whim, or a trivial matter, is wasteful. This is true whether the patient pays fees direct, or belongs to a "plan," or lives under government medicine. It's wasteful to quit one doctor and then have the patient start all over again in the process of learning the history of the case, new examinations, etc.

Unless you have a compelling reason, don't switch doctors. If you do have a compelling one (and it's not one), the purpose of medicine, after all, is to provide the care and attention that a patient needs. Isn't that set of facts a waste — duplicated effort is bad under any system.

"Dear Sir: What is your opinion of using dried apricots or suppositories to aid in mild constipation? Recently I travel with my husband, and food and water are always the same as when I am at home, sometimes causing slowness or difficulty in evacuation. —K Mrs. A.O."

That's a sensible method to imitate difficult movements.

Note to Mrs. A. A.: Yes, in some circumstances, that globular, an excess of fats, accumulate in the blood. This includes cholesterol, and to other fatty substances. It should be treated when discovered.

Hemorrhoids can be cured! If it is not, it will be severe, fistulas, itching and other rectal problems, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Chicago Sunday Tribune, 435 E. 42nd St., Chicago, Ill., requesting a copy of the booklet "Hemorrhoids: Cure For Hemorrhoids," enclosing a long, self-addressed, unstamped envelope and 10 cents to cover handling and postage.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LOOK AHEAD

I saw an accident one day. Two cars were demolished, because one of the drivers looked backward for a moment — just for a moment.

There is a valuable lesson in this incident. Most of our accidents and many of our failures come about through looking backward.

We stumble when we look backward, not because we haven't good feet, but because we haven't good eyes. Our eyes are on the past, on dead things, on shattered dreams, perhaps.

But with our eyes ahead, we see the thing we are attempting to do, and at the same time are given the ability to side-step the pitfalls.

The gift of vision is one of the greatest that we possess. The men and women who have been useful in the world have had it. And it has guided them when all else seemed to have left them. Even staunch friends will not take the place of this divine gift.

It is the light within the body heart, the beacon far ahead that guides the traveler through the storm and night.

The city builder, the road maker, the inventor, the scientist, the lover of his wife and mother are but a few who look ahead. They always anticipating happenings.

The employee is a growing concern who is always looking ahead is never dissatisfied. He knows that he must grow to grow than today. It is something that is thoroughly planned out and determined upon. And he works with joy in his heart, and he finds compensation.

Banks are possible because there are so many that look ahead. Imagine what the world of business would be if people didn't look ahead.

It's looking ahead that sifts out the hunger for knowledge in one's mind and which gives a man on toward new goals, new achievements, new joys. It is the desire to be strong in one's own right.

You can't think of these two small words too much or too often: Look ahead.

New Program

After Grade 8 - - What?

By DORIS C. CLARK, MSW

Capitalizing on individual differences is the theme song of Ontario's new program for secondary schools. This was announced at the end of August by the Honorable John P. Robarts, Minister of Education for Ontario and recently elected to succeed the Honorable Leslie Frost as Premier.

The new plan provides a better opportunity for every type of student. It takes account of the boy who cannot handle a language but dearly loves hammer and saw; the girl who balks at figures but scores as a test-age diplomat; the lad whose genius leaves him restive while the others struggle with a mathematical problem he mastered on sight; and the student with the below average achievement score.

The program aims to cut down the number of early school leavers by giving them something to stay for that is peculiarly their own.

BROAD CHOICES OFFERED

In Ontario we already have high school districts where technical and commercial (as well as academic) education has been offered for a number of years. Mr. Robarts' program calls for such resources for the entire province.

Schools will be up to provide four- and five-year programs in three branches of education leading to: (1) Arts and Science, (2) Business and Commerce, (3) Engineering, Technology and Trades. Any branch of the five-year program could qualify a student for university. The four-year plan adds up to a preparation for practical living, on matriculation, on a scale hitherto not possible.

In addition, a one- (or two-) year program in occupational subjects, tailored to the needs of the slow learner, will equip him, or her, more readily for life than abstract studies beyond his grasp.

COUNSELLING COUNTS

The Minister is well aware that many youngsters haven't a clue about their life's work by the time they have reached grade 9. Does this mean we should not go on loading on the facts, drilling in the memory work and turning out a standard products—a so-called educated young person, whose occupation is chosen for him through a hit or miss exploration of the employment market? Who may spend several years in and out of jobs before he settles into a niche which may be much less than perfect?

Or, worse still, who may find himself in third or fourth year at university and only then fully realize that his consuming interest is in a vocation little related to the studies he is taking? Such appalling waste of human talent and educational facilities has happened all too often.

The new program is a challenge to every parent, teacher, industrialist and student to help educationists prevent such waste.

Effective and continuing counselling is the keynote of the new program. To get Jack and Mary off on the right foot, all the means for measuring ability will be tapped; all records examined and personality traits taken into account.

For parents, this means knowing enough about guidance to be alert to the meanings of early interest; to take full advantage of parent-teacher contacts from kindergarten on; to be present, without fail, at home and school meetings which feature discussion of a topic so important to the future well-being of their boys and girls.

For teachers (who will work hand-in-glove with counsellors), it means that guidance begins early in elementary schools. It means that a knowledge of personal capacities, recognized early, is essential to a later choice.

And for the reassurance of all, Dr. C. W. Booth (Deputy Minister of Education), points out that the decision to be made on entering high school is not, even then, the choice of a life's work, but a channelling into a broad area of individual interest, either (1) Arts and Science, (3) Business and Commerce, or (3) Engineering, Technology and Trades. The ultimate choice of occupation (within his chosen area) lies with the student himself.

FLEXIBLE PROGRAM

While it is hoped that, at the grade 9 stage, his choice of educational area will prove accurate, the new program is still flexible.

For example: Suppose, at the beginning of grade 9, with counselling help, Jack is still unable to choose. His counsellor may advise him to register in the technical branch, five-year program. He does so. Then, through grades 9 and 10, he will spend 20% of his time at shopwork and the remainder at academic subjects.

At the end of either of these grades (9 or 10), he may do one of three things: (1) Stay where he is. (2) Drop shopwork and, if he is a capable student, pick up a second language, or 'geography or other option, thus moving over into the arts and science branch. Or (3), having found the going tough in academic subjects, he can transfer from the five-year to the four-year program in the technical branch. This would lead directly to a job at the end of four years. In each of these alternatives, a switch would mean no loss of time provided, of course, that the student has demonstrated good ability in his work.

Similarly, Mary, who thinks she may have some aptitude for business, may choose the commercial branch, knowing her decision is not irrevocable.

EVOLUTION NOT REVOLUTION

While some of these plans may seem revolutionary, Mr. Robarts points out that details have to be developed gradually.

New teachers and counsellors are in training now to help implement the program. Forty-five provincial inspectors are devoting full time this fall to consulting with teachers, parents and employers, prior to the actual setting up of courses.

One hundred and thirty building projects are under way, half of which are in communities not formerly offering technical education. September 1962 should see the beginnings of the plan in operation.

No part of the program will be compulsory. It is recognized that in an all-out effort of this nature there will be plenty of problems for some time to come, but the Minister stresses that changes are needed and "we have to start somewhere." At this stage, the Department of Education is boldly laying down broad principles and providing the means to implement them.

'Y' Basketball

Close games were the order of the day during the YMCA Youth Basketball House League double header yesterday evening with but five points making the difference between winning and losing in each game.

The first tilt of the evening saw the Satellites take the Celtics by a score of 51 to 46, led by Murray Swan with 23 points and Graydon Scott with 20 points. Top scoring honors for the game went to Terry McCabe, captain of the Celtics, who sank 14 baskets for a total of 28 points.

The second match saw Ron Faulkner lead the Steelers to a 67-62 win over the Globetrotters after trailing by one point at half-time. Faulkner made a dozen baskets in the last half to bring his total score for the game up to 28 points. High scorer for the Globetrotters was Wally Claus with 27 points.

FIRST GAME

Satellites: Graydon Scott 20, Murray Swan 23, Dyson Sargeant, Dave Hurst 8.

Dr. Williamson Talks on Care Of Mentally Ill

The Homemakers of the local Red Cross held the monthly meeting on Friday last at the home of the supervisor, Mrs. J. A. Buchanan, 178 Dufferin Ave.

After plans had been made for the Christmas meeting, Dr. Evelyn Williamson gave a most enlightening talk on "Care of the Mentally Ill."

Refreshments were served by Mrs. John Ritts and Mrs. Archie Gilroy.

Ontario Diocesan WA Meets At St. James P.H. in Kingston

The Ontario Diocesan Woman's Auxiliary met in St. James' parish hall, Kingston, for its November meeting.

Archdeacon D. C. Hunt said the opening prayers and the president, Mrs. W. F. H. Mitchell presided.

Members were gratified to learn that Mrs. J. Wood of Ivy Lea, has accepted the office of educational secretary and that Mrs. G. R. Eaford has immediately filled this office in a temporary capacity. The executive is now complete.

It was with pleasure that Mrs. Mary Utley, social service secretary-treasurer, was able to report that Mrs. W. J. Day of Kingston, has agreed to be convener of the Hospital visiting committee. This committee will visit out-of-town patients and render small services for them. Committee have also been formed in Belleville, Trenton and Napanee. Mrs. Utley feels this a most important step forward; as a cheery visitor often banishes loneliness and gloom.

FILM RECEIVED

The special speaker for the meeting was the Rev. Morse Robinson, assistant secretary of the M.S.C.C. Mr. Robinson commenced by showing a film entitled, "To Tell the Story." First and foremost the Mission. ary Society must send men and women to missions in the north and overseas, who, besides being teachers of Christianity, must also be scientists and doctors. People who have never had an opportunity to learn before are made much happier if they can read and perform tasks which will enable them to earn a living.

The M.S.C.C. consists of three departments, National, International and Ecumenical. The National department has 11 missionary dioceses under its jurisdiction. Clergymen, catechists and lay readers work in remote districts; one tremendous service being the teaching of Indian and Eskimo children. Work is done in large cities also where patients are administered to in hospitals and Mission Houses are conducted for seamen as well as for people in need. These are but two examples.

INTERNATIONAL DEPT.

The International department deals with missionaries who travel to Asia and Africa. Many problems are faced, and are often difficult to overcome. There are 63 Canadians in World Missions, who are doing their best to educate and help these people, and they must be strongly supported by those at home.

Last, but not least, is the Ecumenical Movement, which illustrates to the Christian Church throughout the world:

"In unity there is strength" and it is essential to remember that in the whole of India there are but 2 per cent of its vast population as members of Christianity. Therefore, a tremendous amount of assistance must be forthcoming if this Christianity is to survive. At the latter part of November the World Council of Churches is having a meeting in Delhi. The Council will discuss many problems and render small services for them. Committees will visit out-of-town patients and render small services for them. Committees have also been formed in Belleville, Trenton and Napanee. Mrs. Utley feels this a most important step forward; as a cheery visitor often banishes loneliness and gloom.

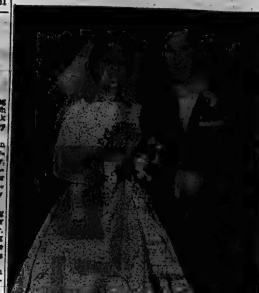
Christ Church CC Learns of Symbols

The November study meeting of Christ Church Circle, Church, heard a most interesting talk on "Symbols of the Church" by the Rev. R. Caswell.



After a preliminary talk in the parish hall, the group moved into the church where Mr. Caswell pointed out many symbols (which many had never noticed before) and explained their significance. Trudy Sergis thanked Mr. Caswell.

The remainder of the evening was spent in preparation for the "Christmas Arcade" basaar. Perky net aprons were being decorated; felt appliques were applied and stylish rain hats were being manufactured.

Florence Lamont reported on the progress of basaar preparations.

During lunch, a brief business session was held. Plans were finalized for the annual "Peanut Campaign". A thankyou card from Laura Bird was read.

Hostesses for the evening were: Mary Ann Trendell and Barbara Cooke.

Mr. and Mrs. John Douglas Houston are shown following their recent marriage in Holloway Street United Church, Belleville. The bride is the former Miss Lynda Gay Ricketts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Ricketts of Belleville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wade Houston, also of Belleville. HOUSTON—RICKETTS

In Holloway Street United Church a recent lovely wedding was solemnized before an altar banked with tall standards of Shasta mums and white gladioli, when Lynda Gay Ricketts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Ricketts of Belleville, was united in marriage to Mr. John Douglas Houston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wade Houston, also of Belleville. The Reverend C. W. Coleman, minister of the church, officiated.

The church organist, Mr. Clifford Templer, accompanied the soloist, Mrs. A. A. Downes, who rendered the wedding hymns, "Because," before the ceremony, and "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose for her wedding gown, white peau de soie featuring a fitted bodice embroidered in seed pearls, with long sleeves, and floor-length skirt fashioned in bouffant style. Her elbow-length veil was held by a tiara of seed pearls and she carried a cascade of pink rosebuds, feathered carnations and ivy.

Miss Judith Robson was maid of honour and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Carolyn Cone, sister of the bride, and Miss Marilyn Langabeer. They all wore identical gowns of peau de soie in rich plum shade with velvet bow headdresses and shoes to match, and carried cascades of white 'mums.

The junior bridesmaids were the Misses Sandra Cone and Debra Ricketts.

Miss Patsie Ricketts was flower girl. All junior attendants are nieces of the bride. They wore dresses of pure silk organza over taffeta in the same shade as the senior girls, and carried nosegays of white 'mums centred with a pink rosebud.

Mr. William Yosepenko was groomsman and the ushers were Messrs. Garry Stephenson, Ronald Houston, brother of the bridegroom, and Robert Waits.

The bride's mother chose a moss-green brocaded sheath with matching duster, and the bridegroom's mother was attired in a silk brocaded sheath in pink shade. They each wore a corsage of bronze 'mums.

For her honeymoon, the bride selected a double-knit, three-piece suit in old gold with brown accessories. She wore a corsage of bronze 'mums.

Women's Institutes

MOIRA W.I.

The November meeting of the Moira W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. W. Collins on Wednesday evening with a good attendance.

The president opened the meeting with the Institute Grace, read and several cards are to be sent.

Mrs. John Farrell being ill, the program was conducted by Mrs. E. Vanderwater and included a reading by Mrs. W. Farrell, "Autumn"; a solo, "Dear Hearts and Gentle People" by Mrs. D. Holbert; record solo composed by Mrs. Angus Mumby.

The D.P., Mrs. Tucker, gave a fine description of her trip to the second F.W.I.O. convention in Vancouver, in June, and also showed many beautiful pictures of gardens, buildings and scenes in and around Vancouver.

A gift of a cup and saucer was presented to her by Mrs. J. Farrell, on behalf of the members, in appreciation for her help during her term of office.

St. George's Guild Sponsors Colorful Autumn Tea, Bazaar

Deep red, velvety roses, mingled with deep cream roses, and white baby chrysanthemums, arranged in a silver bowl and flanked by green and yellow candles in crystal holders with bands of tinsel green and yellow on white damask formed a very pretty setting for St. George's Guild tea and autumn bazaar. Yellow and green and bronze was the keynote, with bronze 'mums adorning the window ledges, and cutting the snow-white guest tables. Adding to the daintiness of the tea each little table also, as an extra courtesy, was provided with tiny yellow cups of after dinner mints, while accompanying these were yellow paper serviettes in autumn's bronze color.

POURING TEA

Those who poured at the silver service were, Mrs. J. S. Creegan, wife of the rector of Christ Church, assisted by Mrs. Everett Smith, wife of the Assistant rector, Mrs. G. G. Wright, wife of the late Reverend G. G. Wright, rector of Christ Church, and Mrs. E. Hickey.

Mrs. Donnelly was the convener of the tea, and shoes who served included Mrs. Turner and Mrs. L. Yerrow, F. Askey; Mrs. A. Hall and Mrs. Hall.

As of previous years, the ladies of the Guild were faithful in their task of providing attractive booths of various commodities. The vegetable table was almost lost in gorgeous bouquets of yellow, and crimson 'mums, and white bouquets of orange-toned Japanese lanterns, white baby's breath, intermingled with gleaming metallic wild oats in sapphire blue; crimson, rusty green and yellow; and nestling close by were the pink little African violets in purple, white and pink. And last, but not least, were boxes of nice white cauliflowers; hard-headed cabbages so good for any salads, pickled in vinegar, and for those who like a pungent taste, sauerkraut. The spanish onions without whose aid no meal would be really complete, or that Christmas stuffing whose shadow is even now rounding the corner. Mrs. W. Collyer was in charge of this. FRUIT AND FLOWERS

Mrs. B. Clegg, Mrs. C. Briens and Mrs. R. Ferguson were kept busy with the sale of pretty sprays in colorful prints of silver floral designs, some in stripes; others a mass of yellow and brown flowers; still others with black backgrounds adorned with pink borders and ties, as well as several in blue and red; all tape, and each most suitable for Christmas presents, and what could be more practical for that Day of Days when mince pies, the delicious aroma of roasting turkey, the tangy spicy cider, and the tempting nuts, oranges, and all that goes to make a feast of love for those whom we hold dear. There were also pillow slips, knit mitts, sweaters, quilts, large and small, and fancy towels with crochet edges.

Mouth-watering chocolate fudges, maple creams and peanut brittle were in cellophane bags, and cupe filled to the brim. Presiding these were Mrs. A. Sharp and Mrs. H. Armstrong.

Mrs. A. Docter was in charge of the novelty table with its wishbone like pink and yellow and blue pussy cats with jetblack eyes, each one carrying a concealed bar of toilet soap; the red nosed bonnet needle cases, and others to keep that hard boiled egg nice and warm as well as a few of the touch and take packages.

DELICIOUS CONFECTIONS

The homebaking table, convened by Mrs. Collins, Mrs. Turner and Mrs. L. Yerrow, was laden with apple, raspberry, lemon pies; delectable cup cakes topped with white icing and whole walnut meats, cookies, large and small; tea buns and fragrant homemade bread; loaf cakes sprinkled with nuts, meats, and pineapple and cocoanut delight and date squares. There were a few besides these tempting delicacies, but greater care of sauerkraut to catch the eye of the Dutch Canadians.

Mrs. R. Dutton and Miss Towner were in charge of the tea-making table with Mrs. Leod and Mrs. Buchanan replenished the table.

Taking tickets at the door, Mrs. W. Bear.

The gorgeous receptionist was Mrs. M. Welch.

Appreciative thanks go to the convener and her committee also of the bazaar, for a delightful afternoon.

Noted Concert Violinist Played Her First Notes On $5 Fiddle at Three

WINNIPEG (CP) — Donna Grescoe, the petite violinist who reached concert and entertainment heights after playing her first notes as a three-year-old with a $5 fiddle, is thinking of returning to live in Winnipeg.

Donna, now Mrs. Bjorn Gullichsen, came here recently from New York. As she moved into the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Grescoe, her $12,000 Montagnana violin, for merly the object of her little attention, was playing second fiddle to her eight-month-old son Eric.

The husky blond infant was the main reason Donna and her husband, a conducting engineer, began considering leaving New York.

"You can't raise a child in New York," she said. "Bjorn and I discussed where we would bring up Eric and we decided it would be either Winnipeg or Toronto."

It may be a while before Donna is settled, however, and in the meantime Donna has returned to New York.

Donna and Bjorn were married in 1956 in the Actors' Chapel near Broadway in the heart of New York's theatre district.

Now 31, Donna started her career in 1942. When she won her class in the Manitoba Music Festival that year, adjudicator Arthur Benjamin summed up his impressions after her performance with:

"Miss off, gentlemen. A genius!"

Her actual playing started when a door-to-door salesman came to the house in 1933 offering lessons and throwing in a $5 violin as a bonus.

Donna recalls she was so eager to go to public school the first time that as soon as she heard the ring at the door, "school," she talked her mother into buying whatever he was selling.

After her festival victory, she move come off.

VIOLINIST RETURNS HOME — Donna Grescoe, Winnipeg-born violinist who appeared in Chicago and later with Mishel Piastro in New York.

She later gave concerts in New York's Town Hall and Carnegie Hall, toured the continent and eventually turned to night-club and television work. She appeared on top TV shows, including the Ed Sullivan and Arthur Godfrey programs.

The New York Times once referred to her as "mistress of her instrument" and the Montreal Star said she ranked "with the best of the younger generation of violinists."

Her professional plans are uncertain but she mentioned the possibility of teaching or playing here should the Winnipeg

WOMAN UNION LEADER — Mrs. Rhoda Erickson of Victoria is the first woman elected to the national executive of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers Union. She is secretary of the local, Mrs. Erickson and an officer of the union's Victoria local. Mrs. Erickson helps Neil Hindle at a free food stall for underprivileged. (CP Photo).

Vancouver Woman Becomes Member of National Body Governing Big Labor Union

VICTORIA (CP)—When Mrs. Rhoda Erickson rose to address a convention of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers Union (CLC) in Montreal her eyes shifted to the seats occupied by the French - speaking delegates.

She made her pitch in English then, to the astonishment of fellow delegates from the west coast, swung into flawless French. It helped her win a unique post for a woman in Canada — executive member on the national governing body of a labor union.

Mrs. Erickson, 44, realized two months before she went to the convention that her election would depend on the French-speaking vote. She spent the interval studying the language with a professor who was holidaying here.

Mrs. Erickson has been a union member for a comparatively short time — since she joined the Empress Hotel coffee shop staff in 1952.

WAS CCF CANDIDATE

"The union had a lot to say about the department and what was expected of its members, so I decided to find out about the union," she said.

Her studies soon made her an authority on the brotherhood's constitution and the local's working agreement with the hotel, which is owned by the CPR.

She has since served as local president, recording secretary, financial secretary and is currently chairman of the bargaining and grievance committee.

She also was a labor - sponsored CCF candidate for Victoria riding in the provincial election last September.

"I didn't feel too badly about losing since I wasn't widely known outside labor circles," said Mrs. Erickson.

As a local official, she not only represents waitresses and hotel maids, but stationary engineers, accountants and other trades employed at the hotel.

PRAISES IMMIGRANTS

"A lot of people have the mistaken idea that unions are interested only in pay raises," she said. "That's not the case at all."

One job the union local has taken up is counselling and helping new Canadians who find themselves in difficulties with finance companies. It also sponsors a Little League ball team and helps supply food for a free food stall here.

With these and a number of other activities, Mrs. Erickson finds little time for any recreation except bowling with the hotel team. Her schedule has temporarily halted a hobby of painting.

Married with two grown sons — Bruce, an RCAF recruit, and Ian, a member of the hotel gardening staff—she took most of her schooling in the San Francisco area, where her parents moved when she was five years old.

Women's Institutes

RYLSTONE W.I.

RYLSTONE — Mrs. Carl Reid entertained 11 members of the Rylstone Women's Institute in the Sunday School room of Zion United Church at Petherick's Corners last Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Don Kerr, president, opened the meeting with Mrs. Ellis Jones at the piano.

Mrs. Ernest Irwin and Mrs. Eldon Anderson were elected to be delegates to the area convention to be held in Belleville on November 14-15.

Following is the "Do-It-Yourself" program, convened by the president: readings, "Every Season Has Its Beauty," by Mrs. Carl Reid; (a reckless driver's monologue) "Kill, Kill, Kill!!!" by Mrs. Minnie Petherick; "Home Life Can Be Hectic When Mother Works," (away from home, that is), by Mrs. Ellis Jones; "Baby Shoes," by Mrs. Stanley Kerr; a playet, "Not A Man In the House," by Mesdames Ernest Irwin, Don Kerr, Carl Reid, Stanley Kerr and Ellis Jones.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Eldon Anderson and Mrs. Ernest Irwin.

Mrs. Lily Anderson was the lucky winner of the attendance prize, a plastic fruit bowl.

In the draw for the ten-pound cheese, on which the members have been selling tickets for the past few weeks, Fred Stollery of English Line, held the winning ticket.

ST. ANDREW'S GUILD

WELLINGTON — St. Andrew's Guild met at the home of Mrs. D. Boyle, recently. The president, Mrs. B. A. Evans opened the meeting. There were 11 members present.

Mrs. Rogers gave the treasurer's report. Thank you cards were received from Mrs. G. Upton and Mrs. H. Pritchard. All plans for the annual tea and christmas bazaar were arranged and will take place in November. Members are to meet Wednesday to set up tables and make prizes on articles. The Guild was asked to serve a dinner to the Grand Chapter of Prince Edward Deanery on November 29th, this was voted on and accepted.

The Christmas meeting will be held at Mrs. Lavendeer and instead of exchange of gifts members are asked to bring at least 20 cents for gift giving.

The hostess assisted by Mrs. Post served refreshments.

Stuffed Fall Vegetables

By Mary Moore

Standing on our open market I was stirred with the abundance and beauty of our Fall harvest. Squashes of every shape and shade from dark green through yellow to pale green. Bushel baskets of green peppers and potatoes. Stacks of pumpkins and huge cabbages. Prices for all of them were so low that every family would have all they need.

We have been enjoying Stuffed Green Peppers which I make by washing, quartering and removing seeds and ribs. I sautéed four of these in 2 tablespoons butter (or margarine) for 5 minutes until they began to brown, then turned them over and added 2 tablespoons water and covered and steamed them over very low heat for 10 or 12 minutes. They retain a little crispness which we find delicious.

Stuffed Green Peppers can be your main meat item.

STUFFED GREEN PEPPERS:

4 sweet green peppers, 2 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 cup milk, 1¼ cups cooked, minced veal, chicken or ham or chopped shrimp, ¼ teaspoon grated onion, ½ cup buttered crumbs.

Wash and remove slice from top of peppers, cut out ribs and seeds. Make white sauce by melting butter or margarine and stirring in flour and salt. Stir in milk until thick. Add whichever meat you have on hand, ground or chopped and onion. Fill peppers. Top with buttered crumbs. Place in shallow pan, add ½ cup water and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. 30 to 35 minutes. Do not overbake or peppers will droop too much.

WEDNESDAY
(Economical)

Dinner Menu

Meat Loaf with Tomato Sauce (see Tuesday); Baked Potatoes (see Tuesday); Cole Slaw (see Tuesday); Half-hour Pudding (see Tuesday); Tea.

STUFFED SQUASH:

Cut acorn or pepper squash and cut in halves, allowing half squash per person. Scoop out seeds and loose portion. Fill with either of following (quantity sufficient for 4 halves).

F. ng No. 1: To ½ cup melted butter or margarine add 2 cups ½" bread cubes, 1 tablespoon each parsley and onion and stir over low heat to mix. Filling No. 2: To 1 cup applesauce add 2 tablespoons melted butter, ½ teaspoon each nutmeg and salt. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. about 30 minutes or until squash is tender.

DUCHESS BAKED POTATOES:

Select the largest potatoes from the bag for half a potato makes a serving. Scrub thoroughly and bake at 475 deg. Fahr. until very tender — about 45 to 50 minutes. Cut in halves lengthwise. Scoop out centres into bowl, leaving a thick ¼" unbroken shell. Mash or beat the potato until no lumps remain. Add to the pulp from 2 large potatoes 1 tablespoon each butter and top milk or cream, 1 egg yolk and ¾ teaspoon salt and beat very well. Beat the remaining egg white until stiff and fold in. on top. Serve at once.

Successful Living

Boy Is Terrific

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—My problem is about a boy who is in my room at school. I have known him for four years and think he is terrific.

The trouble is I like him so much I'm scared to talk to him because I might say the wrong thing. He doesn't seem to know I'm alive.

Lately this has been bothering me more than ever before. What can I do to make him notice me even a little? I am 15 and he is 16.—IN LOVE.

DEAR IN LOVE:—Is he really that terrific?

My guess is that while you are swooning over him you are missing opportunities to mix with the boys who do know you are alive. Practise by being friendly with the boys who are swooning over you—be nice to every single one of them.

Go to the school affairs, practise being gracious and being interested in what the other person is doing. If you shine with the others, he will come to, sooner or later.

By that time, it's an even chance that you will have emerged from your shell and don't care so much what he thinks, after all.

* * *

DEAR DORIS:—Please send me the name of a book on life. This was not explained to me as a child and I do not know how to go about it, but think my daughter needs to know.

The questions kids ask today make you wonder how our parents could get out of telling these things.—MRS. R.

TO MRS. R. MRS. L. AND MRS. H.:—The little paperback I recommend for both boys and girls is called "Facts of Life and Love for Teen-agers," by Evelyn Millis Duvall, published by Popular Library, Toronto. If you can't find it in your town, write to me again and I will have my local bookseller mail it to you.

Women's Institute

WOOLER W.I.

WOOLER — The October meeting of the Women's Institute was held recently in Wooler and was opened in the usual manner by the president, Mrs. Hilliard Morrow, who also read a poem entitled, "Our Thanks We Give."

Mrs. Angus Gunter acted as secretary and reported 14 members present. She read a letter from Mrs Lyenberger, who explained how an Institute could support a Korean child. This plan was discussed but no definite decision was made.

Several reports were given about the recent International Plowing Match. This was previously done at the Plowing Match at Cobourg eight years ago when the Wooler W.A. and the W.I. jointly operated a catering tent This was a tremendous undertaking for the ladies but, as was explained by Mrs. Angus Gunter in her financial report, it netted the organizations approximately $2,400. Mrs. Erwon Scott told about the previous match and made many comparisons which showed the difference there was in size.

Mrs. Herman Morrow read a brief account of the quantities of the various foods used.

BUS TRIP

Mrs. Lilliam Haggarty told of the recent W.I. bus trip from Toronto to Manitoulin Island. There were four bus loads of members who took the trip. At each and every place they stopped they were greeted with a friendly reception from other W.I. members.

Mrs. Gerrard Finlan, convener of the program, read literature on the work for the blind and it was decided again to canvass for this worthy cause.

As the Finlans will be moving from Wooler in the near future, Mrs. Mac Anderson presented Mrs. Finlan with a gift from the Institute.

Lunch was served by the hostess, Mrs. K. Dale, and her committee, Mrs. Charles McColl, Mrs. Fred VanVaals and Mrs. Rosco Beatty.

Gospel Hall SS Holds Annual Supper

RYLSTONE — Members of the congregation and Sunday School of the Gospel Hall held their annual supper and program in the hall last Friday evening with a large crowd in attendance. Mr. Hlade is well over 80 years but usually manages to be here for this annual occasion.

Anne Reid was pianist for the evening.

Following is the program: John 14:6 by Alan Morton; duet, "Something Better Than Gold," by Lois Reid and Lenora Stapley; Luke 19:10, by Keith Somers; choruses by primary and junior classes; duet, "Peace In the Valley," by Carol Heath and Donna Stewart; guitar and accordion selections by Art and Elmer Davidson of Belleville; recitations by primary class; Romans 3:23, by Ronnie Mumby; duet, "Deep and Wide," by Helen and Lenora Stapley; exercise by junior class; instrumental selections on guitar and accordion by Art and Elmer Davidson; John 3:16; by Tommie Reid; song, "This Little Light of Mine," by juniors; vocal solo; "O Such A Wonderful Friend," by Lenora Stapley; instrumental number by Art and Elmer Davidson; vocal duet, "Beautiful Garden of Prayer," by the Stewart sisters, Donna and Maureen; songs by the senior girls' class, "In the Garden" and "I've Found A Hiding Place; closing choruses by the Sunday School.

Wife Preservers

Silk should not be sprinkled for ironing, but ironed when it has dried to uniform dampness otherwise it may show water marks. It is best to iron on the wrong side with a protective cloth. If it's too wet it will emerge stiff.

Question — I am almost twelve years old. The other day my girl friend invited me and a boy whom we both know well to her home. Her parents were out. When I went home, I was punished by my parents on the grounds that it's "improper" for two girls and a boy to be alone without an adult.

Both the boy and girl are thirteen. I don't think there was anything "improper" about our being alone in the house. My mother knows my friends. We certainly wouldn't do anything wrong. What do you say? — P. F., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Answer — Your parents obviously had told you before that you should never stay in anyone's house unless a parent was home, so to begin with, you were being disobedient. When you realized your friend's parents were not home, you should have invited the youngsters to your own home, instead.

It's still not considered correct for children under fifteen or sixteen to be left alone in a home under any circumstances. It's not safe in case of fire or some other emergency. I'm sure your parents weren't worried about your doing "anything wrong." They probably were concerned about your safety and about the possibility of gossip by neighbors.

In most communities, parents prefer that youngsters have a chaperone, mainly to keep play under control and to be handy in case of emergency. Your parents actually were showing concern for your welfare, so I think you should repay the courtesy by not judging their motives too harshly.

* * *

Question — When getting seated in a restaurant, who holds the chair for a woman — her escort or the headwaiter? I was under the impression that a woman's escort pulled out her chair and that the headwaiter in turn, performed the same courtesy for the man. Is this right? — B. K., New Haven, Conn.

Answer: The headwaiter usually pulls out the chair first for the woman and then for her escort. If he should somehow snuff his function, then a woman's escort performs this service.

* * *

Question: My mother (a widow) and I (unmarried) plan to take a trip this Fall. What is the proper way for me to sign the hotel register for us, — M. B., Chicago, Ill.

Answer: When you sign a hotel register it's proper to precede the name with your correct title. For you mother you would sign Mrs. John Doe. Underneath, you would sign your own name, Miss Mary Doe. In a registration book it's only necessary to add the city and state in which you live. If cards are used, then you simply fill in all the blanks.

* * *

Question— Would you please print in your column whose place it is to give a rehearsal party for the bridal group the night before the wedding? Is it the responsibility of the groom's parents, or should the bride's parents give the party. Mrs. H. A. C., Bettleville, Ontario

Answer — The bride's parents usually give a supper party on rehearsal night, but sometimes it's hosted by the groom's parents or by some other relative on either side. Anyone who wishes to give the party may properly take the matter up with the bride's parents. But if no one else suggests giving the party, then the bride's parents should do the honors.

* * *

Question — A short time ago I gave a small party in my home. One of the guests, an old friend, showed up with his wife and a record album.

About an hour after his arrival, he cleverly steered the conversation to a discussion of modern comedians. When he felt he had aroused sufficient interest, he whipped out the album — the latest long-playing recording of a popular young monologist.

For the next hour we had to sit and listen to the record. It was amusing in spots, but a guest misbehaves, a polite hostess can do little but grin and bear it. If you were on your toes, though, you could have called some dance records on top of the monologue so he couldn't have turned to the second side. You then would have saved yourself and your guests a good half hour of serving as a captive audience.

The Experts Say

Many Factors Contribute To Tarnish on Silverware

By EDNA BLAKELY

TORONTO (CP)—Pine trees, wet plaster walls and carbon monoxide fumes from an underground garage are just three of dozens of factors that can contribute to tarnish on silverware.

Atmospheric conditions which vary from neighborhood to neighborhood also vary from home to home, and even room to room George Carter explains. That's why some women have to polish their silver more frequently than others. Some pieces may need more frequent attention too.

Mr. Carter talks about silver affectionately. It's an affection that grew from buying and selling silver for 37 years. Recently he retired as the head of the silver department at a large firm in Toronto (Birks) but is back on the job as a consultant.

Looking over showcases of antique silver during an interview, he polished out the workmanship of the pieces.

"This piece was hand done," he explained as he flipped over a patterned silver tray. "You can tell because the work has been hammered through to the opposite side."

SILVERPLATE VARIES

Although the base of silver-plated objects may vary, the finish on a mediocre base can be quite good. If polishing is done by hand with wire brushes, a patina finish is obtained. This gives a dulled appearance which when closely scrutinized reveals hundreds of tiny scratches. This is a Sheffield or butler finish, Mr. Carter explained.

Design contributes to the value of silver. How well the work is executed, how much silver is on it and whether the silver is well balanced are all factors in its value.

When purchasing flatware, be sure to handle the pieces for comfort. The pattern should be chosen to match the type of home and entertaining the person expects to do. Although there are many modernistic patterns, the traditional patterns are still the best sellers, Mr. Carter said. In a recent survey of 180 patterns, the top 10 were all traditional.

PLACE-SETTINGS

Instead of buying six or eight teaspoons at a time, Mr. Carter advises buying flatware by the setting. Then when a woman has two place-settings she can at least use them for herself and her husband."

Silver is enhanced by use, Mr. Carter says, and benefits by frequent washing—but never in a dishwashing machine. When the knives of flatware are to be washed, do not immerse beyond the blade. Boiling hot water sometimes melts the cement where the blade meets the handle.

Sterling silver is likely to scratch less because it contains a hard copper alloy. "You can only plate with pure silver and it is soft."

Silver plate usually lasts from 20 to 25 years. If the item is good it is worth replating but it is sometimes just as reasonable to replace a less expensive item.

Mother's Helper

ANY BRIGHT, colorful object on the sidewalk or grass will attract your moppet's attention, and she'll doubtless pick it up—whatever it is. So when you're going for a walk, do take along in your pocket a couple of small toys, a lollipop, etc., and try to make peaceable trades for her finds. It's easier than constant "no-no's" or tearful take-aways.

Counsellor Says Debt Will Destroy Marriage Quicker Than Other Woman'

VICTORIA (CP) — Debt will can equal debt, destroy a marriage quicker than liquor or "the other woman," story repeated over and over say marriage counsellors Gwen again like a litany," says Mrs. Lundy and Gerald Lortie of the Victoria Family and Children's Service.

"We hear the same sad little hope lies in providing a working plan that will consolidate the debts and ease the pressure on husband and wife.

After two years during which are made on the basis of two they have ministered to more than 200 tottering marriages. When the first baby arrives, they say no other single factor the young husband's pay cheque by.

Mrs Lundy says liquor is next as a home-wrecker. A family with an alcohol problem didn't come to a counsellor until many weary, unhappy years had gone soon vanishing, before the so- to smooth over their turgid out- slaughter of credibility, she says. ...ish soap, vows of Bill collectors begin beating abstinence and an occasional a path to the door waving dock- dry spell. If the drinker admits ments at the young mother and he or she has a problem, then she unlocks her anxiety on her there is some hope of saving the marriage.

Mr Lortie says he is convinced there's one special thing missing from the marriages that come into his office for re- pairs.

"What most of these poor people fail to realize is that marriage is a working relationship which flourishes only when it's kept alive and carefully tended by both parties. . . . To make a go of marriage, man and wife must work at the re- lationship in the living room, not just in the kitchen, the dining room or bedroom.

Jumping to Conclusions, Do You Agree With Them?

NEW YORK (AP) — Jump- ing to conclusions (and how many do you agree with?):

Most books on how to achieve success are written by people you never heard of before.

A woman will believe any man who flatters her beauty but always doubts a man who praises her choice of hats.

A poor man always pays his grocery bill first; a man living ostentatiously beyond his means generally pays his grocer last— if he ever does.

The richest fellow in any neighborhood is never as envied as the one who has a pretty young, red-haired wife.

The surest way to lose a girl you are courting is to send her fresh flowers every day. The surest way to keep from boring her is to borrow money from her. No woman can ever lose interest in a man who owes her money.

It takes more real courage to learn to eat raw oysters than it does to rob a bank.

Many of us take pride in keeping up with what is going on in the world. But not one man in five over 40 years of age can name three new popular tunes written this year. Most can't even name one.

It takes more than honesty for a grownup person to keep a completely truthful diary of what he does and thinks. He has to be pretty foolhardy, too.

The real reason a wife may dislike to have her husband smoke cigars isn't that they stink. It's because they remind her of the draperies. It's MP for Hamilton East, has been appointed parliamentary secretary to Transport Minister Balcer. Prime Minister Diefenbaker smells up the draperies. It's MP for Hamilton East, has been this: She's jealous. The cigar gives him a certain consolation she never can.

The poorest investor in the world is a man who deliberately seeks happiness by marrying a wealthy woman.

For some reason a left-handed girl holds a mysterious fascination for a right-handed man. (If this she may be different from other girls. She isn't.)

Churchgoers who read astrology books and also carry a rabbit's foot for good luck are merely trying to play both ends against the middle.

OTTAWA (CP)—Quinto Marchese, Progressive Conservative MP for Hamilton East, has been appointed parliamentary secretary to Transport Minister Balcer. Prime Minister Diefenbaker is announced Tuesday. THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Olive D. — What's a wife supposed to do while her husband's on the dance floor with other partners?

Grand D. — The other girl's escort couldn't dance, so I obliged. Olive had people to talk to.

Olive D. — When the Elks Club in our town held a dinner dance last week, we thought it would be a nice way to celebrate my husband's birthday. Along with two other couples, one married and the other not, we signed up for a table.

Now what happened isn't exactly grounds for divorce, but it's still another of the little slobs that gradually add up, one by one, to failing out of love. After a round of drinks, Grand asked the single girl in our party to dance. Her escort danced with the other married woman. And the other husband wandered off to buttonhole a business acquaintance. Where did that leave me?

I nursed a drink for a while, tried not to stare at anyone too long, and then repaired my make-up (which didn't need repairing) in the rest room. It was solid torture!

Grand D. — We've been married a year now and Olive has no business sulking just because I danced with someone else. What have a few turns around a dance floor got to do with my love for my wife?

She and I had the first dance as soon as we arrived. Then the band struck up a rumba. Marilyn said this was her favorite, and her boy friend could not keep up with her. I happen to prefer a rumba, too, so I danced it with Marilyn. I assumed Olive would team up with Joe. Instead there was a mass swapping and Olive wound up crying into her beer.

What was I supposed to do? Drop my partner cold until my wife got herself "attached" to someone else to dance with? Olive's beautiful. She's no wallflower unless she wants to be. I guess she wanted it.

* * *

The Council: Olive's predicament calls to mind a similar one of Dorothy Parker's where, to fill in a period of boredom, she wished she had brought along the top drawer of her bureau to straighten out!

What to do? As Olive says, the problem may seem too slight to mention, but no problem hangs in isolation. Any with which the Council deals is actually part of a cluster. Sometimes, in alleviating one, we help to clear up a few others.

At bottom, Olive sounds jealous. And at this early stage of her marriage, we bring Dr. Paul Popenoe's word on this: "Be jealous, but not of a person. Be jealous of your marriage. Make your jealousy work to improve your relationship." Thus, the green-eyed monster assailed Olive as she watched another woman enjoying her husband's grace and felt left out herself. But, can her love and security rise so that her feeling is one of contentment that Grand was having himself a real ball? A wife who's sure of herself, and sure of her husband's love for her, would enjoy that Elks' Ball six-hander game!

On the other hand, with a beautiful wife at large and at loose ends, Grand must get into the habit of a backward glance in between the sacroiliac workouts of his rumba. He's not exactly Jose Limon, maybe, and needn't give the dance his "all". Evidently Olive won't automatically fill in the time with smoking, drinking or flirting. Perhaps she's too shy to strike up a conversation with a waiter, or a fire-department representative. Grand should "settle" her satisfactorily before hopping off.

Once Olive can accept this sort of "desertion" as good for Grand's ego (meanwhile making sure his ego is fed in other ways, too), she'll come to dance better prepared.

Top Transport Men to Take Look at the Possibilities Of Cargo-Handling System

By ROBERT RICE

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's top transport men are taking an industry-wide look this month at the spectacular possibilities of a new cargo-handling system called containerization.

Containerization—that's a letter word for what is also known in the trade as piggy-back, fishy-back and birdy-back.

It's a cost-cutting technique that puts many individual packages into a specially designed container for shipment by rail, truck, ship or plane.

While it is not a brand-new concept, the idea caught on only in recent years in Europe and the United States, promising to revolutionize the vital business of hauling goods.

But in Canada, the system is not yet in widespread use, except in railway carriage of truck trailers, the booming piggy-back business.

To co-ordinate industry thinking on containerization, the National Harbors Board has called transport experts and executives together for a one-day conference Nov. 9 in Toronto.

HARBORS AFFECTED

Aim of the conference is to find out what the transport industry thinks about the system, who plans to use it, what facilities will be needed and when it may be expected on a large scale in Canada.

The conference will bring more than 300 leading transport men together—top representatives from the railways, truck lines, shipping lines and airlines, from freight forwarders, stevedoring firms, customs brokers, warehouse operators, from major manufacturers, including those who make containers and those who could use them in their business.

The National Harbors Board is interested in the outcome because it must plan ahead for freight-handling facilities at the eight major ports it administers, including Montreal, Vancouver, Halifax and Saint John, N.B.

The other conference participants also have a big stake, depending on where they sit in the transport field.

Their biggest problem is to agree on some standard sizes of containers, with standard fittings. The ideal "universal" container should be easily loaded and unloaded on rail, highways, in ship's holds, on truck trailers, and should be suitable for use not only in Canada but almost anywhere in the world.

INSURANCE LOWER

Already, efforts are under way for a world-accepted set of container standards.

If this is achieved, then the day may not be far away when a manufacturer in Saskatchewan may load up a huge container with his products, move it by truck to a railhead, by rail to an ocean port, by ship overseas to a foreign destination, where it could be moved by truck or train to final delivery point.

In this kind of pattern, the savings can be attractive. The benefits include lower handling costs, protection against pilferage, lower damage claims, lower insurance rates and lower packaging costs. In the U.S., the potential savings have been estimated at $10,000,000,000 a year.

That kind of dollar saving is to entice Canadian companies into the field sooner rather than later. Already one Great Lakes shipping company offers a service using a collapsible container. The CNR offers a similar container service from the mainland to Newfoundland.

Soviet Farmer Is Trying To Surpass U.S. Farmer But So Far Unsuccessful

By EUGENE WYATT

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Everybody in the Soviet Union is trying to catch up with somebody.

In Yerevan, the capital of Soviet Armenia, they hope to exceed Tbilisi's ham clearance program. Tashkent wants more pants than Moscow.

But, most of all, the Soviet farmer is trying to surpass the U.S. farmer. So far, he has been conspicuously unsuccessful.

True, Nikita Khrushchev has proclaimed that the Soviet Union now exceeds the United States in milk and butter production. Without exception, every collective farm official I talked with proudly recited this accomplishment. None have ever, had heard that the United States has been vigorously trying to reduce production of most agricultural products including milk and butter for at least 30 years.

When I told them, most refused to believe it. One man, in Yerevan, even became abusive about "lying Americans."

KIZIL PROSPERS

Of the four collective farms which I visited, the Kizil farm a few miles from Tashkent is the largest and most prosperous. Tashkent is the capital of the Soviet republic of Uzbekistan.

The farm has 25,000 acres, of which 6,000 are cultivated. The population of the collective is 6,000; about half are children or old persons unable to work. Thus, despite all mechanization efforts one worker is still assigned to each two acres of cultivated land.

The principal crop is cotton—about 60 per cent of which is picked by hand, according to the farm guide. With engaging honesty, he said all the Soviet cotton-picking machines except a new model now being made in Tashkent have proved to be worthless. The farm also produces milk, grapes, some green vegetables, potatoes, cucumbers and dairy products.

The farm village is spread out along a asphalt street. Many of the houses are of sun-dried mud bricks, surrounded by the usual oriental mud fence. However, there are many new houses, of kilnfired brick. Several more are under construction.

The machinery on the farm appeared to be in working order. Elsewhere in the Soviet Union, almost every piece of machinery in the fields was rusty and without even elementary maintenance.

An expert from the British ministry of agriculture, who visited this farm the next day, said figures given him showed the average milk production per cow is about 3,500 pounds per year—hardly enough to justify keep.

MAKES A PROFIT

On a collective, the "profit" is divided among the workers on the basis of working days. At Kizil, this amounted to nearly $2.50 a working day, far more than any other farm I was shown.

In addition to this cash payment, each working day earns a specified weight of produce, each of wheat, onions and potatoes. Thus, a worker with family may also have a 60-by-60 foot plot on which to build a house and level as a kitchen garden space.

The garden vegetables produced may be sold in the free market for additional income, although almost all consume them. Some have sheep. A few own milk cows.

On the other farms I visited, the houses were made of field stone. Many were unoccupied as the population obviously not so affluent.

Whatever their agricultural efficiency, the farmers I saw appeared to be the happiest people in the Soviet Union. There can be no question that their personal, material situation is better than it ever has been, and they all take pride in pointing it out.

Injunction Would Block Commission in Inquiry

By JOHN TORSTON

QUEBEC (CP) — The Salvas royal commission sits today under the shadow of a threatened injunction seeking to block its investigation of purchasing practices under the former Union Nationale government.

The petition for an injunction alleges there was an error of omission in setting up the commission and that it has no legal right to hold hearings.

The application said the royal commission, established in October, 1960, has no commission and registered seal as required by the Public Inquiries Act.

Commissioners issued under the great seal of the province, constituted the power that named commission members.

A decision on the request for an injunction, brought Tuesday by Quebec City grain dealer Paul Godbout, is expected Friday. It was not known whether commission chairman Mr. Justice Elie Salvas would order an adjournment pending the outcome of the injunction petition.

DEMAND IT INSTANTLY

Mr. Godbout's lawyers, appearing before Mr. Justice Louis Philippe Lizotte of Superior Court, demanded an immediate injunction saying Mr. Godbout would suffer "grave and irreparable prejudice" by being called to testify before the commission.

But Mr. Justice Lizotte said there was no urgent need for a decision.

The three commission members had not been formally notified of the injunction proceedings against them and the commission lawyers had not presented their side of the matter.

Mr. Godbout's lawyers said they did not have time to issue formal notice because Mr. Godbout was due to testify Tuesday and therefore the situation was urgent.

WAS TO TESTIFY

Mr. Godbout had been expected to testify about grain sales made to the provincial co-operation department headed at the time by then Union Nationale's organizer.

Mr. Justice Lizotte said, granted that if Mr. Godbout's business affairs were in order he had nothing to worry about.

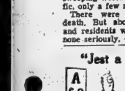
It was the second attempt to block the commission's work through an injunction. A previous one now is before the appeals courts.

Fire Fighters Gain Control Of Two Blazes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An army of 2,200 men, hacking across flaming canyons, have encircled one of two monstrous fires in the Santa Monica mountains—and fought the other to a standstill.

If winds stay down today, firemen hope to gain the upper hand against both blazes, termed the worst fire outbreak in southern California history.

Tuesday night firemen contained—but did not control—the fire in the Bel-Air area, home of millionaires and movie stars. They drove tractors and bulldozers around fiery brush and inaccessible canyons to clear a swath 20 to 50 feet wide around the flames' perimeter.



A few miles away, in sparsely settled Topanga Canyon, wind fanned "hot spots" prevented similar encirclement. But they kept this blaze from expanding.

Assessing damage from the three - day - old fires, officials gave this estimate: More than $15,000,000 worth of property damage; 256 homes destroyed; hundreds of others badly damaged and scorched 11,000 acres of mountain watershed, prime defence against spring floods, destroyed.

Each blaze covers about 5,500 acres. At their closest points, the fires are about one to two miles apart. Authorities say there is no immediate danger of the two blazes joining and then sweeping westward to the Pacific, only a few miles away.

There were no reports of death. But about 100 firemen and residents were injured, none seriously.

ADVANCED TRAINING — Shown as he receives instruction in radar plotting aboard the Royal Canadian Navy frigate, HMCS "Buckingham," is Leading Cadet David Cox of the local Sea Cadet Corps "Quinte." This is but one of many subjects which form a part of the many opportunities for gaining a knowledge of the sea and the Navy in which each Sea Cadet may participate.

10,000 Canadian Youths Receive Valuable Training In RCN Sea Cadet Corps

The local Sea Cadet Corps, RCSCC "Quinte," exists for the purpose of developing in its cadets a sense of self reliance, responsibility, honor and other characteristics of good citizenship through the medium of instruction, recreation and discipline under qualified and dedicated officers and instructors.

A product of the Boys Corps of Navy recognized the worth of this movement through the splendid record which Navy personnel who had been members of these Corps in their youth achieved in the early years of the Second World War. This recognition was realized in the formation of the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps as the official cadet branch of the Royal Canadian Navy under the joint sponsorship of the Navy League of Canada and the RCN in 1941.

Through the efforts of these two organizations, over 10,000 Canadian youths today receive valuable training in seamanship and citizenship — the basic objectives of the original Boys Corps. Through the efforts of many branches of the Navy League such as the local branch under the chairmanship of H. P. "Pete" Wills and the support of a small group of civic minded citizens and the Belleville United Appeal, a large number of Sea Cadet Corps, 47 in Ontario, have been established across Canada.

The local sponsoring branch of the Navy League is responsible for providing quarters and operating expenses for a corps whilst the Royal Canadian Navy provides uniforms, equipment, training and officers — the latter being chosen jointly by the RCN and the local Navy League branch.

Amongst its officers and training personnel, "Quinte" has Lt. J. D. Phippen, RCSC, commanding officer, of The Ontario Intelligencer; S-Lt. Rocque Davis, RCSC, supply officer, of the City Engineer's staff; Surgeon Lt. William Beattie, medical officer, a local practitioner; Rogers Hinde, civilian physician; doctor of chiropractic; Alan Bocking, officer appointee, of the Bell Telephone firm; Simon Taylor, civilian instructor, of the Erie Resistor firm; Don Adamson, civilian instructor, of the Children's Aid Society, and Chaplain (RC) William McGee, Roman Catholic padre.

There are also a number of retired RCSC officers who give willingly of their services for the Corps when asked to do so, such as Lt. Al Clare, RCSC (Ret.), district postal inspector, and Chaplain (P) H. A. C. Massiah, RCSC (Ret.)

The corps also receives the valuable service of its former commanding officer, J. G. Donovan, as Sea Cadet Committee chairman of the local Navy League.

ASKS REVIEW

LONDON (Reuters) — The Church of England assembly took steps Tuesday to review the system of the Crown appointing bishops. A resolution asking the archbishops of Canterbury and York to set up a commission to study the method of Crown appointments was carried almost unanimously. One suggestion, heard in the House of Commons, has been for free elections.

'Quinte' Corps Of Sea Cadets Wants Recruits

The Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps "Quinte" is looking for new recruits. Any boy who is in grade nine or has reached his 14th birthday is eligible to join the corps and can stay in it until he is 18.

"Quinte" parades every Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock aboard the Sea Cadet "ship" on South Front Street between the Bel Har Marina and the Imperial Oil property, as well as on either Saturday or Sunday afternoons according to the training and activities schedule.

New entries as Sea Cadets recruits are known are welcomed to come aboard this or any succeeding Wednesday evening.

As a new entry a boy will take a special five-week course in such subjects as parts of a ship, naval terminology, squad drill, the parts and care of the Sea Cadet uniform, the history of the Navy League of Canada, the Sea Cadets and the Royal Canadian Navy and familiarization with the activities of the local corps.

The passing of a short test at the completion of this course entitles him to receive a uniform and be formally inducted into the corps. He will then proceed into advanced training, the successful completion of which will allow him to advance in rank and qualify for more specialized activities and courses made available through the Navy League of Canada, Navy. At no time, however, is he in any way obligated to join the Royal Canadian Navy because of the benefits and training which he may receive as a Sea Cadet.

CAPABLE OFFICERS

He will also have the opportunity of taking part in all of the varied activities of the Sea Cadet Corps throughout both the winter training session and the summer cruising period.

During the course of his new entry training, he encourages the remainder of his term with creditable he will be under the direct guidance and supervision of trained and capable officers and instructors appointed by the Royal Canadian Navy and the local branch of the Navy League of Canada.

The local Corps is especially interested in enrolling cadets who have an interest in getting afloat and have been and intend to attend, who will be able to obtain the full advantage of the training and opportunities which will be made available to them.

Any new entry who is willing to put an effort into becoming a good Sea Cadet will certainly find his time in Sea Cadets a rich and rewarding experience, advises the commanding officer of "Quinte", Lt. J. D. Phippen, RCSC.

New Training Schedule For Sea Cadet Corps 'Quinte' Getting Under Way Tonight

Starting this evening the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps "Quinte" will be getting underway on its new training schedule designed to provide its cadets with one parade of theoretical or classroom training and one parade of practical training and recreational activity each week, it was announced this morning by the commanding officer, Lt. J. D. Phippen, RCSC.

The Wednesday night parade or meeting will include formal training in such subjects as semaphore, knots and splicing, navigation, history of the Royal Canadian Navy, sailing, ceremonial and squad drill, types and parts of a ship and other subjects relating to the Sea and Canada's Navy.

On weekend parades, most of which will be held on Sunday afternoons, Sea Cadets, lads between the ages of 14 and 18 inclusive, will have the opportunity of receiving instruction in power boat operation, boatwork, marinmanship and other practical applications of many of the subjects which they have taken on Wednesday evenings.

There will also be such activities as sports, week-end cruises, Church parades, intercorp events and sailing depending on the time of year and weather conditions.

Cadet Corps, which are sponsored by the Belleville branch of the Navy League of Canada through the Belleville United Appeal, also have the opportunity of obtaining training aboard the ships of the Royal Canadian Navy and the harbor craft of the Royal Canadian Navy Reserve division, "Cataraqui" H.M.C.S. at Kingston.

This past summer local cadets were on cruises aboard the frigate, H.M.C.S. "Buckingham," the minesweepers H.M.C.S. "Thunder" and two of the small ships attached to H.M.C.S. "Cataraqui". A small group of selected senior lads received advanced training in seamanship and small ship operation during the summer months at the regular training cruise of H.M.C.S. "Cataraqui". Two of them also had the opportunity of joining the crews of the RCN ships when they left went on a two-day goodwill cruise to Rochester, N.Y., during the summer.

ATTEND CAMPS

The summer months also provide an opportunity for cadets who have a record of good attendance with the Corps and who have advanced in the ranks to attend the two-week training camps provided each year by the Royal Canadian Navy at HMCS "Acadia," Nova Scotia.

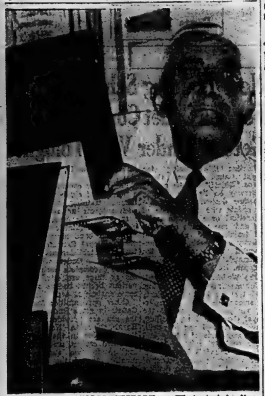
For senior cadets there are a number of eight-week specialized training courses in such subjects as radar plotting, Fleet Air Arm, seamanship, communications, gunnery and band music at the various Royal Canadian Navy training establishments on the east coast. Cadets who successfully complete such courses as these are eligible for various branch badges and in some instances, cash bonuses.

Other opportunities for Sea Cadets to get a knowledge of the sea are provided by the Royal Canadian Navy from time to time in the form of extended cruises, usually lasting up to two and a half months, aboard the ships of the fleet. More recently cruises to the Carribean and to Australia and New Zealand have been available to top Sea Cadets from across Canada.

There have also been several cruises in conjunction with the recently organized Sea Cadet Corps of the United States aboard American ships. The most recent of these was a trip to Germany this past summer.

The encouragement of Sea Cadets to carry on their education has always been an important point with both the Navy League of Canada and the Royal Canadian Navy. To-wards this end the Navy League has provided a number of scholarships for Sea Cadets wishing to go to university.

Sea Cadets also have the opportunity of applying to the Royal Canadian Navy to go to university under either the Regular Officers' Training Plan at one of the three combined services military colleges or under the University Naval Training Divisions program at such universities as Queen's in Kingston, the University of Toronto, McGill University or the University of Western Ontario.



Whether or not a lad carries on to university he will still find Sea Cadets a most rewarding experience both for the training he receives and the friendships he makes in the local corps "Quinte."

POWER FAILS

TORONTO (CP) — Downtown Toronto was stalled for about five minutes Tuesday when electricity failed over a wide area. A spokesman for Ontario Hydro said trouble developed in an oil-breaker switch. Scores of persons were caught in elevators or stranded on streetcars.

CRUISES WITH THE NAVY — During the summer months Sea Cadets have a chance to take a cruise aboard at least one of the Royal Canadian Navy's ships. Above a few cadets may be seen on the quarter deck of HMCS "Lanark" during her recent tour of duty in Lake Ontario waters.

COMPILES WORLD HISTORY — What started off as a hobby 18 years ago for Charles Defleux is winding up as an extensive reference volume of every major event in the history of the world. The Years of Man, not yet published, lists 17,000 chronological events of man's history on earth. (CP Photo).

Hobby Compiling Capsule History of World, Pay off Now Reality for Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — When Charles Defleux told his friends he planned to make his 16-year-old hobby of compiling a capsule history of the world pay off, they said it couldn't be done.

"It's waste of time," they said, "it will never be published."

But Mr. Defleux, a veteran of the newspaper business, found that Longmans' Green, The Toronto publishing firm, was definitely interested.

With advance royalties from Longmans, Mr. Defleux and his wife headed across the Pacific on a round-the-world cruise during which he planned to do more work on the history. The trip was cut short when his wife became ill in Australia and they flew back to Vancouver.

The massive reference work, called The Years of Man, lists every important event since the beginning of the world.

"It's in two sections. The first part is a chronology of man's history on earth. It contains 17,000 entries in chronological order, none over 10 lines. This section takes 1,007 pages of typewritten manuscript.

The second section is an index — 541 typewritten pages — containing 16,771 cross-entries.

If someone wanted to find a specific event he would look it up in the index which would give the dates of the event. In the other section he could turn to a specific year and find outstanding events of that year.

Longmans, Green is acting as Mr. Defleux's agent and is trying to line up a publisher in New York for United States rights.

One of the Toronto firm's editors said it is felt the book would be valuable for libraries, schools, universities, writers (particularly historical novels), students, and newspapers.

The editor added that while there have been historical reference works in the past, there is nothing that quite compares with this. There is no indication yet when it will be published.

Mr. Defleux said he started his hobby in 1943 when he was in the RCAF. At first he started off to write an abbreviated history of medicine. After five years he found his interest expanding into all the related things in each year; art, war, politics, business, music.

He said he worked an average of four hours daily over the years. His wife did the typing. He collected about 120,000 slips of notes from his vast reading and filled seven or eight shoeboxes in his home.

Mr. Defleux was born in Liverpool, England, and moved to Edmonton in 1911. In 1917 he joined the Edmonton Journal as a copy boy and returned to the Journal as a sports writer after serving with the Royal Flying Corps and the United States Army.

He came to Vancouver in 1923 and was a reporter and broadcaster for 17 years until he joined the RCAF, later becoming personal assistant to the then veterans affairs minister, Ian Mackenzie.

In latter years he has been engaged in public relations work and artists as a columnist with the New Westminister Columbian and Victoria Times.

Adenauer Back in Saddle But Without Absolute Power

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Konrad Adenauer is back in the saddle in West Germany but no longer holds absolute power.

Paradoxically, just at the moment of his re-election as chancellor by the Bundestag, there are signs that the Adenauer era is drawing to an end.

The 85 - year - old chancellor himself has promised to step down before the end of his four-year term, and the expectation is that he will not last much longer than one or two years.

Another factor is that he now is considerably dependent upon the Free Democratic party, which made the biggest gains in the Sept. 17 elections.

TOUGH BERLIN STAND

There are two views about the Free Democrats, headed by 46-year-old Dr. Erich Mende. One is that Mende will steer the federal republic along a dangerous new road of narrow nationalism, reviving all the old fears about a militarist-minded Germany.

The London Daily Express, for instance, says that Dr. Mende as part of his coalition agreement with Adenauer is insisting on a "whole list of tough conditions" about Berlin.

These conditions, The Express says, postulate that there "shall be no weakening of the bonds between Berlin and West Germany, no recognition of East Germany and no interference with civil air passage to and from Berlin."

The other view is that Dr. Mende is a flexible man, and that there are loopholes in the coalition agreement. In other words, the Free Democrats do not entirely rule out negotiations with the Russians over Berlin.

NEW BLOOD

Those who observers feel that the Free Democrats are unlikely to exercise a veto over a flexible Western policy on Berlin, as The Daily Express fears.

A possibility is that West Germany ultimately will develop a sort of tripartite approach on foreign policy, with Willy Brandt's opposition Social Democrats coming in for consultation though they have been excluded from the government.

call comes for a more nationalistic German policy.

NEED FOOD MEN

MONTREAL (CP)—An acute shortage of trained food service personnel exists across Canada, a Montreal food service specialist said Tuesday. Miss D. A. Raymond, lecturer in food management at Macdonald College in nearby Ste. Anne de Bellevue, said men are in greater demand than women to fill the many vacancies in hotels, restaurants and food marketing organizations.

REGINA (CP)—A six-to-eight-inch snowfall the weekend of Oct. 21 drove the last of the sandhill cranes from Saskatchewan to continue their annual migration south.

For the first time in many years, these long - legged and long-necked birds caused little crop damage.

Saskatchewan has been trying various methods for years to cut down or eliminate the agricultural losses caused by the feeding sandhills during their migration to Texas, New Mexico and Arizona.

No solution was needed this year; there were few crops to feed on and those that weren't ruined by drought had been harvested before the migration began.

Thousands of these birds, known to farmers as "wild turkeys," travel through Saskatchewan each fall. David Green of the wildlife branch estimates 100,000 may be found in the province at any one time between mid-September and mid-October.

RESEMBLE WHOOPERS

A large group settles temporarily in the north end of Last Mountain Lake, 90 miles north of Regina. Another large group rests and feeds in the Kindersley-South Saskatchewan River area. A smaller number rest at the Big and Little Quill lakes, 80 miles northeast of Last Mountain Lake.

It's illegal to hunt the sandhills in Canada because of their similarity on the ground to the young whooping crane whose species now number a precious 35. The whooper and sandhill also have similar silhouettes in flight.

Hunting of the sandhill in the southern United States and in Alaska is permitted because there the bird settles in certain locations than the whooping crane. However, hunting didn't reduce the sandhill population to any great extent in the last year.

Shooting seasons are a result of requests from the Saskatchewan government which hopes a reduction in numbers will lessen crop damage.

A. O. Smith of the Saskatchewan government insurance office, which has operated a non-commercial wildlife insurance plan since 1953, says sandhill damage claimed this year will be $2,000 to $3,000 compared with $7,500 a year ago.

He emphasizes, however, that this isn't an accurate picture of damage since the claims come only from a small group of farmers at the northeast end of Last Mountain Lake.

Ecologists, naturalists and farmers have been trying for years to keep the sandhills from attacking crops. Exploders — gas-fed devices that explode like shotguns every few minutes — have been partially successful in scaring them off.

One suggestion is that the entire north end of Last Mountain Lake be established as a sanctuary. Extensive planting of feeding crops in the sanctuary would supply the birds with enough to eat. Agriculturists say around the sanctuary could be fitted with scaring devices to repel the birds before they establish feeding habits.

HALIFAX (CP) — The Maritimes', recently-acquired preoccupation with football reaches its peak this month with the Atlantic Bowl—the hundreds of the game's newest fans a neighborly clambake wrapped in all the excitement of a bona derby.

The big day is Saturday, Nov. 25, as Halifax's Wanderers Grounds when the Atlantic Football Conference champions meet McMaster University Marauders of Hamilton. The Marauders represent the Ontario Intercollegiate Football Conference, a circuit one notch below the Senior Intercollegiate Football Union, top dogs of Canadian college football.

In the days and hours leading up to the game go all the festival trappings associated with the Grey Cup—parades, banquets and the selection of a Miss Atlantic Bowl.

On the gridiron itself St. Francis Xavier University Xmen of Antigonish, N.S., have pretty much had things to themselves. Since the Bowl was started in 1959 they have beaten Ontario Agricultural College of Guelph and the University of Ottawa, as well as remaining undefeated in the AFC.

NO CINCH

But there is no certainty St. FX will have the game their own way this year. McMaster athletic director Ivor Wynne, down on a scouting trip a few weeks ago, recalled that the Marauders took an exhibition swing through Nova Scotia a few years ago and bundled all comers.

The game has come a long way in the Maritime provinces since it was introduced by mid-Navy teams during the war. It's a major sport in all universities now and many high schools are switching from English rugby. Maritime leagues are springing up everywhere, including St. John's, Nfld., where the game is being played for the first time.

A crowd as big as 5,000 may turn out for an important AFC game.

The quality has got a big boost from American players who find Maritimes colleges an inexpensive place to get a degree. The champion Xmen and Saint Mary's University Huskies of Halifax each have more than 15 boys from New England in their lineups.

MOUNT A. SURPRISE

With the exception of Dalhousie University, Halifax, and the University of New Brunswick, Fredericton—two of the largest schools but the league's weak sisters — the seven-team conference has more balance this year.

It will take an unset to push St. FX off its throne but Mount Allison University Mounties of Sackville, N.B., Saint Mary's and Shearwater Navy Flyers of Dartmouth, N.S., are hunched close behind. Shearwater, Canadian intermediate champions a few years ago, hired Howie Turner former Ottawa Rough Rider, to handle their coaching.

However, the team that has most caught the imagination of the fans is Mount A. Sparked by fleet-footed freshman Jock Ferguson of Toronto the previously so-so Mounties suddenly appeared as contenders this year. Ferguson, who runs the 100 yards in 9.7 seconds, turned down several U.S. college track scholarships to attend Mount A.

Juniors Lose 35th in Row Before 1,200

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Nobody loves a loser?

Not the hockey fans do.

More than 1,200 of them filled Ontario Arena Thursday night to watch London Nationals lose their 35th successive game in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior B Western Division. St. Thomas Barons won 13-8.

Nationals, previously called London Athletics, lost the last game of the 1959-60 season, dropped all 32 last season and have been defeated in both games this season.

Winning teams in the league normally draw crowds of 500.

Flyers Nip Royals 7-2, Petes Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Guelph Royals suffered no knockouts during their 10-minute, second-period brawl against Niagara Falls Flyers Tuesday night but ended up victims of the count anyway.

The Flyers walloped Guelph 7-2 to consolidate their hold on second place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A Series.

Peterborough Petes, meanwhile, moved into a tie with Montreal Junior Canadiens for third place, defeating St. Catharines Teepees 5-1.

The Niagara Falls flare - up was sparked by Don Diberardino of Guelph, who started swinging into Don Awrey. All players except the goaltenders paired off for the fray.

A total of 60 penalty minutes was assessed in the brawl and Flyers' Ron Hergott drew a misconduct.
